COMMENCEMENT SUNDAY

More than 2,600 students will be awarded degrees in the fourth annual commencement ceremonies of IUPUI at 3 p.m. Sunday (May 20) in the Indianapolis Convention-Exposition Center.

The procession of graduates will include 240 new physicians, graduates of I.U. School of Medicine. This is the largest single graduating class of physicians in the United States. Another large delegation will be 243 new lawyers, graduating from Indiana's largest law school, the Indianapolis Law School.

The procession also represents the most diverse range of academic accomplishment to be found in any Indiana commencement ceremony this year. The degrees range from two-year associates in the engineering and industrial technology programs to graduate degrees in dentistry and law, from bachelors in fine arts to masters in social work to doctors in biological sciences.

The commencement ceremony also represents substantial growth for IUPUI. At the first commencement for IUPUI, held in 1970 in the State Fairgrounds Coliseum, 1,551 degrees were awarded by 11 schools.

This year, 2,636 degrees will be awarded by 17 schools and divisions: 267 by the Division of Education, 200 by the Division of Business, 145 by the School of Liberal Arts, 243 by the Indianapolis Law School, 22 by the Normal College of the American Gymnastic Union, 47 by the Herron School of Art, 356 by the School of Nursing, 383 by the School of Engineering and Technology, 195 by the School of Dentistry, 150 by the Division of Allied Health, 64 by the Division of General and Technical Studies, 74 by the School of Social Service, 45 by the School of Public and Environmental Affairs, 135 by the School of Science, 31 by Purdue University for special programs, 39 by the Indiana University Graduate School, and 240 by the School of Medicine.

GREAT MOMENTS IN FACULTY CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY (PART I)

Dean Peak moved (and it was seconded) TO AMEND THE MOTION BY TRANSPOSING (B) AND (A) AND TO RENUMBER THEM (A) AND (B). Chancellor Bogle again raised the issue of giving the faculty authority that it may or may not have. The amendment was called for, and it was carried with only one no.

Professor Wolf moved (and it was seconded) TO AMEND THE MOTION BY STRIKING THE WORD "GENERAL" FROM BETWEEN "ESTABLISHED" AND "POLICIES" IN WHAT IS NOW PARAGRAPH (A). The amendment was unanimously carried. Chancellor Wolfson asked if item 13 in what is now (a), "Such other authority as may be subsequently delegated by the Trustees," implies that all of these other items under (a) have been delegated by the Trustees. President Ryan said he didn't think it implies anything. -- From the minutes of the University Faculty Council, April 17 meeting at the Fort Wayne Campus.
