

CAMPUS CAMPAIGN KICKS OFF

Make your voice count during the 1993 IUPUI Campus Campaign. The campaign, which runs March 8-26, gives every faculty and staff member a chance to make a financial commitment to the future of the university. Contributors may choose how the money will be used: one example of the choices available are the IUPUI Staff Scholarships, created by more than $9,000 in gifts from faculty and staff during the 1985 Campaign for Indiana and administered by the IUPUI Staff Council and the Office of Student Financial Aid. The first Staff Scholarships from the 1985 campaign will be awarded this year to a staff member continuing his or her education at IUPUI.

Other potential uses of the gifts include contributions to individual schools, centers, academic programs, campus libraries, support for child-care or other health-care programs, or funding for research efforts and loan programs. Staff and faculty volunteers across the campus will work with you to make sure your contribution is used as you choose. For more information about the campaign, call the Campus Campaign office at 4-5495.

RELIGION CONFERENCE

Nationally renowned media figures from across the U.S. will be part of the third "Public Expressions of Religion in America" conference April 15-17 at the University Place Conference Center. This conference, sponsored by the Center for the Study of Religion and American Culture, will focus on "The Expression of American Religion in the Popular Media" and will feature such notable writers as Kenneth Woodward of "Newsweek," Gustav Niebuhr of "The Washington Post," Richard Griffiths of the Cable News Network (CNN) and John Dart of the "Los Angeles Times." Sessions will include "Religion and the News Story," "Religion and the News Media: Who's Winning" and "Oprah, Phil, Geraldo, Barbara and Things That Go Bump in the Night: Religion, the Supernatural and American Television." The series of four conferences has drawn national attention and are supported by funding from the Lilly Endowment, Inc. For more call 4-8409.

PULITZER PRIZE WINNER HEADLINING JOURNALISM CONFERENCE

Pulitzer Prize winning reporter James Steele is the keynote speaker for the Fourth Annual Conference on Computer-Assisted Journalism, sponsored by the National Institute for Advanced Reporting at the Conference Center March 12-14. Steele and investigative reporting partner Donald Bartlett of The Philadelphia Inquirer were featured in Leonard Downie Jr.'s book The New Muckrakers: An Inside Look at America's Investigative Reporters. Other speakers at the conference include Dwight Morris of The Los Angeles Times, Don Fry of The Poynter Institute and Pat Stith of the Raleigh (N.C.) News and Observer. The conference focuses on "power journalism," which uses computer-based technology to acquire, manage and present information. For more call 4-2776. Alicia Dean Carlson

NEIGHBORHOOD POWER HEADLINES NEXT URBAN AGENDA SESSION

Releasing the power of Indianapolis neighborhoods will be the focus of the next Urban Agenda session March 11. Bill Blomquist of political science and Roger Parks of the School for Public and Environmental Affairs in Bloomington will lead the discussion into "Neighborhood Power: Municipal Federalism in Indianapolis." The one-hour event will begin at noon at the Associated Group headquarters, 120 Monument Circle, in conference room A. The Urban Agenda series is sponsored by the POLIS Research Center.

MOVE INTO NEW SCIENCE, ENGINEERING AND TECHNOLOGY BUILDING IN FULL SWING

Chemistry, math, physics and psychology department personnel are in the midst of joining the School of Science administrative offices in a move into the new Science, Engineering and Technology (SET) III building, due to be concluded this month. The $20 million SET III building offers 140,000 square feet of laboratory, classroom and office space, matching the size of the SET II building which was opened last year. The two new SET buildings complete a three-building complex on the eastern side of the campus which will house the Purdue schools of Science and Engineering and Technology.

NATATORIUM HOSTING NCAA MEN'S SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIPS

INDIANA UNIVERSITY

Stanford and Texas, which between them have won the last eight NCAA titles, will renew their rivalry in the familiar waters of the Natatorium March 25-27 in the 1993 NCAA Men's Swimming and Diving Championships. The event marks the 12th time the Natatorium has hosted the event, which is celebrating its 70th championship event this year. Preliminary sessions will begin at noon and the finals at 7 p.m. each day. Tickets are on sale at the Natatorium. For more, call 4-6787.

DENTAL SCHOOL HOSTING ORAL HEALTH CONFERENCE

Dentists from countries throughout North, Central and South America will gather to discuss oral health practices at the Conference Center March 15-17 in the second of five workshops planned over a three-year period. The workshops, called the North-South Dental Collaboration Project, help develop a communication network among experts in dental health that eventually will improve oral health in underserved areas of the Americas. The University of Puerto Rico School of Dentistry is coordinating the conferences, which received a $286,000 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich. Dean H. William Gilmore attended the first conference last year in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Future workshops will be in San Jose, Costa Rica, Baltimore and Puerto Rico. The IUPUI event is expected to attract up to 40 men and women in dental care from the U.S., Brazil, Argentina, Costa Rica, Mexico and Venezuela.

CAMPUSWIDE RECYCLING PROGRAM ESTABLISHED

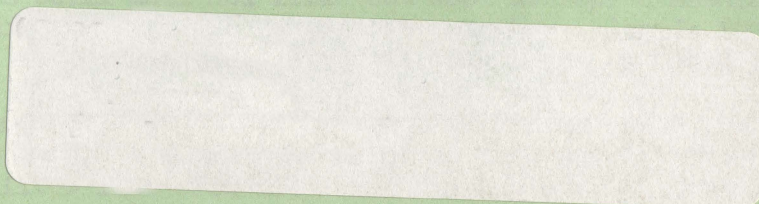

Campus interest in recycling has led to establishment of a new program supported by a grant from the Indiana Department of Environmental Management. When fully implemented, the program is expected to recycle 480,000 pounds of white paper each year, saving up to 4,000 trees. Desktop trays will be provided to collect separated white paper. Waste containers will be placed throughout campus buildings to collect paper from the trays. Building Services staff will take the collections to a local recycling center for processing.

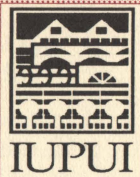

FINALLY...I.U. Chancellor Herman B Wells, this year's Maynard K. Hine Medal recipient, will be presented his honor March 11 at the 20th annual IUPUI Alumni Leadership Dinner at 6 p.m. at the University Place Hotel. Wells was president of I.U. from 1937 to 1962 and appointed Hine during Wells' interim presidency in 1968. The Indianapolis campus expanded considerably during Hine's tenure, acquiring the schools of Physical Education, Law, Allied Health Sciences and the Herron School of Art. Former Hine Medal recipients have founded an endowment which will provide initial support for a lectureship to celebrate the 25th anniversary of IUPUI. For more, call 4-8828.

Invitation to Readers

It's time to nominate titles for the 1993-94 Bookmarks series. In order to offer another year of stimulating programs, we need your help. Think about the books that are meaningful to you--then tell us what they are and why you think they are important. You may submit as many titles as you wish. Books that were suggested in past years, but not selected, will not be automatically reconsidered. However, you are welcome to resubmit titles. If you wish to nominate more than 2 books, please make copies of this form. Nomination mailing deadline: March 15, 1993.
