

green sheet

INDIANA UNIVERSITY-PURDUE UNIVERSITY AT INDIANAPOLIS

volume one    number thirty-one    august 8, 1971

iupui

MONEY NEWS FROM BLOOMINGTON

By drawing on carefully husbanded liquid assets, Indiana University will be able to meet its payrolls and other financial obligations in August even if allocation of state funds for that period are delayed, according to I.U. Vice President and Treasurer Joseph A. Franklin.

State Budget Director Thomas H. Taylor announced recently that the payment of state funds to institutions of higher education may be delayed several weeks because of a drop in state revenues.

Franklin said that in accordance with sound financial management, the University maintains bank balances to meet unexpected fluctuations in income or expenditures.

Drawing on these funds will cost the University in anticipated income, and continued or reoccurring delays in receipt of appropriated funds could cause concern for the University's liquid assets, he said.

"This month's delay in receipt of funds from the state will not disrupt Indiana University's normal operations. The University will continue to pay its creditors promptly and employees will receive their payroll checks on schedule as indicated in the University letter of notification from Mr. Taylor. We should be prepared to experience a short delay.

"Hopefully it will not exceed several weeks. In accordance with sound financial management, the University maintains bank balances to meet unexpected fluctuations in income or expenses. The current delay in receipt of funds from the state would be met from these balances.

"Temporarily drawing on these funds will cost the University modest anticipated income.

"However, if the delay persists for an extensive period or if delays reoccur during the year, the liquidity situation of the University could be cause for concern."

* * *

$5 KNOWLEDGE PACKAGE

You can learn something about almost everything at a $5 lecture series which IUPUI will offer this fall. The $5 buys admission to all eight lectures in the series which will be held from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Fridays, beginning September 17, in the IUPUI 38th Street Campus auditorium. The lectures in the series are:

Sept. 17 -- "750 Million Chinese Can't Be Wrong," by Dr. Richard A. Fredlund, professor of political science, cont.

Sept. 24 -- "Language in Today's World," by Dr. Arthur Hoffman, professor of modern languages;

Oct. 1 -- "Who Cares About Modern Art," by Jeffrey R. Brown, curator collections at the Indianapolis Museum of Art,

Oct. 8 -- "Frontiers in Medicine and Health," by Dr. Steven C. Beering, associate dean of the Indiana University School of Medicine;

Oct. 15 -- "Geology and Our Everyday Lives," by Dr. Arthur Mirsky, chairman of geology;

Oct. 22 -- "The Family in Transition," by Dr. Frank Nordby, director of IUPUI evening programs administration;

Oct. 29 -- "Psychology: Answers or Questions," by Dr. Victor Milstein, I.U. School of Medicine;

Nov. 5 -- "Communications: Verbal, Vocal, and Visual," by Dr. B. Bruce Wagener, professor of speech and communications.

Tickets for the lecture series may be purchased at the IUPUI Continuing Education Office, 1201 East 38th Street, Indianapolis 46205. Tickets will be sold only for the entire series. No tickets will be sold for individual lectures.

* * *

PLAY POST OFFICE

All new Medical Center campus personnel, or those who have moved to a new location, should notify the campus post office, Ext. 8209, of their building office number.

* * *

RUSSELL FELLOWSHIP FUND GETS $250 GRANT

The Citizens for Progress Committee, an Indianapolis organization supporting educational and economic development in the city's black neighborhoods, has presented a $250 grant to the Louis B. Russell Fellowship Fund for minority students at the Indiana University School of Medicine.

The Russell fund, named in honor of the Indianapolis public school teacher who is the world's longest living recipient of a heart transplant, is used for financial assistance for blacks, Mexican Americans, and American Indians enrolled in the I.U. medical school.

Fourteen black students have been enrolled in the Hoosier medical school's 1971-72 class.

The $250 CPC grant was presented by Maurice E. Edelen, CPC president, and W. Fuller Jones, CPC treasurer, to Jay M. Smith, director of the medical school's Office of Minority Student Affairs.

Smith directs programs to recruit minority students for the School of Medicine and to provide financial assistance for minority students enrolled in America's largest medical school.

SCHOOL FOR TODDLERS

The IUPUI Co-op Pre-School is accepting applications for the fall session which starts September 13. Children of IUPUI staff, faculty and students take part in learning and play experiences under the supervision of a qualified teacher. Hours are 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The school is located at the United Methodist Church, 2132 West Michigan Street. The fee is $26 per month. All applications must be in by September 1. For more information, call Cheryle Spitzer at 297-2874.

* * *

HONORS & ACCOLADES

Clifford Robinson, personnel assistant, has been named one of four Indianapolis men in the Jaycee-sponsored "Outstanding Young Men of America."

*

Edward E. Harris, assistant professor of sociology, has had two syllabi published by the I.U. Board of Trustees. They are manuals for two courses offered by the Correspondence Study Bureau (Bloomington), S161 Principles of Sociology and S309 The Community.

*

Miss Mary Jane Laatz, medical librarian, was a group discussion leader for hospital librarians at the recent Institute on Specialized Library Services in Indianapolis.

* * *

TRAVELLERS

Dr. Erwin Boschmann, assistant professor of chemistry, will be in Lima, Peru, at the end of this month on a consulting visit for a Ford Foundation project. He will be advising the chemistry department at Universidad Nacional Agraria on matters of curriculum, science instrumentation and the recruitment of visiting faculty. After Lima, he will head for Sao Paulo, Brazil, to attend the International Conference on Chemical Education.

*

Dr. James Shanks, professor of speech pathology, and Dr. Bernd Weinberg, assistant professor of speech pathology, were clinical directors of the 11th I.A.L. Voice Institute for the teaching of post-laryngectomy speech. The course was held last month at the University of Kansas, Kansas City. They also participated in the annual meeting of the International Association of Laryngectomees after the workshop. Dr. Shanks is a member of the association's board of directors.

* * *

NOTICE--Physician and family looking for two- or three-bedroom furnished home (apartment) for about six months, January through June. Preferably west side. Call Dr. Harvey Feigenbaum, Ext. 8713.

* * *

HELEN ZAPP
PROGRAM COORDINATOR
UNION BUILDING