 ELECTION ACTION ***********

As is to be expected, this year's campaign should prove to be a rousing one. The current trend in campaign materials seems to be toward printed qualification sheets and posters. Strictly taboo are such things as food items and commercial advertising materials.

A few of the more unusual campaign give-aways include such things as "winner spinners", "zooeneras", some comic items and paper money. A few of the old standbys are buttons, badges, cards and literature about the candidates' home state or town.

When asked what the candidates planned on doing during their campaigns, a few of the hopefuls said that besides making speeches, they wanted to "make a few friends," "shake everyone's hand five times," "meet all the delegates," and one candidate wanted "nothing more than to talk to people and win!"

COKE COUNT --- Though the conference hours diminish, the Coke supply is constantly being replenished. As of curfew Tuesday some 15,900 Cokes have been drunk. (continued on page 3)
TWO SWEENYS??

This year the conference is again honored in having two Sweenys—not only our Conference Director, but also his son, Dave. Dave has been helping in and around the dorm office; however, he says his biggest job is taking care of his father.

Dave has attended the conference for the last four years although he never was a member of a J.A. company.

Mr. Sweeney, Jr. has gained a great deal of information at the conferences. He feels the most important thing to be gained is the inspiration from such speakers as Hallard Fuller and Joe Francomano.

COMPANY OF THE YEAR CONTEST

Nine companies still in the running for Company-of-the-Year are Able Company, Phoenix, Ariz.; Bendco, Columbus, Ohio; Fabco, Wilmington, Del.; Jalock, Rockford, Ill.; Jamatco, Minneapolis, Minn.; Kepenco, Owensboro, Ky.; Pru-Lite, Jacksonville, Fla.; Seroco, Columbus, Ga.; Tyco, Eastern Massachusetts.

These choices were based on each company's records and personal interviews which took place Tuesday. On Wednesday morning, at a general session, all remaining contestants will face a battery of questions from the judges to determine their knowledge of Junior Achievement and the free enterprise system.

FIVE MISS J.A. FINALISTS SELECTED

With only five contestants left in the Miss J.A. contest, the pressure is rising. The girls are Judy Bishop, Houston, Tex.; Heather Harden, Omaha, Neb.; Robin Hoag, Southeast, Mich.; Judy Love, Baton Rouge, La.; and Cayle Mueller, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Similar to that of Tuesday, today's schedule includes modeling of shorts and business attire followed by more interviews based on general J.A. knowledge.

The judging will be done by three impartial judges. Miss J.A. will be announced Wednesday night at the talent show.

BATTLE BEGINS THURSDAY

The counselors have challenged the delegates to a softball game, Thursday at 4:30. Register in room 300-A between 4:00-5:00 if you wish to participate.

OFFICERS CONTINUE COMPETITION

Scholarships in the amount of $7,250 will be given to thirty-two outstanding company leaders in this year's Junior Achievement program. These achievers will be the winners of the Officer-of-the-Year contests at this Achievers Conference.

The contests are divided into seven sections covering the offices of president, corporate secretary, treasurer, marketing executive, production executive, safety director and personnel director.

Seventy-one achievers are competing for the honor of being President-of-the-Year. Forty-one achievers are being considered as the best Corporate Secretary. Fifty-two company Treasurers are in the Treasurer-of-the-Year race.

The position of Marketing Executive of the-Year is being contested by forty-six achievers. The title of best Production Executive is being sought by thirty-seven company officers. The smallest group of fifteen represents the best of J.A.'s Personnel Directors. Twenty Safety Directors are considered in their section of the competition.

Using interviews, written tests, and studies of individual records, the number of aspiring candidates has narrowed down and the results of this screening will be available today. The remaining officers will be subjected to a review of the past tests and then given special tests and problems relating to their respective duties.

The final decision will be announced at the general meeting Friday morning after a panel of businessmen judge them.

HUNGRY JUNIOR ACHIEVERS

Junior Achievers consumed 1000 pounds of watermelon, 1150 pork chops, and over 220 gallons of milk.

Mrs. Joan Larson, food supervisor at the Hoffman dining room, also stated that the National Junior Achievers Conference is one of the largest ever at the university.

According to Mrs. Larson, the conference is efficiently organized and one of the best groups to feed. She added that the number one problem this time of the year is the labor shortage, since high school students are quitting.

Extra orders for coffee, punch, and cookies for counselors cause the last of the cafeteria's supply problems.
DANCE THEME CHOSEN

This year the theme of the annual President's Ball is "Reach For a Star". Carrying out the theme, a large rotating crystal ball will hang from the center of the ballroom ceiling. Spotlights will shine on the mirror-covered ball to project reflections from it to various parts of the room. A fountain will also be inside the ballroom.

The entrance to the ballroom will be covered by a canopy. Inside the backdrop to the bandstand will read "Reach For a Star".

A throne decorated in navy blue will be covered by a canopy and steps will lead up to it.

Tables will surround the dance floor and refreshments will be served.

in five minutes before the general meeting.

Dale VanScoyk, House Committee chairman, explained that the chief responsibility of the committee is to maintain order among the achievers between the auditorium and the dorms, and also in the auditorium. The sergeant-at-arms' duties are to keep order in the auditorium and be directly responsible to the president.

PAPER ANNOUNCES STAFF
The staff of the 196th National Junior Achievement Conference Newspaper has been chosen.

The criteria for this choice was the performance and enthusiasm shown by the individual publications committee members since the conference began.

The editor-in-chief is Randy Seys; news editor, Jerry Stiles; managing editor, Larry Stiles; features, arts, and productions, Illars Puren, Ron Ratliff, and Barb Caghten; copy editor, Susan Weber.

There are also twenty other achievers who are helping to keep the presses rolling.

DO NOT FORGET TO VOTE!

THE ANATOMY OF FREE ENTERPRISE

"One of the biggest problems in our free enterprise system is that many people don't understand how important free enterprise is," Mr. Joseph Francomano, Junior Achievement's executive vice-president, explained to delegates at yesterday's meeting.

"Many people only throw the words, 'free enterprise' around without knowing the real meaning," Mr. Francomano continued.

After explaining the free enterprise system in his speech, "The Anatomy of Free Enterprise," Mr. Francomano said that "if we lose our system of free enterprise, which is actually our way of life, it would be death to our country."

Mr. Francomano compared free enterprise with the human anatomy, saying that it is patterned after the characteristics of man's God-given qualities. It is our duty to tell others and fight for what we believe, if we want to remain free," he concluded.

J.A. PRODUCTS SHOW IMAGINATION

The imagination of Achievers proved to be unlimited in their choice of products. After interviewing a great number of achievers, it was found that their creativity extended to such products as psychological scifiers called "Snids" and "Mr. Sticks."

Some achievers conjured up such peculiar but practical products as butter curlers, bacon flatteners, long-handled toe nail clippers, and musical tie racks. Others delved into the production of such exotic goods as ice scrapers with leopard-skin handles, coconut chips, and felt toilet seat covers. Additional oddities are beatle pins made from nut shells, mohair-topped stockings, slipsnot, and fink towels.

COKE-COMPETITION CONTINUES

Each day more and more Cokes are being consumed by the delegates to the National Junior Achievers Conference. There will be a nice and exciting prize to the person who guesses the correct number of Cokes drunk. Make your guess today. Forms are available in Rec Room D of Building E.
Editor's note: The following is a summary of the qualifications and achievements of the candidates running in tomorrow's elections.

FOR PRESIDENT:

MIKE ARTHUR, hopeful aspirant for the office of Conference President, is an Achiever from Redford, Michigan.

Mike has been vice president of manufacturing in his company. He also was local president-of-the-year, Mr. Achiever for Southeastern Michigan, and received the Detroit Business Award for 1964.

During his years as an achiever, he has been Trade Fair chairman, president of the Center Achievers' Business Council, a member of the Regional Speakers Corps, and has earned all of the progressive awards.

GUY MARTIN, a seventeen year-old boy from Birmingham, Alabama, is running for Conference President. Aside from serving as president of the Achievers' Association for two years, Guy was president of his J.A. company for two terms. He has received all of the progressive awards and was a COJAC delegate.

In addition, Guy has held many positions in his school student body. He is a member of the honor society, Key Club, and varsity baseball team. Next year Guy will be president of his student body.

"I WOULD like very much to have the opportunity to meet everybody here. I am enjoying the conference very much. I would appreciate anyone who could vote for me with a clear conscience, to do so," commented Bill Spingin from Nashville, Tennessee. Bill is a candidate for President.

Bill has spent two years in J.A. and has filled numerous offices within this time. Jobs included: sales manager, vice president of production, and president.

Bill has had experience with local, regional, and national conferences. He has won numerous awards from his J.A. area and city organizations.

His campaign manager stressed the fact that Bill was primarily concerned with honesty in all endeavors. He also wants to better unite conference delegates, now and throughout the coming year, and, if elected, he says he will work hard to represent J.A. in a manner in which all will be pleased and proud.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

"AMONG HER qualifications for vice-president, Diane Christensen has been active in J.A. in Minneapolis, Minnesota. For two years she has served as company president. Diane was an officer in the Minneapolis Achievers' Association and has earned all the J.A. progressive awards.

Diane feels that a working knowledge of parliamentary procedures is of utmost importance for a good Vice-President. She served as parliamentarian of her student council last year and was a member of the junior and senior cabinets. Finally, Diane is a member of the National Honor Society.

JOHN MacGOCHAN

JOHN MacGOCHAN, of New Westminster, British Columbia, is another candidate for the office of Vice-President of Sales of the top sales company of British Columbia. John was a member of the Achievers' Association and was selected as top salesman of the year in British Columbia.

Last year he was treasurer of the Achievers' Association and served as chairman of the Trade Fair.

John stressed the importance of a close union between the United States and Canada in all respects.

LINDA RUSHING

Linda Rushing from South Bend, Indiana is a candidate for Vice-President. Linda was in the Achievers' Association and she served as president last year. She was also trade fair coordinator. She won all the progressive awards and was chosen the outstanding achiever in South Bend.
FOR SECRETARY

JACKIE KOPANIASZ

Jackie Kopaniasz, N. W. Ohio candidate for Association Secretary, promises to use her drive to learn and plan all phases of work with the Achievers Association.

A second-year Achiever, Jackie has the Junior Executive Award, is a member of the GI100 sales club, and is a former Vice-President of Sales. She is a member of the J.A. Speakers Corps, the Achievers Association and is an Assistant Program Director. This Association Secretary candidate attended JACEO, the Toledo Sales Clinic, and Top Management Seminar. She presently is serving as Association Secretary of Northwestern Ohio.

JANE KREUZNER

Jane Kreuzner, aspirant for Association Secretary, is a second-year achiever. Among her achievements, Jane has been a nominee for secretary of the Achievers Association. She was chairman of the dance committee for Southwestern Pennsylvania. Jane has achieved 100% attendance for two years.

DIANE MAYER

Diane Mayer of St. Clair Shores, Michigan, is a candidate for Association Secretary. She is a member of the St. Clair Shores' Achiever Association. Diane has been a finalist in both the Secretary-of-the-Year and the Miss J.A. contests.

When asked what she felt is the most important qualification for a candidate to possess, Diane said: "Determination is all that can realize one's goal. Education must be accompanied by enthusiastic determination."

PATTY SULLIVAN

Patty Sullivan, delegate from Eastern Massachusetts, is running for the office of Association Secretary.

Last year Patty served as junior class secretary and as secretary of many of the organizations that she has belonged to.

Patty was secretary of her J.A. company and corresponding secretary of ROJAC. In addition, she served as secretary of the Boston Achievers Association.

HARGUERITE TRUSSLER

Harguerite Trussler, 18-year-old from Calgary, Alberta, Canada, is a 1964 honor graduate of William Aberhart High School. She was valedictorian of her class.

Harguerite is a candidate for conference Vice President. When asked about campaign goals, she stated: "I promise to provide leadership plus a wealth of experience gained while serving as Vice President of my company and other positions I have held."

Harguerite served as Vice President of the Calgary Achievers Association and as chairman of her regional management conference. Here Harguerite was selected Vice-President-of-the-Year.

This summary was prepared by the Publications Committee in order that the voters might be better informed and better equipped to make the most intelligent decisions possible when choosing their officers for next year.
