COLLEGIAL PRESENTATION

Albert Hurtado, a new member of the history faculty, will be the featured participant in a discussion on "Another Kind of Western Women's Experience: Indian and White Sexuality during the California Gold Rush."

Professor Hurtado specializes in social history, women's history, demography and the family. He has additional experience in public history in urban and rural environments, historic preservation and cultural resource management. He has authored several articles about the Indians in the West and has a book in progress to be entitled Sowers, Reapers and Gleaners: Indians and Whites on the California Borderland Frontier 1820-1860

The Collegial Presentation, to be held Nov. 10 at 8:15 p.m. in Room 537 of Cavanaugh Hall, will provide time for discussion. Copies of the paper will be available in advance at the Center for American Studies office, ext. 3759, Room 530, Cavanaugh Hall. (Persons unable to read the paper before the program still may attend the discussion.)

Refreshments will be provided.

CONGRATULATIONS to Bob Tirmenstein and his staff!
They have 100 percent participation from the Parking and Transportation Service employees for the University's United Way Campaign.

STATE OF THE CAMPUS ADDRESS SCHEDULED

Dr. Glenn W. Irwin, I.U. vice president for Indianapolis, will give the State of the Campus Address at 4 p.m. Thursday (Nov. 3) in Room 116 of the Law School following the Faculty Council meeting. All members of the faculty and staff are invited to attend.

REFORMS IN CHINA DISCUSSED

Economic Reforms in China will be the subject of a lecture-discussion by Professor Shou-Eng Koo of the IUPUI Department of Economics from 12 noon to 1 p.m. Tuesday (Nov. 1) in the Porter Room of the Union Building. Professor Koo recently returned from the Peoples Republic of China where he spent several months as a visiting professor under the IU-Nankai University exchange. Professor Koo also visited China while on sabbatical leave in 1980. The Lecture is sponsored by the Office of International Programs at IUPUI.

M.A. ACCREDITED

The master's degree program in health administration in the I.U. School of Public and Environmental Affairs has been given full accreditation by the Accrediting Commission for Education in Health Services Administration. There are 44 such accredited programs in the country.

Begun in 1969, the IUPUI program was transferred to SPEA from the I.U. School of Medicine in July 1982. Directed by Gerald McHugh, D.B.A., associate professor of Public and Environmental Affairs, the program has two major concentrations: management of health institutions and health administration policy making and planning.

In February an accrediting team of four specialists in health services education observed the program in action, which has enrolled 72 students this fall. The initial accreditation is for four years, longer than the normal first assignment made by the commission, according to Professor McHugh.

WRITING CENTER AWARENESS WEEK

The Writing Center, located in Room 427 of Cavanaugh Hall, ext. 2049, wants all University personnel to know that it wants to help students of all levels and majors with their writing tasks. One-half hour one-to-one tutoring sessions and hour-long group workshops are offered. The Center also has access to the Plato Computer System for programmed learning of mechanics. Call the Center for hours, the workshop schedule, and further information.

MIRSKY HOSTS GEOLOGISTS

Dr. Arthur Mirsky, IUPUI geology chairman and chairman of the 96th annual meeting of the Geological Society of America, expects 4,500 guests from around the world at the meeting at the Indiana Convention-Exposition Center this week (Sunday through Thursday).

Dr. P.P. DeCaprariis, assistant professor of geology at IUPUI, will have an invited exhibit on his computer program for determining more accurately the effects of development on ground water. Up to now, planners have known that ground water is affected with building, paving, etc., but they didn't know in economic terms what it would cost if ground water is affected adversely. Dr. DeCaprariis thinks he has the answer. Some of the other speakers, papers, and exhibits will include issues such as nuclear waste control, finding coal, predicting the outcome of volcanic eruptions and predicting earthquakes.

SUPPLEMENTARY RETIREMENT PROGRAM INFORMATION MEETINGS

T. Rowe Price representatives will be on campus Monday (Oct. 31) in the Harrison Room of the Union Building to explain their investment products for the Indiana University supplementary retirement tax deferred annuity program.

Specific meetings are scheduled for 12:30 p.m., 2 p.m., and 4 p.m.

ANNUAL BOOK SALE ON

Hundreds of titles in many categories will be on sale at the three Indianapolis

Campus Bookstores (Cavanaugh Hall, the Union Building, and the Krannert Building at 38th Street) from Monday (Oct. 31), through Nov. 18. In time for Christmas giving there are books about cooking, art, animals, gardening, crafts, children's books and other categories.

HONORS & ACCOLADES

James F. Bailey III, director of the law library and associate professor of law, left last week for a four-week working visit at the University of Seville, Spain, where he is among the first professors to participate in a new exchange program. While there he will examine some of the earliest law manuscripts written by Jesuit priests.

Dr. Gerald C. Preusz, assistant professor of education at IUPUI, received an Honorary Alumnus Award from the I.U. School of Dentistry Alumni Association at the annual meeting in Bloomington on Sept. 23.

SPEA seniors in Criminal Justice placed first and third in the student paper competition at the Midwest Criminal Justice Association meeting in Chicago Oct. 12-14. R. Daniel Stevens received a certificate and check for his first place paper, and Ken P. Campbell received a certificate for his third place paper. Stevens, a senior in SPEA, also is chief deputy of the Hamilton County Sheriff's Department. Campbell, who completed his degree in May, was a probation officer in Boone County and recently became a deputy in the Boone County Sheriff's Department.

Dr. Rosario H. Potter of the School of Dentistry has been selected by the World Health Organization as Adviser, to lecture at Beijing Medical College in Beijing, China, on "Genetics in Dentistry." The two-week lecture series is from Nov. 21 to Dec. 3. Dr. Potter has just returned from Sydney, Australia, where she attended the International Association for Dental Research meetings and presented a paper on her research in dental education entitled "Latent Abilities and Student Performance: A Path Analysis," with Dean Ralph E. McDonald as co-author.

Dr. Richard Meiss, associate professor of OB/GYN, has received Type II funding from the Biomedical Research Committee for his project entitled "Contractive Mechanisms of Reproductive Smooth Muscle."
