

Anthropology, Geology majors approved

New Majors of study in anthropology and geography have been approved for under-graduate students in the IU School of Liberal Arts at IUPUI.

Both present and incoming students may declare either area as a major, making it possible to fully concentrate in the fields now, though courses in geography and anthropology have been in the IUPUI curriculum for years.

Recent action by the IU Board of Trustees, following earlier approval of the degree programs by the Indiana Higher Education Commission, has created new departments in each field. At present, Dr. Frederick L. Bein is acting director of geography and Dr. Barbara D. Jackson is coordinator of anthropology

According to Bein, persons schooled in geography are prepared to work in a number of careers: urban planning, zoning, land use planning, the Central Intelligence Agency, the U.S. Geologic Survey, the U.S. Army Map Service and many other areas of government, education and industry. Bein says that much of the world, mapped following World War II, is being remapped, creating a demand for cartographers.

About anthropology, Dr. Jackson said students are able to prepare for an immediate career upon graduation, or to go on to graduate school. In many ways the IUPUI anthropology curriculum is unique in the Midwest, she said, with topical courses focusing on urban anthropology and core courses which provide a sound background for further study.

Anthropology graduates can expect to go into careers in social service delivery, working in historical or art museums, or working in areas or resource management, such as being responsible for preserving an archeological "dig" and assuring that it has minimal effect on the environment.

Persons interested in earning a bachelor's degree in either field may call the IUPUI Office of Admissions at 264-4591.

Any student is eligible to run for office if he or she has been a member seven days before announcing candidacy.

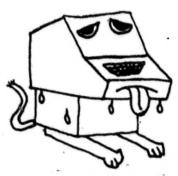

Interviews of the candidates will be May 1 from noon to 2 p.m.

Observations

Those of us on the staff of the Sagamore teel that we should explain the odd things you will see in this issue. Last night, at a crucial time in our production schedule, our typeset machine (cartoon below) decided that it had had enough for one semester. That is why our headlines are hand-written and, if you look real hard, our mistakes haven't been corrected. Oh!, and surely you have noticed the unique presentation of this editorial.

It's really a has to rely on that when they break to resort to this; machine should be ready to go by our will be June 3rd.

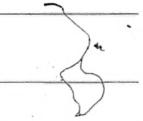

shame that man machines so much down, man has sort of thing. The all rested and next issue, which

Oh well(sigh), It was kind of fun and seal interesting, putting this issue together. We apologize for any inconvenience we may have caused our readers. One benefit from this is that we are running some "Best of Kelly and Ouke" cartoons. to fill in some space that fell in our laps when the type-set machine quit.

sort of thing. The Beautification Questioned

To the Editor:

We, the employees of IUPUI, have become concerned by recent events taking place on the campus. It has come to our attention that many of our parking places are being taken to be used to plant trees and flowers, while no alternative parking areas are to be provided.

While we do not object to the beautification of our campus, we do object to the inconvenience of the lost spaces. Already parking places are hotly contested; with the proposed deletion of spaces, we would be forced to use student spaces and/or park in more distant lots. This increases commuting time, gas usage while looking for parking places, and increases the danger to those of us who must work after dark.

Surely a compromise can be reached. We pay for our parking; thus we feel we have the right to expect to have aplace to park. Why destroy whole parking lots to plant trees when there is ample room between the street and lot for the trees? Beautification of the campus is important, but we feel it is wrong to do it at the expense of the enployees' parking.

Sincerely, A Concerned Group of IUPUI Employees

Dance Kaleidoscope' performing at IRT

by Larry G. Goldsberry

"A Concert of Premieres" that will be performed on the Indiana Repertory Theatre's upper stage May 8 through 10 features a company of dancers called Dance Kaleidoscope. The concert shows that they are properly named.

Kaleidoscope comes from the root words "kalos" and "eidos" meaning "beautiful form."
Under the artistic direction of Cherri Jaffee, the company presents five dance selections, each arranged by a different choreographer and interpreted by this fine troupe to produce an unusual emotional experience for the audience. Two of these pieces deserve deserve special notice. One is titled "Women." This dance, choreographed by Domy Reiter-Soffer tells of the struggle of women for and against their traditions. This dance stirs its audience with its beauty and pathos without one word of dialogue. An extraordinary achievement in this day of mass media.

The other selection is called "Lunaris" (Of the Moon). Choreographed by Fred Mathews, this dance is a marvel of almost mathematical precision. The dancers perform a number of movements while being connected by stylistic scimitars.

And just for fun, the concert includes a snappy rendition of dances from the World War II era with music by Glenn Miller.

Dance Kaleidoscope members include Craig Callaway, Therese Chatelaine, Deborah Chernin Galvin, Ginger Hall, Cherri Jaffee, Karen Littman, Kenneth Tolle and Aubrey Watson.

Gilbert and Sullivan's 'The Mikado' at CTS

by JoAnn Shanks

The atmosphere at the Christian Theological Seminary Repertory Theater is almost alive with the scent of Japanese lotus blossoms. "The Mikado," a production of Gilbert and Sullivan, is a simply delightful comic operetta.

Directed by Dr. Alfred Edyvean, who heads the CTS theater staff, this rendition of "The Mikado" transforms a social satire of Victorian England into an extremely modern and pertinent theater experience.

The most enjoyable aspects of the production were the gorgeous stage setting and the impressive costuming, both designed by Anita Cox.

Together, they effectively transport the audience to a Japanese rock garden complete with elegant, doll-like women in their silk kimonos. The men, too, are well-costumed and well-directed.

Under the musical direction of Mark McCreary, the CTS cast displays dazzling vocal talent, especially during the ensemble choral numbers. Particularly outstanding singers are Linda Bruce as Pitti-Sing, Deborah Bishop as Yum-Yum, and Mark Willen as Nanki-Poo. Gilbert and Sullivan's delicate Oriental airs are handled quite skillfully by an excellent cast.

The only frustration for the audience might be that the words of the songs are at times difficult to understand. But this is, perhaps, somewhat to be expected as the music is operatic in nature. All of the credit for the music does not belong entirely to the vocalists, but also to the orchestra which did full justice to the music.

For an evening of light entertainment, CTS's "Mikado" probably beats the movies currently running at the local cinemas. The production continues through May 17 on Thursdays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and on Sundays at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $6.50 for adults and $4 for students. CTS also offers a unique opportunity for the audience to meet the actors and the director of the play after the Friday and Saturday performances during a question and answer session.

Rookies flock to Indianapolis 500 Motor Speedway

This year's rookie crop at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway is the most abundant ever. Twenty-eight first-timers will be vying for a coveted spot in the starting field.

Some of them are well-known around the track. They've been here before and have passed their dirvers' tests, but have yet to qualify for the race. A number of others have made headlines in other forms of racing. A few carry famous names from the past. And several more have pit row watchers scratching their heads and saying, "Who are these guys?' A handful seem to stand out from the rest, starting with: BILL ALSUP—The third time around should be the charm for this 43-year-old former USAC—Robert Bosch Mini-Indy champion. In 1979, Alsup's first year, he had more than his share of bad luck. When his own car wasn't fast enough to make it into the field, Alsup jumped into Roger Penske's third entry and made a smooth-and very fast-qualify-

During the mandatory postqualification inspection, however USAC officials found that the engine used in Alsup's car was the same one that Bobby Unser used during his successful

Although Penske protested, claiming an unintentional oversight by his crew, Alsup was still disqualified. He then tried to put Spike Gehlhausen's backup into the show, but

In spite of missing the Indy 500, Alsup nonetheless ran 13 other SCCA/CART champ car events, finishing in the top ten seven times, and was named CART "Rookie of the Year."

Last year Alsup was bumped from the starting field at Indianapolis. he did qualify for all the other CART and USAC champ races, though, and did quite well. At season's end, he ranked sixth in the USAC standings and was named that sanctioning organization's "Rookie of the Year." Bill also earned the "Most Improved Driver" designation from CART for his seventh place finish in their standings. TONY BETTENHAUSEN-

He is the son of the legendary M. E. "Tony" Bettenhausen and brother of last year's third place finisher Gary. He is also the sonin-law of still active driver Jim McElreath. Bettenhausen, 29, was the 1979 USAC Champ Trail Rookie of the Year. In addition, he's driven NASCAR Late Model Sportsman and Winston Cup stock cars, plus USAC stocks, midgets and sprints. Like Alsup, he was bumped out of last year's "500." GEOFF BRABHAM-He is the 29-year-old son of another racing immortal, three-time Formula I champion Jack Brabham. Two years ago, Brabham was the SCCA/Bosch VW Gold Cup (Formula Super Vee) titliat. He raced Can-Am last season, taking the checkered flag at Road Atlanta. Just this spring he won the Formula Atlantic event at Long Beach and ended up ninth in the CART opener at Phoenix. He also has a Mini-Indy win to his STEVE CHASSEY-A standout on the USAC sprint circuit for the past several years, Steve was runner-up to Rich Vogler for the 1980 sprint division crown. In addition, he competed in USAC's Dirt Champ Division, finishing fourth in the standings.

HERM JOHNSON—This is

Johnson's second try at Indianapolis. Last year a mechancial failure on a warm-up lap ended his hopes for a qualification attempt. He did run in eight other championship events. A former national RICH VOGLER-In 1980, Vogler became the first driver ever to win both the USAC Sprint and Midget championships in the same season. Besides Mini-Indy experience he has also run in the Championship Dirt Division, winning at Tulsa in 1980.

KEVIN COGAN-He compiled an impressive record in Formula Atlantic in 1979. Last season he ran the Formula I Aurora Series, with his only

In his three-year racing career, Dale has run IMSA endurance races with his brothers and a few Mini-Indy events.

Other names may not be so familiar to trackside fans. Steve Ball has raced outlaw midgets and USAC sprints. Pat Bedard, a columnist for magazine, has competed in IMSA and a few Super Vee and races.

Jim Buick has participated in Formulas Super Vee, Ford and Atlantic. He also made the CART opener at Pheonix. A

Tom Klauser has considerable experience in SCCA Can-Am, and Formulas Ford and Atlantic, along with Mini-Indy. Phile Krueger is another SCCA veteran who has run Formulas Vee, Super Vee and Ford.

A Michigan lawyer, Harry McDonald has some Super Vee experience. Jerry Miller, a racing engine builder, has driven modifieds and sprints in the Southwest.

Pete Halsmer had the dubious honor of becoming the first driver of the month to meet the wall. He spun his Colonial Bread-Hubler Chevrolet-KISS 99 Special, owned by fellow rookie Bill Alsup, in the fourth turn late Monday afternoon. The crash did considerable damage to the front end of the car.

The state of Indiana alone has a sizable rookie contingent. First-timers Bettenhausen, Chassey, Vogler Halsmer, Weiss and Miller are all residents of the Hoosier state.

IUPUI opened the scoring in the first inning as Judy Cummings hit a two-out triple off the right field wall. Trudy Bernath followed with a single to score Cummings.

Bernath pitched a no-hitter through six innings of play bu the Eagles scored an unearned run in the fifth on Metro errors. The two teams remained tied through the regulation seven innings.

ISU-E almost ended the game in the bottom of the seventh when they attempted a delayed steal of home. Bernath threw home to catcher Marty Kalb in time to nail the ISU-E runner.

IUPUI had an opportunity in the twelfth inning when they loaded the bases with one out. The ISU-E first baseman shut the door on IUPUI when she made a shoe-string catch of a low-line drive and turned it into a double play.

ISU-E won the game in the bottom of the fifteenth inning of play with a run

GI Bill modifies regulations

A recent change in GI Bill payment procedures should alleviate potential problems for certain veterans enrolled in summer school.

Originally, students enrolled in summer classes were prohibited from receiving GI Bill benefit payments when the period between school terms exceeded 30 days.

The modified regulation now allows payments where the interval between terms does not ed one full calendar month. For example, if a school's summer term ends August 15 and the fall term begins September 28, this interval would exceed the old 30-day limit. Under the new provisions, it would not exceed the full calendar month criteria, and education payments would be

The only requirement is that the veteran must be enrolled for a total of at least eight weeks of summer school.

Further information about this change is available at the nearest Veterans Administration regional office. VA's toll-free telephone service is also available. Just consult your local phone directory under "U.S. Government" listings for the VA's number in your area.
