THINKING ABOUT AMERICA

A new Center for American Studies has been established on this campus to encourage and support the development of scholarly activities in the study of American culture and institutions.

Dr. Joseph T. Taylor, dean of the School of Liberal Arts, has appointed an advisory committee to begin planning and organizing appropriate activities which may be carried out under the auspices of the Center.
Dr. Bernard Friedman, professor of history, has been named acting director of the Center.

Among the tentative ideas so far proposed are the development of a scholarly publication on American studies and a series of American Bicentennial seminars and institutes.

The other members of the Center's advisory committee are Cyrus Behroozi, social service; Donna Dial, economics; Wilmer Fife, chemistry; Ralph Gray, history, and Jerome Kaplan, physics.

Also William Marsh, law; Paul Nagy, philosophy; Sidney Ochs, physiology; Samuel Roberson, art history; Roland Sherrill, English, and James Smurl, religious studies. Administrative responsibilities for the Center will rest in the School of Liberal Arts.

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Speak Up! -- The IUPUI Speakers Service is revving up the machinery for another successful year at matching organizations and authorities, with a special section on Bicentennial themes. The service is a voluntary undertaking of faculty members in response to the many requests by university officials to provide programs for particular topics. Last year, more than 4,000 booklets listing qualified speakers and topics were distributed. If you would like to volunteer and haven't received a form -- or if you would like more data -- just call Information Services, Ext. 2101.

Get Carded -- Identification cards will be processed in Cavanaugh Hall, Room 322, Monday through Thursday. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Monday and Thursday, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Deadline -- October 3 is the deadline for season ticket sales for the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra. With savings of 37 1/2 per cent and 16 pairs of concerts for as little as $2.19 each, you can enjoy live symphonic music. An additional 50 per cent student discount for full-time students is a special attraction. For more information, call the Symphony/Clowes Box office at 924-1267.

Missing -- The following two journals are missing from the School of Medicine Library: Journal of the American Medical Association, volume 231, number 11, March 17, 1975 (1 copy) and Journal of the American Medical Association, volume 231, supplement, January 1975 (2 copies). If anyone who receives these journals would like to contribute them to the library, the donation would be greatly appreciated.

Getting Organized -- If you and/or your friends in allied health would be interested in developing an allied health alumni program, come to a meeting September 17 at 7 p.m. in the Union Building conference room.

Lend a Helping Hand and Cool Head -- The Suicide Prevention Service of the Mental Health Association in Marion County is looking for persons to be trained in the fall class of clinical associates (telephone workers). Recruits must be at least 20 years old, empathetic, non-judgmental, action-oriented and must successfully complete a 40-hour training period. They must be willing to volunteer one six-hour shift weekly for up to one year, have a toll-free Indianapolis telephone number and be available for monthly in-service training meetings. Training of the 13th class will begin Saturday, October 4, and end Tuesday, October 21, with all classes scheduled on Tuesday and Thursday nights, plus all day on Saturdays. For more information, call Edward Johnson at 636-2491.
