MESSAGE FROM THE CHANCELLOR

I am truly honored to have been asked to serve as chancellor of IUPUI. It is a challenge that I accept with enthusiasm. My warmest thanks to President Ryan, the I.U. trustees, and to you who have faith that I can provide the leadership needed for this important post.

There is great potential for continuing growth and progress on this campus. Chancellor Hine must be commended for his leadership during the four short years of the existence of IUPUI.

During the next few weeks I will talk with many of you. I will seek your ideas, counsel, and help. My general approach at this juncture will be to learn as much as possible. This will include careful, personal consideration of whatever written messages you wish to send to me. I will welcome ideas or suggestions from all quarters.

Of necessity this message is preliminary in nature. I am certain no one can do the job alone. I request your support during this time of transition and inventory-taking. I look forward to working with each of you, as we move toward the objectives that we all share.

--Chancellor Glenn W. Irwin, Jr.

DR. LUKEMEYER APPOINTED

Chancellor Irwin has announced the appointment of Dr. George T. Lukemeyer as acting dean of the School of Medicine. Dr. Lukemeyer, a member of the medical faculty since 1954, has been serving as the school's executive associate dean.

Dr. Irwin also said a search and screen committee is being formed to make recommendations for the permanent appointment of a dean as soon as possible.

Dr. Lukemeyer is nationally recognized in medical education for his leadership in the development of the Indiana Program for Statewide Medical Education, the statewide telecommunications systems in the Medical Education Resources Program, and the school's innovative curriculum.

EX-CHANCELLOR HINE COMMENTS . . . . .

I am indeed gratified with the appointment of Dr. Glenn W. Irwin, Jr. as the next chancellor of IUPUI and of Dr. Edward Moore as the executive vice-chancellor. These two individuals bring to the IUPUI administration a broad comprehension of higher education and a depth of understanding of this community's needs and its strengths. I am confident they will give IUPUI outstanding leadership, and they deserve the support of those who will be working with them.

I want to take this opportunity to thank again IUPUI's many deans, directors, faculty and staff members for their support, patience, and tolerance while I have had the privilege of serving as chancellor. Due to them, the record will show that much progress has been made in our complex system of public higher education in Indianapolis. However, much remains to be done.

I have tried sincerely to direct IUPUI's progress in a manner which will result in development of all units of IUPUI. I have attempted to place emphasis on the developing units of IUPUI, without handicapping the important and better developed professional units. There have been many achievements--and many disappointments--but progress has been made.

Most days I have enjoyed my assignment, and I am pleased that I can continue to work for IUPUI.

--Maynard K. Hine

SEARCHING & SCREENING

A Search and Screen Committee has been named to recommend candidates for a Director of IUPUI Libraries. It is intended that this new position will provide management, guidance, and development for the several IUPUI libraries, with direct responsibility for the libraries on the campuses at Blake Street, 38th Street, Herron School of Art, and School of Physical Education and co-ordinating responsibility for the three professional libraries, so that an effective library system will evolve. The librarian, under the joint direction of the Vice Chancellor/Dean of Faculties and the Dean of University Libraries, will be responsible for planning, development, and co-ordination of policies, procedures, staffs, resources, and facilities of the several libraries to insure effective library operation. He/she will be a member of the administrative staff of the Dean of University Libraries and will maintain liaison and work co-operatively with the directors of other I.U. libraries in establishing system-wide policies. A master's degree from an accredited library school and administrative experience in a major university library are among the qualifications required.

The committee members invite suggestions from faculty and students to assist them with their charge and will be please to receive recommendations for likely candidates. Please contact the chairman or other members whose names follow:

- X Mary E. Seldon, History, School of Liberal Arts
- X Marvin Bittinger, Mathematics, School of Science and School of Engineering and Technology
- X Martin Bloom, School of Social Service
- X Barbara Fischler, Blake Street Campus Library
- X David Lewis, Herron School of Art Library
- Ex-officio: X John C. Buhner, IUPUI Administration
- X W. Carl Jackson, Central Library Administration
- X Carolyn A. Snyder, Personnel Librarian
- X Mary Jane Laatz, School of Medicine Library, Chairman

SIGN UP FOR CULTURE

Eight monthly programs featuring diverse types of musical talent will make up the program of the 1973-74 Showcase of Music this year.

All programs will be on campus, in the Lecture Hall, and season tickets have been reduced to $5, and free for students. Single admission is $1 each show.

Sponsors are the IUPUI Lectures and Convocations Committee, the I.U. School of Music and the Alumni Association. The revised program and location of performances were made to allow more musical tastes to be fulfilled and in a more central location. For the past few years, performances have been major productions of opera, ballet, orchestra, etc, at North Central High School.

Productions are:

- Sept. 18--Brass Quintet
- Oct. 23--Alfonso Montecino, pianist
- Nov. 13--Eleanore Schettler, harpist, and Javier Calderon, guitarist
- Dec. 4--Varsity Singers
- Jan. 22--Herndon Spillman, organist
- Feb. 19--Jazz Ensemble
- March 19--Jean Reese, soprano, Gordon Green, tenor
- April 16--Violinist to be announced
