CONTINUING EDUCATION CONTINUES SUCCESSFULLY

IUPUI had more than 10,000 students last year who had no interest in such things as transcripts, prerequisites, grade averages and how to get into graduate school.

The 10,000 were all enrolled in the non-credit continuing education courses and they had come back to college to keep up with new developments in their professions and careers, to learn new skills and concepts for work and for leisure, for advancement and for curiosity.

More than 6,300 persons enrolled in the Division of Continuing Education courses during the past academic year and another 700 will be enrolled this summer in the division's exceptionally popular How To Study course designed for new college students.

More than 25 per cent of Indiana's physicians -- a proportion matched only by North Carolina -- enrolled in continuing education courses offered by the School of Medicine.

More than 700 dentists, dental hygienists, dental assistants, and dental laboratory technicians enrolled in the School of Dentistry's continuing education programs.

And nearly 250 persons were taking non-credit work in the Indianapolis Law School, including 111 teachers enrolled in courses offered by the Center for Law Related Education and 115 Hoosier judges enrolled in seminars of the Center for Judicial Education.

HERRON INVITES TALENTED TEENS

Do you have a teen-age Titian hanging around the house this summer? Is your high-school Cezanne just doodling? The artistic teen-ager is what the Herron School of Art is looking for this summer to enroll in the Pre-College Workshop.

Open to all junior and senior high school students who are interested in art or an art career, the program is offered for two sessions: The first July 7-22, the second July 24- August 8. Classes meet Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The assignments they get in drawing, design, three-dimensional work and printmaking are equivalent to those of first-year Herron students. Summer students will visit the Indianapolis Museum of Art, an art gallery, design studio and printing firm. The program also looks ahead and examines career opportunities and offers guidance for preparing an art education.

Aaron J. Law, assistant professor of design and head of the foundation program, will teach the first session; the second will be conducted by Richard E. Nickolson, instructor in the foundation program.

Tuition is $50 per session, plus about $25-worth of materials. For information and registration forms, call the school, 923-3651.

BICENTENNIAL BASH

The Medical Center Campus will be hosting up to 700 persons Wednesday who will be here for the Governor's Bicentennial Conference. Governor Otis R. Bowen will deliver the keynote address at 10 a.m. in Emerson Hall, followed by program exchanges and workshops focusing on fund raising, youth involvement, ethnic programming, arts, volunteer recruitment and management, writing grant proposals, the roles of business, education and labor in the Bicentennial, programming for senior citizens and effective local publicity.

The Union Building will cater an old-fashioned early American luncheon at noon under a large tent on the Union lawn. Guests will fill their plates with Pilgrim baked turkey, Virginia smoked ham, Philadelphia creamed potatoes, Indian corn pudding, Boston baked beans, Betsy Ross cole slaw, pioneer potato salad, Liberty Bell green salad, Old Colony wild strawberries and cream, Martha Washington cherry pie, plantation melon balls, hearth bread with honey butter and -- of course -- coffee, tea or milk. The luncheon speaker will be Mrs. Gene Brownrigg, executive director of the Texas Bicentennial Committee.

The Union advises that the cafeteria will be open from 10:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. and the Snack Bar will be open continually on Wednesday.

CALENDAR CHECK-OFF

Summertime Studies -- Monday is the last day of classes for Summer Session I. The second session will get under way Wednesday at 11 a.m. with advance registration fee payment and Thursday at 11 a.m. with walk-in registration. Classes for Summer Session II start Friday.

Monday -- The IUPUI Stew Committee will hold a special closed-door summer session at 5 p.m. at the Louisville Center for Advanced Hijinks.

Tuesday -- "The Genetics Studies of Profound Prelingual Deafness," Medical Genetics Thesis Seminar by Susan Rose, graduate student; Riley Research, Room 139, 4 p.m.

Friday Farewell -- All IUPUI friends of Mrs. Evelyn Badgett and Mrs. Nellie Scott are invited to attend a retirement party in their honor Friday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the Housing Office on the third floor of the Single Student Dorm (Union). Mrs. Badgett, administrative assistant in the Housing Office and secretary to Phil McQuillen, has been with the university almost 18 years, and Mrs. Scott has been resident hostess in the Single Student Dorm for almost 11 years.

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Friday Deadline -- So that the Dean of the Faculties Office has enough time to prepare academic items for the July board of trustees agenda meeting, paperwork for all academic appointments requiring board approval must be filed no later than Friday. The Dean of the Faculties Office is in Room 108 of the Administration Building.

Wrong Number -- Dr. Wolfgage Zeman is an expert in pathology, not in air conditioning and refrigeration. The directory says that air conditioning's number is 8577. That's wrong; it belongs to Dr. Zeman. The correct number for air conditioning and refrigeration is Ext. 8557.

Another Phone Message -- Department heads have until July 11 to send a memorandum showing the exact way they want their departmental listings to appear in the Campus Telephone Directory. The memorandum also should include a complete listing for the alphabetical section, stating separately any corrections, additions, or deletions from the 1974-75 directory. Send the information to Vicki Fischvogt, Telephone Services, University Hospital, Room A22.

HONORS & ACCOLADES

Assistant Registrar Virgil Hunt has been admitted to the PACE Hall of Fame. This is the highest award that the Public Action in Correctional Effort organization can bestow and marks Hunt's long service to PACE as a member of its board and executive committee. PACE is a private charitable organization which works for the rehabilitation of prisoners through volunteer citizen effort.

The New England Cardiovascular Society honored Dr. Harvey Feigenbaum this month by inviting him to give the Henry Jackson Lecture in recognition of significant contribution to the study and treatment of cardiovascular disease. Dr. Feigenbaum was chosen because of his pioneering work in echocardiography, the subject of his Boston presentation.

Dr. John E. Jesseph, chairman of surgery, has been presented an honorary Doctor of Science degree by Whitman College in Walla Walla, Washington.

Dr. Henry N. Wellman, professor of medicine and radiology, has been appointed to serve a four-year term on the Radiopharmaceutical Advisory Committee of the Division of Oncology and Radiopharmaceuticals of the Food and Drug Administration.

Two School of Medicine students have won John H. Edwards Fellowships for graduate and professional study. Joann Boughman Campbell, medical genetics, and Dean Felker, a third-year medical student, will receive the $4,200 awards, the largest and most prestigious to be presented by I.U.

Dr. Roland R. Ditto, assistant professor of pedodontics at the School of Dentistry, has received one of the Graduate Student Thesis Awards for 1975 from the American Academy of Pedodontics. His thesis--"Effectiveness of Oral Hygiene Instruction to Parents of Pre-School Cerebral Palsy Children"--was based on his work as the recipient of a fellowship from the United Cerebral Palsy Research and Educational Foundation, Inc.

Dr. LaForrest D. Garner, professor and chairman of orthodontics, was named "Boss of the Year" last month by the "Spirit of America" Chapter of the American Business Women's Association. Mrs. Bernice Tumey presented the winning letter about her boss.

Dr. Eugene M. Helveston, associate professor of opthalmology, has been named chairman of the education committee of the American Association for Pediatric Opthalmology. Dr. Helveston is a founding member and director of the organization.
