IUPUI'S FOURTH COMMENCEMENT

An honorary doctor of laws degree will be presented by Purdue University to Richard D. Wood, chairman of the board of Eli Lilly & Co. Inc., at the fourth commencement ceremonies of IUPUI at 3 p.m. today (May 20) at the Indianapolis Convention-Exposition Center.

The citation with the degree honors Wood "for his distinguished services to the state, nation, and the world in pharmaceutical management and administration and in recognition of his deep commitment to the cause of higher education."

Wood, an Indianapolis native who was graduated from Shortridge High School, has a bachelor's degree in science from Purdue and a master's degree from the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at the University of Pennsylvania. He also holds an honorary doctor of laws degree from DePauw University.

Wood is a member of the boards of DePauw, Lilly Endowment Inc., Standard Oil Company (Indiana), Park-Tudor School and the American Foundation for Pharmaceutical Education.

The ceremonies, which traditionally draw the largest commencement crowd in the state (about 16,000), also represent the widest range of degrees offered in Indiana. More than 2,600 degrees will be awarded by 17 schools and divisions, including the largest single graduating class of physicians in the country (240) and the largest number of new lawyers (243). Also, more students will be graduated from the Public and Environmental Affairs program (45) than at any other Indiana campus.

The commencement will be the last one that Dr. Maynard K. Hine will preside over as chancellor of IUPUI. Retiring from that post on June 30, Chancellor Hine has guided IUPUI through its first four formative years.

OF FEES AND TRUSTEES AND SUCH

President John W. Ryan has asked the Indiana University board of trustees to authorize his requesting the Indiana Higher Education Commission for permission to increase student fees on the Bloomington campus next fall and throughout the I.U. system in the fall of 1974.

He recommended an increase of $40 per year for each of the next two years for resident students on the Bloomington campus and an $80 increase for non-resident students. He recommended a 5 per cent increase in fees for regional campuses and IUPUI beginning the fall of 1974.

"We have exercised every economy possible without compromising our programs and we have absolutely no recourse but to seek a fee increase," Ryan told the trustees.

Action on President Ryan's request was delayed for one week.

The president of the board of trustees, Donald C. Danielson, expressed the trustees' concern over the financial problems of the university, but suggested that further deliberations "might produce an alternate method of solving our problems." Danielson asked the finance subcommittee of the board to meet with University fiscal officers and review in depth the budget problems. . "We are asking chancellors to make every possible reduction in their budgets, and we will use every administrative recourse to alleviate the unequal funding among the regional campuses and, thus, avoid an increase in tuition for the 1973-74 year. It is clear, however, that we cannot avoid an increase of 5 per cent in the regional campus system for the 1974-75 year.

"The situation at IUPUI is made even more difficult by the unequal distribution of funds between the health and non-health programs. We again plan to use every administrative recourse to avoid critical financial problems in the health programs. Nevertheless, we must request a 5 per cent increase in student fees for the second year of the biennium."

Frank E. McKinney Jr., president of the American Fletcher National Bank in Indianapolis and a director of Blue Shield of Indiana and of Southwest Savings and Loan Association in Phoenix, Arizona, has been named by alumni of Indiana University to a three-year term on the board of trustees.

His election was announced at the annual Commencement Barbecue, a traditional part of the Bloomington campus graduation weekend. McKinney received 6,771 of the total 22,477 alumni votes cast. He will succeed Donald Lash of Marshall, who resigned as trustee in January to begin a term as representative in the state legislature.

McKinney holds the B.S. (1961) and MBA (1962) degrees from I.U. As a student he was president of the I.U. Student Foundation Committee and captain of the swimming team. He is now on the executive council of the School of Business Alumni Association.

President John W. Ryan warned I.U.'s 144th graduating class last Sunday that because of financial straits their alma mater "is in danger of becoming the victim of its success."

He charged them as new alumni with the responsibility of helping maintain the quality of the education they received.

"Our university is fragile, vulnerable, and possibly a victim of its success," he said.
"It is fragile because its excellence requires sustenance to be maintained. Steady sustenance has helped enable its administrators, and notably Chancellor (Herman B) Wells, to vault it into the high stature it enjoys among higher educational institutions of the nation.

"It is vulnerable," he said, "because, as only one of the agencies with claims upon state income, it must forever pose the intangibles of educational benefit to the state as its principal argument for support.

"And, perversely, the university is in danger of becoming the victim of its success. There is a tendency to take for granted that what the University now offers can continue to be offered, regardless of changing circumstances."

This, he said, is simply false.

"Of the four state universities in Indiana, Indiana University is fourth in the level of appropriations per student. Of the four state universities, Indiana University receives the smallest proportion of state funds relative to its total general fund income.

"These are your concerns as well as mine. Not I, not my colleagues in administration can keep the University moving toward academic superiority in serving the State without help. I need all the help I can get from every corner in order to maintain the momentum that has brought us thus far."

GREAT MOMENTS IN FACULTY CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY (PART II)

. . . Professor Downs said that the idea is to get administrators and faculty to assume a kind of partnership here, not strip for combat the way Chancellor Bogle seemed to put it. . .He hoped that we never get to the point where we are talking about naked power because as soon as we get to that point someone else is going to tell us that neither the administration nor the faculty has any power, and they will put our house in order for us. . .Chancellor Wolfson said that the phrase "duties and responsibilities" implies a kind of authority, but not the kind of authority the word "authority" standing there nakedly implies. President Ryan said that the talk about "stripping" and "nakedly" was making him a little nervous. . .From the minutes of the University Faculty Council, April 17 meeting at the Fort Wayne Campus.
