IUPUI student struck by car

by Michael W. Meiring

A young woman was struck by a car Monday morning while crossing Michigan Street at Minerva Street after she had gotten off a Metro bus. There is no cross-walk or traffic light at the intersection.

Katrina L. Denton, 19, who is blind in one eye, was struck by a car driven by Colleen Miller of Arlington, Virginia as she was crossing Michigan Street to get to her class. Miss Denton was taken by ambulance to Community Hospital and according to hospital personnel, suffered minor head injuries.

According to IUPUI police, Ms. Miller said she was driving her car at a speed of about 15-20mph and swerved to miss another student who was crossing at the same intersection. IUPUI police also said there were no skid marks.

Miss Denton said she was walking in a crowd of other students as she exited the bus. After looking east on Michigan Street to check traffic, she proceeded to cross and was struck after crossing approximately three-fourths of the four-lane street.

Miss Denton was treated for her injuries at the hospital, and released.

Women's Services

Women's Forum Series sponsored by the IUPUI Continuing Education Center for Women presents Marjorie Stonehill, assistant dean of continuing studies; Dr. James East, director of Learn & Shop and Weekend College; and Dr. Kathleen Klein, coordinator of Women's Studies, on Channel 4 at 5:30 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 3. They will discuss the Center for Women and other services that IUPUI provides for women.

Bicycle Club

Students and faculty can find friends and good riding companions with the IUPUI Bicycle Club.

All interested persons should contact the Activities Office at 264-3931 or Pam DeWitt at 251-1702, or attend a meeting Thursday, Sept. 10 from 9:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Cavanaugh Hall, Room 233.

Handicapped Students

Purdue University and Indiana University will broadcast a course on mainstreaming handicapped students this fall over the video network of the Indiana Higher Education Telecommunication System.

The primary focus of the course will be on educational realities and implications of various handicapping conditions.

Class time will be 5:30 to 7 p.m. and instructors will be Professors Steve Graham of Purdue and James McElaky of IU.

Registration will be Sept. 14, the first day of class, at Thomas Carr Howe High School, 4900 Julian Avenue, Room 69.

APO Party

Alpha Phi Omega, a coed national service fraternity and organization that promotes leadership, friendship and service will be holding its Fall Rush Party, Sept. 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the Roof Lounge of the Union Building. All students at IUPUI are invited to come and learn about APO. For more information contact Jim DeNoon at 357-6891.

Tennis championships

Entries for the IUPUI Intramural Department Clay Surface Tennis Championships must be received in the Intramural Office by 5 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 8. Entry fees are $2.50 for faculty and staff and $1.50 for students. Entry blanks are available at the 38th Street campus in Krannert Building 060, in Cavanaugh Hall, Room 322, and at the School of Physical Education. Contact Jeff Vessely at 264-3764.

Slow pitch softball

Deadline for entering a team in the IUPUI Intramural Slow Pitch Softball League is 5 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 9. There is a mandatory team managers' meeting Thursday, Sept. 10 at 6:30 p.m. at the School of Physical Education. Games will be played at Riverside Park from Sept. 13 through Oct. 11. For more information contact Jeff Vessely at 264-3764.

Free film

"El Salvador: Revolution or Death" will be shown Wednesday, Sept. 9 at 7 p.m. in Cavanaugh Room 221, followed by a short meeting of the Indianapolis Committee for Democracy in Latin America. Everyone is welcome to attend.

BSU dance

The Black Student Union is sponsoring a back-to-school dance Friday, Sept. 4 from 9 p.m. until ? in the cafeteria of the Student Union Building. Music will be provided by Curtis Fly Fox, a D.J. with the new local station WGRT 107 FM.

Volleyball tryouts

Any women interested in trying out for the IUPUI Women's Volleyball Team should contact Coach Tim Brown at 264-2764 no later than September 4.

The Metros opened practice Aug. 24 and their first match is Sept. 15 against Oakland City and Valparaiso.

Observations

Students crossed up

Yes, another student was hit by a car while crossing at the intersection of West Michigan Street and Minerva Street. According to other people the Sagamore has talked to, this is not the first time it has happened.

It was hard trying to get any information about the other accidents that have reportedly taken place. When our office called the campus police office, we were told that they could provide the information but it would take some time because reports of that type are filed with other personal injury accidents such as someone choking on some food in the cafeteria.

Hundreds of students and faculty members cross that area of Michigan Street every day of the week. The Business/SPEA, University Library, and Cavanaugh Buildings are all across Michigan Street from a large parking area and this accounts for the large number of pedestrian traffic. Just about any time of day one can go out and watch people run to and from the parking lot, dodging cars as they go. Most of the time they make it. This past Monday morning, one didn't.

Katrina Denton was struck down by a car early Monday morning (See page 2). She was lucky. She suffered only minor head injuries from the accident. But what about the next person? How long are the students and faculty of IUPUI going to have to wait before something is done about that area?

We don't know if it is the university's responsibility or the city's to put up any traffic lights or paint some cross-walks but they are sorely needed. How about getting something done before someone is injured seriously or, worse yet, killed.

Poor, but proud financial aid recipient airs gripes

Dear Editor:

I have never written the Sagamore before, nor do I consider myself to be a mal-content or activist of any sort, but I would like to comment on a problem I'm sure is shared by many fellow students.

I speak of the consummate tackiness with which financial aid recipients are handled during fee payment. First of all at one stop during the process, everyone is asked in line: "ARE YOU RECEIVING FINANCIAL AID???" And if you have the B**** to whimper an affirmative response to this interrogation, you're asked to go to another room in Cavanaugh Hall where you are given some papers to take to Lecture Hall.

Once inside Lecture Hall, you are whisked into the largest lecture room in the whole building along with your unfortunate cohorts. After you sit there forever, your name is yelled out at tremendously audible volumes so the other several hundred people inside can hear. After you are asked some questions to make sure you are the one to receive the award, you have to walk the last mile up the stairs to complete the process.

Now I know that with the large number of people on financial aid there has to be an expeditious way to handle them. But, I also think that an individual's financial privacy is damn important also. Although many people don't care who the hell knows they get government aid, many, like myself, do give a good G** D****

In an attempt to circumvent this recurrent humiliation, I finally thought I had a solution (at least for me). I saved as much money as I could during the summer (my summer savings usually used to buy clothes), so I could pay part of my fee at registration time, get a deferment for the balance and go to the Bursar's Office and pick up my award with a little privacy, paying my balance in the process.

Well, it turns out the joke was on yours truly. When I called the Bursar's Office to inquire if my award was there for me to pick up, I was told I would have to wait three weeks until Sept. 11 to get my award and that it would be at a designated FINANCIAL AID room in Cavanaugh Hall.

At time of writing, this date is still several weeks away, but I can well imagine that this day will see occurrences most reminiscent of the fee payment bull****.

Now maybe I'm overreacting to this whole thing, right? I mean, beggars can't be choosy, right? But maybe there are other students out there that feel the same way and would like the opportunity to have their right to financial privacy protected.

I hope to hell you'll print this letter and make this problem known to the proper authorities.

Thank you very much,
Poor, But Proud!!!

History focuses only on the past. True? Not so for the IUPUI Archives at University Library. Although the archivists there research more than 150 years into IUPUI's past, they want researchers a century from now to understand the collections compiled today. Jeannette Matthew and her staff accept the unique mission to be the central source of information about the growth and development of IUPUI.

The archivists gather, preserve, index and explain IUPUI's history and actively solicit current information from faculty, staff and students. Filed by source rather than subject (as is the custom in libraries), the information may take the form of reports, proposals, news clippings, photos, records of student activities, blueprints, recordings, newsletters and more — in short, all parts of IUPUI's story, whether committed to paper, tape, photographs or memory. This growing story, and the services of the researchers, are available to anyone. And the Archives staff regularly conducts archives seminars to acquaint students and the community with this resource and how to use it.

In a room piled high with boxes and shelves of file folders, Mrs. Matthew reflects with pride on the task of organizing more than a century of history relevant to IUPUI. She describes the challenge as always changing and exciting.

By the way... does anyone remember the state fair held on these grounds?

Local professors discuss Libyan crisis

by T. Quigley

"I wonder how Reagan would like it if the Soviet Union was playing war games 60 miles off the United States coastline," commented Dr. Victor Wallis (of the IUPUI Political Science Department) in response to the controversial U.S.-Libyan "dogfight" last week over the Gulf of Sidra. The one-minute air battle reportedly killed at least one Libyan pilot and destroyed two Libyan SU-22 Fitter fighter-bombers downed by the Sidewinder missiles of U.S. F-14 Tomcats.

While all the facts surrounding the incident may never be known, and the debate surrounding the territorial waters in dispute will, no doubt, continue, this confrontation will be seen as yet another effort by the Reagan administration to flex its muscles, demonstrate its military might and its willingness to fight.

Only a few days before the "dogfight" occurred, a small August 24th Newsweek item left no doubt that Reagan intended to provoke a response from Libya: "After months of debating how to neutralize Muammur Kadaffi, the Reagan Administration this week will offer its first direct challenge to the Libyan strongman. On instructions from President Reagan, Defense Secretary Weinberger has ordered the Sixth Fleet to conduct maneuvers off the Libyan coast in the Gulf of Sidra, which Kadaffi declares to be Libyan territory. The United States doesn't recognize Libya's claim and will test Kadaffi's reaction and those of his allies in Moscow by staging war games in the gulf. To be sure that the world gets the message, the Navy has warned marines and pilots in the region that 3,200 square miles of the gulf will be included in the exercises firing range..."

On Tuesday, August 18, two aircraft carriers (the 'Nimitz' and 'Forrestal'), four cruisers, four destroyers and two destroyer escorts entered the Gulf of Sidra, which the U.S. maintains is international water. After about 24 hours of war maneuvers and missile-firing exercises 60 miles from the Libyan coast, the U.S. F-14's shot down a pair of Libyan fighter planes after an "unprovoked attack" by the Libyans, according to the Defense Department.

President Reagan declared that the air battle had sent a message "to the enemies of freedom in the world... Let friend and foe alike know America has the muscle to back up its word."

Indiana's Senator Richard Lugar told the Associated Press that the incident may help the U.S. fend off other future challenges by Soviet-aligned nations, but Senator Dan Quayle preferred to see the clash as an "isolated, unfortunate incident."

Congressman Andrew Jacobs, Jr. told the Sagamore that "Apart from the dangers to world peace which such a confrontation may heighten and apart from whatever personal tragedy may be involved for the families of the Libyan military personnel, the incident taught a lesson to two people: both Colonel Kadaffi and President Reagan learned that what Mr. Reagan has been saying about the weakness of our defense system is not true."

Dr. Richard Fredland, dean of the IUPUI Political Science Department says he has a lot of unanswered questions about the "dogfight." "What are the real facts?" he asked. "All our information comes from the State Department and Defense Department press releases. Obviously, they have a vested interest in maintaining that the U.S. pilots acted rightly, that they were in international waters, that the Libyans fired first."

Fredland says it appears that Reagan is saying that the United States alone wants to determine international law and international boundaries.

Over 130 countries have been participating for several years in the United Nation's Law of the Seas Conference to determine guidelines for international boundaries and to designate the rights to the oil, fish and mineral resources of the seas.

After years of negotiations, the countries (including the U.S.) were ready to ratify this historic agreement but the Reagan administration decided to reject the proposals. Until such an agreement is ratified, says Fredland, "international law is a lot like table manners—there are customs and courtesies to be expected but they can't be enforced."

Fredland described the U.S. war maneuvers in the Gulf of Sidra as "provocative" and asks "What purpose did it serve? What can it prove?" He draws another analogy by picturing a property line dispute with one's next-door neighbor. "Would you discuss the situation with your

Former elementary becomes IUPUI facility

Yet another, but not-so-new, building on the West Michigan Street campus of IUPUI will be put into full use this fall. University Theater, the Department of Speech and Theater, the journalism program, ROTC, the new Department of Military Science and the IUPUI Child Care Center have all moved into the Mary E. Cable Building on the east edge of the campus.

The 28-year-old former elementary school is named for its former principal, Mary E. Cable, who served in education for 40 years in Indianapolis. Mary Cable was an early black leader in education and was known for her success with black schoolchildren and student teachers, when schools were still segregated. She is also remembered for her philosophy of strong academics and citizenship. Mary Cable was born in Kansas in 1862, worked in Indianapolis public schools until 1933 and died in 1944 at the age of 82.

The Cable Building is located at 525 North Blackford Street, the northeast corner of Blackford and West Michigan streets. IUPUI leases the building from the Indianapolis Public Schools, with option to buy.

The Cable Building has 20 classrooms that will be used mostly for teaching courses in speech, English composition and military science. There is also a large auditorium and stage on which the University Theater group will perform several plays each year. (Theater was housed in the Marott Building at 902 North Meridian Street, where space was limited and the stage was built over a filled-in swimming pool.)

ID cards still available

Whoops! Made it through registration without getting your student ID card, huh. NO need to worry. There will be a special make-up time when ID cards will be made.

ID cards will be made during the week of Sept. 28, 1981. Some evening hours, as well as regular day-time hours, will be set aside for this project. That week will be the last opportunity to have ID cards made until January. Students should call 264-3931 after Labor Day to make an appointment to have a card made. Faculty and staff members need to bring a letter from their supervisor.

The cost of an ID card is $2. Students should bring the current Bursar's receipt for fall classes to CA 322 at the time of their appointment.

Not every student needs an ID card. They are required by the libraries in the Schools of Medicine, Law, Education and the Language Lab tape library. Students in the School of Social Work are required to have a student ID. There are other uses for ID cards, not the least of which is for display in university cafeterias to avoid having to pay the sales tax. Some professors require students to display a picture ID while taking exams. For those who want to have another piece of identification, this is a good investment.

ID cards are valid for as long as a student is enrolled at IUPUI. They may be up-dated each fall and spring at the time of registration fee payment. Hence, the $2 is a one-time expense and includes the continual validation process after that initial semester. However, lost ID cards are not replaced free of charge. The cost is still $2.

Bank-Machine opens

Officials from American Fletcher National Bank and IUPUI last week participated in ribbon-cutting festivities dedicating AFNB's 30th Bank-Machine.

The BankMachine, centrally located on the main IUPUI campus, is an addition to the newly located Banking Center. The IUPUI Banking Center, previously located in the Student Union Building, moved to Room 111, Cavanaugh Hall on Aug. 13.

Connected to the statewide banking service, SHARE SYSTEMS, the New BankMachine allows American Fletcher customers and customers of participating institutions access to checking account funds 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The Banking Center offers general checking and savings account services which include opening new accounts. The bank opened for regular hours Friday, Aug. 21. The hours are Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Police Cadet Program accepting applications

by Rhonda K. Nardi

The Indiana University Police Officer Cadet Program is now accepting applications for the program beginning in June of 1982

Lieutenant Tom Carr says the program is set up to "primarily start people at the end of their freshman or sophomore year in a two-year program to prepare for police work. We would like to get a larger turn-out of applicants and hopefully a broader representation of the university."

Applicants are considered from any major, not just those enrolled in criminal justice. Graduate students are also encouraged to apply. The program is open to all full-time students with a grade point average of 2.0 or better. Those considered are given an interview, a background investigation, and a regular physical.

Duties begin in June when applicants are sent to the I.U. Police Training Academy in Bloomington, Indiana for three weeks. Upon returning to campus, cadets are placed in security work. They are in plain clothes, unarmed, and have no actual police powers. They are paid the minimum wage.

The following summer, cadets return to Bloomington for eight weeks of training. They return commissioned with full police powers and work on campus the two following semesters as I.U. police officers. Following two semesters of campus work, they are certified police officers and can serve anywhere in the state of Indiana.

As of August 14, Indiana University students from three campuses were sworn in as cadet officers of the I.U. Police Department. The cadets who will be assigned duties as part-time police officers here at IUPUI are: Mark A. Carnell,

"Our officers receive 440 hours of training, whereas the minimum requirement is 400 hours in the state," says Carr.

Since the first priority to students is to finish their education with a degree, "academics comes first," he adds.

The campus police also have an internship worked out with the School of Public and Environmental Affairs (SPEA). "Both are exceptional programs that offer experience, training, and a state certification for aspiring police officers," concludes Carr.

Campus police encourage those interested to apply at any time. For further information call 264-7971.

Graduate townhouses now completed

by Barbara Bates

Construction on the new Graduate Townhouses on the IUPUI campus is now virtually completed.

Building 1 is still undergoing finishing touches, but Maggie M. Dorsett, assistant director of housing at IUPUI, says it will be ready "just about any day." The complex is located on Michigan Street, across from Ball Residence, one block from the Student Union Building.

The complex offers both one and two-bedroom units. The rent per month for the one-bedroom apartments is $300, while the two-bedroom units rent for $350 per month. All utilities, except telephone, are included in the rent. Each townhouse has an automatic washer and dryer, a Jenn-Air range with grill, and a refrigerator provided. All the apartments are air-conditioned, fully carpeted and totally furnished.

Any IUPUI student or faculty member may apply for one of the new townhouses; however, priority will be given to married graduate students. After consideration of those students, assignments will be made by the following priorities: 1) single graduate students, 2) married undergraduate students, 3) single undergraduate students, 4) faculty and staff, 5) visitors.

Two of the townhouses are not rented at this time. Mrs. Dorsett says that these two units may be scheduled for an Open House to give students a chance to tour them, but plans are still undecided at this time.

Applications for the townhouses should be made through the IUPUI Department of Housing, Third Floor, Single Student Dorm, 1300 W. Michigan St. The Single Student Dorm is located in the north wing of the Student Union Building.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 264-7200.

Left-handed desks arrive

by Barbara Jones

Left-handed students of the university—rejoice! Many of you may find taking notes a bit easier from now on. Over the summer 100 desks with tablet arms on the left were placed in Cavanaugh Hall. "Each classroom with armed chairs has three to five such desks," says James Fulkerson, supervisor of Building Services for Cavanaugh.

In new IUPUI buildings, either 10 percent of the seats have left-handed tablet arms, or all seats afford equal access from either side, according to university administrators.

Now the only problem may be the right-handed students performing contortionist acts when they unwittingly sit in seats meant for left-handers.

First of Fall Festival nearing

by Vicki Meiring

The first annual First of Fall Festival will be held Sept. 8, from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on the courtyard between Cavanaugh Hall and the Engineering/Technology Building.

Festivities will begin at 10:00 a.m. with the Midsummer Mimes, a street group from Indianapolis.

The festival will continue on at the Dairy Queen Brazier Store, 1741 West Michigan, just west of the campus, for a banana split eating contest. Anyone is welcome to register. Fifteen names will then be selected at random by the store's manager for the competition. The banana splits will be provided by Dairy Queen. The person who can devour the most banana splits in 15 minutes is the winner. Prizes will be presented. If you don't care to gain about 10 pounds, just come and watch.

The Faith Band of Indianapolis will be playing contemporary rock music from 11:30 a.m. to 1:45 p.m. Local magician Carl Andrews will be performing during the band's breaks.

In the basement of Cavanaugh Hall will be a free pinball contest from 12:30 p.m. to 1:00 p.m. Sponsor for this contest is Nightwatch Amusements.

Food, at a discount, will be offered by the IUPUI Union food service from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

Performances by the seven-member dance troop, Dance Kaleidoscope, will begin at 2:30 p.m. Students groups will have information booths set up.

Binford appointed visiting professor of business

Indianapolis businessman Thomas W. Binford has been appointed visiting professor of business administration at Indiana University, Schuyler F. Otteson, dean of the I.U. School of Business, announced today.

Binford will teach classes at both the Bloomington and Indianapolis campuses beginning this fall.

Binford is former chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Indiana National Bank and its parent corporation, Indiana National Corporation. He is also a director of several corporations, including Indianapolis Power & Light Co., Indianapolis Water Co., Jefferson National Life Insurance Co. and Jefferson Corp., United Hospital Services Inc., Ransburg Corp. and Boehringer-Mannheim Corp.

"We are delighted that this leader of the Indiana business community will take time to share his experience and expertise with our students and assist us in working with the Indiana business community," the I.U. dean said.

"We believe his contribution to the school will be unique because of the widely varied nature of his entrepreneurial and management activities, ranging from banking and finance to manufacturing to professional sports.

"In accepting this post, Mr. Binford again demonstrates his beliefs of the social responsibility of business in community development as he has shown in his many civic contributions to Indianapolis and the state," Otteson added.

In addition to his posts at Indiana National, Binford has served as chief steward of the Indianapolis 500 Mile Race since 1974. He is director and former president of the United States Auto Club and is active in several national and international racing organizations.

"Mr. Binford's appointment continues his long-standing involvement with several institutions of higher education in the state," Otteson added. He is a trustee of DePauw University in Greencastle, and served as its acting president in 1975-76. He is also chairman of the board of managers of Rose-Hulman Institute in Terre Haute and a member of the boards of trustees of Christian Theological Seminary Foundation and Martin Center College.

Higher Education Learning Program updated

by Barbara Bates

Students who are having academic difficulty should be aware of the HELP program on the IUPUI campus. HELP (Higher Education Learning Preparation) is for students who have not acquired the skills necessary to successfully complete college courses. HELP classes develop these basic skills. Many of the students involved are returning to school after a lapse of several years and HELP courses aid them in renewing former skills.

Classes have been offered at IUPUI since 1977. Students may take courses in general math, algebra, reading, English and study skills. Included in the study skills class is a mini-course in career awareness where speakers from the university and the community talk about their own jobs. The students learn future career trends and explore their own interests and values to assist them in making a career choice.

Karen Parrish, program director at IUPUI, says the need for HELP is "definitely" on the increase. Enrollment is up this fall with approximately 120 new students already. Entering freshmen are referred to the program through the Admissions Office based on the student's SAT score, high school grades and class rank. Students already attending IUPUI who are having difficulty should see their faculty advisor about a referral to the program. Students must meet the guidelines and demonstrate sufficient skills in order to qualify.

Since 1978, counseling, tutoring and academic advising have been included in the program. Parrish has a staff of 18 working on a full or part-time basis. She says three more tutors are desperately needed, especially in the fields of math, science and English. Students interested in tutoring should have at least a B in the subject they will tutor and a C grade-point average. In addition, they must be eligible for work study and, preferably, an upperclassman. Training for the tutor is provided.

Interested students may stop by the HELP office located in Room 306 of Cavanaugh Hall, Monday - Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., or call 264-2666. Evening counseling is available by appointment.

neighbor or would you go over and threaten them with a gun?"

Reagan's military challenge to Kadafi was no surprise to foreign affairs observers. The two leaders clash on almost every aspect of foreign policy.

Kadafi supports the Palestine Liberation Organization while Reagan arms both Israel and Egypt.

Kadafi backs the Irish Republican Army while Reagan condemns it and supports Britain's Prime Minister Thatcher.

Reagan cancelled all loans to revolutionary Nicaragua, so Kadafi gave them $100 million.

Libya has for years supported the liberation struggles in Zimbabwe and the struggles of SWAPO in South Africa occupied Namibia.

Some IUPUI students view the 'Libyan incident' as yet another example of what they view as Reagan's "war drive", citing dramatic increases in military spending, massive arms shipments to El Salvador, last week's introduction of Green Berets into Honduras, renewed production of the neutron bomb, the virtual abandonment of coherent human rights policies, and the increasingly bellicose statements by Secretary of State Haig, Defense Secretary Weinberger and President Reagan.

Binford

Binford is also chairman of the United Negro College Fund of Indiana and a member of the board of governors of the Associated Colleges of Indiana.

He has been actively involved in many Indianapolis and Indiana civic organizations and has been awarded honorary degrees by Wabash College and DePauw and Indiana Central Universities. He holds a degree from Princeton University and attended the I.U. School of Law-Indianapolis. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa academic honorary society.
