Galleries to showcase a broad array of works

June 17 kicks off four separate summer gallery shows with an opening reception from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. The exhibition continues through July 28. Opening are: Selected Works from the Dorit and Gerald Paul Collection; An Uneven Symphony, a retrospective exhibition of works by Randolph Deer; Best of Berkshire, a posthumous sample of available works by Robert B. Berkshire and New Works by Valerie Eickmeier.

Selected Works from the Dorit and Gerald Paul Collection will open the newly-named Dorit and Gerald Paul Gallery. This exhibition includes works by Willem de Kooning, Jackson Pollock and Robert Longo, as well as a sampling from some of the Pauls' favorite Indiana artists, such as John Domont, James Wille Faust, Susan Tennant and Phillip Tennant.

Grade and Hull among newest crop of Creative Renewal Arts fellows, second time for both

The Arts Council of Indianapolis recently announced the results of its seventh round of the Creative Renewal Arts Fellowship program. While it's not unusual to find more than one or two artists with a Herron connection among the 40 fellows each year—and this holds true in the 2011-2012 cycle—perhaps it is unusual that among the 10 visual artists this year, two are current Herron faculty or staff members, both have been Creative Renewal Arts fellows before and, independently, both are headed to the United Kingdom to refresh their perspectives.

Supporting young artists is local couple's passion

Scholarships play an integral role in the lives of students at Herron School of Art and Design. Behind each scholarship you'll find a unique and inspiring story. Edgar and Dorothy Fehnel, or Ed and Dottie as they are more likely known, have been supporting Herron students since 2000 with two special scholarships - the Fehnel Family Foundation International Study Scholarship and the Fehnel Family Fine Arts Scholarship.

From a 'Low Road' to a 'Big Car', Lukas Schooler travels artist's path

Coming to Herron has "been a really nice experience so far," said new Assistant Gallery Director Lukas Schooler, who's been here nearly three months. Lukas graduated from DePauw University with a B. A. degree in studio art with a focus in sculpture, but he's spent five summers waiting tables in Indianapolis. That's how he got to know the burgeoning art scene here, including Herron.

Who was Mildred Menz?

The Honors and Awards ceremony has come and gone for another year. But there is always one award in particular that is of great interest to graduating seniors—the Mildred Darby Menz Award—because it's the only Herron prize intended for someone leaving the school. The identity of the winner is kept tightly under wraps until the public announcement at the Honors and Awards ceremony.

Basile's Traveling with Frank and Katrina offers lively insights

Dean's Advisory Board Member Frank Basile and his wife, Katrina, are passionate about providing mind-expanding educational opportunities for Herron's students. Certainly, travel ranks high among the possibilities the Basiles know first-hand. Having visited 174 countries on all seven continents, they have a well-developed global perspective and sense of how to get around—qualities that would serve any artist well. Frank's new book, Traveling with Frank and Katrina, is due in late June. If the chapter headings are any indicator ("Iran: A peaceful sojourn into the 'Axis of Evil'" or "Katmandu, Nepal: The unrest of the story"), these travel tales will "share the world in ways you won't find in guide books." Published by Indianapolis Business Journal Book Publishing, the book may be purchased at www.IBJ.com/books in late June and some arts organization gift

Grant will bring sculptural bike racks to IUPUI

Assistant Professor of Ceramics Lesley Baker will turn her $5,000 Greening IUPUI grant into a fall class project for sculpture students. An undetermined number of sculptural bike racks, fabricated with the collaboration of the sculpture faculty, will dot the campus as a result. IUPUI is providing up to $50,000 annually to fund student, faculty and staff led initiatives which will "green" IUPUI by advancing Sustainability Principles.

Have a look at Look See

Herron's "happiest day," which this year fell on May 5, broke gallery attendance records. More than 450 celebrants were treated to a variety of activities. At the annual Honors and Awards ceremony, more than $170,000 in scholarships were awarded. Herron's alumni association presented Mike Garber (B.F.A. '97) with the Distinguished Alumnus Award. Graduating senior Jessica Bowman won the Spirit of Herron Award and Associate Professor Greg Hull earned the Harry Davis Faculty Award. Other festivities included the opening reception for the M.F.A. Exhibition, and an open house in Eskenazi Hall with temporary outdoor installations, open studios and an art sale tossed in for good measure.

Hirsch sends greetings from San Diego

Susan Hirsch (B.F.A. '75) reported in from sunny San Diego recently. She studied painting and printmaking with professors Peg Fierke, Robert Eagerton and Robert Berkshire, and "ended up working for 30 years as a creative director in fashion retail with clients including Neiman Marcus and Cole Haan." An introductory glass class four years ago led her to full-time glass work in her own studio www.firefusionstudio.com. She credits her Herron foundation classes as indispensable. Her new glass work has "won numerous awards locally and been published in San Diego Home/Garden Lifestyle and Decor and Style magazines." She is represented by Contemporary Fine Art Gallery in La Jolla. Her husband of 35 years, alumnus Robert Hirsch (B.F.A. '77), "went on to study at the Maryland Art Institute, where he earned an M.F.A. degree from the Mount Royal School of Painting. He restores Early American and Colonial paper artifacts including rare documents, maps and currency. You can visit Hirsch on Facebook."

Hong and Sanematsu teach in Korea

This July, Associate Professor Young-Bok Hong and Assistant Professor Helen Sanematsu, both of visual communication design, are teaching an international "Design to Improve Life Summer School" at Yonsei University in Seoul, S. Korea. The curriculum is from INDEX., a Danish design foundation that awards one of world's largest design prizes every two years. Herron senior Kelli Bauman will also attend.

Herron alumni change the world for very special artists

Phil O'Malley (B.F.A., '07) and Lois Templeton (B.F.A., '81) again have spearheaded Somethin' to Crow About, the third annual art and literacy enrichment workshop hosted by VSA Indiana, the state organization on arts and disability. During the workshop, 250 artists from five schools created individual & collaborative paintings as their visual response to literature. VSA Indiana, 1505 N. Delaware St., will showcase their works during two receptions on June 3 from 5:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. and June 11 during the Talbot Street Art Fair.

Post-graduation leaps scatter students to the four winds

Where do our students who are pursuing further formal education land on their post-graduation leaps? Here's a random sample, reported by faculty, which makes it apparent that a Herron education can take you places: Jessica Bowman and Drew Cronen will be headed off to the School of Visual Arts in New York City. Holly Childress will be attending the Vermont Studio Residency program next spring. Austin Dickson is off to UNLV, Nevada. Kyle Goss has received a full ride to Bradley University in Peoria, Illinois. Michael Nannery, will be attending California State University at Long Beach. Chelsea Shilling plans on attending Columbia College, Chicago. Sydney Webb has received a full ride to the University of Texas at Arlington. Victoria Son is headed to England but has not decided on which masters program (she got admitted to three!) she will choose.

Corrections

In Volume 1 Issue 3 of HERRONLINE "Snippets,"

The correct spelling of the work is Common Threads, and the correct spelling of the artist is Mariana Bell.

We introduced you to three students who received commissions for sculpture this year. We would like to correct the spelling of one student's name, Michael Kuschnir.

HERRONLINE staff regrets these and all errors.
