THEATER SEASON OPENS WITH EXPLOSIVELY FUNNY PLAY

Not only does Carnelle Scott, known by her too-numerous boyfriends as Miss Hot Tamale, lose the most important contest of her life, but in her hometown beauty pageant she comes in last--behind the "second ugliest" girl in town. Carnelle, also known as Carnation, is the outlandish lead among the outrageous characters in Beth Henley's bizarre comedy, "The Miss Firecracker Contest," being produced by the IUPUI University Theatre, under the direction of Paul Moser from IRT. Among the other wacky characters are Popeye, the bug-eyed seamstress hired to sew Carnelle's costume which is complete with real fireworks. There is also her certifiably insane cousin Delmount and his gorgeous sister Elain, who is a former contest winner and complaining wife to a dull rich husband and mother of two children she does not like. Sleezy, sick Mac Sam, a circus balloon man and one of Carnelle's ex-lovers, adds even more color and off-beat hilarity. Performances are Oct. 2-3 and Oct. 9-10 at 8 p.m. in the Mary Cable Building eater. Tickets can be reserved now and are $3.50 for students and older people, $4.50 for faculty and staff, $6 for others. Call theater, 274-2094.

CALLING ALL 928 BEEPERS—PLEASE Look in your golf bag, desk drawers, lunch box, the oven, old coat pockets or anywhere else you might have left your old beeper. Telecommunication Services has to pick up all lost and strayed Indiana Bell and A-Beeper pagers that begin with 928-. They will be "disconnected" Oct. 2 anyway, and if not returned the University will have to pay for them. Your 928- beeper will be picked up for you and returned to the companies. If you wish, Telecommunications will provide new beepers. Call 4-9890.

NEW CENTER SEEING 2,000 STUDENTS

When it comes to IUPUI, unique is not a public relations term. It describes our University and a big share of our students, many of whom are older and are just starting or re-starting their higher education. We have always tried to meet the needs of this special group, but to do it better, we now have the Adult Education Coordinating Center in Cavanaugh Hall, lower level. Already, the center is serving about 2,000 students. A 1,000 or so are graduate non-degree, about 900 are non-degree undergraduate and about 100 are transients. The Center's threefold mission is to recruit adult students, ease their transition into higher education and conduct research on educating adults. The Center works closely with the Div. of Continuing Studies in providing academic counseling and help with testing, registration and as an advocate for adult interests. The staff is small and the Center needs volunteer peer counselors, says the Center's first director Patricia A. Boaz. She and Scott Evenbeck, director of Continuing Studies, welcome the opportunity to speak to faculty and staff about the Center. An open house is planned the week of Oct. 19. Information about the Center is available now. Call 4-2066.

FACULTY URGED TO MEET MID-OCTOBER DEADLINES FOR OVERSEAS POSTS

A directorship in the Overseas Study Program in Strasbourg, France, as well as a long-term faculty exchange post in Warsaw, Poland and short-term posts in China, Poland, Spain and West Germany, are open to faculty/librarians.

Oct. 16 is the application deadline to apply for the Strasbourg directorship, which includes providing academic supervision, personal counseling and logistical support for 30 undergraduates. Requirements include fluency in French. Call or write Associate Dean Rodney Sangster, Student Services 303, IUB, 335-9306.

The faculty exchange opportunities in the other countries mentioned are offered through International Programs. Applications are due Oct. 15 and on this campus they must go through the Office of Research and Sponsored Programs, 4-8285. For details call or write the office of Dean Alexander Rabinowitch, Bryan Hall 205, 335-8669 IUB, or on this campus call Pat Biddinger, 4-2081. The long-term post at Warsaw University for the 1988-99 school year includes serving as associate director of the American Studies Center and teaching some aspect of that subject.

Short-term posts, from one month to one semester, are open in Warsaw University; Nankai University in Tianjin Province, People's Republic of China; University of Seville, Spain, and Hamburg University, W. Germany

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Campus Graffiti--Among the eclectic disarray in Ray Phillips' office in Printing and Duplicating is this: "Which way did they go? How many of them were there? How fast were they going? I MUST find them! I am their LEADER." Ray is in Methodist Hospital and should be back leading his lost flock soon.

For You--Free Assertiveness Training is offered Oct. 5, 5-8 p.m., by staff at the IUPUI Non-Academic Counseling Center on N. Blackford St. You will learn skills to help you stand up for yourself in personal and work relationships. To register, call 4-2548.

Geriatrics--The 8th Geriatrics Medicine Seminar, "The Process of Aging: Myth v. Facts," is Oct. 14 in Indy. Presenters include key investigators in the Baltimore Longitudinal Study, National Center for Aging. For details, write Helen Scheibner, Indiana Public Health Foundation, Inc., 3612 N. Washington Blvd., Suite 201, Indianapolis, 46205.

All Welcome--Next in the Women's Studies Forum is Carol Brooks Gardner, Dept. of Sociology, IUPUI, presenting "Women and the City: Behavior in Public Places" on Sept. 30, noon-1 p.m., CA 001C-D. Call 4-8207.

Good Mechanics--You can bring your writing to the next Writing Center Workshop, "Punctuation Problem Solving" on Oct. 2, 11 a.m.-noon, CA 427. Call 4-2049.

Lighten Up--A Weight Watchers registration meeting is Oct. 7, noon-1 p.m., Dental School, Room S421. Call Marsha Brickey, 4-5332.

Get Organized--Personal productivity and time management workshops, taught by Tom DeCoster, director of executive education, SPEA, are offered in October and November. The next workshops are Oct. 5 for managers/professionals and Oct. 19 for secretaries/administrative assistants. For fees and more, call Peggy Zike, 4-3418.

From Greece--Karen Boklund-Lagopoulou, Dept. of English, U. of Thessalonika, presents a free public lecture, "This Creature: Discourse on Women and Discourse by Women in the Middle Ages," on Sept. 30, 8 p.m., Ballantine Hall 109, IUB. Call 335-6193.

RUNS WILL CLOSE CAMPUS STREETS on Sept. 26 and Sept. 30. First is the AUL/Governor's Cup Race that will restrict traffic from around 9:30-11 a.m. on the 26th. The campus route is White River Parkway West Drive, east on New York Street to West Street. Then on the 30th, the IUPUI Recreational Sports Dept.'s 5K and 10K runs will begin at the track at noon. Runners will run east along New York Street to West Street to Washington Street. They will return along North Agnes Street, ending inside the track. You can still enter this one and it's only a dollar. Call 4-2824 for details. Patience, please.

MORE NEWS 'N' NOTES

Nix to the PAX/I Pan--Pay no attention to a recent review of the PAX/I - Seven Artists show at the Herron Gallery. It IS worth seeing. It's not covered bridges or still lifes with fruit 'n' flowers, but it is colorful, candid and fresh. You may not understand everything you see, you may not even like it, but you have to see it to decide that....

Eeeee-yah!--Yet another film was made on campus. If you heard shouting and screaming, kicking and fighting in the East Parking Garage last Thursday, it was Paradigm Film making a new karate-genre movie, "Two Wrongs Make a Right."

Open Meeting--Everyone is invited to the next meeting of the John Shaw Billings History of Medicine Society, Inc. on Sept. 30 in Riley Hospital. Assemble at 5:30 p.m. to eat in the cafeteria; convene at 6:15 p.m. in room 4150. Speaker is Eduardo Tejada, M.D., assistant professor, Dept. of Pathology, VA Hospital, presenting "History of Yellow Fever and the Indianapolis Connection." Born in Columbia, S.A., his classical studies of the disease done in 1900 at Walter Reed were first presented here.

Metros Sports--The Women's Volleyball team plays Marion at home on Sept. 29 at 7 p.m.

Our Business--The annual School of Business career day is Sept. 30, 1-4:30 p.m., second floor, Bus/SPEA building. You are welcome.

Rita's Retiring--A retirement party for Rita Searles is Oct. 2, 4 p.m., Telecom Center Lounge, basement, E/S Building.

CST Forum--Oct. 1 is the deadline for registering for a symposium, "Expert Systems in Business," Oct. 8, sponsored by the Artificial Intelligence Committee of the Indiana Corporation for Science and Technology. Call 635-3058.

Next Seminar--Dr. Ephraim Fischbach, Purdue, W. Lafayette, will present "A New Force In Nature?" in the next Physics Dept. seminar on Sept. 30, 3:15 p.m., KB 131.

Need Men--Healthy men, ages 50-59, who themselves and close relatives have no history of psychiatric or emotional problems, are needed for a study of hormone levels. For details, call The Institute of Psychiatric Research, Carolyn York, 4-2360.

For Women--The next American Women in Science luncheon meeting is Oct. 2, noon-1 p.m., conference room, Union Building. Bring lunch, all welcome. Call 4-8536.

Come Watch--A major portion of Parking Lot 80 will be used for the Sixth Annual Dodge National Collegiate Driving competition on Oct. 5-6, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Host is Student Chapter 098, Society of Manufacturing Engineers.

GET YOU AND YOUR PET IN PRINT All employees are invited to send a photo of themselves with their pet to Continuing Studies, which is planning to use the shots in its 30,000 or so spring course catalogs. The winning photo will be on the front, selected others will be inside. Entry deadline is Oct. 16. Get the rules by calling 4-5054.

MEGA SHOW ON MICROCOMPUTERS IS SEPT. 30

Computing Services welcomes everyone to the biggest campus microcomputer event of the year. The Micro Expo 87 is Sept. 30, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on the concourse level at the natatorium. More than 20 vendors will present a wide range of microcomputer exhibits. There is no charge.

A $1 MILLION GRANT GIVEN TO THE DIABETES RESEARCH AND TRAINING CENTER

on campus by the National Institutes of Health will be used to fund a five-year innovative education program in the management of patients with diabetes mellitus. The Center's director Dr. Charles M. Clark, Jr., said that it is difficult for practicing doctors to keep up with changing technologies and developments in the treatment of diabetes. The newly-funded program is designed to give doctors continuing medical education in this area. Interested physicians can learn who is eligible for this free service by calling 630-6374.

AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS CAN GO TO THE HATTERAS ISLANDS

for a week of shutter-bugging in a course offered by Continuing Studies. The trip to Cape Hatteras, N. Carolina is Oct. 11-17. Mike Booher will guide and instruct photo sessions of rustic fishing villages, boats, wildlife, landscapes. Cost for lodging, one meal a day and a boat trip is $275; travel is not included. There is room for five more people. Call 4-5051.

THE BRITISH ARE COMING--AGAIN

Two of Britain's top debaters will meet formidable challengers in a free, public debate Oct. 5 on campus. At 2:30 p.m. in Bus/SPEA 4095, our students Linda Profitt from SPEA and Kurt Ihrig from Liberal Arts will meet with Britain's Katherine Davey from the Inns of Court School of Law and Giles Ramsey, a Durham University graduate, to compare the education systems in the U.S. and Great Britain. At 7:30 p.m. in Lecture Hall 102 they will debate the topic, "A Nation's Home Affairs are its Own Affairs. There will be audience participation, according to David G. Burns, associate professor of communication and theatre and coach of the internationally top-ranked IUPUI debate team.

Management skills workshops are being offered by Continuing Studies and managers on campus can participate. They include The One Minute Manager Gets Fit, Festival Management, and The Issues of Ethics in Modern Management. You can register now for one or all of these courses that begin next month. For fees and details, call 4-5036.
