NOTED DOCTOR-LECTURER-AUTHOR COMING

Dr. Robert H. Williams, professor of medicine and chief of endocrinology at the University of Washington and editor of the soon-to-be-released book, To Live and to Die, When, Why and How, will be at IUPUI Friday. He will talk on the book's subject at noon in the Emerson Hall Auditorium.

In the book, Dr. Williams and 20 contributors treat questions that result from medical advances like organ transplantation and society's social problems. The topics covered -- the changing attitudes and policies about euthanasia, suicide, sexual activity, marriage, birth control, abortion, welfare and the treatment of criminals -- are being widely debated among laymen and within professional communities.

Dr. Williams has received the Outstanding Chairman of Medicine Award from the Association of Professors of Medicine, the Distinguished Leadership Award from the Endocrine Society, the Banting Award (ADA), Stengel Award (ACP), Minot Award (AMA), among others.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

FLY THE FRIENDLY SKIES OF I.U.

Indiana University charter flights to Europe for this summer have been arranged. If you have a yen to wend your way overseas, consider these flights:

One-month flight from New York City to London and back, May 21-June 22, is $247.50. With an Indianapolis option, the price is $326.50. Two other flights -- Chicago to London and back -- are scheduled for May 21-August 10 and June 21-August 23. Round-trip fare is $242.

All prices include tax. For more information, call Mrs. Helen Zapp at Ext. 8265. (She reports, incidentally, that there will be no trip to Japan this year.)
