

May 1, 2014

INScope

Weekly news for faculty, staff and students from the Indiana University School of Medicine

top headlines

Public health threat

IU's chair of orthopaedic surgery is the lead author on the first study to analyze trampoline fracture patterns in a large population.

Alumni Weekend

Four distinguished alumni will be honored at the 2014 IUSM Alumni Weekend. Attendance registration is due May 9.

Farewell receptions

Several staff and faculty members will be recognized at farewell receptions in the VanNuys Medical Science Building Atrium.

features of the week

story

A new clinic in South Bend

The Navari Student Outreach Clinic, named in honor of the outgoing director of IUSM-South Bend, welcomed its first patients on April 26. The free clinic is the School of Medicine's first outreach clinic to launch beyond Indianapolis at one of its eight regional medical education centers.

editor's picks

Grants

Revised policy

The Peer Review Mentoring Committee program gets a boost from changes to NIH's grant resubmission policy.

Opportunities

Communicating science

Speakers from the Alan Alda Center for Communicating Science will present an interactive workshop in Emerson Hall on May 2.

News to Use

Summer schedule

podcast

'Sound Medicine'

InScope will move to a biweekly publication schedule starting May 8, with weekly publication resuming in late August.

Kudos

New appointment

Richard Kovacs has been named the inaugural holder of the Q. E. and Sally Russell Professorship in Cardiology.

faculty & staff spotlight

Power of service

Stephen Kirchhoff, who retires this month, has for many years overseen the Office of Medical Service-Learning.

student spotlight

Student success

An internship program housed in the IUSM Graduate Division celebrated its seventh year placing students in labs across campus.

This week on "Sound Medicine," IUSM researcher Kathy Miller discusses a new study on the benefits of yoga for breast cancer patients. Other topics include tick-borne illnesses, tips for ER patients and why our bodies need sleep.

events & lectures

IUSM study break with ICAN service dogs

05-02-2014

International Conference: Bioethics at the Crossroads

05-07-2014

Brown Bag International Speaker Series

05-09-2014

IUSM Commencement

05-10-2014

BEST series seminar

05-27-2014

IU School of Medicine Calendar

IUSM campus links

Bloomington • Evansville • Fort Wayne • Indianapolis
Lafayette • Muncie • Gary • South Bend • Terre Haute

Submit your news

Subscribe or unsubscribe to this newsletter.

IU Communications | 251 N. Illinois St. | Indianapolis, IN 46204