FAIR FARE: DISCOUNTS, INFO AND CEOS

Lucy Gonzo, University Relations, is putting the finishing touches on the IU booth in the Universities Building at the State Fairgrounds and will be ready for you on Collegiate Day on Aug. 20 and IU Day on Aug. 23.

On the seventh annual Collegiate Day officials from state and private colleges and universities will be on hand from 11 a.m.-noon to greet alumni, students and fairgoers. They will move to the barbeque grounds for formal addresses by state VIPs. Because it "sounds like fun," IU president-elect Thomas Ehrlich plans to attend. Also on that day, anyone connected with higher education who comes to their respective booths will get a discount ticket toward the Gladys Knight and the Pips concert, free gate entry to the lumberjack "Timber Show," free shuttle train rides around the grounds and discounts on Midway tickets. You will get a plastic bracelet that affords you all this. Be advised that the Midway folks are also doing a plastic bracelet discount on Aug. 20, but the two are not to be confused--as they were last year.

On IU Sunday (Aug. 23) the IU Calliope will get up a head of steam and provide concerts off and on during the day. Everyone visiting the IU booth will be given balloons and buttons bearing IU insignia. The Indiana State Fair is Aug. 19-30, 9 a.m.-9 p.m. daily.

THE CHEER GUILD NEEDS STUDENTS AND STAFF volunteer members who can help with the many vital projects it sponsors all year. Little patients at Riley and adults in all the other hospitals need time, toys and attention. The Guild needs people and money. You can share a little time, or a lot. Annual dues are $2 for students, $6 for others and if you have no time but want to help, non-active dues are $10. Send your name, address and check to Jane Bretz, RI 403, or call her at 4-7950.

TELECOMMUNICATION CALLS IN PAGERS; SETS CALL POLICY--Telecommunication Services is calling in IUPUI-owned pagers with calling prefixes of 424 and 928, and announces a long distance and operated-assisted calling policy that becomes effective Aug. 3. The pagers mentioned are being replaced. The exceptions are pagers with wide range service or those leased directly from Mobilecomm or A-Beeper. Paging Services wants you to call if your pager was acquired before Oct. 1986, or if you know of any lost pager. Call 4-3002.

Following is Telecommunication's policy on "dialing" operator-assisted, international and credit card calls:

Long Distance Credit Card--9 + 0 + area code + number, hear tone, dial credit card number including area code.

International Long Distance With Authorization Code--9 + 011 + country code + city code + 5-7 digit number + IUPUI authorization code.

International Long Distance With Credit Card--9 + 01 + country code + city code + 5-7 digit number, hear tone and dial full credit card number.

To Reach AT&T Operator--9 + 00.

To Reach Indiana Bell Operator--Dial 0--An IUPUI operator will connect you.

SEREGNY'S NEH GRANT WILL ENHANCE RUSSIAN PEASANT STUDIES

Scott J. Seregny, assistant professor of history, is the only professor in Indiana to receive a $3,500 National Endowment for the Humanities summer grant, and with it, he will do more research on the tsarist Russian peasantry he began studying 10 years ago. Among the many interesting facts he discovered while sifting through mounds of unorganized data in archives in the Soviet Union, Seregny found that, contrary to historical accounts, peasants of early 20th Century Russia organized themselves and intelligently voiced their needs. Considered a scholar in Russian and European history, Scott studied at Leningrad State University in 1977-78 and was invited by Soviets officials to search the books, memoirs and newspaper accounts of the tsarist archives. Results of his recent grant research will be published next year in an issue of Slavic Review, and it will be part of a book he is writing about the Russian peasantry.--Jim Grim

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

In One Swell Foop--If you can make fun out of tired old cliches, then you more than anyone get to celebrate July 22 as Spooner's Day, named for the Rev. Wm. Archibald Spooner of England (1844-1930), whose wonderful slips of the tongue give us "spoonerisms." They include queer old dean for dear old queen; swell foop for fell swoop, blushing crow for crushing blow and a half-warmed fish for a half-formed wish.

Facts Datos

A new IUPUI Facts folder is available now. This time, in conjunction with the Pan Am Games, the folder is bilingual in English and Spanish. It is a good source of a lot of basic info about us. Translation was provided by the IUPUI PANAMELP Office with its coordinator Mary Carr and assistant coordinator Marta Cruz leading the translation team. Copies are free in the office of IUPUI Publications, Administration Building, Room 136. Please pick up your copies, as time and materials are limited.

Ticket to Travel--To meet the fast growing demand for travel agents, the Div. of Continuing Studies on campus, in cooperation with Travel Careers, Inc., is offering a Travel Careers Certificate Program. It includes 190 hours of instruction and 50 hands-on airline computer service. For fees and more, call 4-4785.

Fifth Block Series--The annual Edward A. Block Forum Series begins Oct. 18 with statesman/orator Abba Eban. It will also include Maya Angelou, Father Robert F. Drinan and Douglas Fraser. For tickets and info, call the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation, sponsor, 255-6647.

Southern Culture--Escape the pavement and heat of the big city and enjoy classical music, films, art, a piano recital, "The Foreigner" at the Brown County Playhouse, all at IU Bloomington and all this week. For details call 812-335-MUSE.

Thank You--To everyone who called, visited and remembered them with flowers at the death of their son Charles Lowell Cox Jr. on June 29, parents Charles (at IU Hospital) and Vera (biochemistry) Cox say "thank you." Charles Jr. worked on campus from the late '60s to 1980 and for the past four years worked in the VA outpatient pharmacy.

Northerners--Anyone from the Carmel area who wants to carpool to and from campus weekdays from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. is asked to call Erna, 4-9873.

Editor's Note--The Green Sheet remains on summer schedule. The next publication dates are Aug. 2 and Aug. 16. The first issue in August is a special tribute to the Pan Am Games. If you have campus-related information for that issue, please send it to AO 139 as soon as possible and before July 28.

SUMMER SENDS US WINNING YOUNGSTERS

Summer heat brings us waves of youngsters on campus for many things. The IUPUI Day Care Center continues its caring ways with small people throughout the summer. You will find young scholars in the pools and swimming around in labs as they test and stretch themselves in our Young Scholars Program. We had a lot of winners in the International Problem-Solving Bowl in Ann Arbor, Mich. last month. State competition for the group is sponsored annually here by the Honors Program and the Indiana Dept. of Education. Project SEED is sown on this campus every year and this year seven area high school students are hard at learn in laboratories on campus where they will find out if science really is their forte. Ed Harper, associate professor of biochemistry, is chairman of our SEED. And, putting their heads together in soccer, games, crafts and learning are the lucky kids in the day care camp at the natatorium.

FAMILIES OF POLITICIANS AND OTHERS WHO LIVE IN PUBLIC "FISH BOWLS" FACE PROBLEMS others seldom experience. To help them, a new national organization, Partners in Politics, is formed to provide education, information and support from "those who have been there." The group meets in Indianapolis July 26-31. Those from our campus who are actively involved in Partners are Stuart Hart, educational psychologist and associate professor of education; Nelson Goud, educational psychologist and associate professor of education, and Elizabeth Navarre, associate professor of social work.--S. Rogers

ONE MAN'S TREASURE: BRING SOME, BUY SOME, HELP BUILD NEW WING

Donate your "junk" and buy the treasures of others during the giant garage sale on the grounds of the Ronald McDonald House, on Michigan Street, near the west edge of campus. A special pre-sale is set for faculty, staff and students on July 30 from noon-5 p.m. The general sale is July 31, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Proceeds from the sale will help build the new wing called McDonald's Family Place. As you probably know, the house is a haven for parents, grandparents and siblings who are staying near hospital patients. Your clean, usable donations will be welcomed the last week of July at the west entrance of the House on Limestone Street. Just ring the bell. Diana Haugh, associate director of surgical nursing, is running the garage sale. For more, call 632-5470.

MORE NEWS 'N' NOTES

Successful Disaster--In the category of "just in case," or "be prepared," or "you never know," or "better safe than sorry," University and Wishard Hospitals recently proved they can handle disaster. Personnel from both hospitals effectively handled 15 victims of a pretend bus/truck accident who were brought to emergency rooms by ambulance. Mock or not, any disaster requires the skills of everyone, including police, nurses, physicians, technicians, etc. All did well, all went well and the "patients" are fully recovered.

Normal and Not--People more than 18 years old with either normal or "high" blood pressure are invited to join a hypertension research study. Must be willing to complete a three-day in-hospital study twice, three months apart, between now and December. Study includes multiple blood samples, one four-hour intravenous infusion of normal saline and three doses of an oral water pill (Lasix). Payment for completion is $200, and there is no cost to volunteers. Call research nurses, 4-0796, weekdays from 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

Effective Now--Irving J. (Irv) Levy is moving to the Adult Education Coordinating Center as a counselor. Filling his place as an assistant director of admissions will be Holly Hamilton, former director of admissions at IU-Kokomo.

Needs Sante Fe Opera Companion--Larry Wickett, Riley Memorial Association, has first-rate (orchestra front) tickets to the celebrated Sante Fe Opera festival Aug. 18-25 and needs someone to share expenses of a car rental, lodging and food. Will fly to Albuquerque. Among the five operas to be presented are Madame Butterfly and Marriage of Figaro. It is also Indian Market Week there. Call 632-1299, and leave message.

Fete for Corki--Medical Education Resources Program invites you to a retirement reception for Corki Wilson on July 30, 3-5 p.m., in the lobby of Ball Residence. Currently assistant director for special projects, Corki is retiring to write and travel after serving 17 years as manager of publication and information services for MERP.

Fiesta '87 Special--The annual Hispanic community's Fiesta Indianapolis has special meaning and special plans this year in conjunction with the Pan Am Games. It kicks off July 24 with a gala dance at the Indiana Roof Ballroom, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Then on Aug. 1 from noon-midnight in Veterans Memorial Plaza, Fiesta features dance, music, arts, crafts and cultural exhibits from more than 20 Pan American countries. The dance is $17.50, admission on Aug. 1 is free.

Students Find Mixed Spanish Awareness Downtown

Students from all parts of Indiana participated in a week-long intensive language session at IUPUI from July 6-10. Organized by the Pan American Events and Language Programs Office, the session sought to "fine tune" the 165 participants' skills in speaking and understanding Spanish. During the Pan American Games, the students from this program will work at the Pan American Village.

An emphasis during the week was on giving and taking messages in Spanish and English, converting messages from one language to the other, being able to provide information, and giving and following directions in Spanish.

A highlight of the week was a trip to downtown Indianapolis. Students were divided into 16 groups and given sets of instructions to follow. When each group arrived at each one of the five sites on their routes, two students from each group role-played a situation in which one was a Spanish speaker and the other was an interpreter. They were looking for someone at each location who spoke Spanish. If they found someone, they were to get that person's name. Students found that at about half of the sites visited, there was someone who spoke some Spanish.

Twelve local high school Spanish teachers served as instructors at the Intensive Language Session. They were: Tom Alsop, Ben Davis High School; Millard Arnold, George Washington High School (IPS); Karen Beck, Tech High School (IPS); Nancy Doedens, Pike High School; Carsey Gentry, Arlington High School (IPS); Jo Jones, Center Grove High School; Carla Larsh, Brownsburg High School; Barbara Pierce, Edinburgh High School; Edra Staffieri, North Central High School; Peggy Stroud-Allueva, Greenfield High School; and Jill Weaver, Beech Grove High School.

Sports Oral Trauma A Pre-Games Symposium

The Indiana School of Dentistry and the Pan American Health Organization will sponsor a symposium on Oral Facial Trauma in Relation to Sports on August 8. The symposium is for dentists, physicians, trainers, and athletes. There is no charge for the symposium. For further information, contact Dean H. William Gilmore at the IU School of Dentistry, 274-7461.

How to Host and Understand Our Latin American Guests

There are many stereotyping ideas about Latin American people. It is important that these are clarified or that at least more information on these is known. A list of some of these follow:

1. The concept of "America".—America is the name for the western hemisphere. In the U.S., the term is used to describe the country. The term in Latin America refers to all of the continent and consequently everyone from this continent is an American.
2. The concept of time.—In many countries of the world, time is not as pressing as in the U.S. Tardiness many times is a result of poor transportation services, limited resources to get places (money, personal cars, etc.) or conveniences that help in being ready promptly and easily. Because of these realities, people normally allow more time for travel.
3. "Piropos" (sweet sayings to a woman).—This is a cultural practice to exalt a woman's good looks or qualities, very respectful at times and by no means vicious. Athletes, trainers, coaches, delegates and visitors will by no means try to offend nor hurt a person. It might be "machista", but Latin American men are protective and sometimes even patronizing of women.
4. Machismo.—Not a unique feature to Latin American men. Not necessarily negative always, even encouraged by women in certain cultural practices. Courtesy is an important aspect of "macho" man, (i.e.: opening a door, paying for a meal, pulling a chair, offering a handkerchief, etc. . . .)
5. Space and touching.—Distance while speaking to another person is not a concern for many cultures. In Latin America, people stand rather close to one another even if they are not "good old friends". It is not meant to be offensive or distracting, it is not a "come-on". Touching another person on the shoulder, arm or back is normal among Latin Americans. Even a little push or pat is accepted.
6. Loud versus quiet.—Often people will whistle or mimic another, or just loudly call another. This is nothing to be alarmed about. Joking and kidding is part of the Latin American spirit, but once again it depends on the individual. If you find a group of Latin American people that are happy, this feeling will be displayed. Please don't be surprised if you see couples of men or women embraced and happily sharing anecdotes or events. Expressing one's feelings is a normal human reaction. Some cultures are more reserved than others and the degree of expression varies.

Being a good host is important. By being informed and recognizing the fact that we all live under one sun portrays a positive image of the host. It is essential to have a good disposition to understand others' cultural practices.

Health for the Americas

An international, multidisciplinary conference in conjunction with the activities surrounding the Pan American Games held in Indianapolis. The conference, Health For All By The Year 2000: Progress in the Americas, is a report from Canada, the United States, Cuba, Brazil, Costa Rica and the Pan American Health Organization.

The conference will be held August 31 to September 1, 1987, in the new Lincoln Hotel and University Conference Center at IUPUI.

Speakers from the Pan American Health Organization will describe the progress of the primary health care approach in their respective countries. Opportunities for comparisons of development will be stimulated through this conference of professionals throughout the hemisphere. Interaction between speakers and participants will be facilitated.

There is a fee reduction for those who register prior to August 24. Enrollment is limited. Registrants for both days will be given preference over one day registrations. For further information, call the School of Nursing Continuing Education Programs at 274-7779 or 274-5063.

Contemporary Artists Look At Sports

The current exhibition at the Herron Gallery is entitled Contemporary Artists Look At Sports: A National Survey. The exhibit opened June 12 and will run until Aug. 29. The show uses paintings, sculpture, and photography to explore how Americans as both players and fans identify with our major sports.

The show features works by Claus Oldenburg, Otto Décker, Rix Artim and other important artists.

Gallery hours are Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tours are available upon request. For further information, call 923-3651 extension 34.
