

May 22, 2014

INScope

Weekly news for faculty, staff and students from the Indiana University School of Medicine

top headlines

Admissions committee

Faculty can positively influence the lives of students interested in medical careers as members of the IU School of Medicine Admissions Committee.

1 million served

AMPATH's home-based counseling and HIV/AIDS testing program recently reached its 1 millionth person in western Kenya.

Genetic testing

IU and Paradigm will team up for a new clinical trial to genetically test women who have an aggressive form of breast cancer.

Supper time

IU School of Medicine students are sitting down with Jay L. Hess for "Supper With the Dean."

features of the week

story

Commencement 2014

The IU School of Medicine sent 399 new physicians, researchers and scientists into the world during the school's 45th commencement ceremony May 10. Students who distinguished themselves over the past four years were also recognized May 9 at the Senior Banquet and Awards Ceremony. See photos from both events and learn the names of this year's winners.

editor's picks

News to Use

Hospital update

IU Health University Hospital's emergency department will move to Methodist Hospital by June 30.

Opportunities

Faculty Vitality Survey

All faculty are asked to complete this important survey as soon as podcast

possible, or before June 9.

Grants

Generous gift

A prominent Indiana businessman has gifted $1.3 million to the IU School of Medicine.

Kudos

Honors

2014 Faculty Council Election results, IUSM Alumni Association award winners and more.

faculty & staff spotlight

Botswana-bound

Cytologist Barbara McGahey Frain is part of a U.S. team in Botswana assisting in a campaign against cervical cancer.

student spotlight

Part of the solution

Vote now for IUSM-Lafayette students who are finalists in the Med Plus Advantage Global Health Challenge video contest.

IUSM campus links

Bloomington • Evansville • Fort Wayne • Indianapolis
Lafayette • Muncie • Gary • South Bend • Terre Haute

Submit your news

'Sound Medicine'

This week on "Sound Medicine," Alexis Torke, a member of the IUSM faculty and lead author on new research about the role of surrogate decision-makers in the care of elderly adults, will discuss her study. Other topics include inhalable insulin, reversing the effect of Type 2 diabetes and helping dying patients.

events & lectures

Glick Eye Institute Seminar

05-23-2014

Engaging Millennial Learners

05-28-2014

Cancer Research Day

05-29-2014

Second annual Mobile Computing in Medical Education Conference

05-30-2014

Harvard expert to present on mouse models

06-02-2014

IU School of Medicine Calendar

Subscribe or unsubscribe to this newsletter.

