"SUPERSTAR" SPECIAL

For those who want to see "Jesus Christ, Superstar" at the Bloomington Assembly Hall Wednesday, the Student Activity Board is sponsoring a free bus. The first 40 who sign up will get the free transportation.

The bus will leave the Union Building at 7:30 p.m. and will arrive in Bloomington in time for the 9:30 performance. Those who already have tickets for this performance merely sign up for the bus with Mrs. Helen Zapp at the Union Building. Those who wish to buy tickets may get them from Mrs. Zapp and sign up for the bus at the same time. Tickets are $5, $4 and $2.

FELLOWSHIPS AVAILABLE

The National Science Foundation has Graduate Fellowships available for students who are citizens of the United States and have been admitted to graduate status by the institution they select for study and, too, as of Fall 1972 will not have completed more than one year of full or part time graduate study. The stipends are $3,600 for a 12-month tenure or $300 per month and without dependency allowances.

These fellowships are available for study or work leading to masters or doctoral degrees in the mathematical, physical, medical, biological, engineering, social sciences, and in the history and philosophy of science. Awards are not made in clinical, education, or business fields or history or social work or work leading to the M.D. or D.D.S.

BLOOMINGTON NEWS

Dr. Charles F. Bonser, associate dean of the I.U. School of Business, has been given the assignment of special assistant to the president for public and environmental affairs.

He will co-ordinate planning for a proposed I.U. School of Public and Environmental Affairs for which approval is now pending before the State Commission on Higher Education.

The proposed school would operate on all I.U. campuses and is expected to have the flexibility and resources to meet regional as well as state-wide and national public needs.
