

green sheet

volume sixteen, number twenty-nine

september 14, 1986

NOTE TO IUPUI FACULTY AND STAFF

You are more than cordially invited to a very special occasion this Sunday (Sept. 14): A pre-dedication look at the new wing to the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for Children. This magnificent new building, which will be officially dedicated Oct. 7, is the latest addition to a hospital whose tradition for caring for sick children and their families began in 1924. You may already have seen the outside "Family Plaza," but won't you come inside this Sunday between 3-5 p.m. and really see what the new expansion is all about. You and your family are encouraged to see what has been three years in the building, but which is timeless in dedication, energy, money and talents of millions of Hoosiers who have made it possible.

TRUSTEES OK DEANS, MEDICAL DEVELOPMENT, ADULT CENTER

Meeting on our campus last week, the trustees of I.U. approved two major projects affecting bone marrow transplantation and surgery, gave the nod for a new Adult Education Coordinating Center, and approved the appointments of two acting deans and an assistant dean in Research and and Sponsored Programs--among other things. A project to bring to 18 the number of beds available for bone marrow transplantation will be developed at a cost of $3.5 million. Also at the Medical Center, there will be another major project to consolidate adult surgery services at University Hospital at a cost of $8.8 million. The projects are expected to be completed in early 1988.

The Adult Education Coordinating Center at IUPUI won't have to wait that long. The new center will be in a renovated area in the lower level of Cavanaugh Hall and its mission will be to meet the special needs of adults returning to college. Patricia A. Boaz, associate dean of the faculties and dean of student affairs, will be initially responsible for the center which will offer advising and programming services.

A highly recommended former city government official, Anthony Isaac (Ike) Levy, was officially appointed assistant dean of Research and Sponsored Programs. A lawyer and accountant, Levy will be working closely with faculty in all areas of grants and research. He was executive assistant to the director of public safety for the City of Indianapolis and he has two degrees from I.U. Other deans also were approved. Filling two tops posts at the School of Law are Jeffrey W. Grove as acting dean and James W. Torke as acting associate dean. Their appointments came after the school's dean, Gerald L. Bepko, became I.U. vice president for Indianapolis RUMINATIONS--The geographic center of the U.S. population moves 58 feet to the west each day, and 29 feet to the south. . .32 percent of Americans say they are "very likely" to become an organ donor while 70 percent say they are "very likely" to donate a "loved one's" organ.

CEREMONY LINKS CONFERENCE CENTER AND LINCOLN HOTEL

University officials and many from Indianapolis and reps of a private developer last week met under a tent in front of University Library to mark the linkage across the street of the new $12 million Conference Center with the $30 million Lincoln Hotel that are under construction and expected to be completed for the opening next summer of the Pan Am Games. The 75,000 square feet of space covered by the center will include a teleconference center, a 325-seat auditorium with translation booths, theater-style presentation rooms, a TV studio and a media center. The 278-room hotel will offer 60 executive-style Lincoln Club rooms, 8,000 square feet of meeting space, two food courts, retail shops, a restaurant and a tavern. President John W. Ryan hailed the projects as "an important development in the continuing boom of the IUPUI campus. . . "

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Head Start in Art--Your junior and senior high school students can enroll now for the Saturday school art classes at Herron. Selected student instructors will teach a variety of courses, including printmaking, etching, silkscreen, drawing, painting and much more. Classes meet from 9 a.m.-noon for 10 weeks beginning Sept. 27--also the last day for late registration. For tuition, scholarship and other facts, call 923-3651.

Women Invited--The Indianapolis Business & Professional Women's Club meets Sept. 17, 6 p.m., North Meridian Inn. All welcome. Call Charlotte, 4-4989 or Cheryl, 4-7685.

France Anyone?--Faculty interested in directing the 1987-88 academic year Overseas Study Program in Strasbourg, France, can contact the Office of Overseas Study. Qualifications include extensive teaching or administrative experience with undergraduates, fluency in French and previous experience abroad, especially in France. Applicants must be willing to provide academic supervision, personal counseling and logistical support for about 30 undergrads. For guidelines, contact the Office of Overseas Study, Student Services, 303, IUB. Applications (letter and academic vita) should be sent by Oct. 15 to Rodney Sangster, associate dean and director, in Bloomington.

Ersatz Expo--Plan now for the Oct. 8-9 Artificial Intelligence Expo '86. Call the sponsors, Corp. for Science and Technology, 635-3058.

Calendar Note--The Campus Calendar you were supposed to get inside last week's Green Sheet is not lost--it was not inserted. Employee changes have caused a delay in the calendar. Patience, please.

Med TV--Several days this week, all beginning at noon, the Medical Educational Resources Program of the School of Medicine is sponsoring Medical Television Network courses. They can be viewed in the Learning Resource Center, MS B-10. Sports Care (the knee) is Sept. 15, Sports Care (the ankle) is Sept. 16, Patient Interviewing Skills is Sept. 17 and Organ Donations and the impact of Required Request Legislation is Sept. 18. Call 4-7212.

Magic for You--Magic. Learn it in Continuing Studies from Sunny Johnson. Classes begin soon. Call 4-4501.

Series Goes to Town--The first of the Humanities Institute Mini-Series on the Circle is Sept. 17, noon-1 p.m. Bring lunch and be served coffee or tea while Karen M. Rasmussen, associate professor of history, Indiana Higher Education Commission, speaks on the subject, "Our Neighbors: Their Importance." The series subjects all focus on Pan American interests. All welcome.

Ethics Weekend--"Public Good and Private Happiness" is the theme of a weekend seminar, Sept. 28-29, at IUB in the Poynter Center for the Study of Ethics and American Institutions, sponsor. It will explore conflicts between individual interests and the common good. For details, call Judith Granbois, 812-335-0261.

DEADLINES APPROACH FOR MANY GRANT/AID PROGRAMS

Research and Sponsored Programs announced that this month and next forms are due in for several grant/aid/research programs. Grant-in-Aid for Research and Scholarly Activity and Summer Faculty Fellowship applications are due by Oct. 17 at 5 p.m. These programs are usually limited to 10-month tenure-track or tenure faculty on this campus, who are primarily in the early stages of career development. Sept. 30 is the deadline for International Institute of Sports Science and Medicine Grant-In-Aid proposals. The GIA supports new or existing research projects in sports science and/or medicine. Applications for Overseas Conference Fund support to provide partial funding for transportation costs associated with faculty or librarians attending an international conference are due before Oct. 1. Preliminary proposals for the Lilly Endowment Faculty Open Fellowship are due before 5 p.m. on Oct. 31.

For more information on these and other programs call Ann Kratz, Research and Sponsored Programs, 4-8285.

PRIDE OF INDIANA LIONS

The Lions Clubs of Indiana and the IU Medical Center will celebrate the final payment on the microtron accelerator Sept. 14 at the medical center. The microtron, a $909,990 medical radiation therapy device, has been purchased by the Indiana Lions Cancer Control Fund for the cancer program at IU. The Lions dedicated the Scanditronix Microtron in 1983 when it was put into use for patient care. The first of its kind in the U.S., the machine has set new standards in quality and variety for radiation therapy.

Since 1946, the Indiana Lions have raised nearly $3 million through Cancer Control, most of which has been used to buy equipment for the IU Radiation Oncology Department. The alliance between the Lions and IU has resulted in one of the finest and best-equipped radiation treatment centers for cancer in the world. No other state has a similar Lions project. The Lions also support many other programs here, including the Lions Eye Bank.

With about 2,000 Lions in attendance, the celebration of the microtron payment will begin at 11:30 a.m. on the lawn east of the School of Dentistry. Among the notables on hand will be the president of the Lions International, Sten A.A. Akestam, who is from Sweden--the country where the microtron is made.

VOTER REGISTRATION ON CAMPUS

The IUPUI Student Assembly is sponsoring non-partisan voter registration on the West Michigan Street Campus Sept. 15-19. Times are 9 a.m.-4 p.m. each day. Places are the basements of University Library and Cavanaugh Hall. Information on important issues will be available. The Student Assembly is taking part in this voter registration and education campaign along with college campuses across the state.

"CIRCUIT RIDERS" FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

IU President John W. Ryan and Purdue President Steven C. Beering will combine their efforts this fall to seek public support of higher education during the next session of the Indiana General Assembly. They plan joint speaking engagements for audiences of IU and Purdue alumni and community leaders in seven Indiana cities: Muncie and Fort Wayne on Sept. 16, Columbus and Lake County on Sept. 23, Indianapolis on Oct. 1, Evansville and South Bend on Oct. 16. Ryan announced the plan during his recent annual "Address to the University." He noted that he and Beering conducted a similar tour two years ago and he believes Indiana higher education benefited through improved understanding of both schools' budget proposals.

REMEMBRANCES AND REUNION

Camp Bowie in Brownwood, Tex., where civilian doctors, dentists, nurses and technicians from Indianapolis did boot training is gone. Many of the civilians and enlisted men and women connected with the 32nd General Hospital also are gone. But more than 60 of those remaining will travel with spouses and friends to reunite for the 39th year. They will gather Sept. 18-20 at the home of former bugle boy Travis Winfree in Hempstead, Tex. (IUPUI hosted the reunion of the 32nd General Hospital in 1984.)

They will talk about the 32nd General Hospital, the kind of mobile military hospital that set up in tents and abandoned buildings and treated civilian and military casualties in England and on the continent during the last critical period of World War II. They will reminisce about the clear spring day in May of 1942 when nearly 3,000 people crowded the IU Medical Center lawn to watch the medical nucleus of the 32nd solemnly inducted into the military. Dr. Jack D. Carr, long-time dental school professor, is the last surviving dentist from the 32nd General Hospital. He remembers the war years and Cy Clark, their commander, who pushed for the 32nd to be the first field hospital on German soil in the war. It was.

MORE NEWS 'N' NOTES

Remind Students--Info on the Professional Practice and Cooperative Education Programs on campus which allow students to integrate college-level academic study with work experience is available at Career and Employment Services, BS 2010. Early application is required for those who want to interview this fall for internships next semester. For more, drop by the office for an application or counseling appointment.

Making Things--The Manufacturing Technology Committee, Corp. for Science and Technology, meets Sept. 23, 9:30 a.m.-2 p.m., Sheraton-Marten House. Call 635-3058.

Safety First--If you're concerned with the safe transportation of children, the use of safety belts or the dangers of drinking and driving, you should attend the Mini Lifesavers '86 conference Sept. 17 at the Sheraton Meridian Hotel. To register for the conference, which includes a free lunch, call the Automotive Safety for Children Program at Riley, 4-2977.

Turnaround--We have a new procedure for additions/changes/deletions for the Green Sheet mailing list. We anticipate being able to have a quicker turnaround on changes. Patience, please.

MOVING DAY

Shortly after the crack of dawn Sept. 16--at 7:30 a.m.--about 100 babies and toddlers in Riley will move into their new rooms and units in the new wing. The move is expected to take about three hours. Welcome!

green sheet

*News Bureau
Indiana University-Purdue University at Indianapolis
355 Lansing Street
Indianapolis, Indiana 46202

(ARCH-791205)

ARCHIVES
UNIVERSITY LIBRARY
420 BLAKE STREET