

CONFERENCE TO LOOK AT YOUTH SUICIDE, ABUSE, DEPRESSION

Alarming rates of youth suicides, sexual and physical abuse of children, eating disorders and a host of other psycho-social ills that strike children are among the issues that are expected to draw more than 200 people from across the nation to the National Advocates for Child Psychiatric Nursing (ACPN) Conference at the Hyatt Regency Oct 29-30. Keynote speaker is Angela Barron McBride, professor and associate dean for research development and resources, School of Nursing. Her address is titled "Child Psychiatric Mental Health Nursing: Coming of Age." Participants can select from 21 concurrent sessions on a wide range of issues. Faculty for the conference include people from the IUPUI campus, as well as those from other areas of the country. Two awards will be presented by the ACPN. The Indiana region award goes to Sue Marquis Bishop, associate professor and chairman, Graduate Dept., Psychiatric/Mental Health Nursing, School of Nursing. The national award will go to Patricia Pothier who is on the faculty at the U. of California at San Francisco. Sponsors of the conference are the ACPN, Community Hospitals and the IU School of Nursing. To register or for more information, call Janis Gerkenmeyer, 4-0227 or 251-2871.

CHANNEL 13 NEEDS US on Oct. 27 when it participates in a nationally distributed program, "The ABCs of AIDS", about the facts and myths of the disease. It will be aired on Channel 13 (WTHR) from 10-11 p.m. During the hour the station is planning several local cut-ins, so that concerns of local audiences can be addressed. An audience will be needed for this section of the show and we are invited to participate. Assemble by 10 p.m. on Oct. 27 in the University Conference Center, Room 118. Emcees will be Ch. 13 anchor Betsy Ross and medical reporter Jane Harrington. Local panelists expected here in person or electronically are Dr. Everett Koop, U.S. surgeon general; Dr. Frank Young, commissioner of the Federal Drug Administration; Dr. Woodrow A. Myers Jr., commissioner of the Indiana State Board of Health, and Dr. Daniel W. Hicks, Indianapolis psychologist who is clinical assistant professor of psychiatry here.

COMPETENCY TESTING NUDGES TEACHERS BACK FOR WRITING

While it received a negative reaction by some, the Indiana Statewide Test of Educational Progress (ISTEP) for students was welcomed by most school teachers. Since it includes writing and since students have not done so well in this area, many teachers of writing--500 in fact--came to a recent Indiana Teachers of Writing (ITW) conference here. Barbara L. Cambridge, assistant professor of English at IUPUI and executive director of ITW, said that the professional development for teachers of writing is crucial" because many of them did not learn about the subject in college. Teacher colleges are especially weak in offering good writing instruction." One 16-year veteran of teaching writing Patricia Keefe of West Noble Middle School in Legonier, attended the conference and said, "All of a sudden everybody is concerned about quality writing." She adds, "It's a bad situation if schools graduate students who cannot write a paragraph." Cambridge expects school corporations and colleges and universities to enhance support and programs for teachers of writing. --J. Grim

Call Dr. Jackson or Cindy Hartmen, 4-0254 or 4-2167, or send a note to them at the Center, Long C-299.

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Worth Repeating--The after-tax income of the average working woman in charge of her household was $10,858 in 1980 and even less, $10,309, in 1985. If ten of these women would throw in a year's salary, they could collectively afford the $109,000 needed to buy the 1987 hunting permit to kill one bighorn sheep in Montana. (Harper's Index, Nov. '87)

Big Debate--IUPUI's University Forum/Debate Team invites you to a free public debate Oct. 29, 2:30 p.m., Bus/SPEA 2002 on the resolution that affirmative action is an unacceptable means of protecting the rights of minorities. Six of the 14-member team that was second last year in national competition will debate the issues, and the audience will be urged to participate. For more, call the sponsor David Burns, 4-0565.

About Addiction--"Alcohol and Substance Abuse" is the topic of a free workshop offered by the IUPUI Non-Academic Counseling Center on Oct. 22, 5-8 p.m. Focus will be on self awareness and addictive processes. You are asked to call 4-2548.

From China--Dr. Shou-Shu Jiao, director of the Dept. of Anatomy and Neural Transplantation, Capital Institute of Medicine, Beijing, China, presents "Improvement of Human Parkinsonism by Intracerebral Transplantation of Autografts of the Adrenal Medulla" in a physiology & biophysics seminar, Oct. 28, 4 p.m., Emerson Hall auditorium. Call 4-7772.

Mail Marketing--On Oct. 22 a one-day seminar "Real World Direct Mail Marketing" is offered by IUPUI Div. of Continuing Studies. Fee includes food and snacks. Call 4-4364.

Seafood Specials--The next two meals served at the Lockerbie Fare Restaurant by advanced students in the Restaurant, Hotel and Institutional Management Dept. will be seafood delights from the east coast. Chesapeake Bay night is Oct. 20 with a menu that includes hot mushrooms or spicy crab soup, bluefish rollups, lemon buttered carrots, cheesy peach cobbler and more. New England night is Oct. 27 and includes cranberry cocktail or clam pan roast soup, Vermont spinach salad, creamy salmon, Nantucket gingered carrots, apple pan dowdy and more. Both meals are $12.50; no tax, no tip. The Ronald McDonald House gets any proceeds. For reservations, call 4-8772.

About "Our" Women--Barbara Jackson, associate professor, anthropology, presents "Indiana's Working Women--A Feminist Legacy Revealed" in the next Women's Studies Forum on Oct. 22, noon-1 p.m., CA 001C-D. All welcome.

Sorting it Out--Next in the Writing Center Workshop series is "Organizing Information - Formal Outlines and Beyond" on Oct. 20, 10-11 a.m., CA 427. All welcome. No charge.

Math Sciences--Daoxing Xia, professor, Vanderbilt University, presents "The Analytic Model and the Mosaic of a Subnormal Operator" on Oct. 23, 3-4 p.m., KB 059. Refreshments at 3 p.m., KB 060. Call 4-6936.

RILEY AND HUGHES APPLICATIONS READY NOW

The James Whitcomb Riley Memorial Association has research grant-in-aid applications for the 1988-89 grant year. Research proposals are limited to those that deal with patients in Riley and the deadline for submitting them is Nov. 30. Applications are available in the dean's office, School of Medicine, FH 318, or call Mark Spalding, 4-5265.

The Howard Hughes Medical Institute will award approximately 60 doctoral fellowships in an international competition that will be administered by the National Research Council. Women and people in minority groups are strongly urged to compete. Deadline for application is Nov. 13. Call Anne Kratz, Research and Sponsored Programs, 4-8285.

MORE NEWS 'N' NOTES

Poetic Medics--Medical students who are also poets are invited to compete in the sixth annual William Carlos Williams poetry writing contest sponsored by the Human Values in Medicine Program at the Northeastern Ohio Universities College of Medicine. Awards of $300, $200 and $100 will be given. Entry deadline is Dec. 31. The team especially needs males in their 20s or 60s and females in all age groups.

OCTOBER BROUGHT BEGINNING OF GRANT FOR MS RESEARCH

Charles L. Schauf, professor and chairman, Dept. of Biology, School of Science, is a renowned physiologist and researcher of multiple sclerosis, a disease that attacks the central nervous system. It is most often diagnosed in young adults and results in varying degrees of disability. For a dozen years Schauf's research on MS has been funded by the Indiana Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. A new competitive renewable grant of $105,864 was awarded him, to begin officially Oct. 1. His research, "Block and Restoration of Conduction in Demyelinating Disease" is expected to further aid in the use of basic science to treat MS.--S. Rogers

FINALLY...

...it is no longer acceptable to use the word gay in any other connotation other than homosexual reference, according to research by Richard Tobin, journalism, IUB, who polled 200 editors who say they will not use the word gay to describe happy, merry, lively or exuberant. Like it or not, an editor said, "gay" has been completely overwhelmed by the homosexual heritage.

...also from IUB, biologists have discovered a gene in sea urchin embryos that is closely related to growth-controlling genes fund in embryos of other kinds of animals, including mammals. Discoverers are graduate student Deborah Hursh and research associate Mary E. Andrews in Professor Rudolf Raff's lab. Read more about it in the Sept. 18 issue of Science magazine.

...watch for a live panel discussion on cable television stations on Oct. 20 that includes law school faculty members Jim Torke and Bill Harvey, and Pat McGeever, political science, discussing the implications of Senate hearings on the nomination to the Supreme Court of Robert Bork. Check your TV listings for time, or call Amy Werner, 4-9840.
