NATIONAL FFA CONVENTION

REQUEST

The FFA is requesting an investment by the city of Kansas City of $365,000 to annually support the National FFA Convention.

BACKGROUND

The National FFA Convention is a major event for both FFA and Kansas City. For FFA the convention means leadership, recognition and motivation as well as a celebration of much that is good about our Country. For Kansas City the convention means the same thing.. plus more. The National FFA Convention (over 27,000 attendance in 1991) means $21,000,000 to Kansas City. Each attendee produces about $700 of revenue to Kansas City business and the city itself. Based on the listing of the top 25 conventions for 1992, as printed in the December 20-26 issue of the Kansas City Business Journal, the National FFA Convention represents 32% of the expected dollars generated by these top 25 conventions.

Unfortunately, to FFA, Kansas City also means space shortages and some disgruntled attendees unable to get into the events. This means to FFA reduced revenue; 1) due to the pressures of keeping the convention fee low because of space limitations, and 2) from past Board policy of trying to limit attendance.

Thirty-nine percent (39%) of state/national agricultural education/FFA leaders are "in favor of aggressively pursuing a different convention location." This was in response to a survey of this group conducted by FFA after the November 1991 Convention. The major reasons for wanting to move are: meeting space, housing costs, convention housing and hotel rates in that order.

A Spring 1992 study showed that FFA rates are 9.8% higher for the 1992 Convention than the week earlier or later. This results in an over charge by Kansas City in excess of $125,000 to its biggest convention customer.

NEED

FFA is requesting your investment in the National FFA Convention events/ activities that address:

- 1) dealing with the space shortage and overflow crowds, thus, alleviating some of the negativism associated with this location;

An investment that increases convention attendance by 1000 increases Kansas City revenue by $700,000.

2) "improving the show" to increase attendance and/or to allow an increase in registration fee. A perception of value, enhanced by hearing more "big name" speakers, will allow for an increased fee. Quality events that might be offered concurrent with convention sessions allow FFA to handle bigger total crowds with less attendees being "shut out" of the activity of their choice;

3) building support among "FFA influencers."

WHY MIGHT THE CITY OF KANSAS CITY AND KANSAS CITY BASED GROUPS SUPPORT THIS EFFORT?

1. The City and the businesses of Kansas City appreciate the important leadership and citizenship development that occurs at the FFA Convention.
2. The City and Kansas City businesses benefit economically from having the Convention remain in Kansas City. The bigger the convention, the greater the economic benefit.
3. The City would benefit from the national media exposure a "name" speaker and huge convention would attract.
4. The City and Kansas City businesses benefit from a financially healthy FFA that can keep registration fees low or enhancing attendees perception of value, thus, mitigating some of the criticism of a lack of seating capacity.

SPECIFIC REQUEST AND BUDGET

FFA is requesting funding to support the National FFA Convention. These items listed below may be included in the funded activities, however, additional items may be added as the need arises at FFA officials discretion.

FINAL REPORT TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

1991-92 NATIONAL FFA OFFICERS

Wow! After a whirlwind year of service, it's amazing how quickly the time has gone. We are all thankful for the opportunity to serve this organization.

As our term comes to an end, we have several recommendations that we submit to you, the National FFA Board of Directors, in our final report. They include:

1) Focus of National Officers

We consider national officers to be valuable representatives for FFA. We also feel that officers should be used in the most effective manner. FFA needs to be cautious so that we don't find ourselves continually "preaching to the choir." For future teams, we recommend that FFA seriously consider involving national officers in activities that are not directly tied to FFA.

Our vision is one which includes national officers reaching out and sending our message to all youth groups--not just other vocational student organizations. For example, it would be to FFA's benefit to have officers at student council conventions, Hugh O'Brien seminars, Boys/Girls State, drug prevention retreats, National Honor Society gatherings, etc. We STRONGLY encourage FFA to develop partnerships with these groups to make this suggestion a reality. We also recommend that FFA continue interaction with adult groups not directly involved with FFA. Several of the places we feel we've had the most impact during our term have been at activities not directly related to FFA.

We realize there is currently some involvement in this area, but also recognize there is much opportunity for growth and improvement. Not only would this send our message to other groups, but it would also aid in recruitment.

2) Scheduling

We appreciate the prioritized system used for scheduling national officer activities. We recommend that more details be provided by a state, district, or chapter before an officer attends an event to avoid any "surprise appearances" for which the officer is not prepared. Officers need to know specifically what is expected of them before they arrive.

We also recommend that the value of chapter level activities be re-evaluated before an officer is scheduled to attend.

During the month of October, much time is needed for officers to prepare for the upcoming national convention. The duties, the responsibilities, the tension--all of these increase as the convention nears. As a result, we recommend that officers have two weeks at home during the month of October for personal convention preparation.

3) Role of National FFA Officers on the Board of Directors

Our constitution states, "The National FFA Organization is the organization of, by, and for students enrolled in agricultural education programs." It is no secret that the final authority in FFA rests in the hands of the adult board of directors.

Therefore, we recommend that FFA seriously investigate the possibility of restructuring the national board of directors so that students truly have a voice by giving them a vote.

Public Law 740 states, ". . . a board of student officers. It shall be the duty of such board to advise and make recommendations to the board of directors with respect to the conduct of the activities and business of the corporation." However, we feel this document is out-of-date and not reflective of an organization of, by, and for the students. It seems that Public Law 740 often hinders our progress as an organization and is simply used as an excuse to avoid change. We recommend that FFA make the proper inquiries and determine the feasibility of altering this document.

An ideal situation would be one board of directors, consisting of six students and eight adults, with each board member having one vote.

4) National Officer Scholarships

We are very appreciative and honored to receive a scholarship at the end of our terms. College is very expensive, and costs continue to rise. Due to these rising costs, and in the interest of future national officer teams, we recommend that FFA seek additional funding to increase the value of these college scholarships. The first question asked is, "How much?" We believe an additional $2000, or whatever is necessary to cover a year's education, would be very appreciated and appropriate.

5) Multi-Culturalism & Diversity

This has certainly been a frequently debated topic during our officer year. Our team simply acknowledges that we stand in full support for providing opportunities for ALL students. Diversity is a strength, and we recommend that FFA continue to become more aware of multi-cultural concerns and continue to strengthen our diversity.

After the review committee closely examined the multi-cultural report, we are in support of the new plan in its revised form. If implemented properly, it will strengthen our diversity and will allow FFA to make a positive difference in the lives of more young people. We feel that we have learned a great deal during the past year about multi-cultural concerns, and we are very appreciative of the training and education we have received.

As we close, we offer our sincere thanks to the following for their support and assistance during our year:

*The National FFA Center staff for their help and assistance.

*The Board of Directors for a willingness to listen and provide support during our term.

*The National FFA Foundation for their efforts in business and industry visits.

*Mr. Bill Stagg and the Communications Resource Team for valuable training, patience, and being open to feedback during this transition year to a new officer system.

This has been an experience that has allowed us to learn, grow, and serve the National FFA Organization. All of us will have life-long memories that we will always treasure. Thanks for an excellent year of service.
