

green sheet

INDIANA UNIVERSITY—PURDUE UNIVERSITY AT INDIANAPOLIS

iupui

volume seven, number forty-four

november 6, 1977

RYAN, IRWIN ADDRESS FACULTY

Vice-President Glenn W. Irwin, Jr. reported that "our status is good and getting better" and President John W. Ryan commented on matters of concern to some IUPUI faculty members at the annual IUPUI faculty and staff meeting recently in the School of Nursing.

In his annual "State of the Campus" report, Irwin said he had been concerned that the academic fee increase might cause students to take fewer courses. However, budgeted revenues for the fall term, based on estimates of student credit hours, were $4.4-million and final collections exceeded the projections by $45.

Irwin also reported that 73 full-time faculty positions were added on the campus this year and he encouraged faculty members to develop grant and gift support proposals for research, training and service programs.

After a videotape presentation of the "State of the University," Ryan fielded questions from faculty members. Asked about the recent North Central Association of Colleges and Schools' evaluation team's report on the accreditation of the Bloomington campus and the team's concern about the 1974 reorganization's effect on the programs there, Ryan said: "What those team members heard in talking with Bloomington campus faculty, primarily, was an expression of considerable concern that the concepts underlying our reorganization will lead to a diminishing of the resources available to the Bloomington academic programs and an unavoidable reduction in the quality of Bloomington academic programs. That has not occurred. Shifting of resources away from Bloomington to Indianapolis programs would be a serious problem and I would try to deal with if it happened to exist. There has been no shift. I don't foresee any such shift. . . It profits no one to take money from one pocket and shift it to another pocket."

* * *

HEW OFFICIAL VISITS SCHOOL OF SOCIAL SERVICE

Mike Suzuki, acting commissioner for administration for public services, Office of Human Development Services, HEW, has $2.5-billion to spend -- mostly in allocation of Federal funds under Title XX provisions to train local manpower to deliver social services.

"I thought $2.5-billion was a lot of money till I heard that pet food is a $2.5-billion industry," he said. "I have nothing against pets, but when I start thinking of all the elderly, disabled, mentally retarded people. . ."

This was Suzuki's first trip to Indianapolis and he was in town chiefly to address the Indiana Conference on Social Concerns at the Hilton Hotel last week. Before the conference, he stopped by to chat with faculty at the School of Social Service.

Indiana's projected expenditure for the 1977-78 fiscal year is $87-million and "you can't just take $87-million and 'do good.'" Proper delivery of social services requires a range of skills--lawyers, managers, administrators, accountants--and that's what we try to do with the funds," he said.

(Social Service faculty also participated in the conference. Dean Leonard Schneiderman spoke on "Social Policy Related to the Family," and Professors Marjory Smith, Elizabeth Navarre and David Metzger conducted workshops.)

Another visitor at the school last week was Beulah Compton, professor of social work at the University of Minnesota, who discussed her new textbook on social work practice which is currently used as part of the school's basic practice curriculum.

* * *

HELP

The year's United Way campaign at this campus is 20 percent short of the goal -- and time is running out. If you have not already done so, please take a moment and complete your pledge card for the United Way co-ordinator on your unit.

* * *

WHO, WHAT, WHEN, WHERE & SOMETIMES WHY

Artsy Craftsy -- An exhibit of painting, prints and drawings by internationally recognized artists Robert Egerton and Peg Fierke, faculty members at the Herron School of Art, is on display in the Herron Gallery through November 30. Stop by Monday through Thursday between 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. and on Fridays between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Displays -- Pharmacy displays this week in University Hospital will be Astra Pharmaceutical Co. on Monday, W.B. Saunders Co. on Wednesday and Ortho Pharmaceutical Co. on Friday. Riley Hospital displays will be Mead-Johnson Laboratories on Wednesday and Avicon Laboratories on Friday. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The Feds and Dentistry -- Federal programs and their effect on dental education will be one topic for discussion at the Annual Interim Meeting of the Council of Faculties of the American Association of Dental Schools meeting Monday and Tuesday at the I.U. dental school and the Hyatt Regency Hotel. Dr. David R. Avery, chairman of pedodontics, is chairman of the AADS Council of Faculties.

Forum -- A panel of local industrial leaders from Lilly's, Allison's and Inland Container, plus School of Science faculty members will meet Monday to discuss increasing support for school programs. Dean William A. Nevill will moderate the program, which begins at 1 p.m. in the faculty lounge of the Krannert Building, 38th Street Campus.

Seminar -- "Synthesis of Biologically Active Peptides -- Secretin, Malformin and Vasoactive Intestinal Peptide," Biochemistry Faculty Seminar by Miklos Bodanszky, professor of chemistry at Case Western Reserve University; Medical Science Building, Room 326, 4p.m. Monday (refreshments at 3:30 p.m. in Room 409).

Finale -- "Tropici," a film dealing with rural-urban migration in Brazil, is the last one in the Focus on the Third World series. It will be shown (no admission charge) Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Lecture Hall 101.

Tuesday -- "Dynamic Estimation of Interstitial Fluid Volume of Isolated Feline Small Intestine," Physiology Seminar by Dr. Bruce Johns, postdoctoral fellow; Medical Science Building, Room 205, 11:45 a.m.

Flick -- "The Molly McGuires" is this week's entry in the program of classic films of the labor movement. The free movie, which stars Sean Connery and Richard Harris, will be shown Tuesday at 3 p.m. in the Lecture Hall.

Math -- "The Distance to the Compact Operators," Department of Mathematical Sciences Seminar by Professor Allen Shields of the University of Michigan (currently a visiting professor at IUB), Krannert Building, 38th Street, Room 123, 3:30 p.m. Tuesday (refreshments at 2:45 p.m.)

Genetics -- "Amylase and Ovarian Cancer," Medical Genetics Seminar by Christine J. Sisk, graduate student; Riley Research, Room 139, 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Ethics -- Dr. Marilyn Bull, director of the Newborn Follow-Up Program at Riley Hospital, and David H. Smith, associate professor of religious studies at IUB, will discuss a film called "Who Shall Survive?" during a program Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Bloomington Hospital. The session is second in a series of six programs dealing with ethical and moral questions posed by new developments in the life sciences and medical technology. The series is being sponsored by the Poynter Center at IUB.

Grand Rounds -- Dr. Fayez Tusham and Dr. Arthur White will discuss "Wegener's Granulomatosis" and "Legionnaire's Disease," respectively, during Department of Medicine grand rounds Wednesday at 8:15 a.m. in Myers Auditorium at Wishard Memorial Hospital.

What's Fair? -- Gene Hoffman, Department of Psychology, will talk about "Equal Opportunity Issues in Personnel Selection: Problems in Defining Fairness" during the School of Science Dean's Convocation Series Wednesday at noon in the faculty lounge of the Krannert Building, 38th Street.

Self-Grading -- Does student self-grading motivate them, encourage loafing, both of those, neither of those? Hear Patrick McGeever, associate professor of political science, report on his experiences in the School of Liberal Arts' Dialog Series on Wednesday at noon in Cavanaugh Hall, Room 439. Bring your own brown bag lunch for the hour-long discussion.

Colloquium -- "Soft Modes and Conformation of DNA Double Helix," Physics Colloquium by Professor Earl Prohovsky from Purdue; Krannert Building, Room 125. 4 p.m. Wednesday (coffee at 3:45 p.m.)

Liszt -- The University Chorale and the Symphony Orchestra will present a free performance of Liszt's "Christus" Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Musical Arts Center at Bloomington.

Visitor -- Professor Richard C. DiPrimi, professor of mathematics and associate dean of the Graduate School of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, New York, will present the second annual Ernest T. Johnston Colloquium sponsored by the Department of Mathematical Sciences. One of the leading applied mathematicians in the world, DiPrimi will speak on "Introduction to Hydrodynamic Stability" Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in the Krannert Building, 38th Street. A 2:30 p.m. tea will precede the speech and a 4:30 p.m. reception will conclude the program. For further information, call Michael Penna, Ext. 350.

Heart -- Dr. Charles Peskin from New York University will be speaking on "Mathematics and Computing in Heart Physiology" Thursday at 4 p.m. in Swain West, Room 119, at IUB.

Honors -- Faculty and students are invited to the Honors Program in Academic Medicine Student Research Seminar on Thursday at 5 p.m. in Hurty Hall C of Fesler Hall. Speakers and topics are Mervin Yoder, "The Effects of a Chemotactic Peptide on Polymorphonuclear Function;" Phyllis Martin, "Effects of Malnutrition and Age on Concentration of Free Secretory Component in Tears," and Steven Moore, "The Innervation of the Rat Knee."

Implications -- The societal, ethical, legal and public policy implications of recombinant DNA research will be explored in a three-day forum in the Union Building this week at Bloomington. Called "Science and the Public Interest: Recombinant DNA Research," the forum is sponsored by the city of Bloomington, the I.U. Poynter Center and is funded by the Indiana Committee for the Humanities. The sessions include "The Promises and Perils of Genetic Engineering," "Hazardous Research: Problems of Constitutionality, Liability and Insurability," "The Search for an Equitable Science Policy," "The Public Interest: Corporate and Citizen Viewpoint," and "The Social and Ethical Implications of Recombinant DNA Research." For more information, call 812-337-0261. The forum starts Thursday.

Management -- A leading authority from Wayne State University will discuss organizational development and union and management relations in a seminar Friday sponsored by the psychology department of the School of Science and the psychiatry department of the School of Medicine. Dr. Ross Stagner, professor of psychology and conflict analysis, will speak at 1:30 p.m. in the Krannert Building, Room 31.

Open House -- The Herron School of Art will host its annual open house Friday from 9 a.m. till noon and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Everyone -- students, teachers, parents -- is invited to see the school in action. For more information call 923-3651.

* * *

JEANNETTE MATTHEW
LIBRARIAN, SCHOOL OF LIBERAL ARTS
420 BLAKE STREET