

VIOLIN MEDALIST TO RETURN

Mihaela Martin, the gold medal winner of the 1982 International Violin Competition of Indianapolis, will return to present a recital at Clowes Hall at 3 p.m. April 24, one week before her Carnegie Hall debut. The 24-year-old Romanian violinist outshone the 45 other "stars" of the violin world last September during the two-week competition that was sponsored by Cathedral Arts. As the first laureate, Miss Martin won a gold medal, a Vox Cum Laude record release, $10,000 in prize money and a Carnegie Hall debut along with numerous other recitals and performances with orchestras in North America and Europe. During her recent concert appearances Miss Martin has amassed critical acclaim.

Miss Martin's Vox Cum Laude recording is expected to be released at the time of her Indianapolis recital which previews her Carnegie Hall debut. The Indianapolis audience will have the opportunity to hear her perform two of the works that she recorded for Vox, Schubert's Sonata for Violin and Piano in A Major, D.574, and Stravinsky's Divertimento for Violin and Piano (1932). She also will play Leclair's Sonata for Violin and Piano, Op. 9, No. 3 in D Major and Beethoven's Sonata for Violin and Piano, Op. 30, No. 7 in C minor. She will be accompanied by the distinguished pianist Paul Ostrovsky.

Miss Martin will be playing one of the world's rarest violins, a Joseph Guarneri del Gesu, until recently the concert violin of Isaac Stern. Tickets now are on sale at Clowes Hall. For information call 926-5551.

SOCIAL AWARENESS WEEK PLANNED

Talks by two national public interest lawyers, Ramsey Clark and Mark Green, will highlight a week-long focus on social issues that include nuclear war, rape, El Salvador and U.S. foreign policy during the third annual Social Awareness Week, April 4-9, being organized by the IUPUI Progressive Student Union. Student groups, faculty and more than 20 nationally affiliated activist groups with chapters in Indianapolis also will participate.

Clark, the controversial former U.S. attorney general under President Lyndon Johnson, will speak April 6 at 8 p.m. on "A Critical Look at U.S. Foreign Policy." Green, who heads the Democracy Project and who has co-written many articles with Ralph Nader, will speak at 8 p.m. April 7 on "Winning Back America." They will speak in the Lecture Hall.

Social Awareness Week begins April 4 with participation in a caravan to Anderson in support of the Rev. Jesse Jackson's movement for solidarity action for the unemployed. At 8 p.m. representatives from the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths will give positions on nuclear disarmament in "Judeo-Christian Perspectives on Peace" in Room 100 of the Lecture Hall. The rest of the week will be filled with films, events and speakers. Schedules of events and their locations will be posted, or for information call ext. 4531.

CULTURAL EVOLUTION EXPLORED

What is our future as civilized beings? Are we on a path to destruction or will the human race develop wisdom enough to know what actions will lead to survival?

That is the subject of a newly published book (Pergamon Press of Oxford, England) written by IUPUI Professor of Speech-Theatre-Communications Richard Curtis. The book is entitled "Evolution or Extinction--The Choice Before Us," and it is a deep look at the problem from a "systems theory" perspective.

Curtis believes the survival of mankind depends on society's ability to agree on a universal value system and to guide wisely its increasing ability to use energy. He developed the book over an eight-year period and uses it as a text for two classes on the future that he teaches for Weekend College. The text and classes, he says, try to merge the sciences and humanities into an interdisciplinary study of the future.

MINI-CALENDAR

Pharmaceutical--Pharmacy displays at University Hospital this week are Janssen Pharmaceutica, Monday; Briston Laboratories, Tuesday; Knoll Pharmaceutical, Wednesday; Miles Laboratories, Thursday. Displays at Riley Hospital are Saunders Book Publishers, Wednesday, and Merck, Sharp & Dohme, Thursday.

IMA--American artist Leon Golub discusses his monumental paintings in a special slide lecture at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday in DeBoest Lecture Hall at the Indianapolis Museum of Art, part of the monthly program of the Museum's Contemporary Art Society. The lecture is open to the public with an admission charge of $4 per person.

Anthropological--"Symbolic Play in Chimpanzees," by Richard Satnick, Research Associate in Anthropology, I.U.-Bloomington; 5 p.m. Wednesday in Room 507, Cavanaugh Hall (Faculty Lounge). Part of the Biological and Medical Anthropology Seminar Series, the talk is open to all interested persons. For information call Dr. John Meaney, 633-0805.

Dyngus Day--A festival stemming from prehistoric Central European rites celebrating the arrival of spring. In Poland people indulged themselves after adhering to strict lenten traditions. The Polish Cultural Society presents Dyngus on April 4 at the K of C Hall at the corner of North Delaware and 13th Street. Happy time cashbar 5 to 10 p.m., dinner 6 to 8 p.m. Tickets $6.50 per person in advance. Call Ed Zebrowski at 241-9356 or Chuck Kurasz at 253-3826.

IMA Museum Shop Show--Becky Brown's animal and bird sculptures in clay will be shown April 5-April 30. The Bloomington artist offers new work in this show.

State of IUPUI--Vice President Glenn W. Irwin Jr. will give his annual address for all faculty and staff members at 4:15 p.m. April 7 in Room 116 of the Law School. He will be followed by Martha Winans, director and curator, Herron Gallery, who will give a slide presentation of the Gallery entitled "Past, Present and Future." Refreshments will be served following the program in the lobby where contemporary art by Herron faculty members will be displayed. Preceding this meeting, the Faculty Council will convene at 3 p.m. in Room 116 and the Staff Council will meet in Room 109 of the Law School. They will come together with the rest of the faculty and staff to hear Dr. Irwin and Ms. Winans.

Job Share Workshop--A workshop focusing on the concept of job-sharing will be given by Continuing Studies from 1 to 4:30 p.m. April 7 in the Lilly Room on the mezzanine floor of the Union Building. There is no charge for IUPUI employees but advance registration is required by Monday, April 4. To register or for information call ext. 4784. Betty LeClare, Job Share Director, will conduct the workshop.

Flash--"Guns or Butter: The Budget Crunch of the 80's," will be the subject of a talk by Congressman Andrew Jacobs at the noon luncheon of the IUPUI Faculty Club Monday (March 28) in the Porter-Harrison Room of the Union Building.

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Found!--Texas Instruments electronic calculator (TI-30-2) found on Barnhill Drive near Michigan; still works; must identify. Call Linda Bailey at ext. 8577.

Vehicle Protection--Means of reducing a vehicle's vulnerability to theft and vandalism will be presented by the University Police Department with discussion of various vehicle protection devices, insurance coverages and up-to-date protection ideas. Specific dates for the one-hour presentation will be announced later. Meanwhile, interested persons should contact either Doug Cox or Mary Gerard at ext. 2059.

Child Development Programs--Each Thursday for six weeks, beginning this Thursday (March 31), a videotape program dealing with "Moral, Ethical and Legal Issues in Developmental Disabilities" will be presented simultaneously at each of 15 participating agencies, of which the Riley Child Development Program is one. A telephone hookup allows discussion and questions between the agencies. Interested faculty and staff members are invited to participate in this Media Exchange Series from 3 to 5 p.m. Thursdays in the Meiks Conference Room on the 5th Floor of Riley Hospital (Room A579). The first one, "The Decision," was developed by the University of Kentucky. Mary Ockerman Elder, M.S.W., will be the local moderator. The April 7 program, "How to Decide," was taped by the Riley program and will have Lann E. Thompson, A.C.S.W., as moderator.

"Symphony in Color"--With inspiration from symphonic music, artwork created by 100 Hoosier grade school students in the statewide "Young Peoples' Art Contest" will be on display in the second floor Beesley Gallery at the Indianapolis Museum of Art through April 17.

Holiday--April 1, Good Friday this year, is a holiday. Classes are scheduled for that day, so academic area personnel and employees in other areas where it is not possible to observe the holiday will be given equivalent time off at a later date.

Position Available--Research Associate to collaborate in research on the control of vascular capacitance (the veins). The applicant should have a doctorate, experience in cardiovascular or similar research, skills in small animal surgery, ability to use biomedical instrumentation, and facility with data manipulation, literature review and final report writing. Salary: $16,00 to $18,500. Starting date: Sept. 15, 1983. Send C.V. to Dr. Carl Rothe, Department of Psysiology, Medical Science Building, 329-30.

Hike, Bike & Bus Week-- The Sixth Annual H,B,& B W is planned for April 24-30 to encourage Indianapolis citizens to make a special effort to walk, ride a bus or bike, or share a ride in their daily routines. A number of special events are planned. Listen to the radio, read the newspaper, or call 636-7851 (daytime) or 547-3609 (evenings) for more details.

Baby Animals Highlighted--A trio of lion cubs, twin lemurs, a baby llama, a kangaroo, and wallaby are among the new animals that will be highlighted along with the Easter bunny, pony rides, and trained monkey acts at the Indianapolis Zoo's "Spring Holiday with the Animals" Saturday and Sunday (April 2 and 3). Hours: 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Located at 3120 East 30th Street, admission to the zoo is $1.25 for children (2-11) and senior citizens; $2.25 for those 12 and older.

HONORS & ACCOLADES

Dr. Edward R. Pierce, associate dean of the I.U. School of Medicine and director of the Division of Allied Health Sciences, has been elected to the board of directors of the American Society of Allied Health Professions. The division at I.U. is one of the oldest in the country and the first to use the term "Allied Health" to identify its health care specialties. The I.U. division was a founding member of the Society 16 years ago.

Louis Lemberger, Ph.D., M.D., professor of pharmacology, medicine, and psychiatry at the I.U. School of Medicine, clinical research consultant and director of clinical pharmacology for the Lilly Laboratories for Clinical Research, was installed recently as president of the American Society for Clinical Pharmacology and Therapeutics during the Society's annual meeting in San Diego, Calif.

Dr. James C. Shanks, professor of speech pathology at the I.U. Schools of Medicine and Dentistry, has been awarded the Service to Mankind Award by the Sertoma Club of Downtown Indianapolis for his work in the area of speech pathology.

Dr. Homayoon Shidnia, Department of Radiation Oncology, will present a paper entitled "Extra-Nodal Lymphoma of the Head and Neck Area" at the American Radium Society Annual Meeting in Savannah, Ga., April 5-9. Carol Marshall, R.N., Department of Radiation Oncology, will deliver the keynote address at the Tennessee American Cancer Society Conference in Knoxville, Tenn. on April 5.

(ARCH-800321)

ARCHIVES
UNIVERSITY LIBRARY
420 ELAKE ST

green sheet

*News Bureau
Indiana University-Purdue University at Indianapolis
355 Lansing Street
Indianapolis, Indiana 46202