

green sheet

8P3

C2

volume ten, number forty-six

november 23, 1980

"LIBERTY'S DAUGHTERS" AUTHOR COMING TO IUPUI

The author of a highly acclaimed new work about women in American history will be on campus next week. Mary Beth Norton, associate professor of history at Cornell University, will give a public presentation December 4 at 8:15 p.m. in Lecture Hall 101. Her topic will be the title of her book: "Liberty's Daughters -- The Revolutionary Experience of American Women, 1750-1800." The event will be sponsored by the IUPUI Center for American Studies, the Department of History and the Women's Studies Program.

Published this year by Little Brown and Co., Liberty's Daughters has been called a "remarkably thorough investigation." (placing) women in their true historical context: the family." The reviewer was Lawrence Stone, Dodge professor of history at Princeton University, writing in the April 20, 1980, issue of The New York Times Book Review.

As Stone points out, Professor Norton's "first concern is to trace the decline of patriarchy, the growth of free choice of a spouse; the rise of marital equality, involving mutual decision-making, love and sexual pleasure; the greater equality in educational attainments; the more intense concern of parents for the proper education of children; the greater permissiveness in child-rearing; and the increased cooperation between spouses in birth control to ease the burdens on the wife and to improve the quality of child care."

Stone cites Norton's "fascinating documentation, drawn from a vast range of manuscript sources," and notes that "these changes occurred within the traditional frame of reference of the 'two spheres' -- the man's largely concerned with work outside the home, the woman's with domesticity and child-rearing -- which were by then regarded as equal in importance but different for each sex."

"Professor Norton," he writes, "suggests that the change resulted from a combination of two factors. The first was the practical experience of women during the long years of revolutionary upheaval . . . The second . . . was the impact of egalitarian and republican ideology, which plunged women into the political arena and induced men to make unprecedented concessions to women's claims for equality."

Norton, who received her undergraduate degree from the University of Michigan and graduate degrees from Harvard University, specializes in the teaching fields of the American Revolution, American Colonial period, history of American women, the American Constitution and American social and intellectual history.

She also has written books on The British Americans: The Loyalist Exiles in England, 1774-1789 and has co-edited Women of America: A History. Norton's articles and reviews have appeared in American Heritage, William and Mary Quarterly, Journal of Negro History, The Southern Experience in the American Revolution, American Historical Review, New England Quarterly, Journal of American History and The History Teacher.

Among her professional memberships are the American Historical Association, Organization of American Historians, Berkshire Conference of Women Historians and the Conference Group on Women's History. She has been elected to membership in the Society of American Historians and the American Antiquarian Society. She also is a member of Mortar Board, Phi Kappa Phi and Phi Beta Kappa honorary societies.

At Cornell, she has been speaker of the University Senate, served on the board of trustees, been a member of the executive board of the Women's Studies Program and is currently graduate faculty representative for history. She also is a member of the National Council on the Humanities and chairman of its Research Division Committee.

Besides her public address, Norton will be on campus most of the day. Among her activities will be lunch with the American studies faculty and supper with students majoring in history. Anyone interested in more information about her program or schedule should call the Center for American Studies, Ext. 3759.

* * *

WHO, WHAT, WHEN, WHERE & SOMETIMES WHY

Ceramics -- "Clayfest '80," a biennial exhibition made possible by funds from the Woodsmall Foundation and the support of Indiana Artist-Craftsmen, the Indiana Federation of Art Clubs and the Indiana Potters Guild, is on view at the Herron Gallery through January 14. The aim of the juried show is to promote development of the ceramic arts in Indiana. The gallery is open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday, except for Wednesdays when it stays open till 9 p.m. Saturday hours are 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Approaches -- Three members of the English faculty will focus on Charlotte Perkins Gilman's The Yellow Wallpaper as the basis for a discussion about the limitations and/or advantages to various methodological approaches to the study of literature. Professors Kathleen Klein, Rufus Reiberg and Ronald Strahl will lead the program to which any and all interested persons are invited. The session will be Monday at 11:30 a.m. in Cavanaugh Hall, Room 439. For information, call Ext. 7362.

Biochemical -- "Mechanisms of Insulin Degradations," Biochemistry Seminar by Dr. William C. Duckworth, professor of medicine and chief of the Endocrinology and Metabolism Medicine Service at the V.A. Hospital; Medical Science Building, Room 205, Monday at 4 p.m.

The View from Turkey -- Engin Unsal, a former member of the Turkish parliament, will speak about "Contemporary Political Developments in Turkey: 1970-1980" at noon Tuesday in the Porter Room of the Union Building. A former chairman of the board of the Turkish State Copper Company, he is also a member of the executive committee of the London-based Public Service Institute. All interested persons are invited to this program, part of the International Forum "Noon-Hour Series." No reservations are required. For information, call Ext. 7294.

Decisions -- "Private Sector Decision-Making in Indianapolis" will be the subject of a talk this week by Tom Binford, chairman, Indiana National Bank, and chairman of the Greater Indianapolis Progress Committee. Sponsored by the School of Public and Environmental Affairs, the program will be held Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the School of Nursing.

Display -- Stuart Pharmaceutical Co. will have a display in University Hospital Wednesday from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Oncological -- "Lung Carcinoma," grand rounds in oncology by Dr. Eugene Stevens, Department of Medicine; Radiation Therapy Building, Room R104, Wednesday at 11 a.m.

Metros -- The IUPUI Metros will be ready at Market Square Arena at 4:45 p.m. Wednesday to meet the team from Hanover College, followed by the Pacers-Atlanta game. For ticket information, Call Ext. 3764.

Coming Up -- "Role of Calcium in Hormone Action," Research Enrichment Program by Dr. John Exton, professor of physiology at Vanderbilt University; University Hospital, Room C420, 12:15 p.m. next Monday (December 1).

* * *

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Early Deadline -- Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, the Green Sheet will go to press early this week. The News Bureau will need information for the next Green Sheet by first thing Tuesday morning. Please direct such notices to the Administration Building, Room 139.

Volunteer Your Car? Solicitation for Autos for Test Program: The Indianapolis Center for Advanced Research is looking for three test automobiles to be used in the evaluation of the Scotsman Fuel Energizer (SFE), a patented mileage improvement device. First consideration would be given to a Ford Motor Co. 302-V8, 250-6 or 351-V8; a GM 305-V8, 350-V8, 250-6 or 231-V6 automobile in the 1974-1980 model years. The benefits will be a free tune-up, bona fide EPA mileage and emissions test results with and without the SFE, a free SFE device (if desired), and remuneration at 20¢ per mile. If interested, call Dick Strebe at ICFAR, Ext. 4111.

Inventory -- The Post Office will be closed for inventory Wednesday until 10 a.m.

Move -- The Department of Maxillofacial Prosthetics has moved its offices and clinic to the Regenstrief Health Center. Offices are on the first floor with two telephone numbers (264-7636 and 630-7691). The clinic is on the third floor and that number is 630-6336.

FYI -- References to Administration, Alumni and Union in last week's report on the 1980 United Way campaign at IUPUI meant Administration Building, Alumni Office and Union Building.

Correction I -- The correct phone number for the new message center in Cavanaugh Hall is 264-2782.

More Volunteers -- The Department of Prosthodontics in the School of Dentistry is conducting a complete denture study for two to four years. They need persons who have worn complete dentures (full upper and full lower) for two or more years. Participants must be in reasonably good health. For more information, please call Mrs. Erna Martin at Ext. 8322 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Correction II -- On page 68 of your new campus phone directory under "Clinics," make the following correction: Children's Clinics -- 4974 -- Epilepsy -- Clinic Center B -- RI P140.

Memorial -- The John M. Riteris Memorial Award Committee invites present and former students of IUPUI to apply for or to nominate another student for the award to be made next spring. Deadline for receipt of applications and nominations is February 1. For more information, call Mary Mahowald, Department of Philosophy, Ext. 3957.

Grant Development -- A bibliography of grant information has been prepared by Research and Sponsored Programs and the University Library to help faculty and staff organize proposals and find project support. For information, call Ext. 8285.

Safety -- The I.U. Hospitals' Department of Human Resource Development is offering a half-day program next week called "Combat Rape: Victim or Victor." The session is planned for December 2 from noon to 4 p.m. in the School of Nursing, Room 242. For information, call Beth Schmidt at Ext. 8110.

Prize-Winner -- "Viridiana," a Spanish film made in the 1960s that was banned in Spain and also won the Cannes Film Festival grand prize, will be shown December 4 at 8 p.m. in Lecture Hall 103. Luis Bunuel directed the film which is in Spanish with English subtitles. After the movie, Spanish majors and members of the Universitarios Hispanos will meet in the fifth-floor faculty lounge in Cavanaugh Hall. For details, call Marta Cruz at Ext. 4591.

Director Sought -- Dr. George T. Lukemeyer, executive associate dean of the School of Medicine, announces that the school is seeking qualified applicants for the position of director of the Medical Educational Resources Program. This is primarily an administrative position with major responsibilities involving knowledge and training in the educational communications, instructional development and design. Experience in TV and film production is desirable and familiarity with telecommunications technology is essential. MERP has modern TV and motion picture production facilities and operates over a statewide, closed-circuit medical television network. Applications and resumes of interested parties should be directed to Dr. Lukemeyer, 302 Fesler Hall (Ext. 7108).

* * *

(ARCH-791205)

ARCHIVES
UNIVERSITY LIBRARY
420 BLAKE STREET

green sheet

*News Bureau
Indiana University-Purdue University
at Indianapolis
355 Lansing Street
Indianapolis, Indiana 46202