LIBRARY TAKES AND MAKES DONATIONS TOURS INDIANA COLLEGE LIBRARIES

The library is frequently on the receiving end of donations of books and journals by individuals and other libraries. These are always welcomed for a variety of reasons. Donated journals may replace missing issues when binding time rolls around. If not so used, they may be listed with the Medical Library Association exchange for request by libraries throughout the country and in many overseas countries, who are constantly on the lookout for needed materials. Finally, the library indulges in "give-aways" from time to time and makes surplus items available to students, faculty and staff.

Contributors to the library's "savings" program this past month included the I.U. Medical School Library, Dr. Charles R. Gregg of Thornton, Indiana, Eli Lilly Library, Dr. Richard Norman, Dr. Robert Bogan, Indiana State Dental Association, Dr. Ronald Jones and Dr. Ralph McDonald.

During the past two weeks, Mrs. Mabel Walker, librarian and Mrs. Helen Campbell, cataloger, have made inspection tours of Earlham College, Butler University and Wabash College, observing facilities, noting accommodations, considering routines, and comparing notes on the functioning of other university libraries.
