Free medical care at the Student Health Service

by Kevin McGoff

The services provided for the students at IUPUI by the Student Health Service (SHS) are varied and well worth taking a look at, especially after you consider the high costs of medical care. The SHS is available at no cost to all full time students (12 hours or more) enrolled at IUPUI. It is also available to part-time students for twenty dollars per semester. The SHS is not to be confused with the Student Health Insurance Plan (SHIP). The SHIP is hospitalization insurance purchased by individual students. The SHS is a service provided by the university at no expense to the full time student (except prescriptions).

Students are entitled to treatment by the physicians and nurses employed by the SHS. In the event that the service's staff or facilities cannot fulfill the individual's needs, the SHS will refer the person to one of 72 specialty clinics that will do so. Last year approximately 2500 students were referred to specialty clinics. The cost of the clinical treatment is paid by the SHS. Students, whose treatment at the service requires prescription drugs, pay only the first $3.00 of the medication's cost. The remainder of the tab is picked up by the SHS. The service will also pay for emergency room treatment at General Hospital or the university facilities.

PROGRAM LIMITATIONS

The SHS does not provide for inpatient care. Any illness or injury that requires hospitalization is not taken care of by the SHS program. It should be covered by the person's hospitalization insurance (such as SHIP). The SHS is strictly for out patient care. Job related injuries, routine dental care and cosmetic surgery are not provided by SHS. Also not included in the program are the fitting of contact lenses or refraction examinations.

LOCATION

The Student Health Service is located in Room 168 of the Clinical Building at the Medical Center. The building is just across Michigan Street behind Long Hospital, less than a 5 minute walk from the CA Building. If a student wishes to make an appointment, the phone number is 264-8214.

LACK OF ### PARTICIPATION

During October, 1974, students from the non-health oriented schools (Law, Normal, Herron, Grad, and Undergrad) comprised only 31 percent of the SHS patient load. In December of 1974, however, 39.2 percent of the patients were enrolled in the above mentioned schools. The remaining 60.7 percent was made up of students from the Nursing, Medical, Dental and Allied Health divisions.

The reasons that students in the non-health related divisions (the larger of the two) do not use the SHS are multifarious. Lack of awareness of both the locale and the extent of the services available seem to be the most obvious. Hopefully, through the efforts of this article, the Student Association, and the Student Services, more people will take advantage of a program that will benefit them at no cost.

SPACE

LIMITATIONS

On the 8th of September alone, the SHS had 99 patients in addition to giving 180 immunizations. The staff that treated these 279 people is comprised of 1 full-time and 4 part-time doctors. There are also 3 full-time RN's and 4 members of the supporting staff (receptionist, etc.).

Their working space consists of 1400 square feet of clinical space which includes 4 small treatment rooms and 2 nurse station areas.

It is reasonable to assume that steps must be taken to insure that all students receive ample treatment. The present facilities will be stretched beyond their limits if sufficient space is not secured by the Student Health Service. It has at the present time the largest potential patient load of any clinic in the complex, yet it is the smallest in terms of staff and clinical space. When asked to comment, Mr. Jim Slear, Assistant Director of the Student Health Service stated, "Every day more students are becoming aware of the facilities. The SHS has seen a constant growth in patient load. At present, the SHS has reached its saturation point. If there is a sudden increase in the daily patient load, it will be difficult to provide prompt and adequate treatment with the present clinical space provided."

We hope that all students at IUPUI will use the SHS when the need arises. The facilities are provided by the university and for reasons previously described should be taken advantage of. Until the university provides more clinical space for the SHS, students may expect a slight inconvenience in the form of a long line or short term postponement of their appointment. Bear in mind, however, the need for expanded facilities must be demonstrated before action will be taken to alleviate the situation.

"Hmmm, yes, well, Miss O'Loy, I can understand your problem. But I'm afraid crossed condensers aren't covered under the Student Health Plan."

"And the sign said..." (shades of Five-Man Electrical Band!)!! Only this time, the signs are posted in the classrooms of the IUPUI university system, and they are concerned with smoking. The signs in question are short and simple. Please they say: No Smoking in Classrooms, per University Regulations. (These signs are not to be confused, however, with the older "your assistance required per Indiana State Fire Marshal" signs still posted in many Cavanaugh classrooms, nor the conspicuously absent "no-signs" in many of the rooms). No, these new signs are yellow, with big letters, and an obvious message.

That may not be so obvious in the reasons and causes behind the new drive to abolish smoking in the often-crowded classrooms. To evaluate this new drive, perhaps it is best to first examine the attitudes of the opposing factions, namely, the smokers and nonsmokers. Their opinions and beliefs concerning the right to smoke in class are simple and clear-cut.

The nonsmokers feel that in an enclosed area (such as a classroom) with limited ventilation, it is only common sense and mutual respect to limit or abolish smoking. Those persons who do not smoke can and do often resent those around them, who in disregard for established university regulation, light up and blow the fumes in their direction, flick the ashes on their books or (depending on the size and crowd in the classroom) their clothing, and stomp the butts out on the floor, leaving the gray gray streak of spitted ash and filter paper underfoot.

The smokers, however, feel that the right to foul the air and corrode the lung tissue is a God-given, unalienable practice, which should not be denied, regardless of others' feelings. They cite, as reasons for continuation of these smoking privileges, the shortened attention span of a frequent smoker who is denied his intake of nicotine, and the oft-repeated, yet no less valid, argument "I pay my fess like everybody else; nobody is gonna tell me I can't smoke if I want to."

So granted, what we have here are two diametrically-opposed groups, each concerned only with the complete and total adoption of compatible regulations. This is not to say, however, that there have not been frequent, albeit feeble, attempts at the Great American Institution, the compromise. Some very interesting suggestions have been proposed, the best of which we offer here:

1. Have all of the smokers sit in a specified area of the room, preferably near a door, so that the exhaled clouds may infiltrate out into the hallway. (Out of sight, out of mind, hmmm?)
2. Carve or tattoo a small "a" in the smokers' foreheads, and attempt, at registration, to group them into similar classes. (Although we thank the local chapter of the Environmental Protection Agency for this idea, it was unfortunately rejected.)
3. Arrange, through the facilities of the University medical schools, to implement the use of cafeteria-like device which would funnel the toxic fumes out through predrilled vents or outlets. (Not an entirely useless idea, but financial considerations make it impossible.)
4. Decorate all classrooms of this school with 6x10 glossy photos of lung cancer victims, or have mockups of iron lungs wheeled in at the start of the class session. (Too bad for all you sickies out there — this was rejected, too.)

So alas, we have reached a stalemate, with few reasonable solutions. Perhaps we could leave the smoking problem up to the discretion of the individual professors and teachers, but they have enough problems already, and besides, who listens to them anyway? Perhaps, again, we could simply let things go as they are, but our informants tell us that both camps are staunchly entrenched in their principles, and escalation into frontal attack is not entirely without historical precedent in this country on such matters.

And then, finally, maybe it will all blow over (no pun intended). Maybe the smokers will begin to respect the wishes of the nonsmokers around them, and maybe the nonsmokers will undertake a program of polite requests to offenders. The Sagamore hopes that this university, and the students who comprise it, can set aside such petty problems in pursuit of our common goal, the acquisition of knowledge through education.

Dear Editor,

In your story on the Nursing School's Activity Fee (Sagamore, Sept. 8), you state that in August of 1972,

"former chancellor Maynard K. Hine directed that activities fees were no longer to be collected by the various schools." Some events which preceded that instruction and which may have been connected with it were reported in the July 4, 1975 issue of the Indianapolis Star.

According to the Star's report (a copy of which is enclosed), the Indianapolis FBI office admitted to having conducted a secret campaign to discredit the 1970-71 Indiana University (Bloomington) student body president, Keith S. Parker, "in the interest of national security." Parker, now a medical student at the University of Minnesota, was a Black Panther and active in the anti-war effort during 1970-71. The FBI campaign, which was approved in Washington, consisted of disseminating an anonymous leaflet criticizing Parker. FBI correspondence recently released to the media stated that "it (the leaflet) would be mailed anonymously to students of 25-50 to legitimate student organizations, fraternities, sororities, etc. to insure that the bureau as a source will be fully protected." The leaflet was distributed and the local FBI office advised Washington that its campaign was a success. In its post-campaign report, the FBI stated that one of the more significant results of its efforts was the decision of the I.U. Board of Trustees on Jan. 22, 1971 to abolish the mandatory fee of 50 cents a semester for support of the student government.

In its article Sagamore states that "an investigation of...the whole concept of the activity fee would seem to be in order." Such an investigation should include a discussion of the right of the Board of Trustees to rescind student activity fees. Activity fees represent a vital source of income to student governments on all the I.U. campuses. The Indianapolis Law School has a mandatory activity fee which supports the Student Bar Association and DICTUM, the law school student newspaper. Last year the law school students voted overwhelmingly to increase that fee from $1.50 to $3.00. The increased fee was approved by the Board of Trustees and collected by the Bureau's Office during the recent registration. One can only speculate as to what the Board of Trustees would have done with respect to the law school fee had the politics of the Student Bar Association President or of the Editor of DICTUM been unacceptable to it or to the local FBI office.

The Board of Trustees' power to arbitrarily approve or rescind student activity fees is an obvious vehicle for the control of student government by the University. The decision to institute, raise, or rescind student activity fees should rest entirely with the students who are being or will be assessed.

Editor:
Concerning the issue of smoking in the classroom, I feel I have been silent for too long. I'm sure if I were interviewed during your poll you would have added another voice to your minority of non-smokers.
I have spent the past four semesters hopping from chair to chair in a vain effort to avoid inhaling the obnoxious odor of cigarette smoke that inconsiderate people continually puff in my face. I have at times tied a handkerchief over my nose, not to amuse the class, but in an effort not to inhale the smoke. As you may guess this isn't very practical and it doesn't work. I think smoking in the classroom is an infringement on my right to clean air, as well as a hazard to my health.

Cigarette smoke causes my eyes to water, inhibits my attentiveness in class and pollutes my clothes; more than all of it gives me a headache.

I think people have a right to do what they please with their bodies, and if destroying it with cigarettes is what they choose, more power to them; but that does not give them the right to contaminate me!

Vending at IUPUI

Ed. Note: On August 15, the vending contract for IUPUI was awarded to Modern Vending Co., Inc. replacing Calderon Bros. Vending, Inc. as IUPUI's vendor. Questions by the students, faculty, and staff have prompted us to investigate the business of vending at IUPUI in order to ascertain answers to these questions and clarify some long standing misconceptions about vending at IUPUI.

by Don Curtis

I realize that this series of articles has become rather involved and possibly in some of your opinions too technical and statistical. As one University official pointed out, when I requested a copy of the University's Financial Report, "Why would you be interested in that? It is only a book full of numbers!" However, if you will please bear with me, I believe you will find some interesting revelations concerning the vending contract. In return for your patience I will attempt to minimize the statistics.

COMMISSION
versus
VEND PRICE

The University, as reported in previous articles in this series, decided to select the successful vending contractor on the basis of highest commissions offered to the University. We mentioned last week that a food-item price comparison was conducted on August 12, and on August 21, of Calderon's and Modern's vended offerings at I.U.P.U.I. This comparison revealed that Calderon's average food-item price was 50 cents and Modern's was 57.5 cents. In terms of percentage, this 7.5 cent price increase means that Modern will average 15 percent more profit than Calderon, but will pay only 3 percent to the University in commission. This means that on the average, after paying the University's commission, Modern will generate 12 percent or 6 cents per food-item more profit than Calderon.

In order to obtain a more complete understanding of what these percentages mean, they should be related to the total volume of items sold. Last year, $103,692.60 was spent at IUPUI on cold food items (mainly sandwiches). Assuming that a similar amount will be spent in the upcoming year, Modern's bid will clear $12,442.11 more than Calderon's due to the price increase on food items alone. In other words, because you and I are spending an average of 7.5 cents more for Modern's sandwiches, Modern will make nearly $12,500 more profit, and the University will be receiving about $3,100 more in commissions.

When we figured the total effect of each price increase on Modern's bid (snacks, sandwiches and other food items, ice cream and pastry) the projected profit advantage to Modern was $34,328.15.

The University purchasing department conducted a comparative projection of anticipated commissions from Modern's and Calderon's bids. However, they included only the four highest volume items, (canned soft drinks; cup soft drinks; coffee and hot chocolate; candy, cookies and gum) which they asserted were bid at the same price by Calderon and Modern. The University's figures on these four items indicate that Modern would pay a total of $26,823.24 more commission to the University than Calderon. By the same method of projection, Modern would also pay the University $4,324.56 more in commissions from milk and cigarette sales. When these six items are totaled, Modern's projected commission advantage over Calderon is $31,147.80. However, since Modern will receive $34,328.15 more than Calderon due to higher prices, we believe that on the basis of total value to the consumer, Calderon's bid is more advantageous.

We believe that the university's decision to award the contract solely on the basis of highest commissions was unjustified, invalid and inaccurate. If the bids were to be judged merely on the basis of commission, the university should have stipulated the prices of the items on which it desired commissions to be paid. The university took no steps to remedy the price-commission discrepancy. Although Calderon's bid includes an alternate price-commission proposal, which states that by increasing the vend price wherever applicable, Calderon could increase commission rates, the university apparently disregarded it.

Of course, we have no guarantee that if Calderon had won the contract, that they would not have attempted to adjust prices upwards at a later date. When interviewed, Mr. Nelson, president of Modern Vending, indicated that he anticipated further price increases in the near future and would be negotiating these higher prices with university purchasing officials. One of the university officials who would be conducting these negotiations, when previously interviewed, stated, "I don't care if a vendor sells thirty-five items at a dime or 350 items for a penny each." We seriously question the university's intentions to allow vending prices to spiral upward.

ALLOCATION OF VENDING INCOME

The only justification for accepting bids on the basis of high commissions was offered by Vice-President Irwin in an address to student leaders on Friday, September 5, when he implied that the commissions paid to the university were supposed to be allocated to various student activities. However, Mr. Lautzenheiser, IUPUI business manager, reported that the income from vending machines is deposited in a vending commissions account of the general fund which is used for the "basic educational efforts of the university", such as faculty salaries, employee salaries and wages, and educational supplies.

Last year student activities and functions received a combined total of less than $32,000.00 from various sources. None of these sources has been directly attributed to the vending commissions account. At the same time that student organizations were forced to tighten their belts and restrict campus-wide activities due to the lack of university financial support, IUPUI received $95,486.42 in vending commissions. If in fact the university has designated the vending commissions account to be the source of student activity financing, what happened to the remainder of the $95,486.42 not allocated to student activities last year.

Last year the nearly 200 vending machines at twenty-eight locations of IUPUI grossed $784,154.00. Assuming that gross annual sales will remain constant for 1975-76, IUPUI should receive more than $155,000.00 in commission payments from Modern Vending Co. Due to the conflicting statements of Dr. Irwin and Mr. Lautzenheiser, we can not accurately report how the university collected commissions from vending will be allocated in 1975-76. We request university officials to explain how the vending income was budgeted last year, and to identify the projected expenditure of the commissions received as a result of the new contract.

Dr. Irwin speaks on student concerns

by Anita Peachee

A recent meeting between student representatives and administrative members was used to discuss six very important issues concerning the majority of IUPUI students.

According to Vice-president Dr. Glenn W. Irwin Jr., the "Campus Master Plan" will be unveiled September 25th in three presentations in the Nursing School Auditorium. What is to happen to the campus is yet to be seen and until then, one can only look at what has happened to IUPUI up to the present for an idea of what is to become.

One might say IUPUI really began in 1890 when a school called Indianapolis University was founded. Indianapolis University consisted of four schools as follows: Indianapolis Medical College, which has become the IUPUI School of Medicine; Law School of Indiana, which is now the IUPUI Law School; Butler College, now Butler University; and the Indiana Dental College, which is now also part of IUPUI.

Indianapolis University only lasted around thirty years; however, it did lay a foundation for the existing urban university. According to Dr. Irwin, no college has expanded such as IUPUI. The basic reasons for this, he cited, were the facts that more people are working their way through college and IUPUI is close to their jobs, and the university has the professional schools which so many students are interested in.

Another asset to IUPUI's success came in the form of a ready-made reputation. According to Dr. Irwin, it takes about fifty years for a university to establish a really good reputation. When IUPUI was founded, it had the advantage of both Indiana and Purdue's reputations.

The major problem, however, was the fact that IUPUI schools were only divisions of the original Indiana and Purdue schools, which tended not to attract much-needed faculty. To correct this problem, however, the university has decided to make the divisions actually part of the school itself. That move has promoted the availability of better faculty.

DISCUSSION OF ISSUES

Also discussed at the meeting were the possibilities of changes in the schedules. It seems several students have expressed the desire to begin fall classes on a Monday instead of Wednesday. However, it was explained that beginning in the fall of 1976, all campuses connected with Indiana University and Purdue University would be on the same schedule. This way, students taking classes in two or more different campuses won't have any schedule conflicts. In fact, the schedule has been decided for the next five years so the chances of any changes are minimal.

Another problem shared by many students is the vending machine situation. Dr. Irwin admitted he wasn't aware of a serious problem and stated the only word he had heard about the situation was in the first part of a Sagamore series on the machines by Don Curtis.

Dr. Irwin explained there had been no complaint to warrant an investigation into the quality of the food at the

Demo candidate to visit Urban Politics class

by John F. Schmitt

Robert V. Welch, the Democratic candidate for Mayor of Indianapolis, has accepted an invitation to address Dr. Robert Kirch's class on Urban Politics on Wednesday evening, Oct. 1, at 7 p.m.

Dr. Kirch has announced his intentions to move the class from its regular meeting place to another, larger room in order to open the session to any interested student.

Present plans call for the session to be conducted in the Faculty Lounge in Cavanaugh Hall. This could be changed, however, if it appears that the facilities might be too crowded.

Welch, a first-time office seeker, will address the class and then open the session for questions and answers. Tentative plans also call for a small, informal reception after the class. The reception would be hosted by the IUPUI Young Democrat organization.

Anyone interested in attending the session or in gaining any further information should contact Dr. Kirch at the Political Science office, fifth floor of Cavanaugh Hall.

time the contract was awarded to Modern Vending.

High prices are also a common complaint of many students. A suggestion was made to sell the food at cost. The profit made from the machines goes into a general fund which eventually gets back to the student in the form of various services provided.

The big volume of sale of food comes from the facilities at the University Hospital. The reasons cited for this were that the dining area in the hospital has more room and moves at a faster pace than the Union Building facilities. It was also brought up that there is not much choice as to where a nursing student can go for meals. The Union Building is actually losing money because of its lack of volume.

The fourth subject discussed was of a different nature than the rest. Some students felt the attitudes of some of the receptionists in the various offices leave something to be desired. Even Dean Gerald Preusz agreed that it is "a constant battle to get people to be polite." However, he added that the pressure, especially around registration time, had a lot to do with attitudes. It was also suggested that students try the "do unto others" concept when dealing with any office personnel.

Historical Perspectives

Bunker Hill (or how not to see Boston on '5 per day)

by Bertha D. Nation

Everyone is aware, I'm sure, that these United States are going to throw a birthday party next year. When you consider how slowly we're moving with the Republican and Democratic parties, you can see why we need a birthday party.

Actually, everyone is aware of the birthday, but few people are aware of all the things connected with the formation of this country. That's the purpose of this series of articles.

"Ahah!" you say, "But I've already taken H105 and I know all there is to know."

"Ahah!" I say, "and if you think you know something about history from H105 you're a bigger dummy than I thought."

Everyone knows that all the stuff in history classes is a bunch of bunk. (This is believed to be the reason why so many history profs sleep in bunk beds.)

Besides, everyone always sleeps through H105 and misses everything that's going on anyway.

If you really want to know history, you have to get to the private collection of books which is hidden under Woman's Day magazine in the library. These books, which only the history profs are supposed to know about because they contain nude pictures of Dolly Madison, are the basis of this series.

In 1775 or so, the British passed the Stamp Act which said that all of the colonists had to use zip codes and mail early for Christmas.

This made the colonists mad. In retaliation, the Boston vice squad dressed up as Indians and dumped the British army's supply of Columbian into the Boston Bay.

This was called the Boston Tea Party and was the namesake for a later local movement to reform the marijuana laws.

This made the British mad. They decided to invade Boston. On hearing this, Paul Revere got on his horse and rode through the countryside yelling, "The British are coming! The British are coming!"

This resulted in Revere being arrested for making obscene utterances in public.

The British started toward Boston and the colonists decided to meet them at Bunker Hill, an Air Force base outside of Peru, Indiana, which was later renamed after an astronaut.

The battle was actually fought on Breed's Hill, but the name was changed during the Victorian Era when it was impolite to publicly mention anything about sex.

(The Victorian Era, by the way, was so named because everyone in those days had big chests, like Victor Mature.)

Anyway, the battle started with the colonists on top of the hill and the British on the bottom. The history books say that the American commander told his men, "Don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes." THIS IS A LIE.

What he actually said was, "Don't fire until you see the whites of their thighs." This was because the British used to unnerve their enemies by having four or five lovely ladies run out in front of their troops and raise their skirts, thus shaking up whatever calm remained in the lonely soldiers. This was the cue that the British attack was forthcoming.

On this occasion, however, the British lasses were all in sick bay with bad cases of the Boston Baked Bean Blues.

Since the girls did not run out, the colonists waited too long to fire their weapons, and the Americans suffered their first real defeat in battle.

For more details on this battle, you may read about it in its entirety in "The Proposed Battle Plan for Success in Vietnam" by General Westmoreland.

Applications being taken

Student seat on Board of Trustees open

by Al Chastain

In December of this year Governor Otis Bowen will appoint the first student ever to sit as a voting member on the Indiana University Board of Trustees. This is the direct result of many years of effort on the part of students, student governments, and legislators. With the passage of Senate Bill 10 during the last session of the Indiana General Assembly, the last barrier between the Board of Trustees and the student population of each state university crumbled. For the first time since Indiana University was formed, students will have a vote in the decisions that guide this university.

Realistically speaking, it is a small step (one student out of nine board members) but it is one that everyone at IUPUI can participate in if they wish. Applications are being made available to hopeful candidates for the position, and memberships for the Search and Screen committee that will review these applications are available also. IUPUI has a chance to be the university that has that certain student who is best qualified to be the student representative for all IU students. However, the time to act is now.

Hal Smith, IUPUI Student Body President, in remarks about the position said, "It is important for the students of IUPUI to realize that this position is open to all IU students. It doesn't matter if you're going for a Purdue or IU degree (at IUPUI) or whether you're an undergrad or graduate student, or whether you go to Bloomington, IUPUI, or IU Northwest, everybody has a chance to get the job."

A search and screen committee is being formed to evaluate the IUPUI students who apply for the job. Once selected by the search and screen committee of IUPUI, the applications will be forwarded to the final screening committee. This committee will be composed of two students from each IU campus, and one member from the Governors office. This committee will meet on October 17th to make the final selection of 10 applicants whose portfolios will be sent to the Governor, who will then make the final decision.

For those students interested, here are some of the responsibilities that make up this new membership on the Board of Trustees. The position will be in effect for two years (eighteen months this time due to the late passage and implementation of Senate Bill 10). During this period the student member will be required to attend a meeting each month, each meeting being at a different campus to insure equal representation.

Mrs. Susan McGuire, an administrative assistant to Gov. Bowen, has been charged by the Governor with the responsibility of interviewing candidates for the position at each school. In a recent interview with Dennis Royalty of the Indianapolis Star, Mrs. McGuire said that she "didn't see how they (the student trustees) would be able to do the job." She believes that the students who apply must be exceptional, as they are faced with pursuit of an education as well as participating in dozens of weighty trustee decisions.

The selection of IUPUI's student candidates is the first priority of business for the Student Association at IUPUI. Interested students are asked to stop by the Student Association office (Room 001C in the Cavanaugh Bldg.) to pick up applications for the position. All students, faculty, and administrators who may be interested in being a part of the search and screen committee are also asked to contact Hal Smith or the SA office, 264-3907. Someone will be selected for the job. That person should be from IUPUI.

BLACK STUDENT UNION

The Black Student Union welcomes you to IUPUI. Black Student Union is an organization, whose primary concern and function is to assist students in their educational endeavors. Realizing that students have needs outside the educational institutions, the Black Student Union attempts to provide supportive services, which may or may not be directly educationally related, yet equally important to the educational experience. The Black Student Union also attempts to raise the level of consciousness and awareness of the student body as well as the university administrators in the areas of black concern. Black Student Union also serves as a liaison between the community and the University.

The Black Student Union will have our meetings every Friday at 12:00 noon in Room 001-B, Cavanaugh Hall, starting August 29, 1975. We encourage you to work and participate in your Black Student Union. We are in need of students for University committees and officers. Your volunteer work is wanted and needed to carry on a functional Black Student Union.

Vice-Chairman George Simpson

Sports

by Michael Kemp

Two more intramural competitions have been announced by Jeff Vessely. September 26 is the deadline for both Golf intramurals and the new Superstars competition.

The Banker's Handicap Tournament will be held on October 3. Competition is open to anyone carrying a minimum of 3 credit hours. The invitation is also open to any staff or faculty member who like to run the links.

Those wishing to enter, need to take their $5.00 entry fee to the school of Physical Education (1010 W. 64th) before the deadline. After entering, participants are required to phone 264-3764 for their tee-off time. The entry charge includes green fees and the merchandise prizes to be given away. The competition will be finished and prizes will be distributed all in one day.

The Golf Club of Indiana has been chosen for the playing course. Directions are as follows: Take I-65 west to exit 334 (Zionsville Rd.), go west 1 mile and you're there.

Get your girl friend, her boyfriend and all your other friends together for the Superstars competition. Yes, guys, this is your chance to mix it up with the girls. Just throw eight people together and enter before September 26.

Six events will be featured: Home Run Derby, Tug of War, Swimming Freestyle Relay, Medley Running Relay and Volleyball.

In the Home Run Derby four people will hit for distance. Judging will be determined by points.

Five man teams will face-off against each other in the Tug of War. Elimination will take place in a tournament style. The volleyball teams will be comprised of six people.

The final three events will be tandem bike racing, swimming and foot running. These will be run in relay style with four man teams. Therefore each man depends upon the other. Judging will be according to the team time.

There is a $10.00 entry fee per team. An important fact to remember is that each team member will be allowed to enter only four events.

Intramural competition is presented to IUPUI in order to maintain physical fitness and present the student body with more activities. Their efforts should quell a most common complaint, "I have nothing to do."

SUMMARY OF FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

In this series of three articles we have identified the following irregularities with regard to the vending contract:

1. No standardized evaluation form or criteria sheet was used in the comparison of vendor facilities.
2. Of the university officials conducting the bidding evaluation, none inspected both Modern and Calderon's facilities.
3. The university's quotation form was vague and incomplete.
4. The two vendor's sandwiches inspected by the university purchasing officials were provided by one of the two vendors.
5. Although Modern quoted pastry and ice cream at two prices, only the higher priced items appear in the machines on campus.

6. The university arbitrarily decided to evaluate the bids on the basis of highest commission and disregarded the prices of vended products.

7. The university allowed no input from students, faculty, or employees on the bidding procedures.

In view of these findings, we believe that the university should:

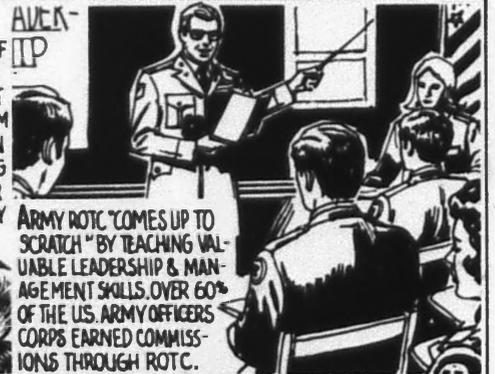

1. Revise its bid form and develop standard evaluation criteria for site inspections.
2. Require Modern to offer pastry and ice cream at the quoted prices.
3. Allow student, faculty, and employee representatives to participate in the process of bid evaluation in the future.
4. Seriously consider reopening bids on the vending contract.

EARLY BOXING BOUTS WERE WITHOUT RULES. BECAUSE INJURY AND EVEN DEATH BECAME SO FREQUENT, BOXERS DEMANDED REGULATIONS FOR THEIR PROTECTION.

IUPUI CLOSES REGISTRATION WITH ENROLLMENT OVER 20,000 FIRST TIME

Total IUPUI enrollment of 20,296 was recorded at the end of late registration period on Aug. 29, putting IUPUI over the 20,000 figure for the first time.

These are the preliminary figures and may be adjusted up or downward a little when all registration business is completed. The figure, however, is 10 per cent increase over a year ago when enrollment was 18,450.

The IUPUI totals contributed to making the total number of students in the IU system at an all-time high of about 75,000. IUPUI led in the total number of new students, up 1,045 over last year. The Bloomington campus was next with 1,601 more students than last year.

Enrollment increases were noted on each campus in the system. Some had increases of 37 percent, 17 percent, 15 percent and 12 percent.

Among reasons given by officials for the increases are:

—Lack of employment in some professions causing some students to continue their education to further improve their skills and talents;

—Impact of the high birth rates 18 years ago;

—Action of the universities to not increase fees in the face of inflation. Residential campus room rates also did not increase.

IUPUI Admissions Director John C. Krivacs said that new admissions to IUPUI totaled 12 percent over last year, and rose above 5,000 for the first time. There were admission increases noted in each school of the university, and almost every department which he has records on also noted an enrollment increase.

HERRON SCHEDULES EXHIBIT ON TODAY'S GRAPHIC PROTEST AND GRAND TRADITION

An exhibition on artistic protest, reflecting a wide range of graphic styles and techniques, will begin at Herron School of Art on Friday, Sept. 19.

The exhibition, first presented in New York during December, was assembled under direction of Ralph Shikes, author of the book, The Indignant Eye. Among 40 artists who are represented are Rico Lebrun, Ben Shahn, Leon Golub, Robert Rauschenberg, and Antonia Frasconi. Also included are prints showing the grand tradition by Goya, Hogarth, Bosch, Daumier, Millet and Kollwitz.

An opening reception will be held in the Herron Gallery from 7 to 9 p.m. on Friday with the exhibit being on display until Oct. 6, Monday through Friday from noon to 5 p.m.

The exhibit is circulated by the Pratt Graphics Center, a non-profit workshop and gallery devoted to original prints and printmaking in New York City.

EARLY INTERVIEW DATE SCHEDULED

One company has set up an interview date for prospective employees prior to the general fall interview schedule for the campus.

The William H. Block Co. department store is asking to see BS-Business and BA-Economics grads on October 1. The interviews will be in the Placement Center, Room 60, Krannert Building, 38th Street Campus. Sign up sheets are available after 8:30 a.m. any day and you must have a college interview form or resume on file before you can interview.

The complete fall IUPUI interview schedule will begin on Oct. 7 and continue to Dec. 12. Registration packets for the regular interviews are available now in the Placement Office. Phone 923-1321, ext 366, for more information.

The fall interview schedule will be published on this page beginning Sept. 22. It will cover a two week period each issue so that students can plan their own schedules. Students can begin registering now, and appointments are made beginning two weeks prior to the interview dates.

OVERSEAS STUDY COMPETITION CLOSES SEPT. 16

The 1976-77 competition for grants for graduate study abroad offered under the Mutual Educational Exchange Program (Fulbright-Hays) and by foreign governments, universities and private donors will close shortly. Only a few more weeks remain in which qualified graduate students may apply for one of the 350 awards which are available to 52 countries.

Most of the grants offered provide round-trip transportation, tuition and maintenance for one academic year; a few provide international travel only or a stipend intended as a partial grant-in-aid.

Candidates must be U.S. citizens at the time of application, hold a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by the beginning date of the grant, have language ability commensurate with the demands of the proposed study projects, and good health. Preference is given to those between 20 and 35 years of age.

Application forms and further information for students currently enrolled in IUPUI may be obtained from the Graduate Office, Room A101, Union Building. The deadline for filing applications on this campus is September 16.
