Q's and A's

Our roving reporter has been questioning some of the people competing in the various contests. Here are some questions and answers:

- Q How long have you been preparing for the contest and how do you feel about the competition?
- A Ever since I knew I was coming to the Conference, which was about four months ago. I am one of about ten girls in the V.P. of Production contest which has eighty contestants. I have a feeling of being overpowered, but it's a lot of fun.
- Q What do you feel is the most important phase of your testing?
- A It is extremely difficult to ascertain one facet of testing as the most important.
- Q Do you feel all delegates should have the experience of contest competition?
- A No, not necessarily. The contests are an enjoyable experience if the contestant is allowed to get a fair view of the competition, without being under the pressure to "bring back the bacon."
- Q What unexpected problems did you encounter?
- A My entire sales pitch was addressed toward a man in a man's point of view, and when I discovered that I was to be selling to a woman, I had to change my entire view point just minutes before I was to be judged.

GEOGRAPHY

If a delegate wants to know the facts and figures of any area in the United States or Canada, he can probably find them here.

It is fairly certain that there are more experts on local geography assembled here at this J.A. conference than anywhere else in the entire world.

So if you know a place that intrigues you, find a delegate from that area and obtain your peace of mind.

As we consider the candidates for President, Vice President, Association Secretary, and Conference Secretary, we should look critically at the qualifications of each of the candidates. We should make our decision on more than whether or not he or she is good-looking and from our delegation. By the time our ballot is cast, we should have attempted to talk to the candidates and to see if the one we prefer has the highest qualifications. We must also consider his leadership ability, understanding of and attitude toward our business system and his office, so that NAJAC '69 may be even better than our present Conference.

SPORTS

The Sports committee, located in room 81 of Mc Nutt, has announced that any delegate wishing to participate in bowling or billiard can do so at the Student union. Chess, dominos, checkers shuffleboard, cards, and table tennis are also available at the Coffee House.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Congratulations on your sixteenth birthday, Cathy Goggons of Atlanta, Georgia.

NAA JUDGES on the house TRESURERS

The National Association of Accountants is sponsoring the Treasurer of the Year Scholarship awards again this year. The awards are 1st place - $500; 2nd place - $150; 3rd place - $50; and 4th and 5th place winners receive $25 each.

Last years finalists were Douglas Moore from Rockford, Illinois; Patricia Wiley, Dayton, Ohio; Wayne Kaniewski, Southeast, Michigan (Detroit area); Steve Ivouk, Cleveland, Ohio; and Diane Brandenburg, Chicago, Illinois.

Youth was made for high and noble service. Every youth should be taught to serve with a purpose which is unselfish. To succeed in life there must be a well-grounded purpose. Purpose underlies character, culture, position, alignment of whatever sort. For youth to be happy he must be able to say:

"I live for those who love me,
For those who know me true;
For the heaven that smiles above me,
And awaits my coming, too;
For the cause that needs assistance,
For the wrongs that lack resistance,
For the future in the distance,
For the good that I can do."

One is never too old to serve his fellow man. A man is a youth who was equal to the challenges he was given during his life time. Experience teaches us that we are usually paid back in our own coin. May we always deal in genuine currency.

Anyone wishing to contact the daily paper can do so in room 69 of McHutt during any free time.

Once again the house committee is in the middle of a great job-- the job of taking care of the auditorium before and during the conference meetings. MAJACers can easily spot the house members by their bright orange armbands.

As you may well be aware, it is a pretty busy job of seating over 2,000 people, not to mention keeping the noise down.

The members are working under their great counselor, Rick Scott, who is doing a tremendous job.

The house committee is responsible not only for the behavior of the delegates but also for making sure the auditorium is kept clean during the meetings and the recess periods.

So remember - when you are asked to be seated or to be quiet, kindly do so. This will save much time and trouble.

The behavior of the MAJACers has been excellent except for a few over-excited moments. Let's really make this the best year for the Conference and have a great time.

AN INTERVIEW

Clay Evans, Conference Vice-President, has been very busy during his year in office. He initiated a national news letter which was sent out on August 1st to all the MAJACers from the '67 conference. During the year, he attended three JAMCO's, where he spoke to company officers about MAJAC. He met four times with the other MAJAC officers during the year. He corresponded with 173 delegates during the year.

Clay stated that he would tell the incoming V.P. to get to know as many delegates as possible and to continue correspondence throughout the year. He would also tell the new V.P. to attend as many official J.A. activities as possible.

Clay will be a freshman at Occidental College.
