

'GUERRILLA GIRLS' EXHIBITION PAYING VISIT TO HERRON

The Herron School of Art will feature the unique "Guerilla Girls Talk Balk: A Retrospective 1985-1990" at the gallery July 11-August 14. The group of women uses "guerilla warfare" to call attention to inequities they see in the exhibits at museums and galleries. It was formed in 1985 to protest a show that featured nearly 170 artists, only a dozen of them women and none persons of color. The Guerilla Girls include curators, administrators and both performance and visual artists. The exhibition features posters, banners, videotapes and slide shows and will open with a free public reception July 10, 5:30-8 p.m.

Herron also is receiving acclaim from — and for — Hoosier artists for a new logo created by designer Paul T. Brown of the school. The Indiana Arts Commission chose Brown's logo to serve as a marketing tool for artists to promote their work as "art made in Indiana." The logo will be used on tags on artwork, informational and promotional material, catalogs, published works and business cards to heighten public awareness and appreciation of Indiana's artistic community.

Art galleries and museums throughout the city will celebrate ARTTIMES 90, honoring the school for its 90th birthday this summer and fall. They will exhibit works of Herron alumni, students and faculty from July through November to honor the school's artistic contributions to Indiana. Built in 1902, Herron was the second building in the U.S. constructed expressly for art instruction and has continuously served the community by developing its students as professional artists, visual communicators, art educators and scholars, and by offering art exhibitions and programs.

GENERAL EDUCATION REVIEW MOVING TO NEXT STAGE

Review of IUPUI's general education requirements, which began last spring at the first-ever Faculty Symposium, will continue this fall in a series of faculty forums based upon work this summer by the Commission on General Education. The commission is producing a report based upon issues raised at the symposium and the Asheville Institute on General Education, held this summer at the University of North Carolina-Asheville and attended by four commission members. The report will serve as a starting point for faculty members interested in helping to shape — or reshape — the general education courses serving students from all IUPUI schools. The commission was appointed by the Council on Undergraduate Learning and the Academic Affairs Committee of the Faculty Council.

MOM PROJECT GRADUATES TO BE HONORED

Hometowne House and the School of Nursing will honor the second graduating class of the MOM Project July 7 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the House, 2401 Central Ave. The "graduates," all new mothers, are called Let's Be Friends and meet weekly for three months at Hometowne House to find jobs through employment counseling, resume writing and interview skills. Let's Be Friends is an extension of the MOM Project designed to help reduce the city's high infant mortality rate by encouraging healthy habits by the mother during and after her pregnancy.

NEW SPORTS MANAGEMENT TEAM APPOINTED

Operation and management of IUPUI's conference and sports facilities have been combined in a new sports management team, headed by John D. Short and Jeff S. Vessely. Short, the director of University Place Conference Center since 1987, is now also the executive director of conference and sports facilities. Vessely, a professor of physical education, is assuming new duties as the director of sport services for the Natatorium and the IUPUI Track and Field Stadium. Both will continue to hold their present positions in the university. The team concept was adopted to help the university work more efficiently with the city and state, as well as with private entities in the sports, educational and cultural fields.

PUTTING INDIANAPOLIS ON COMPUTER TOPS NEXT 'URBAN AGENDA'

The challenges of putting Indianapolis "on-line" will be featured at the July 15 session of POLIS' "Urban Agenda." Dee A. Revnyak of IMAGIS will look at the progress of the project designed to put the infrastructure of Indiana's capital city on computer. She will also focus on the hurdles and highlights of working on a project uniting the university with city government and the private sector. The "Urban Agenda" presentation will again be at the Associated Group building, 120 Monument Circle, Conference Room A, starting at noon. Coffee, tea and soft drinks are provided; brown-bag lunches are encouraged. For more, call 4-2458.

NEW WAYS OFFERED TO HELP BOOST ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

Three new opportunities are being offered by the Office of Alumni Relations to help raise funds for the athletic scholarship program. Baseball tickets make up the first two opportunities, including the July 12 Indianapolis Indians game at Bush Stadium, and the August 12 game at Cincinnati when the Reds play the Los Angeles Dodgers. Bus fare is included in the latter event. Volunteer opportunities also exist at the White River Park State Games July 17-19, selling souvenirs at the Natatorium. Those interested in working at the Games can sign up for any of the three days. Work sessions run from 7:30 a.m. to noon, noon to 4:30 p.m. and 4:30-9 p.m. To sign up, contact the Alumni Relations office, HO 200, or call 4-8828.

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

NURSES MEETING—The newly formed Research Nurse group will meet from 1-2 p.m. July 16 at UH 2005 (the new building) to discuss the upcoming Research Fair and poster display on campus. Those interested can send their name, campus address and phone number to Phyllis, UH 5595. Advance registration is not needed to attend.

SELF-STUDY DRAFT—The second version of the IUPUI Self Study for the North Central Association review is available now in the main library and in Dean Carol Nathan's office (AO 126). Comments are due at AO 126 by July 10. For more, call 4-8974.

PHONE CHANGES—The "4" phone lines are filling up fast. Because the 274 prefix is virtually full, a new prefix — 278 — has been started. On-campus calls won't be more complicated, however, since you'll still be able to call the new prefix by simply dialing 8-xxxx as you would dial a 4-xxxx number.

FACULTY DISCOUNTS—Teaching at IUPUI pays, at least at the Edyvean Repertory Theatre at the Christian Theological Seminary. Two adult season tickets can be purchased at a student rate of $50 each ($45 for Thursdays). The season opens August 28 and features six shows. For more, call 923-1516.

ACADEMIC ADVISER, PROGRAM EARN NATIONAL RECOGNITION

Academic advisor Judith Lovejoy and the IUPUI institutional advising program have each been selected as Certificate of Merit winners by the ACT/NACADA national recognition program. Lovejoy and associate vice chancellor Scott Evenbeck will receive the awards at the NACADA Conference in Atlanta, GA in October. The award honors Lovejoy for her outstanding work in advising students in academic matters, and the university's advising program for the high quality and innovation demonstrated by the services offered to students.

HONORS 'N' ACCOLADES

FACULTY FUNDING—Andrew Barth of the School of Science earned the Outstanding Young Faculty Award, one of nearly 100 funded awards given this year by the Office of Faculty Development. Summer research fellowships went to Partha Deb, Marianne Wokeck, Dennis Bingham, William Gronfein, Ursula Niklas and Tessa Bertholomeusz of liberal arts, Jie Chen of engineering and technology, Eric C. Long, Stephanie Sen and Lenore Tedesco of science and M. Jan Keffer of nursing. NET Awards went to Robert Cox, Gregor Novak, Mathew Palakal and Michael Penna of science and Kristine Karnick and Robert White of liberal arts.

NAVAL KUDOS—Michael A. Cochran, professor and chair of operative dentistry at the dental school, was recognized for his contributions to the academic and research programs at the National Naval Dental Center at the center's 1991-92 graduation ceremonies in June.

NOW BOARD MEMBER—Marion K. Wagner, assistant professor of social work, has been elected to the national board of the National Organization for Women (NOW). Wagner, a 20-year member of NOW, was elected president of the Indiana NOW chapter in 1990 and previously was president of the Indianapolis chapter.

MEDICAL WRITING—Eugene E. Levitt and Jacqueline French of the School of Medicine are co-authors of a segment of the second edition of the "Handbook of Clinical Child Psychology." Their piece, "Projective Testing of Children," is in the handbook's section on diagnostic assessment of children. Levitt is with the Institute of Psychiatric Research and French is with the Riley Child Psychiatry Clinic.

MORE NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

MEMORIAL SERVICES—Quarterly memorial services to remember patients and staff of University Hospital who have died in recent months will be reinstituted August 3 at 7:45 a.m. and 3:45 p.m. The services will be held in the Meditation Room of the hospital and are sponsored by the Department of Pastoral Care and the University Hospital Memorial Services Committee.

TOBACCO RESEARCH—Volunteers are needed for a dental research study of smokeless tobacco users. Regular users will receive a free dental exam and be paid a fee. For more, call 4-9963.

AUCTION SLATED—Computers, printers, typewriters, silverware, desks, chairs and more will be auctioned by the Surplus Property Department July 11 at 10 a.m. The auction is scheduled at 630 W. New York St. in the PX Building.

NEW FORM IN USE—Immigration and Naturalization Services is using a revised version of the Employment Eligibility Verification Form (I-9). Central Stores has the new forms available. For more about employment eligibility matters, call one of the following numbers: faculty, Shirley Nusbaum, 4-4627; work-study students, Jean Shackelford, 4-4577; and staff, Cliff Robinson, 4-7617.

MEDICAL CENTER RESEARCHER HONORED FOR CANCER BREAKTHROUGH

A breakthrough in the treatment of testicular cancer patients has earned Lawrence H. Einhorn of the medical school the 1992 Charles F. Kettering Prize, awarded by the General Motors Cancer Research Foundation. His efforts turned a uniformly fatal form of cancer into the most curable of all malignant tumors, and began in 1974 when Einhorn started using cisplatin, a drug made from platinum, in a new chemotherapy combination. Almost overnight, cures of young men with the disease increased from 5-20 percent to 65 percent. Subsequent refinements increased the effectiveness, reduced negative side effects and led to other combinations used in chemotherapy. Of the 47 patients in his original 1974 study, 37 had complete remissions; another five became disease-free after follow-up surgery removed the remaining drug-resistant cancer cells.

CONFERENCE FOCUSES ON FITNESS FOR OLDER PEOPLE

The benefits of physical activity for older people is the focus of "Successful Aging Through Fitness," an Aug. 5-7 conference at University Place Conference Center. The conference is sponsored by the Schools of Allied Health Sciences, Nursing, Medicine, Physical Education and Social Work, along with the National Institute of Fitness and Sport and the Indiana Geriatric Education Center. Sessions will focus on the impact physical fitness programs have on the physiology of aging and offer advice on how to plan, implement and evaluate fitness and nutrition programs for older people. The conference is aimed at directors and activities directors of retirement and extended-care facilities, nurses, exercise physiologists, occupational, physical and recreational therapists, physicians, physiologists, social workers and other professionals in the field.

SCHOOL OF NURSING EARNS NATIONAL RECOGNITION

Excellence in student retention has earned the School of Nursing national acclaim from the Noel/Levitz National Center for Student Retention, Inc. The school's "Enhancing Minority Nursing Student Success through a Comprehensive Retention Program" is one of a dozen two- and four-year colleges and universities honored for achievements in the field. The Retention Excellence Awards program was started in 1989. Awards are given to recognize innovative programs and services that promote student retention, success and satisfaction.

POLITICAL POLL SEASON ARRIVES AT PUBLIC OPINION LAB

The polls are coming! The polls are coming! Yes, it's an election year, and once again the Public Opinion Lab has geared up to track the mood of Hoosier voters. In a mid-June poll, the lab drew heavy media attention when it discovered that over half of the Marion County voters surveyed were not ready to pick their presidential choice. Those results proved to be a precursor to subsequent national polls, which found similar uncertainty among nation-wide voters when they were not asked to pick one of the three major candidates — President Bush, Democratic nominee Bill Clinton or independent candidate H. Ross Perot — but were given the option of "don't know." Expect the lab's phone lines to keep humming throughout the summer and fall.
