

green sheet

INDIANA UNIVERSITY-PURDUE UNIVERSITY AT INDIANAPOLIS

iupui

volume three, number thirty-two august 5, 1973

PARKING PROBLEMS?

Because of increasing problems around the main buildings of Marion County General Hospital and as a result of the construction of the Regenstrief Institute building, the General Hospital administration has divided the large paved lot west of the Krannert Institute of Cardiology into two sections.

The east and south two-thirds of the lot with the entrance at the east end will be reserved for General Hospital employees and visitors. The northwest third of the lot containing space for about 225 cars will be available to IUPUI employees and students. The unpaved area north of the Psychiatry Research Institute building will continue to be available to employees and students.

All the ground between the Krannert Institute of Cardiology and the Veterans Administration Hospital on the south side of West 10th Street is owned by General Hospital which paid approximately two-thirds of the expense of paving the new lot, constructing the new street (Elmwood) on the west side of the lot, and widening Wilson Street. IUPUI paid about one-third of the cost. The Indianapolis City Department of Transportation did the engineering for those projects and the engineering and paving of West 10th Street.

Other Parking Notes -- Representatives of a consulting engineering firm have made their first visit to the campus to gather material for planning a 500-car parking garage in the general area of the Medical Science Building, Riley Hospital and General Hospital. It is hoped that the findings of this study will be available next month.

* * *

APPLICATIONS: PROGRESS REPORT

A person who wants to attend an Indiana University campus can now learn if he's been admitted within three days or less instead of the previous three-week waiting time.

A new state-wide system of handling applications for prospective I.U. students makes possible this slash in waiting time. Under the system, already in operation, admissions processing has been decentralized and can be completed at any campus.

The decentralized system developed from the efforts of an all-university committee charged with modifying a plan which had already been developed at IUPUI for local handling of admissions and extending it system-wide.

(continued)

Bruce Shutt, associate university registrar and director of admissions, chaired the eight-man committee. Providing their special know-how were John Krivacs, IUPUI director of admissions, and Kenneth Landeck, IUPUI systems analyst, administrative data processing, who had both worked on the development of the IUPUI system.

To apply to Indiana University, a high school senior needs to submit -- or have sent -- his high school record, college entrance examination scores, a personal data sheet, and a $15 applications fee.

In the past, all this had to be sent to Bloomington for evaluation and processing. A student applying at Fort Wayne could give the admissions officer there the material, but it had to be forwarded to Bloomington -- by mail. Delays were common.

Now each campus handles its own admissions. Records are still centrally stored in a computer, but computer terminals at the various campuses allow for local input and output, and almost immediate processing of an application once the necessary information is supplied. (Richmond and Kokomo are now being served by the IUPUI terminal, but Kokomo will have its own remote processing equipment soon.)

Application fees, once all sent to the bursar's office at Bloomington, are collected locally.

Each campus has designed its own application form to best serve its individual needs, but the data collected is the same at all campuses and supports a common data base which can be handled easily by computer.

* * *

HERRON BILLBOARD

A free performance of "Oliver" will be presented Friday (August 10) at 8 p.m. by the Putnam County Playhouse in the courtyard of the Herron School of Art of IUPUI.

"Oliver" is a musical based on Charles Dickens' novel, Oliver Twist. Written by Lionel Barts, "Oliver" enjoyed a long Broadway run and was made into a successful movie.

Now in its 12th season, the Putnam County Playhouse was organized to give Putnam County residents a chance to see and perform "live" theater. The group, which presents four plays each summer, has already this season performed "I Believe," "Send Me No Flowers" and "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

* * *

ANOTHER OPENING

An open house will be held in the Spinal Cord Unit, Room 408, of University Hospital Thursday from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The opening of this unit for the care of spinal cord injuries will be soon and will be under the direction of Dr. James L. Babcock, assistant professor of orthopedic surgery, and Dr. Robert L. Campbell, director and professor of neurological surgery.

* * *

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Returns -- Chancellor Maynard K. Hine returned last week from Sydney, Australia, where he participated in an international dental meeting. He was named for the "distinguished list of honor" for his contributions to international dentistry. En route he visited Tahiti, New Zealand, Fiji Islands and Hawaii where he talked to many educators and alumni.

Hospital Appointment -- Mrs. Mary Tridle, associate director of Child Life Services, has been named acting director of the department. She has been with Child Life Services since October, 1970. Mrs. Tridle fills the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Grace Dixon who has accepted a position with the Cleveland Metropolitan Hospital.

Miss Plummer Named -- Miss Anne Plummer has been appointed supervisor of the Riley Physical Therapy Department. She has been a member of the staff for four years and has served as acting director since last January 1.

Granted -- A grant of $10,000 has been received from the National Science Foundation to send Dr. Robert Samuels, professor of biology, and 30 others to the International Congress on Protozoology which will be held next month at Clermont-Ferrand, France. Dr. Samuels is president of the Society of Protozoologists which is composed of biologists interested in parasites and other such life forms.

Exhibits -- Pharmacy displays this week in University Hospital will be Armour Pharmaceutical Co. on Monday, Riker Laboratories on Wednesday and Hoechst Pharmaceutical Co. on Friday. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Tune In -- Michael C. Gemignani, chairman of the Department of Mathematical Sciences, will talk about some pitfalls of the "new math" on this week's IUPUI Magazine, WIAN, 90.1 on your FM dial. Listen today (Sunday) at 1:30 p.m., Monday at 3:30 p.m., Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. or Wednesday at 4:30 p.m.

Patience Requested -- The Research Computer Center wants to thank the people and departments responding to the recent offer in the Numbers Runner newsletter. However, due to delivery schedules, the offer will be delayed by at least one month. When everything is ready, RCC will contact you and make arrangements for classes.

(continued)

JEANNETTE MATTHEW
LIBRARIAN, SCHOOL OF LIBERAL ARTS
420 BLAKE STREET

NB*

*A News Bureau Publication
Indiana University-Purdue University at Indianapolis
1100 West Michigan Street
Indianapolis, Indiana 46202

Medical Students Honored -- Two third-year students in the School of Medicine were honored last week for their outstanding work. David H. Lovett received the Roche Award, an engraved watch. Given annually by the Roche Company, the award cites a medical student who "has performed outstandingly in the basic medical sciences." Donald W. Simmler received a $4,000 scholarship to continue his medical studies, a gift from Dr. and Mrs. John O. Eiler, both I.U. School of Medicine graduates who now live in California. The award was given on the basis of outstanding accomplishments and need.

Housing Needed -- Visiting research scientist will need to rent two-bedroom apartment or house from September 1-October 20. If interested, call Ext. 4386.

House for Sale -- Three-bedroom frame house for sale in Speedway. Call Ext. 4048 or, after 5 p.m. call 243-7643.

* * *

MRS. MINGLE HEADS NEW GROUP

Mrs. Maxine Mingle, director of volunteer services for the Indiana University Hospitals, has been elected president of the newly formed Indiana Society for Directors of Volunteer Services.

The fledgling group hopes to attract as members the 35 to 40 salaried Indiana hospital volunteer directors. Other educational and service programs will benefit other Indiana hospital volunteer directors in Indiana's 135 hospitals.

Mrs. Mingle was elected during an organizational meeting in June and the group's first formal meeting will be November 8 at the offices of the Indiana Hospital Association.

"We hope to develop the standards and practices of hospital volunteer administration and see how we can use volunteers more effectively and efficiently in hospitals," Mrs. Mingle said.

"Here in the I.U. hospitals," she noted, "we cover about 23 different areas of service involving some 400 to 600 volunteers doing about 30,000 hours of service each year."

The group also wants to give status to volunteer services in the total delivery of hospital service in the community, to provide an exchange of information and to help individual hospital volunteer directors develop stronger relationships with volunteer hospital auxiliaries.

* * *