IUSM to welcome largest incoming class

The IUSM Class of 2015 will don a physician's white coat Saturday, Aug. 13, in a ceremony at the Murat Theatre, 502 N. New Jersey St., which marks the beginning of an intense four-year curriculum.

The incoming 328-member class is the largest in the medical school's history. They will gather with friends and family at 3 p.m. for the White Coat Ceremony, an annual rite of passage. Keynote speaker Lisa Harris, MD, chief executive officer and medical director of Wishard Health Services, will present "We're All in This Together."

Following Dr. Harris' remarks, the students will cross the stage and be assisted by a medical school faculty member into a white coat. The students then recite in unison a physician's pledge whose origins are attributed to the Greek physician Hippocrates.

Sculpture installation marks new eye center

Installation began Friday, Aug. 12, on a large work of public art by renowned sculpture Don Gummer, who attended Ben Davis High School and the Herron School of Art before making his home in New York and Connecticut. Titled "Open Eyes," the piece will anchor the green space to the east of the institute.

The installation precedes several events marking the completion of the $30 million, 77,000-square-foot advanced vision science center. Friday, Aug. 19, the new center will host the second annual Eugene and Marilyn Glick Eye Institute Vision Research Symposium from 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., in its Spitzberg Conference Room, followed by a dedication ceremony, including IU President Michael McRobbie, at 3 p.m. in the IUPUI Campus Center.

Saturday, Aug. 20, Glick Eye Institute will be open to the community, including free health screenings, building tours and art projects for children, including sidewalk chalk, drawing and face-painting.

For more information, visit www.glick.iu.edu. Questions to vkherman@iupui.edu.

Global health receives endowment

The newly-formed IU Center for Global Health has received its first endowed faculty position. The Donald E. Brown Professorship in Global Health was established with a gift of $1.5 million from Donald E. Brown, MD, an IU alumni and software entrepreneur.

Dr. Brown is co-founder and CEO of Interactive Intelligence, a global provider of IP business communications software and services. In 2007, Dr. Brown gave $1 million to the Indiana-Kenya Partnership/AMPATH, which is coordinated by the IU Center for Global Health. This new gift builds on his commitment to supporting global health programs.

Robert Einterz, MD, associate dean for global health, director of the IU Center for Global Health and professor of clinical medicine at IUSM, will be the first to hold the endowed position, which will be used to support faculty leading global health programs that aim to eliminate health disparities by advancing global health research and education and delivering health-care services to underserved populations across the globe.

Cancer center earns certification

IU Simon Cancer Center hematology oncology team has received recognition from the world's leading oncology society for achieving the highest levels of quality for the care provided to its patients.

The multidisciplinary team is the first oncology group in central Indiana to achieve the three-year certification from the Quality Oncology Practice Initiative (QOPI) Certification Program, an affiliate of the American Society of Clinical Oncology (ASCO). QOPI is a voluntary self-assessment and improvement program.

Public and Media Relations changes

The IUSM Office of Public and Media Relations has merged with the IUPUI Office of Communications and Marketing, the IU Office of Creative Services, the IU Bloomington communications office and the IU President's communications office as part of IU Public Affairs and Government Relations.

The new PAGR organization aims to consolidate and reorganize various functions and talent to better serve the communications and marketing needs of IUPUI and the medical school and their faculty, students and staff.

You can still find us on the Web at communications.medicine.iu.edu.

To learn more about the full complement of services and resources provided by PAGR, visit pagr.iu.edu.

Faculty Steering Committee meeting

The School of Medicine's excellence hinges on the engagement and vitality of its faculty, and the work of the Faculty Steering Committee plays a crucial role in this regard. The FSC is the principal representative body of the faculty and its collaboration with school administration, the campus and the university.

We are attempting to enhance the quality of communication between members of the faculty and the FSC, and to enhance the FSC's contribution to the work of our school. The FSC meets monthly for 90 minutes. The next meeting is at noon Thursday, Aug. 18, in Daly Center 186. These meetings are open to all faculty members.

The membership of the FSC, minutes of past meetings and the agenda for the upcoming meeting are posted at webtest.iu.edu/~meddev/governance.

Please take a moment to familiarize yourself with the work of the FSC and share with me or any of our other representatives any concerns or opportunities you feel our faculty should be addressing.

Informatics project grants — request for applications

The Indiana Clinical and Translational Sciences Institute is offering a new grant mechanism to support sustainable and collaborative informatics projects. These awards are part of the "innovation initiatives series" within the bioinformatics program of the Indiana CTSI.

Applications require collaboration between two primary investigators from the IU schools of medicine and informatics. Additional collaborators are allowed and are not limited to these schools. This grant is open to investigators eligible to submit applications to NIH, NSF and other federal organization for funding. For additional eligibility requirements, see the complete guidelines.

Awards will be up to $100,000. All applications will be peer reviewed. Investigators selected for funding will be expected to address the reviewers concerns prior to funding.

This program is provided with support from the IU School of Informatics. There is no specific application deadline. This RFA will expire Jan. 1, 2012.

To apply, visit www.indianactsi.org/grants. Questions to 278-2874 or admin@indianactsi.org.

MedTV

The Office of Public and Media Relations now manages the MedTV screens on the medical school campus. This closed-circuit TV system, part of the IUPUI network, presents a wonderful opportunity for faculty, staff and students to communicate events and information of interest to others. It also serves as a source for broadcasting emergency information on campus.

The MedTVs are located in public areas of the HITS building, the VanNuys Medical Science Building atrium, the Daly Center, Research II, Walther Hall (R3) and the Cancer Research Institute (R4).

Announcements from departments and offices are welcome. To have your department or office announcements posted on MedTV, please read the MedTV guidelines: medicine.iu.edu/medtv. Questions? Phone 274-7722.

Scope submission guidelines

Scope wants your news items.

The deadline for submission is 8:30 a.m. on Thursdays. Scope is published electronically and sent to faculty, staff, students, and residents on Fridays (except on holiday weekends when it is published on the following Monday).

There are three easy ways to submit story ideas or information to Scope:

- e-mail the information to scopemed@iupui.edu
- mail the information to Kevin Fryling, 1110 W. Michigan, LO 401, IUPUI
- fax your information to (317) 278-8722

Contributions submitted by e-mail should be forwarded in 12 point, plain text format. Word document attachments in lieu of fliers are encouraged.

In the interest of accuracy, please do NOT use:

- acronyms
- abbreviations
- campus building codes (use full, proper name of building and include the room number)
- Dr. as a preface before names (designate MD or PhD)

To keep the electronic version of Scope as streamlined as possible, only seminars and lectures of general or multidisciplinary interest will be included.
