

Service Engagement Summit 2.0

Volume 1. Issue 5

Indiana Campus Compact will host the Service Engagement Summit 2.0, their 2nd Annual Service Engagement Summit, March 29-30, 2012. The gathering will take place in Indianapolis at the Marriott North and will highlight emerging trends in service engagement in higher education. This two day event will provide opportunities for college and university administrators, faculty, staff, students, and their community partners to interact with local, state, and national leaders in service and higher education, an awards reception and ceremony, and interactive workshops will address engagement between higher education campuses and their communities.

Kristin Norris, Bob Bringle, and Libby Laux will host pre-conference sessions highlighting the work the Center for Service & Learning has been doing around the power of technology in facilitating reflection in service learning. The first session, ePortfolios and Service Engagement: A Perfect Marriage, will focus on the use of E-portfolios to facilitate reflection, document one's civic engagement and illustrate learning as a result of an experience. The second session, The Power of Digital Storytelling as an Emerging Strategy, will highlight some of the more recent work of CSL, also related to E-portfolios.

In addition to pre-conference sessions, Indiana Campus Compact has put together a great line up of presenters and sessions that will be beneficial for anyone interested in service learning and civic engagement. Visit their website for more information or to register. Regular registration closed March 22, 2012, on-site registration available for an additional fee.
