Kiwanis Activities

A Record of Accomplishments

Activities—

A summarization of the great number of ways in which over 1,300 Kiwanis clubs in the United States and Canada applied the ideals and principles of Kiwanis towards the advancement of fellowship and understanding, civic welfare, and social service in their various communities. These are contained in this booklet of fact, compiled from the 1924 official monthly reports of the clubs.

This booklet is published to suggest to all clubs the broad field for Kiwanis activity, to indicate to the public the service which Kiwanis as a movement, and Kiwanis clubs as units in an International organization, are rendering toward the development of individual character and community welfare, and further, to suggest the practical service that Kiwanis could develop in those cities where clubs have not as yet been established.

The membership of Kiwanis on January 1, 1925, included over 92,000 of the representative business and professional men in those cities where the clubs are located. The membership of each club consists of not more than two representatives from any business or profession.

The objects of Kiwanis International have been clearly defined after ten years of experience, in such a way that while all the clubs engage in the same general type of activity, they apply these objects according to the direct needs of their own communities. These objects are:

- To give primacy to the human and spiritual, rather than to the material values of life.
- To encourage the daily living of the Golden Rule in all human relationships.
- To promote the adoption and the application of higher social, business, and professional standards.
- To develop, by precept and example, a more intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship.
- To provide, through Kiwanis clubs, a practical means to form enduring friendships, to render altruistic service, and to build better communities.

To cooperate in creating and maintaining that sound public opinion and high idealism which make possible the increase of righteousness, justice, patriotism, and good will.

While these objectives outline the activity of the clubs in general, special policies are adopted for each yearly administration to be compatible with current civic and social problems. Club activities in accordance with policies previously adopted, continues, as the reading of this booklet will show.

The intangible accomplishment of Kiwanis is carried on through the means of weekly luncheon meetings and other special occasions. Through these meetings, with programs of entertainment and songs, together with speakers on matters of public interest, a close fellowship is developed and intelligent public opinion is stimulated.

Some activities such as work on behalf of Japanese relief, and charity and good cheer at Christmas time, have been omitted from this booklet, because all the clubs were engaged in them in one way or another, and even a very brief summarizing of them would have meant an unnecessary listing of the names of all the clubs.

Two occasions of a public nature in which the majority of clubs in the United States centered their attention with outstanding success, were the campaign to get citizens to vote in the presidential election, and the general activity on behalf of "Defense Test Day."

In addition to these, the clubs were active on three special occasions in Kiwanis: (a) "Constitution Week," in the United States, the object of which was to extend education concerning the Constitution of the United States and to inspire good citizenship, and a corresponding "Canadian Citizenship Week" when the Canadian clubs promoted good citizenship; (b) "Kiwanis Anniversary Week," when the anniversary of Kiwanis was observed; and (c) "All Kiwanis Night," on the opening evening of the Annual International Convention, when all clubs held simultaneous meetings, arranged according to the different time zones, and when the entire membership was linked together by uniform programs and by radio from the convention city.

The most successful civic work depends upon leadership, man power, organization, accurate knowledge of community conditions, and a comprehensive civic plan to meet the problems brought out by a study of those conditions. This plan should include all phases of community life, the economic, spiritual, educational, social and cultural.

Kiwanis clubs are organized to meet these needs. Because of their representative membership and because of the strength of an International and district organization, they are able to assist in the securing of an accurate knowledge of conditions and in the constructing of civic plans which will include the various features of permanent community development.

KIWANIS AND THE UNDER-PRIVILEGED CHILD

(International Objective)

The service rendered by all the Kiwanis Clubs in the United States and Canada on behalf of under-privileged children, consists in removing those physical, mental, moral, or economic handicaps which bar them from the full measure of citizenship which they themselves are unable to attain unaided.

This work is supported by the Community Chest funds which the Kiwanis club helped to raise. Children not taken care of by other organizations are helped by the Kiwanis club. Club opposed newspaper publicity given to juvenile delinquents as it injured the reputation of the boy or girl offender. Received the co-operation of the newspapers in this.
- Hartford, Conn. The North Street Settlement, which has a membership of 500 boys and girls, mostly of foreign parentage, has been sponsored by the Kiwanians of Hartford. Special emphasis has been laid on personal contact and the Kiwanians have acted as teachers and instructors in classes as outlined by the Junior Achievement Bureau and have supervised the games in all lines of sport. Plans are under way to provide a suitable playground for these boys and girls. The use of a swimming pool was given these children two mornings a week during August.

These two dormitories will house from 18 to 20 each, of the mothers and children of the poorer people of Minneapolis—in relays of two weeks each, all summer. This is permanent and its usefulness will be continued for indefinite years. Took 150 poor mothers and children out to the Silver Lake camp in automobiles.
- Muskogee, Okla. One of the greatest activities of the Muskogee club during the past year or so has been the raising of $20,000 to pay for the construction of a new building for the Muskogee Day Nursery. It is a home for children from babyhood to 12 years of age whose parents are unable to care for the child properly. Children are left at this home by the parents while the parents are employed. The home gives the parents an opportunity to keep the child where he or she may be visited daily and this avoids the necessity of sending the child away to state orphanage. This new home has facilities for taking care of 50 children.

Good Will Bonds at $50 each were sold to members only and various entertainments were held to help pay for this cottage, which cost about $16,000. Bonnie Brae Farm is an institution under the Episcopal Diocese of Newark, where young boys who have been brought before the court can be sent for training and proper environment. The Kiwanis cottage will accommodate 15 boys and a matron.
- New Westminster, B. C. The club made a survey for work among under-privileged children in this community and unanimously adopted this work as a permanent objective. During the year several boys have been given positions; a crippled boy was supplied with an artificial leg; a number of boys were given membership tickets to the Y. M. C. A.; children have been furnished surgical treatment; coal, wood, clothes and school books have been supplied; and Big Brothers have been appointed.
- New York City, N. Y. A 160-acre farm-camp was purchased by the New York City Kiwanians for $16,000. The old buildings on this camp have been renovated and accommodations made so that many boys may enjoy outings of two weeks each during the summer months; 300 poor youngsters were given a two weeks' vacation at this farm-camp during the summer of 1924.

BOY SCOUTS

In accord with one of the primary policies of Kiwanis International, Kiwanis clubs have concentrated their services on behalf of those boys which could properly be classified as under-privileged, rather than on those boys who enjoy the normal advantages of health, education, home life, material comfort, and normal mentality. Since it is the latter type, for the most part, which makes up the membership of Boy Scout troops, the list of activities of the clubs on their behalf is, of course, not as comprehensive as the clubs' activities on behalf of under-privileged children.
