IUPUI COMMENCEMENT SET FOR MAY 10

Market Square Arena -- usually the site of games and circuses -- will take on a new "show" come May 10, the awarding of I.U. and Purdue degrees to 3,507 students who have completed their work toward more than 50 degrees offered at Indiana University-Purdue University at Indianapolis.

Friends and relatives -- probably more than 15,000 of them -- will be the "spectators" for this ninth IUPUI commencement, which starts at 7 p.m.

I.U. President John W. Ryan, Purdue President Arthur G. Hansen, Indiana Governor Otis R. Bowen, and Indianapolis Mayor William H. Hudnut will be on hand for the graduation ceremonies of the state's third largest college campus.

The School of Education leads the field with 633 candidates for degrees, followed by the School of Nursing, 487; Engineering and Technology, 345; Business, 341; Medicine, 340 (the nation's largest graduating medical class); Division of Allied Health Sciences, 289; Law, 227, and Dentistry, 192.

Also, the School of Science, 173; Social Work, 130; Public and Environmental Affairs; 107; Liberal Arts, 95; Herron School of Art, 49; Graduate School, 44; Physical Education, 39, and Continuing Studies, 16.

For the details as to how all this will be accomplished, read on. . .

FINAL COMMENCEMENT INSTRUCTIONS FROM THE ALUMNI OFFICE

For the May 10 commencement at 7 p.m. in Market Square Arena (MSA), each student is guaranteed two reserved guest tickets which were distributed with caps and gowns. Any number of guests can be invited to sit in the general seating area.

Reporting Time -- Candidates must assemble in caps and gowns at the third level, west entrance to MSA, no later than 6 p.m., where the Marshall will put them in the procession according to their school or division. The procession will begin moving at 6:45 p.m. Only those with academic apparel will be admitted to the robing and procession area. (All others must enter MSA from the sixth-floor level.) To reach the marshalling area, candidates for degrees and faculty must enter from the west entrance, third level only. About half will receive an orange admission ticket for the southwest third-floor entrance and the other half will receive a blue admission ticket for the northwest third-floor entrance. Here is a breakdown:

Third Level
West Entrance--Blue North

Allied Health
Business
Liberal Arts
Medicine
Nursing
Physical Education

Note: No restroom facilities will be available in the robing area--plan accordingly.

Third Level
West Entrance--Orange South

Continuing Studies
Dentistry
Education
Engineering & Technology
Graduate School
Herron
Law
Science
Social Work
SPEA

Attire -- Rental caps and gowns must be worn by all candidates and are to be deposited in return boxes, located throughout Market Square Arena, before leaving, except for Medicine, Law, and Physical Education graduates, who will leave rental attire at their post-commencement ceremonies. Candidates graduating with honors are entitled to wear Honor Cords. These must be obtained from the deans or division chairmen of the respective schools or divisions, and are to be worn from the left shoulder. Graduates of the associate degree programs wear their Honor Cords around the neck. Doctor's and master's degree candidates will wear their hoods during the procession and ceremony.

Ceremony--Graduates and faculty are to be seated as they reach their seats. As the platform party reaches the stage, all candidates will rise and remain standing through the invocation and the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner." The dean will ask all candidates of his school to rise and will present them to the President. After the President pronounces the final words "with all rights and privileges thereto appertaining," the candidates will grasp the tassels with the left hand and transfer them to the left side of their caps. (All candidates for the first degree wear the tassels on the right side of the cap until the degrees have been conferred; candidates for higher degrees wear theirs on the left side from the beginning). It is compulsory for all candidates to remain until after the benediction. Candidates should wait for instructions from the marshals before proceeding to their diploma tables.

Diplomas will be distributed by the individual schools and divisions immediately following the Commencement exercise. After May 10, contact your dean or division chairman.

Handicapped Graduates--Handicapped graduates should contact the Alumni Office for any special needs they may have in order to participate.

WHO, WHAT, WHEN, WHERE & SOMETIMES WHY

Grads-To-Be -- The seniors at the Herron School of Art have put their best works forward for the annual senior show, which ends Friday at the gallery. Take a few moments to see what the artists have been up to. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. through Thursday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

Displays -- Pharmacy displays this week in University Hospital are Burroughs-Wellcome Co. on Monday and Hoechst-Roussel Pharmaceuticals, Inc. on Friday. Eli Lilly & Co. will have a display in Riley on Wednesday. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Math -- "A Statistical Model for Predicting Pollutant Concentration," Graduate Research Project Presentation by Susan Chong, Department of Mathematical Sciences, Krannert Science Building, Room 123, 3 p.m. Monday.

Seminar -- "Regulation of Respiratory Enzyme Biosynthesis in Yeast," Biochemistry Faculty Seminar by Dr. Henry R. Mahler, professor of chemistry at IUB; Medical Science Building, Room 326, 4 p.m. Monday.

Grand Rounds -- Canceled for Wednesday.

Hosts -- The I.U. School of Medicine will host a three-day meeting of a section of the American Association of Medical Colleges at the Hyatt-Regency. About 80 representatives from medical schools in the central area (Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin) will meet Wednesday through Friday in sessions focusing on the "The Use of the National Board of Medical Examiners in the Evaluation of Students, Curriculum, Institutions and Licensure." Special guest will be Dr. Edithe J. Levit, president and director of the NBME.

What's on WAT -- "Bone Grafting of the Hip for Avascular Necrosis" will be the topic for Dr. Raymond O. Pierce Jr., associate professor of orthopedic surgery, during this month's edition of the Grand Rounds in Surgery series on WAT 21 Medical Television. The program can be seen Wednesday at noon in the regular WAT 21 viewing areas.

Seminar -- "Restriction of Mengo Virus; Possible Dominance of Restriction Phenomenon in Hybrid Cells," Microbiology and Immunology Seminar by Dr. Milton Taylor, professor of microbiology at IUB; Medical Science Building, Room 205, 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Wednesday -- "Correlation between Pulmonary Artery Wedge Pressure and Left Atrial Pressure during Administration of Positive End-expiratory Pressure (PEEP) in Pulmonary Edema," Physiology Seminar by Dr. Leon Stein, associate professor of medicine and director of Wishard's Coronary Care Unit; Medical Science Building, Room 326, 3:45 p.m.

"Persuaders" and "Shapers" -- Vance Packard, social critic and author of such best sellers as "The Hidden Persuaders" and, most recently, "The People Shapers," will speak Wednesday at Butler University. The 7:30 p.m. program is a special event in the regular monthly series called "Human Values in a Changing World." The lecture, free and open to the public, will be held on the third floor of the Holcomb Building on the Butler campus.

Initiate -- The annual banquet and initiation ceremonies of the I.U. Medical Center Chapter of Sigma Xi will be held Thursday in the Union Building. "Government Regulations of Pharmaceutical Research" will be the topic for guest lecturer Dr. Charles M. Christensen, vice-president of Lilly Research Laboratories. The schedule starts with 6 p.m. registration in the Roof Lounge, 6 p.m. business meeting on the mezzanine; 6:30 p.m. social hour in the Roof Lounge, and 7:30 p.m. banquet in the Hoosier Room. Cost of the dinner is $10 per person. Make check payable to Richard Thompson, Treasurer, Sigma Xi. Mail check to Terry Reed, 129 Riley Research by Wednesday, or pay at the door.

Psychiatry -- The last Department of Psychiatry monthly research seminar of the academic year will be held Thursday at noon in the library of the Institute of Psychiatric Research. Dr. Paul H. Gebhard, director of the Institute for Sex Research, will discuss recent trends in that research.

Mass -- Catholic Mass will be celebrated on Ascension Thursday at 12:10 p.m. in Room C331 of University Hospital.

IUPUI STARTS PROGRAM TO HELP JOBLESS YOUTH

Note: An open house to mark the opening of the "Get SET" program will be held Thursday at 11:30 a.m. at the program headquarters, 820 Fort Wayne Avenue. I.U. Vice-President Glenn W. Irwin, Jr., Deputy Mayor Joseph A. Slash, and School of Social Work Dean Leonard Schneiderman will make welcoming remarks at 11:45 a.m. All interested persons are invited.

Disadvantaged youth in Indianapolis who are out of school and out of work now have the chance for work through the Youth Employment and Training Program which has been funded with money provided through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). The program is designed to provide employment for a short period of time (one year is the maximum) giving youth the experience they need for jobs in the public and private sectors.

However, experience shows that many of these young people will not have the basic skills in reading, writing, and vocabulary to take advantage of this opportunity. Trying to remedy this problem, IUPUI has established the IUPUI Skills for Employment and Training Program ("Get SET") to prepare youth in the Youth Employment and Training Program (YETP) for employment opportunities.

According to Paula Schneiderman, director of the "Get SET" program, all youth who qualify for YETP are required to take a language skills test. "If their score, which covers vocabulary, reading and spelling, indicates a low literacy level," she explains, "their enrollment in our program is mandatory. Their classes will continue as long as they are employed by YETP--which is being administered by the Indianapolis Department of Employment and Training."

The "Get SET" program is headquartered at 820 Fort Wayne Avenue (corner of Alabama and St. Clair streets). The staff members are full-time personnel; most are graduates of the I.U. Schools of Education and Social Work at IUPUI. Besides the director, the staff includes an assistant director, a social worker, five teachers and a secretary. Students in education and social work programs at IUPUI also will participate in the project.

"Our program offers highly individualized instruction and support to the students," she says. "These young people are functionally illiterate youth who, we find, often suffer from multiple handicaps--low self-esteem, personal or family problems, and neurological or physical disabilities. All have already experienced failure in the school-learning situation. When these problems are joined by feelings of discomfort and shame because of the inability to read, complex barriers are formed against learning."

The "Get SET" program will focus on strengthening life-coping skills; staff members will deal with the problems that interfere with any student's use of the instruction and employment program, and the program's services will be in tune with each participant's job-related activities.

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Post Time -- It's Churchill Downs time again for IUPUI Women's Club members and their guests: May 13 is the date for their annual trip to Louisville and the races. The $12.50-per-person reservation covers the cost of transportation, entry into the clubhouse and a reserved clubhouse box seat.

(You're on your own for lunch and dinner.) Send your reservations to Alice M. Taylor, Office of Admissions, Cavanaugh Hall, Room 103 (Ext. 4591) by Friday (May 5). Please make checks payable to IUPUI Women's Club.

Partly Closed -- Because of the demands of summer registration, the Bursar Office will be closed from noon to 5 p.m. on May 8-9 and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on May 12. Plan to visit the office during the morning hours on those dates.

Cinematic Treat -- The regular $3.50 price tag for seeing a movie can be yours for only $2.50 when you buy coupons at the Student Activity Office (Union Building, ground floor). The discount coupons, which you buy there, are good at the more than 20 Cinema Theaters in Indianapolis. They are good for one year and there's no limit on how many you can buy.

Amnesty Local -- This is "Amnesty Week" (no fines, no questions asked) at the School of Medicine Library. No fines will be charged on library books or journals returned to the library this week (through May 7) -- no matter how overdue the materials may be. (This offer does not apply to patrons who already have been checklisted for non-return of materials or to patrons who previously returned library materials on which fines were owed.)

Media Seminars -- The IUPUI Office of University Relations has begun a series of "working lunches" featuring campus experts who discuss pertinent issues with the news media. Social Work Dean Leonard Schneiderman tackled welfare reform during the first seminar last Tuesday. Indianapolis media representatives will be invited each month to "lunch and learn" with an appropriate expert. School of Medicine Dean Steven C. Beering will talk with the group May 25.

DEPT. OF HONORS & ACCOLADES

The Fourth Annual Student Activities Honors Program at IUPUI April 21 honored Dr. Erwin Boschmann, professor of chemistry, with the "Outstanding Educator Award." The "Top Administrator Award" went to School of Liberal Arts Dean Joseph T. Taylor and IUPUI Director of Administrative Services Neil Lantz. The William Garrett Award, given to a student who demonstrates involvement, leadership and significant contributions to the student activity program, was presented to Garry Newman, a junior in the School of Education. And the Lola Lohse Award, for a faculty or staff member who is actively involved in helping students beyond the area of employment, went to Gordon Fricke, associate professor of chemistry.

Dr. Ralph W. Phillips, associate dean for research at the School of Dentistry, will be made an honorary member of the Belgian Dental Association at its Fifth International Congress this week at Ostende, Belgium. Dr. Phillips, the only American to be so honored by the Royal Society of that association, will present the keynote address, "Dentistry and the Scientific Community." He also will preside at an "International Symposium on Biomaterials."

Dr. Ronald Ross Watson, assistant professor of microbiology, has been awarded a two-year $20,000 grant by the Nutrition Foundation to study the effect of protein malnutrition on immune responses of germ-free animals. The grant is part of the foundation's Future Leaders Awards program to encourage the work of young scientists.

Dr. David L. Felten, associate professor of anatomy, is one of 79 outstanding young scientists to have received a Sloan Fellowship for Basic Research from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, New York. Dr. Felten's work on "Trophic and Regenerative Capacities of Central Monoaminergic Systems" will be supported for two years by this grant.

The 79 scientists, whose average age is 31, were selected from among hundreds of highly qualified nominees on the basis of their potential to contribute to scientific knowledge.

John Cummings, graduate student in anatomy, was selected to present his dissertation research at the 1978 American Medical Students Association Student Research Forum at Galveston this month. Papers were chosen from applications submitted by graduate students, interns and residents engaged in basic or applied biomedical research.

The American Psychological Association/CHAMPUS National Advisory Panel has selected Dr. George Siskind, research psychologist at Larue D. Carter Memorial Hospital and associate professor of psychology, Department of Psychiatry, to serve on the Peer Review Project for the coming year.

Warren G. French, professor of English, was selected to chair a symposium on "Contemporary Comedy" during last weekend's Ohio University Film Festival at Athens.

Jan Shipps, associate professor of history and religious studies, will be in Logan, Utah, next weekend to present a paper on "The Prophet, His Mother and Early Mormonism: Mother Smith's History as a Passageway to Understanding." The occasion is the national meeting of the 800-member Mormon History Association.

The Division of Allied Health Sciences and the I.U. Medical Center were cited as founding organizations of Indiana Health Careers in the recent 20th-anniversary celebration. Elton T. Ridley, interim director of Allied Health Sciences, received recognition as a founder and as a past chairman of the board of directors.

Two School of Medicine faculty members are in San Francisco to deliver papers at the Joint Annual Meeting of the Association of American Physicians, the American Society for Clinical Investigation and the American Federation for Clinical Research. Dr. Robert L. Baehner, professor of pediatrics and clinical pathology, will present a discussion of "Hemoglobin Indianapolis." One of the other co-authors of that paper is Dr. Laurence A. Boxer, assistant professor of pediatrics. Dr. Merrill D. Benson, associate professor of medicine, will deliver a paper co-authored by Dr. Marlene A. Aldo-Benson, assistant professor of medicine.

Gretchen Wolfram, managing editor of the IUPUI News Bureau, received the Frances Wright Award last week at the annual Women In Communications Inc. (WICI) Matrix Table banquet. The award is presented each year to a communicator for outstanding professional achievement. Miss Wolfram was cited for "spirit, enthusiasm and integrity," qualities exemplifying the spirit of Frances Wright, a pioneering Indiana newspaperwoman who founded the New Harmony Times in the 19th Century.
