Sagamore
It is a time of new beginnings. The Sagamore is beginning the year with a new editor; the country is beginning the term with a new president; and the hostages are beginning a new life, a life that has finally brought them home.

Reagan, in his inaugural speech, brought out the point that we as individuals can live beyond our means only for a short time... that we must have a new beginning...we will begin to act today.

Today, both Reagan and Carter were smiling at the inauguration. They do have reason to smile. There is no longer a grey cloud hanging over their heads—a reminder there at all times that the hostages could be killed at any moment or held in a country from which they would never return.

Yes, they do have reason to smile. The great weight that was on Jimmy Carter's shoulders has been lifted and placed upon the shoulders of Ronald Reagan, a man that does not yet know how very heavy that weight can be.

Let them both smile. They're not fooling me and I hope they're not fooling you. We live in a troubled world, a world of violence, unemployment and poverty. War scares us in the face daily and death is a sure thing.

Don't let the thrill of the hostages being released wipe out the memory of how they were put in that situation. They were violently removed from the U.S. Embassy, a place that is supposed to guarantee safety in a foreign country. 52 hostages were held for 444 days against their will.

They are free. All 52 hostages are free. The price was high. During Reagan's speech, he made the statement, "The price for freedom has sometimes been high, but we have never been unwilling to pay that price." Just how much did it cost the United States for the hostages? How much did it cost them?

Inaugural apathy

To the Editor:
It disturbs me very much that there are so many rude, disrespectful, uninterested, "supposed" students attending this university.

While trying to listen to the inauguration of our president, I was extremely annoyed at the "jerks" playing cards at a table in the basement of Cavanaugh. They were so loud that it was almost impossible to hear the TV at such an important point in history.

Besides being very rude and stupid I think it is very sad that they were so uninterested in what was going on around them. It didn't seem to phase them that 52 of their fellow Americans were at that very moment flying home after 444 days in captivity.

It probably won't matter if I write this letter because the ones I want to read it probably can't read anyway.

Book Bank success

To the Editor:
The members of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity would like to take this opportunity to thank all those students who participated in our Book Bank this semester. We would also like to encourage students who have never used the Book Bank to sell their used books to do so next semester when we will sponsor the Book Bank again.

We would like to extend our thanks and appreciation to those in the faculty and staff that have helped us in the organization of the Book Bank this semester and past semesters. A particular thanks to Mr. F. Brey of the Blake Street Library and to Dr. Golam Mannan and his staff in Student Services.

Sincerely,
Susan Sommerville

The short-term economic outlook for Indiana, is one of a weak recovery.

The recession in Indiana is narrowly based. Indiana is an automotive parts state and the manufacturing of automotive parts has been declining since the spring of 1979. This decrease has hit the state hard as witnessed in Kokomo where sales have been declining since the Chrysler plant.

with the Chrysler plant, Indiana's steel industry has also been affected due to the drop in car sales.

Car sales have been effectuated as witnessed in Kokomo and the auto industry in the 1980's will be to keep the present business in Indiana and to bring in new firms.

One way of doing this is with business tax cuts proposed by Reagan on a national level, to stimulate growth. But, tax cuts are a "two-edged sword," says Dr. Kirk.

Two cuts can stimulate production of capital goods in Indiana, says Kirk, but firms with tax cuts may decide to relocate. If businesses decide to take advantage of the cuts and relocate, then Indiana may lose some of the corporations. Another way of keeping business in Indiana, says Kirk, is through tax abatements or breaks given to companies if they remain or locate in certain areas.

Reagan proposed this incentive, on a federal level to draw businesses to hard hit areas of the country through the "enterprise zone" concept. Some firms, Kirk comments have come to expect tax abatements whether it is necessary or not. It is done to be competitive with other cities and states.

Dr. Kirk states that, in the future, instead of bringing business to people, people may be brought to the businesses through some sort of incentives. It may be a more efficient way of providing employment opportunities.

What Indianapolis does possess, according to Dr. Kirk, is an excellent location for regional distribution to serve an eight to ten state market.

One economic development strategy is to attract firms that are involved in high technology, with IUPUI playing a role in developing the skills sought by these firms. The IUPUI professor feels that RCA has also helped offset the declining manufacturing industry, by bringing in facilities to build the new video disc players in Bloomington and Indianapolis.

There may also be a boost to the auto industry in the 1980's through greater use of electronics in vehicles. Indiana would be a part of this. The state of Indiana's economy also affects students. There are fewer job opportunities upon graduation and recession means students paying more tuition.

Sickened economy recovers slowly with less revenues coming in, less revenues can be provided for higher education. The students must absorb these costs.

Students may also see a smaller curriculum from which to choose at Iowa State University 42 percent of the undergraduates failed to get into at least one class because of lack of funds for classes.

Currently, Indiana is rated 39th in the nation in supporting of higher education, due to decreasing revenues.

Haig—effective toughness

by Chris Brown

Competence, toughness and dependability are what Alexander Haig will try to bring to the position of secretary of state.

The world is looking for that from the United States, says Dr. Charles Winslow. The IUPUI professor of political science feels that the world wants the U.S. to stand up for itself.

Winslow comments that Haig is not only the right choice for the Reagan administration, but his tactical experience will be effective in diplomatic affairs. The secretary of state will bring a more traditional and realistic approach to the state department.

Haig should be most effective in his relations with Europe. He is known on the Continent and will take a hard line there. Haig is consistent and has good credentials.

Haig's dealings with the Soviet Union, feels Winslow, will be cool and distant. The diplomat will tend to his own military and diplomatic programs.

Haig's weaknesses will be in Africa and Latin America, mainly because of the image President Reagan has, says Professor Winslow.

Dr. Winslow feels that if Reagan's current image is maintained, the United States will suffer in the long run. There will have to be a change in the new president's image for Haig to be truly effective.

SA Bill 19, the Student Assembly bill proposing the Assembly sponsorship of a student telephone directory, has been consigned to legislative limbo by the SA's programs committee.
"We put the bill into committee to kill it for the year (1980)," stated committee chairman Doug Stevens. "There are just too many considerations to just rush right into it."
A primary concern expressed by SA officers is the financial aspect of producing the directory. The bill states the directory will be produced by a local production company "at no cost to the student assembly, the university or the student body."
Addressing the issue of profit, the bill stipulates that "in return for sponsoring the directory, the student assembly would receive 100 percent of the profits." Profit consists of total advertising sales minus production costs and a 20 percent advertising sales commission. All advertising sales would be handled by the local production company. Paul Ragan, president of the Student Assembly and chief proponent of the bill estimates the cost of the directory to be in the $6,500 to $7,000 range. With these figures as a base, Ragan expects the directory to net about $1,000 in profit. These predictions are, in part, based on contracts with About Face Productions, a local firm being considered for the production of the directory.
SA vice president Jim Gibson contends there are not enough known financial facts to make a decision on the project. "We have not yet seen anything on paper about the finances. The potential for profit is there and we're concerned about the best interests of the students, not the economic well-being of individuals."
Stevens backs Gibson on this point by saying, "It sounds too good to be true. There has to be a catch."
Gibson and Stevens also have doubts about dealing with Michael Reardon, a former SA president and current representative of About Face Productions. "We want to take a closer look at negotiating with someone who knows the inner workings of IUPUI as well as he does," said Stevens.
The main thrust of the bill is a two-year-old Student Life Survey. A ranking system, used in the random sample survey, shows students assigning a middle ranking to the importance of a directory, but a much higher ranking to their anticipated use of the directory. Committee members are questioning the validity of the survey and the actual need for the directory.
The suspected inability to inform students of the right to withhold their names and phone numbers has caused strong opposition to beginning the project before next fall.
President Ragan optimistic about the directory, predicted an information campaign lasting at least 30 days with production of the directory starting in March. "No way," said Stevens. "We don't know what kind of negative feelings are out there and we have to cover ourselves as well as the students."
If the directory project is approved, the assembly will seek to add a stop at registration for students to restrain publication of their names and numbers.
Students wanting to have their listings withheld in March would have to obtain a restraint form from the Registrar's office.
The inclusion of addresses in the directory is also a matter of debate in the assembly. Some members feel that addresses would benefit only junk mailers. Others, including Ragan, take the position that junk mail never hurts anyone and is easy to throw away.
The possible harassment of females is an outgrowth of the address issue. It is thought by some that the information the directory would provide could put them in a vulnerable position.
Gibson also cited administrative cooperation as an obstacle to be overcome, even though Dr. Golam Mannan, dean for student services, encourages the project. Dr. Mannan would release the computer tape with the names and numbers of the students after reviewing the financial arrangements and receiving assurance the project represents no potential harm to IUPUI and its students.
In speaking of the directory, Ragan said, "The student telephone directory is a tool and a convenience the students need and indicate they want. This year's Student Assembly is the only Assembly with the capability to accomplish this much needed task."

Applications for Circle City Circuit Scholarships

Students with a cumulative grade-point average of 3.3 or better (on a 4.0 system) for all college courses attempted through the fall semester of 1980 are invited to apply for one of the Circle City Circuit Scholarships. Other criteria specify that the applicants be degree-seeking students enrolled at IUPUI who will be enrolled at IUPUI during the Fall Semester 1981. Part-time students as well as full-time students are eligible for the Scholarships.

When the Scholarships were created the Committee members wanted to emphasize two areas of campus life about which they were concerned. Therefore, the Scholarship Committee will give priority consideration to try to recognize (1) an athlete who competes, or has competed, in intercollegiate athletics, and (2) a handicapped student. A third scholarship will be awarded without consideration of the two recognized area.

The Committee will receive all applications submitted by the deadline and will be the judges of eligibility of candidates.

Applications for the Scholarships may be obtained at any Student Activities Office (CA 322, UN G O23), or, the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid (Berkey Bld.) at IUPUI. Applications must be received by 6PM on Monday, March 2, 1981, in the Student Activities Office in the Student Union, G O23. 1300 West Michigan St., Indianapolis, IN 46202, to be considered. Candidates must attach to their application a transcript of all college and university classwork. All applications received will be acknowledged by mail. Candidates may enclose a black and white photo to be used for publicity releases, but the photo will not be used until after the initial judging.

Recipients will be named at the IUPUI Honors Day, April 10, 1981 in the Champion’s Room, Indianapolis Sports Center. The awards will be available at the time of student’s completion of registration in August, 1981.

The Student Program Advisory Committee has established the following schedule for the budget seminars to be held next week:

Monday, Jan. 26—38th Street Campus, K Building—noon
Tuesday, Jan. 27—Cavanaugh Hall Room 226—3 pm
Tuesday, Jan. 27—Cavanaugh Hall Room 439—6:30 pm
Wednesday, Jan. 28—Union Building—noon
Thursday, Jan. 29—Law School—4:30 pm

Any student, even if he/she is not a member of a registered student group, is invited to attend one of these seminars. The seminars should not last more than one and one-half hours. Information sheets, guidelines and examples will be distributed and discussed. These same materials will be available in both Student Activities Offices and in the Student Assembly Office after Monday, Jan. 26.

SPAC has reported a problem in contacting student groups. Because a number of these groups have not registered with the Student Activities Office, they cannot be sent information concerning the budget cycle. Any group that is eligible for funding, and has not registered for this academic year, should do so immediately. Budget proposals from unregistered groups cannot be considered for funding by SPAC. Any group that has not received notification of the budget cycle should contact Tim Sullivan, 264-2583, or in the Student Assembly Office CA 001C. All budget proposals for the 81-82 school year must be received by SPAC on or before Feb. 13, 1981.
TV courses for shut-ins

Six hours of college credits can be earned at home watching television as IUPUI adds a second television course for the spring semester. Last fall, for the first time, IUPUI offered a three-credit television course. Theater and Drama (T490) was taught to 24 students by drama professor Dr. Dorothy Webb. Now, shut-ins, men and women with small children at home, hospital and nursing-home patients and even people in prison can also take a freshman English composition course, Writing for a Reason (W131), taught by Mary Ellen Streeter. Each course has 30 one-half-hour segments aired twice each week on public television, WFYI-Channel 20 in Indianapolis. Students will work from textbooks and study guides and written essays will be required for the composition course. Students can call their instructors with questions or comments, and the class will meet on the IUPUI campus for personal instruction and discussion. Special arrangements will be made for those who cannot get to campus.

Registration for one or both courses can be made by mail. Students should be admitted to IUPUI and are required to pass basic grammar test before taking English composition. Call 264-2094 about the drama course and 264-7442 about the composition course.
