CONTINUING STUDIES GETS NEW DIRECTOR

Scott E. Evenbeck, associate director of administrative affairs at IUPUI, has been named director of the Div. of Continuing Studies and associate dean of the School of Continuing Studies. His appointment, effective July 1, was confirmed during a recent I.U. trustees meeting at IU-East. Scott's been with us since 1972 when he became a faculty member and later associate dean of the School of Science where he remains an associate professor of psychology. He is a native of Fosteria, Ohio, and is president of the American Lung Association of Central Indiana. His wife Betty is also an IUPUI faculty member and they have a son, Benjamin.

FOUNDATION NAMES TEMPEL VP

Gene Tempel, executive director of the IU Foundation on campus, has been named vice president of the Foundation. Foundation president George Pinnell announced Gene's appointment following a June meeting of the board. Tempel, whose office is in the Administration Building on campus, has been a fund raiser for a long time, and he will continue with leadership of The Campaign for Indiana and the annual fund drive in the Indianapolis area. Formerly director of Vincennes University's Jasper Center, Gene is an IU grad with a master's and a doctoral degree.

NOD GIVEN TO RENOVATION AND CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS

At a recent meeting at IU-East, the IU trustees approved the bid of Summit Construction Company, Inc. of Indianapolis, for the new, $1.2 million telecommunication center to be located in the west wing basement area of the Education/Social Work Building. Construction manager contracts for the new $12 million Conference Center and the $12 million National Institute for Fitness and Sport were also awarded. Guepel-Demars, Inc. won the bid for the conference center and Huber, Hunt and Nichols, Inc. got the nod for the Fitness Center. Also, $1 million in contracts for renovation of the fifth floor surgical research area and reroofing of the 66-year-old Emerson Hall was awarded. Bledsoe and Associates, Inc. won the $785,900 renovation contract and Blackmore and Buckner Roofing Company will do the $97,500 roofing job.

POSIES AND PUPPETS Two treats--fresh carnations and a puppet exhibit--are in store for you on campus. The Disabled Students Organization is selling carnations--buy one, get one free--on July 12 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. at the Library, Union, University Hospital, Engineering/Technology and at Cavannaugh. And, while you're at the Union this month, don't miss the puppets on display in the cases at the Union Drive entrance. The Indiana Puppetry Guild is displaying dinosaurs, talking trees, monsters, dogs and other delights. The Christopher Puppets on attitudes toward disabled persons will be there, as well as those from "Time for Timothy," and others. For more information, call Elaine Watt, 353-1295, or Martha Allis, Ext. 7212.

Los Juegos Panamericanos

POORE Y MILLER DIRIGIRAN UN PROGRAMA PARA LOS HISPANOPARLANTES

Two Spanish language specialists, Keith Miller and Luz Poore, began July 1 on our campus to help coordinate efforts for the '87 Pan American Games. The lion's share of their efforts will be to certify that volunteers are speakers of Spanish, the official language of the games. They will be getting help from the U.S. Dept. of State. From IUB, Miller is a senior staff associate for research and public safety in SPEA and an adjunct lecturer in the Dept. of Spanish. A native of Puerto Rico, Poore is a former IPS foreign language teacher who is working on a Ph.D. in Spanish through Purdue. Among their other duties, Miller and Poore will work on a master calendar of campus involvement in the Games, said Robert R. Baxter, special assistant to the vice president here and member of the Pan American Games Local Organizing Committee. And, they will notify other learning institutions around the state about our need for Spanish-speaking volunteers. Offices for the games are on the sixth floor of the Union Building.

U.S. Clay Courts '85

For the 17th time in its 76-year history, the U.S. Open Clay Court Championships are set for the Indianapolis Sports Center, July 21-28. The tournament should be an exciting one, with Ivan Lendl--currently ranked second in the world--top seed in the men's draw. He is champion of the French Open where he defeated John McEnroe. Other entries include Zina Garrison, Andres Gomez, Jimmy Arias and Jose Luis Clerc. You can buy one ticket or a series ticket. For tickets, rates and more, call 843-2130.

*****: WINDOWS OPEN AND CLOSE

Check cashing on campus is changing. Beginning Aug. 1 the Bursar Office will cash checks for students, staff and faculty at a window on the first floor of Cavanaugh Hall, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. The check cashing window at the Union Building closes July 31. There are some rules. Staff and faculty must have I.D.--a check cashing card which you can apply for after July 31 and a valid driver's license. The check limit is $50, with a 35-cent service charge. Counter and two-party checks are not accepted, and you can cash only one check a day. The Bursar will not cash checks for you if you write two or more bad checks in a year; if you have a past due account with the university or if you don't have the proper I.D.

"Health Care Issues: An Indiana Perspective" highlights the July/August program schedule of the Medical Television Network (MTN), operated by the Medical Educational Resources Program. "Issues" telecasts are July 10, 12, 16 and 18 with special discussion from specialists in areas of government, business and hospitals. Viewing sites at the Medical Center include University Hospital and the Learning Resource Center in the MS Building. For more, call M.J. Smith, Ext. 2264.

POLICE WANT TO HELP YOU KEEP YOUR BIKE

To help prevent thefts or recover bicycles stolen on campus, the IUPUI Police Dept. has a three-point program that can help. For 50 cents you have a photo of your bike taken, engrave parts of the bike with I.D. of your choice and police will record the make and model and keep it on file for reference. You can help yourself keep your bike, police suggest, by taking part in the program and by securing your bike with a heavy gauge shackle and padlock, and securing both wheels and the frame to bike stands. For more information, call Lt. Mary Gerard, Ext. 2057.

WORD WAGON SET FOR CAMPUS--Dictaphone Corporation invites you to its exhibit in a 40-foot motor home that will be parked near the police station at Michigan and Agnes Streets on July 9 from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Featured will be Dictaphone's full line of equipment, including the Model 1925 Thought Tank.
