FOCUS: INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION

Students from ten of the 52 countries represented on the IUPUI campus will host the annual IUPUI International Dinner on Monday, April 30, in the Union Building. Preceded by "Hors d'oeuvre Internationale," dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. Dishes, representing the cuisine of nine countries, include Romano Salad, Polynesian Fruit Bowl, Year of the Ram Egg Rolls, Curried Chicken with Apples, Whole Baked Halibut, Yellow Rice with Saffron, Yam Crisps, Southern Style Green Beans, and Coconut Flan.

IUPUI Office of International Programs

The dinner speaker will be writer and editor Fred Hechinger, president of the New York Times Company Foundation and a member of the President's Commission on Foreign Language and International Studies. Attending the dinner will be ambassadors from three African nations. The special guests and their official escorts will be in town to attend the opening of the new African Gallery at the Children's Museum on April 29. They have decided to stay over for the dinner.

Tickets for the dinner can be bought at the International Programs Office, Room 002, Blake Street Library and the Student Activities Offices in Cavanaugh Hall and the Union Building. They are $6.50; $3 for IUPUI students with valid ID's.

Did you know that...

This is Volunteer Recognition Week for all those devoted workers who help keep the wheels of the Medical Center running smoothly. Last year, about 200 volunteers donated 25,053 hours to make life easier for the patients, their families and hospital staffs. Ranging in age from 14 to 87 years, the hospital volunteers come from as far away as 35 miles and work as many as three days a week. Hundreds of other volunteers work outside the hospitals making toys and raising dollars through a myriad of community projects. Hats off to them all!
