

SIGMA THETA TAU DEDICATES CENTER AND LIBRARY

IUPUI opens another international center Nov. 15 at 3:30 p.m. with the dedication of the International Center for Nursing Scholarship and Nursing Library, headquarters of Sigma Theta Tau, Inc., International Honor Society of Nursing. Situated at the far east edge of campus, the 37,000-square-foot building will house the administrative offices of Sigma Theta Tau and a state-of-the-art electronic library that will provide nurses and other medical professionals instant access to research, some even before it is published. The public dedication will highlight Sigma Theta Tau's 30th Biennial Convention that is expected to attract more than 2,000 of its 140,000 global membership. Seminars, awards, research sharing and "homecoming" are planned around the dedication ceremonies that will feature remarks by Mayor Hudnut, President Thomas Ehrlich and Chancellor Gerald L. Bepko, as well as past and present presidents of the honorary. Sigma Theta Tau was created on this campus in 1922 by six nurses from the School of Nursing and the "adapted" classical architecture of its $4.6 million headquarters expresses the honorary's Greek tradition and contemporary dedication to better health care through the advancement of nursing research, education and professionalism. "The center will serve as a centralized force for improved health care internationally," said Angela Barron McBride, Ph.D., president of Sigma Theta Tau International, who also is associate dean for research, development and resources and professor of nursing. Everyone is welcome to the dedication ceremony; the reception that follows is by invitation.

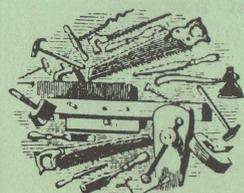

--M. Hopper

Where in the World

TEACHERS DEDICATE WEEK TO "GLOBAL VILLAGE" AWARENESS

Helping Hoosiers to know more about the places and peculiarities of all peoples on the "global village" called earth is the aim of Indiana teachers of geography during a statewide celebration of National Geographic Awareness Week, Nov. 12-18. "Geography: Key to the Environment" is this year's theme, and the Geography Educators' Network of Indiana, Inc. (GENI), an alliance of the National Geographic Society Education Program, will participate. "In today's world of global interdependency, an understanding and knowledge of other nations and cultures is necessary," said Frederick L. Bein, GENI chairman and chairman of the Dept. of Geography. He joins other scholars in week long activities that include release of the Gallup Poll results of geography literacy in the Soviet Union, comparisons to American geography knowledge tests of recent years and a collection of responses to a student survey of perspectives on local, national and international environmental issues. The American Meteorological Society also is participating this year. --J. Grim

DONATIONS OF FINISHED HANDMADE ITEMS ARE NEEDED FOR SELLING in the Cheer Guild's annual Poinsettia and Christmas Boutique, Nov. 29-30 and Dec. 1. Woodworking pieces, paintings, wreaths, candles, doll clothes, pillows, stuffed toys, door decorations, needlework and floral arrangements are all welcome. Needed no later than Nov. 27, donations can be taken to the Gift Shop in University Hospital, the Guild Office in Riley or the Adult Education Center in Cavanaugh Hall.

TEACH MAY HELP FILL URBAN TEACHER SHORTAGE

Like other urban schools systems across the country, IPS has too few teachers, especially minority people. To help fill the gap, the School of Education is creating a new program that is available to all full-time non-licensed staff personnel working in IPS. The Teacher Education Program for Non-Licensed Personnel (TEACH), will deliver a broad spectrum of academic and personal services to 25 candidates who will be enrolled initially. In group and individual settings they will pursue the completion of a teacher education program, and they will work individually and together on common goals and practical and personal skills and life management. Coordinators are Edward L. Robbins, associate professor of education and director of the Measurement and Evaluation Center for Reading Education (MECRE) at IUPUI, and June Rimmer, assistant to IPS Superintendent James Adams. If TEACH proves successful in increasing the pool of minority teachers and enhancing clinical experience for students at IUPUI, as he expects it will, Robbins said TEACH will become a permanent feature of the university's overall teacher training program. For more, call Prof. Robbins, 4-6801.--S. Rogers

NON-INVASIVE STUDY NEEDS DIABETICS FOR INTERVIEWS People ages 18-55 with insulin-dependent diabetes are invited to participate in a two-hour interview to discuss how they learned to manage diabetes (no right or wrong answers). Participants must have been diabetic for at least one year, require daily insulin injections, have no diabetic complications and be in general good health. No lab tests or blood work will be done. For more, call Martha Price, 4-4664 and ask for diabetic study, or call 879-1425 and leave a message.

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Fall Final--Last in the OB/GYN Dept. fall series of women's talks is "Stress Management and Working Women" by JoAnn Ruiz-Bueno, Nov. 16, 11 a.m.-noon. There is no charge, but please register with Karen Maupin, 4-8842.

Rehab Seminar--Margaret Hanke, doctoral student, Dept. of Psychology, presents "The Effects of Intrinsic/Extrinsic Motivation on the Intention for Sobriety" in the next rehabilitation brown bag seminar, Nov. 17, noon-1 p.m., KB 054. All welcome. Call 4-6449.

Going Native for Lunch--Native American food is on the advanced student lunch menu for one day only next week. (Lunch will not be served on Thanksgiving Day.) On Nov. 21 in the Hoosier Room, the menu features spiced cider or peanut soup, venison kabobs with saged wild rice, Pueblo blue corn bread, persimmon cake and sassafras tea. Cost is $10; no tax, no tips. To reserve your lunch, call Lois Altman, 4-7649.

Generation Gap--For its upcoming production of "Rope," University Theatre needs to borrow a baby grand piano that does not necessarily need to be in top shape, a working grandfather clock, and sword/dagger cane. Call technical director Jack Sutton, 4-0558.

It's Absurd--Dale McFadden from IUB's Dept. of Theatre and Drama is directing Don DeLillo's absurdist comedy, "The Day Room," at it continues at the Phoenix Theatre through Nov. 26. For tickets, call 635-PLAY.

How Dare They--"The African Company Presents Richard III," a play about a black theatre company of slaves and freedmen who dared to present a Shakespearean play at the same time as a white company, is set for performances at the Walker Theatre, Dec. 8-10 and Dec. 15-17. Call 635-6915.

About AIDS--Community health educator Joanne Greer and a person with AIDS will lead a workshop on AIDS awareness, Nov. 13, 7:30 p.m., in the main lounge, Ball Residence Hall. Questions about testing, transmission, and treatment of AIDS as a "we" disease will be answered. For more, call Mabel Peters, 4-6440 or Dave Hanson, 4-6363. Sponsor is the Office of Residence Life.

CHICAGO ARTISTS LECTURE AND EXHIBIT AT HERRON

Sculptor Neil Goodman and painter Julia Fish will come to Herron School of Art Nov. 16 for a joint lecture on their work and the opening Nov. 17 of their exhibition "Julia Fish and Neil Goodman, Chicago View: Selected Works from the 1980s." The lecture is in the school's auditorium at 1:30 p.m. and the opening reception is in the Herron Gallery, Indianapolis Center for Contemporary Art, 7-9 p.m.

NOMINATIONS OPEN FOR IU DISTINGUISHED TEACHING AWARDS

The Committee on Distinguished Teaching Awards announces that nominations are open for the 1990 All University Teaching Awards. The annual awards for excellence are awarded on Founders Day and include "a substantial financial grant." Faculty members and associate instructors are eligible for the following: Frederic Bachman Lieber Award, Herman F. Lieber Award, President's Awards and Lieber Associate Instructor Awards. Nominations require documentation. Deadline for submitting materials is Jan. 5, 1990. For guidelines and more information, call or visit the office of Erwin Boschman, associate dean of the faculties, 4-4880, Administration Building, room 112.

CENTER SETS TWO-DAY WORKSHOP FOR ACDF Adults who find intimacy difficult, who are threatened by personal criticism, who lie when telling the truth would be as easy, who over-react to change and who have low self-esteem can discover skills to overcome these and other problems that relate to upbringing in a dysfunctional family. A free workshop for Adult Children of Dysfunctional Families is Nov. 14-15, noon-1 p.m. Professionals from the IUPUI Counseling Center will teach the course that can help people better understand themselves. Registration is required. Call 4-2548, weekdays, 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

FORUM ON INTERNATIONAL HEALTH TO FOCUS ON PHILIPPINES

The impact of human rights on health, particularly in the Philippines, is the focus of an open forum on international health to be presented by Janet Gottschalk Nov. 16, 6 p.m., in the School of Nursing, room 336. All are welcome.

MORE NEWS 'N' NOTES

Biology--Mark Goebel, Dept. of Biochemistry, presents "Yeast Genetics/Molecular Biology," Nov. 17, noon, KB 357. Call 4-0577.

Chemistry--C.C. Bodurow, Eli Lilly Co., Inc, presents "The Synthesis of Carbacephalosporin Antibodies," Nov. 15, 4:15 p.m., KB 231.

Physics--Myong-Ku Ahn, Dept. of Chemistry, Indiana State U., presents "Cesium 133 NMR Studies of Cations in Zeolites" Nov. 16, 4:15 p.m., KB 131. Call 4-6903.

Women in Politics--Sharon Rodine, president of the National Women's Political Caucus, will discuss women's role in politics, Nov. 16 at a luncheon meeting of the Network of Women in Business. Call 637-2557.

Borders Patrol--Borders Book Shop proudly notes that it has "Bill Peet An Autobiography," by the humorous Herron grad; "Eli Lilly: A Life, 1885-1977," by James H. Madison, and "Where We Live: Essays About Indiana" by David Hoppe, both from IU Press.

TICKET SALES BEGIN FOR ANGELOU AND 19TH ANNUAL KING DINNER

Maya Angelou (left), powerful black writer who served with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., will give the keynote address during the 19th annual Martin Luther King Jr. Dinner Jan 15 at the West End. This year entitled "This Dream ... Will Not Be Deferred," the dinner and awards are sponsored by the IUPUI Black Student Union. Angelou is hailed as one of the great voices of contemporary black literature and has written 10 best sellers, including "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sing" and "And Still I Rise." In the 1960s, she accepted an invitation from Dr. King to be the northern coordinator of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. She was appointed to the Bicentennial Commission by President Gerald Ford and to the Commission of International Women's Year by President Jimmy Carter. Tickets for the dinner are on sale until Dec. 1 on a first-come, first-served basis. They are $15 for students and $20 for others. Arrangements can be made for faculty and staff to sponsor a student to the banquet. For tickets, call or visit the BSU, 4-2279, University Library, 006D.

SOVIET EDUCATOR LECTURES AND CELEBRATES NEW LAB Nikolai Nikondrov, general secretary of the USSR Academy for Pedagogical Sciences, will present a public lecture, "Perestroika and the Reform of Soviet Education" on Nov. 16 at 2 p.m. in the ballroom, University Place. Sponsored by the School of Education the Soviet educator also will be the guest of honor at an informal reception in the school's commons, 4:30 p.m., the same day. The reception celebrates the opening of the school's new research and development laboratory.

IUPUI'S LEARN & SHOP STILL A MODEL FOR MARKETING EDUCATION After a decade of delivering higher education in classrooms in Indianapolis area shopping centers and all weekend on campus, IUPUI's Learn & Shop and Weekend College programs continue to be a model for educators interested in innovation. During the fifth biennial Learn & Shop and Weekend College workshops, 80 VIPs from universities and colleges in 27 states and Canada came to campus last week to hear about the successful program here and at other campuses. James R. East, associate dean of the School of Liberal Arts, who started and stayed with the programs, said in an article in the Chronicle of Higher Education, Nov. 1, that the programs here and in other institutions are "enjoying a quiet revival."

NCAA WATER POLO CHAMPIONSHIP COACHES TAKE TIME FOR FREE YES CLINICS FOR KIDS For the first time in 13 years, the NCAA Div. I water polo championships are being held east of California, and they are being held at the natatorium Nov. 24-26. The teams, many from the west coast, will be selected and seeded for competition Nov. 19. In conjunction with the event, water polo coaches will be on hand to conduct free youth clinics Nov. 25 for children ages 10-18. As part of the NCAA's Youth Education through Sports (YES) program, the children will get instruction and information about water polo, substance abuse, time management, study skills and much more. They also receive a free T-shirt and a ticket to a championship game. For more about YES, call Liz Hanahan, 4-3365. For water polo tickets and information, call 4-6787.

green sheet

*News Bureau
Indiana University-Purdue University
at Indianapolis
355 Lansing Street
Indianapolis, Indiana 46202

