AT LEAST WE'LL HAVE OUR "ILLUSIONS"

A four-person show of "fictive-dimensional qualities" is next on the artistic docket at the Herron Gallery. The exhibition, call "Illusions," opens Friday with a public reception from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the gallery and continues through August 8.

Artists included will be California sculptor James Turrell; New York-based artists John Okulick, sculptor, and Paul Sarkisian, painter, and Ohio sculptor Thomas Macaulay.

Turrell's "Avaar: A Light Installation," which was completed during a two-week residency in May at Herron Gallery, is an isolated light installation defining illusions in the perception of a given space. This illusion creates a perception of an atmosphere appearing dense and full. John Okulick's wooden wall-construction reliefs create illusions of space and size looking along the contours of the work, according to which elements of different real length appear equivalent.

Sarkisian's paintings look like collages, but they are not. He is expressly concerned with creating an illusion and to this end he employs collage-like subject matter, distinguishing between "literal flatness" and "depicted flatness." Sarkisian strengthens his illusion-bearing properties through his painterly structure. Thomas Macaulay, acting chairman of the department of art and art history at Dayton Ohio's Creative Arts Center, will construct and exhibit an installation in the West Gallery. Macaulay's illusionist strategy is to blur the distinction between objects and images. To this end Macaulay will install an environmental work using outdoor and indoor images, creating an illusion of pup tents camouflaged within a series of constructed planes and tree-like elements.

Herron Gallery is free and open to the public Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., closed weekends.

PLANNING FUNDS SOUGHT FOR CLINICAL RESEARCH BUILDING

The I.U. trustees have authorized a request to seek $200,000 from the state to plan a new Clinical Research Building at the I.U. Medical Center.

Contingent upon approval of funding by the appropriate state agencies, the trustees also selected two architectural firms who will be responsible for the planning work. They are Ellerbe & Associates, Bloomington, Minn., the design architect, and Wright, Porteous & Lowe Inc., Indianapolis, the architectural firm that will coordinate the entire project.

Preliminary estimates of the construction cost for the entire project total $27.5-million. Plans call for the structure to be built north of University Hospital and east of the Medical Science Building. The facility would contain about 200,000 gross square feet and allow expansion of work already being done in 10 specialized research centers now scattered throughout the Medical Center. The plan is to include centers for research in cancer, hypertension, arthritis, diabetes, human genetics and experimental oncology, with related support functions and a health sciences library in the new facility.

The trustees' decision to proceed with the request for planning money came during a special business meeting June 27 on the IUPUI campus.

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Perspectives -- A special program called "Nursing Service Prospectives" is under way each Tuesday through July 22 in the School of Nursing Auditorium. Each morning session is free and open to any interested person; the sessions run from 9 a.m. to noon. An informal two-hour seminar is scheduled for the afternoon following each keynote presentation. The remaining speakers and their topics are: Madeleine Leininger from the University of Utah, "International Community Impacts upon Nursing Service," this Tuesday (July 8); Rozella Schlotfeldt, Midwest Alliance in Nursing, "N.D. and Its Impact upon Nursing Service," July 15, and Margaret McClure from New York University Hospital on "Administration of Professional Services," July 22.

Paving the Way -- Early this month, Barnhill Drive from Michigan Street to North Drive will be resurfaced. Driveways to the Radiation Therapy Building, Emerson Hall, Riley Hospital and Lot #25 also will be resurfaced. The street and driveways will be closed for about two days to complete this work. Restripping of the parking spaces will be completed on a weekend. If you need more information, call Ext. 7974.

Position Available I -- Postdoctoral position to study the hormonal control of glycogen metabolism, starting in August or September. Contact: Dr. P.J. Roach, Department of Biochemistry, Medical Science Building, Room 445.

Position Available II -- Faculty position/occupational therapy instructor. Qualifications: Registered occupational therapist, minimum five years' experience, including course planning and teaching; salary negotiable; position available September 1; closing date for applications is July 18. Send vita to: Carol Nathan, Associate Professor and Director, Occupational Therapy Program, I.U. School of Medicine, 1232 West Michigan Street, Indianapolis 46223 (Ext. 8006).

Volunteers -- Female volunteers (age 50 and over) are needed for esophageal studies; will pay $50. For information, please call 630-6932.

Check Cashing Change -- As of last Tuesday (July 1) checks will be cashed only in the Union Building. The Bursar Office will no longer maintain this service. The service is available to students, staff, faculty, residents of the Union Building and patient visitors; there is a limit of $50; a service charge of 25¢ per check cashed must be paid; checks must be written in increments of $5; two pieces of identification required; counter checks and two-party checks not accepted; payroll checks which are cashed as a service by the Merchant's Bureau in the University Services Building will continue in effect until this service also can be moved to the Union Building.

Travel Procedure -- Notice to faculty and staff needing tickets for official university travel: The university controller advises that there are currently three travel agencies in Indianapolis accepting university "T numbers" (travel request numbers) for airline tickets. The agency will issue the tickets based on the approved travel request and will bill I.U. for their cost. The three agencies are: Hoosier Travel (632-7553), Fifth Season (283-5555), and Travel Dept. Inc. (632-6555). IUPUI employees may use any of these agencies in procuring tickets for university travel.
