

MARTY, HUNTER FEATURED AT SECOND NATIONAL RELIGION CONFERENCE

Nationally known experts Martin Marty and James Davison Hunter are among the featured guest speakers at the second of four national conferences sponsored by the Center for the Study of Religion and American Culture. The conference is scheduled Oct. 2-3 at the University Place Conference Center. Participants will study the "Social Sources of the Public Expression of Religion" as part of the three-year "Public Expressions of Religion in America" project. The first conference, held in April, was a major success and early registration and off-campus inquiry indicates another strong turnout is likely. The conference sessions are free and open to the public. For more information, or to register for one or more of the various sessions, call Terry Grimm at 4-3759.

IUPUI, CITY SADDENED BY LOSS OF COMMUNITY LEADERS

Along with the entire Indianapolis community, all of us at IUPUI were shocked and saddened by the deaths of such good friends in a midair collision of two planes Sept. 11. Our departed friends are Michael Carroll, vice president for community development at the Lilly Endowment, Inc.; Frank McKinney Jr., Chairman of Banc One, Indiana Corp.; Robert V. Welch, owner of R.V. Welch Investments, Inc. and head of the White River Park Development Commission; and John Weliever, former director of the Hoosier Lottery. In addition, the two pilots, William Bennett Jr. and William Mullen, were taken in this tragedy.

The loss of these four close friends and civic leaders is one of the most profound tragedies in our city's history and in the history of IUPUI. They all served the city and state with great dedication and their efforts contributed in very important ways improve the quality of life for all of us. Each was blessed with vision and the capacity to serve in a variety of roles to contribute to the lives of those around them.

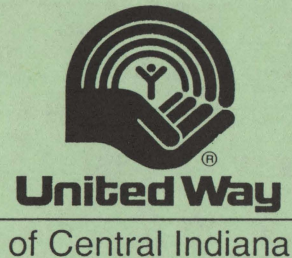

IUPUI will especially miss the leadership of Mike Carroll, who was one of IUPUI's greatest champions. Mike was not only a dear friend but one of our city's strongest leaders. He worked tirelessly for our urban community and for IUPUI. He played a key role in many significant developments, including the recent creation of our Center for Urban Policy and the Environment and the addition of excellent athletic and fitness facilities. Perhaps most of all we'll miss his dynamic leadership in our intercollegiate athletics programs, including his perennial presidency of the Metro Athletic Club.

Our city will never be the same, or as full of life and energy, without Mike Carroll. He was the personification of the Hoosier spirit of volunteerism, civic pride and love of family and community. No one who knew him could fail to respect him and cherish the way he raised the quality of life and spirit of this part of the world.

CAMPUS UNITED WAY GOAL INCREASED FOR 1992 CAMPAIGN

Campus United Way solicitors have set a goal of $300,000 for the 1992 campaign, a 9-percent increase over last year's goal. Last year's effort raised $285,000, $10,000 over the goal of $275,000. Organizers at IUPUI also hope to increase participation in the program from 35 to 45 percent before the campaign closes Oct. 31. United Way supports 76 local agencies throughout Marion County and surrounding counties.

BUSINESS SCHOOL ENROLLS FIRST MBA CLASS

The I.U. Graduate School of Business has its new MBA program up and running, with the first class of students enrolled and using a new system which integrates course work with team decision making. The MBA program will bring in 60 new students each semester and each group will remain together during the 32-month program. This year's class averages six years of work experience and will continue full-time work careers while pursuing graduate studies. The average age is 29, most live within a 60-mile radius of the campus, women make up 33 percent of the group and almost half come from a science or engineering academic background.

SYMPOSIUM ON SPANISH INFLUENCE IN AMERICAS ON CAMPUS

The symposium focusing on "Spain in the Americas: 1492-1992," mentioned in the last Green Sheet as taking place at Butler, will instead be held Oct. 9-10 on the IUPUI campus. The event is co-sponsored by the Spanish Department at IUPUI, the departments of modern foreign languages and political science at Butler and the Multi-Service Hispanoamerican Center of Indianapolis. An Oct. 9 reception will be held in Butler's Robertson Hall, but the official sessions Oct. 10 are in LE 102. The keynote address will be given by award-winning journalist Elena Poniatowska of Mexico during the Oct. 10 sessions. For more call 4-3380.

IUPUI THEATRE PLANNING FALL PRODUCTION TRYOUTS

Would-be Oliviers are being sought by IUPUI Theatre Production for the fall presentation of "The Trickeries of Scapin," a modern translation of the farcical comedy by Moliere. A cast of 10 males and females is needed and tryouts are planned for Sept. 24-25 from 7-10 p.m. each day. Auditioners must prepare a short monologue from a classic comedy. The production also needs jugglers, mimes, musicians and puppeteers; those auditions will be Friday (Sept. 25). For more call 4-2095.

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

CAREER FAIR—Graduating seniors, alumni and other students can meet area employers at the annual Career Focus Job Fair Sept. 30 at the Conference Center. Workshops begin at 9 a.m. and focus on job searching, interviews, resumes and more. The event runs until 4 p.m. and is free to IUPUI students and alumni. For more call 4-2554.

OVERSEAS GRANTS—Deadlines of Oct. 1, Feb. 1 and May 1 have been set for Overseas Conference Fund applications. Deadlines must be met because funds are limited. To request a form or for more call Beth Watt at 5-8669.

FACULTY WORKSHOP—Business and education consultant John E. Jones will stage a day long workshop for faculty members to help them sharpen their presentation skills Sept. 29 at the Conference Center. The event runs 9 a.m.-4 p.m. and is part of the Faculty Development Workshops series this fall. For more call 4-8880.

BOOKMARKS PROGRAM A SOLD-OUT HIT

BookMarks second season is off to a rousing start. The highly successful campus reading program has sold out its fall discussion series at the Indianapolis Central Library, so those who hoped to hit one of the five Sunday sessions are out of luck -- but perhaps just temporarily. BookMarks officials are planning extra sessions for books in this year's series, with the first at 4 p.m. Sept. 28 at University Place. Fran Rhome of Continuing Studies will lead a discussion of Sacred Cows...and Other Edibles by Nikki Giovanni. REGISTRATION IS REQUIRED to attend, so call the BookMarks office at 4-4371.

GREEN SHEET'S JOB OPENINGS POLICY CHANGED

Beginning with this issue, the Green Sheet will not run job positions for staff/faculty posts because we have too little space available and too many interesting stories to tell, plus the alternatives available to those with positions to fill. We hope everyone understands the reasons for the change.

STUDENT LITERACY CORPS PLANNING KICKOFF EVENT

Susan Bayh will help kick off the Student Literacy Corps' "Literacy Awareness" event Sept. 23 from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. in front of University Library. Contemporary musician Mike Rayburn will perform and Larry Gard, theater director for the Children's Museum, will render a dramatic reading of "The Soldier Who Couldn't Read" by 'new reader' Ed Castor. The Corps recruits students to tutor new readers and is holding a book drive through Sept. 23, with the books sold at "Literacy Awareness" to raise funds for the program. For more call 4-6845. — Alicia Dean Carlson

MORE NEWS 'N' NOTES

CORPORATE CHALLENGE COMPETITION RETURNS TO CAMPUS

Nearly 50 men and women wearing IUPUI colors took part in the 10th annual "Corporate Challenge '92" event earlier this month at the IUPUI Track and Field Stadium. They were part of nearly 4,000 runners and walkers who took part in the annual competition as part of over 100 teams. The Corporate Challenge was co-sponsored by St. Vincent Hospitals and Health Care Centers and the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce. Though final results won't be known for another two to three weeks, at least two medals were won by IUPUI athletes, both in the one-mile run.

EARLY-MORNING LAUGHERS NEEDED

Showing up for class at 5:30 a.m. may sound like a joke, but it is no laughing matter — well actually, it is a laughing matter — for members of the "Stand-Up Comedy" class offered by Continuing Studies. The class is hosting a special one-time-only event at that early hour Sept. 23 at the Crackers Comedy Club, Keystone at the Crossing. A crowd is needed for the class, taught by comedian Steve Feazel, since it will be featured that day Channel 8's early-morning show featuring Dick Wolfsie. To help fans ease into the day, free coffee and doughnuts will be provided. If you can attend and want to get your day started with a few chuckles, call Mary Jane Brown of Continuing Studies at 4-5038 to help her get a count for the doughnuts.

LAW SCHOOL GRADUATE NAMED TO COLORADO SUPREME COURT

The influence of the I.U. School of Law-Indianapolis spread to a higher level in Colorado earlier this month when Gregory K. Scott was named the newest member of that state's Supreme Court. Scott, a 1977 graduate of the law school, is the first African-American named to the court.

SCHOOL OF NURSING EARNS 1992 EXCELLENCE AWARD

Commitment to retaining minority students has earned the I.U. School of Nursing a 1992 Retention Excellence Award, sponsored by the Noel/Levitz National Center for Student Retention, Inc. The "Enhancing Minority Nursing Student Success through a Comprehensive Retention Program" began in 1984 and has more than doubled the minority student graduation rate, increased their state board passage rate and improved student morale and the school's image in the minority community.

FINALLY...International House is opening its free 1992-93 EDUCATE series Sept. 21 at 4 p.m. with "The Future of Maastricht: After the French Referendum" in IE 105. A panel including John McCormick and Amy Mazur of the political science department and Victor Childers from the business school. All are welcome. For more call 4-5024.

PROCLAMATION IN SUPPORT OF "BUCKLE UP, IUPUI" WEEK

September 20-26, 1992

In enthusiastic support of the IUPUI Safety Belt Campaign Committee, I hereby proclaim September 20-26, 1992, as "Buckle Up, IUPUI" week.

On a sprawling urban campus with heavy commuter traffic, the probability of being involved in an auto accident can be high. Since studies have shown that safety belts, airbags, and other occupant-protection devices can reduce serious crash-related injuries by 50 percent or more, promoting the use of safety restraints is one important way that we can protect the well-being of our students, faculty, and staff.

Currently, two out of five IUPUI students, faculty, and staff members do not regularly use safety restraints. The goal of the Safety Belt Committee's promotional campaign is to boost safety-belt use at IUPUI to 70 percent.

I urge all members of the IUPUI family to join in making "Buckle Up, IUPUI" week a success by using your safety belt and encouraging your colleagues and friends to do likewise.
