

green sheet

INDIANA UNIVERSITY-PURDUE UNIVERSITY AT INDIANAPOLIS

iupui

volume three, number thirty-nine

september 23, 1973

ANALYSIS: IUPUI ADMISSIONS

John C. Krivacs, director of admissions for IUPUI, offers some analyses and ideas on the trends in IUPUI admissions this fall:

"In total admissions (down 2 per cent), remember that we had a 17 per cent increase in the fall of 1972 over the year before. This pace cannot be maintained. We felt that if we were to keep admissions at not more than a 5 per cent decrease from 1972, we would be in good stead. So only a 2 per cent decrease pleases us.

"Science (up 121 per cent) and University Division (down 13 per cent) increases and decreases are related. This year, students who selected psychology, biology and geology were admitted directly to the school rather than to University Division.

"The engineering increase (up 9 per cent) pleases us and we don't have an explanation except that perhaps the engineering program is 'relevant' to today. At IUPUI, engineering is interdisciplinary and students get immersed in all facets of engineering studies. They may specialize later--and this is recognized as a desirable trend in today's engineering education nationwide.

"Technology declines (down 14 per cent) are perhaps tied to a nationwide feeling that the 'technologies' are a cause of ecology and environmental problems. This must be due to a misunderstanding of what technology really is and how the various disciplines in technology can help overcome the problems of the day.

"The increase in married students (up 10 per cent) gives us great pleasure in an urban institution. It shows we can serve by being accessible, and that few things can get in the way of a desire for education. Perhaps allied to this figure is the 3 per cent increase in veterans, and the 21 per cent increase in adult nondegree students. Students in both these categories likely are married, and may attend part-time while continuing to work. Our fee structure allows more freedom of choice also.

"The Guided Study Program figures also are cause for elation. This unique program allows those who might never have gained a college experience, to be able to come to school, through counseling and proper course selection, perhaps new resources will be added to humanity. The whole numbers involved in this are substantial, 693 persons this fall, up 73 people from last year.

"None of us in admissions can predict the future, but this year's report is generally bright for IUPUI. We think there is a good base for continued progress in our admissions prospects."

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL LITERATI

The student publishers of Genesis, the IUPUI literary magazine, would like the faculty's help in announcing to students that the time has come for the submission of manuscripts -- essays, fiction, poetry -- to the Genesis editorial board. The first issue of Genesis was published last year and one of the students won a national creative writing award for his short story. This could happen to one of your students, if you tell them to send their manuscripts to Genesis, Student Services Office, Cavanaugh Hall. Genesis received good reaction from the community and put the lie to the opinion that no one under 35 can write. Or spell.

* * *

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE "FORE" IUPUI

The Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce is spotlighting IUPUI's athletic future and confidently predicts enough money from its first Golf Outing to provide a basketball scholarship.

According to Nick Kellum, IUPUI director of athletics, the Chamber inquired whether we would need such athletic scholarships and decided that IUPUI might be the best recipient of all funds raised in this benefit.

So on Thursday at Heather Hills Country Club a group of city leaders will play a round for $60 a head and in 1974, we likely will sport a top athlete to help lead IUPUI to better intercollegiate athletic fortunes.

* * *

CALENDAR CHECK-OFF

Now through October 8 -- Mid-States Art Exhibition in the gallery at the Herron School of Art features painting, sculpture and graphics from six-state area. Open daily from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. (closed on Fridays).

Exhibits -- Pharmacy displays this week in University Hospital will be Eli Lilly & Co. on Monday, Bluline Pharmaceuticals on Wednesday and Roche Laboratories on Friday. Displays in Riley Hospital will be Burroughs Wellcome Co. on Wednesday and A.H. Robins Co. on Friday. Display times are 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Monday -- "Retinol Binding Protein and Vitamin A Metabolism," Biochemistry Faculty Seminar by Dr. Yasutoshi Muto, associate professor of clinical nutrition at the University of Tokyo; Medical Science Building, Room 326, 4 p.m. (3:45 coffee).

Tuesday -- First meeting of the IUPUI Chancellor's Committee on International Programs will be held from noon to 1:30 p.m. in the Roof Garden Lounge of the Union Building. There will be free coffee and dessert, but bring your own lunch (if you wish, from the cafeteria line in the Faculty Dining Room).

Dean's Convocation Series -- Professor Scott Evenbeck from the Department of Psychology will talk on "Attribution of Causality: Actors and Observers" at noon Wednesday in the Faculty Lounge of the Krannert Building, 38th Street Campus. Bring your own lunch.

Flick -- The Battle Cry of Peace, a film series on war will continue its showings Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in Lecture Hall 102. Sponsored by the Lectures and Convocations Committee and arranged by History Professor Keith Winsell, the program will feature either "Behind the Front" (1926) or "What Price Glory?" (1926). There is no admission charge.

"Civilization" Lives! -- The fourth of the 13 episodes of Kenneth Clark's "Civilization" series will be presented at noon and 4:30 p.m. Thursday in the auditorium at Herron. Showings are at the same time every Thursday until December 6 (no show on November 22). Dr. Samuel A. Roberson, assistant professor of art history, has organized the series.

Card Party -- The annual Cheer Guild card party will be held at 1 p.m. Friday in the auditorium of the William H. Block Co. Proceeds will go to Riley Hospital for an infant care island with IMI radiant warmer. Mrs. R.P. Ballere is chairman. Tickets are on sale this week in the Union Building lobby and the cafeteria entrance of University Hospital.

Reception -- The Society of the Sigma Xi will launch this year's program with a reception for graduate students Friday from 3 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. in the Roof Lounge of the Union Building.

* * *

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Appointment -- Dr. James L. Reinglass, assistant professor of neurology, has been appointed associate director of the Cerebral Vascular Disease Clinical Research Center.

Election Rules -- Students who want to run in the elections for the IUPUI Senate (divisional seats) must file their petition by October 1. Candidates may be either full or part-time students; they must not be on academic or disciplinary probation; they may not run for two positions in the Senate at the same time and they must not be on the present election committee. First-time enrollees are eligible. Petitions are available at the Student Association Office (Cavanaugh 239) or at any Student Services Office (38th Street, Krannert 060; from Helen Zapp in the Union Building, or Cavanaugh 322).

Change -- The "Pulmonary Seminar on Allergic and Immunologic Lung Diseases" scheduled at the Hilton Hotel for Wednesday will be held instead in Hurty Hall C of Fesler Hall.

Career Planning Help -- A five-week course designed to help students choose and implement their careers will begin the week of October 8. Students, IUPUI employees and faculty wives are welcome to join the "Exploring Careers Mini-Course" that costs $1. For further information, call Mary Hyne or Neil Apfelbaum at Ext. 3988.

Heart-y Group -- The School of Nursing is one of the co-sponsors for the Indiana Heart Association's 25th annual scientific session for nurses at the Convention-Exposition Center on Friday. Faculty participants from nursing are M. Jeanne Pontious, association president and program director; Gladys E. Buckwalter, project director, coronary care unit, nursing continuing education, and Hilda Evans, associate professor. From nursing services are Sandy Tombergs, co-ordinator, coronary care unit, and Richard Brock, co-ordinator, surgical intensive care unit.

(continued)

*A News Bureau Publication
Indiana University-Purdue University at Indianapolis
1100 West Michigan Street
Indianapolis, Indiana 46202

School of Medicine participants will be Dr. Walter J. Daly, chairman and professor of medicine; Dr. Fayez Tushan, clinical assistant professor; Dr. Mark L. Dyken, chairman and professor of neurology, and Dr. Harold King, professor of surgery.

Research -- Anyone interested in project research connected with the Comprehensive Sickle Cell Anemia Center should contact Dr. Joe C. Christian at Ext. 7966. A new application for supplementary and continued support is being prepared. The deadline is November 1.

* * *

WAT'S GOING ON

"U.S. Acupuncture: Status Report 1973" and "Antibiotic Misadventure: The Case of Overkill" highlight the current schedule of Continuing Medical Education programs on WAT 21 Medical Television.

Both programs will be televised Monday, Wednesday and Friday this week -- "Acupuncture" at 12:19 p.m. and "Antibiotic Misadventure" at 12:52 p.m. They can be seen in Medical Science 119, Veterans Administration Hospital Room A237 and B206, and in the seventh-floor conference room of the Myers Building, Marion County General Hospital.

* * *

JEAN GNAT
LIBRARY
420 BLAKE ST