BOOKMARKS: SHARING REMARKABLE BOOKS AT IUPUI

BookMarks, a new venture that will bring together readers from campus and the community to celebrate a few remarkably discussable books, is under way at IUPUI and is being directed by Jane Rooksby. In addition to a shared reading list of five books chosen from hundreds recently suggested by faculty and staff, BookMarks will include a year-long series of events from brown-bag lunches to public lectures by noted authors and scholars. Schools and departments are planning BookMarks events and office groups and circles of friends are urged to join in BookMarks and to plan their own discussions and celebrations.

The books are Selected Poems, by Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Gwendolyn Brooks, a work of perceptive interpretations of the human condition; In Search of the Double Helix, by science writer/cosmologist John Gribbin, which tells the story of people and discoveries that have led to understanding the ongoing evolution of life; Silent Spring, by marine biologist Rachel Carson, the landmark book that warned about the misuse of pesticides and helped launch the environmental movement; One Hundred Years of Solitude, by Colombian Nobel Prize-winner Gabriel Garcia Marquez, a poignant account of the rise and fall of the Buendia family, and The Federalist Papers, by James Madison, Alexander Hamilton and John Jay, the collection of essays published in New York newspapers in 1787-88 urging ratification of the U.S. Constitution and described as the most important work in political science ever written in the United States.

They are available in IUPUI Bookstores individually and in a set, and in book shops about the city. They are on reserve at University Library and on the shelves of most public libraries. The purpose of BookMarks is to enhance intellectual exchange and a sense of community, said William M. Plater, executive vice chancellor and dean of the faculties. He and Herman Blake, vice chancellor, are co-chairmen of the Council on Undergraduate Learning, which is managing the BookMarks program. "It is hoped that this venture will open minds and brighten spirits and it is expected to be fun," said Plater. Blake's office already has notified new students with a mailed invitation to participate in BookMarks. Explaining how the books were selected, Plater said, "Among the hundreds of books nominated by faculty, students and staff, these five represent a broad spectrum of ideas, perspectives and values. They include works of science, public policy, poetry and political philosophy—all of which have importance for us in imagining the world in the next century. There is no inherent rationale for picking one book over another, but instead the works taken together reflect a diversity of authors, times and methods. The selection committee tried to ensure that everyone would find at least a few works of personal interest and significance." The BookMarks program is a major project of the IUPUI External Affairs Coordinating Council to involve the public with students, faculty and staff.

GREEN SHEET KEEPS "SUMMER" SCHEDULE The Green Sheet will be published twice a month, the first and third Sundays, until further notice. Deadline remains Tuesday at 5 p.m. before publication date, and that includes all items—mailed and FAXed. Mail them to AO 136, FAX to 4-5457. Space is very limited, to assure publication, all items also should be sent to the Campus Calendar, UN 115; FAX 4-3322. Neither publication can accept telephone items.
NEW FACULTY WELCOMED, WORKSHOPS SET

Nearly 100 new faculty members were feted by the Faculty Development Office during orientation Aug. 20 in University Place. For those who could not attend, and for those who forget to pick theirs up, there is a helpful booklet, "Faculty Development Opportunities at IUPUI." The office also has a brochure listing all upcoming workshops planned for faculty enrichment and education. Call Joyce at 4-8880 for your copies. Also, this is to remind registrants of the upcoming workshop, "First Year Experience," Sept. 17, featuring Robert Davis, 10 a.m.-3:30 p.m., BS 4088.

Other workshops to which all faculty are encouraged to attend:

Sept. 13---"Technology Transfer: The Do's and Don'ts of Corporate Relations and Intellectual Property Management" featuring Melvin J. DeGeeter, 1-2:30 p.m., Roof Lounge, Union Building.

Sept. 17---During the day-long Micro Expo 1991 in University Place, there will be a special preview of Mathematica, the computer program that has dramatically changed the way scientists and educators think about math problems. (A Mathematica workshop series is coming up this fall.)

NEWS 'N' NOTES FROM HERE 'N' THERE

Quick Fowl---In 1940 it took the poultry industry an average of 12 weeks to produce a full-grown chicken. Now it takes an of average six weeks. (Harper's Index, Sept.)

On Animal Rights---In a Dept. of Anatomy seminar Cathy Vogelweid, DVM, PhD, presents "The Animal Rights Movement from the Perspective of a Laboratory Animal Veterinarian" Sept. 4, noon-1 p.m., Fesler Hall, Hurty C.

For Professionals---On Sept. 20 in University Place a multi-faceted approach to caring for patients with hematologic/oncologic disorders, AIDS and AIDS-related malignancies will be examined in the conference, "A Caring Relationship: A Professional's Guide to Caring for the Immunocompromised Patient." Call 4-4882.

No Flu for You---Beginning Sept. 3, flu vaccine for faculty, staff and students will be available at Student Employee Health Service. The cost is $7. Hours are 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays and no appointment is necessary.

Free Calendar---Magenta print and a nice shot of IUPUI against the Indy skyline at dusk grace the new 1991-92 IUPUI Activities Calendar that is available free to everyone on campus. It is an annual tear-off calendar with national holidays and IUPUI and IUB events, and it is a joint project of External Affairs, the Foundation and the Alumni Association at IUPUI. Copies are available in the Visitor Information Center in the lobby of the Union, at Bookstores and by calling 4-2323.

Packer McGtruck Retires---Packer McGtruck, a longtime member of the IUPUI community is retiring after serving well past its life expectancy. No reception is planned. In its stead, effective Aug. 2, Southern Scavanger has contracted for pickup and removal of campus trash, following a competitive bidding process through the joint efforts of Purchasing and Campus Facility Services staff. A private firm was contracted because of increasing expense of equipment and labor of in-house staff, said Emily Wren, director of Campus Facility Services. McGtruck is to be disposed of as surplus, said Ted Aichele, trash hauling contract administrator in Building Services.

Reading can begin now. While all five books are recommended, there is no reading order and readers can pick and choose books to their liking. There will be no exams either, but comments and suggestions are welcome. Ricksby, an IU alumnus, will manage the BookMarks program part-time until it culminates for the year next spring. The former businesswoman, editor and civic activist invites inquiry about the program. Her office also will plan the campus-wide events, keep a master calendar of school-based events and can help schools and units with planning. Call her at 4-4371.

MORE NEWS 'N' NOTES

Bye Maudine—A reception to celebrate the retirement of Maudine B. Williams, head librarian of the Herron School of Art Library, is Sept. 12, 4-6 p.m., foyer, Herron Gallery, Museum Building. Small artworks and donations for a gift will be accepted by Jan Metcalf at Herron and Margaret Vollmer at University Libraries. To RSVP, call Jennifer Hehman at the Herron Library, 923-3651, ext. 37.

Bigger 'n' Better—To make room for more recruiters and participants the School of Nursing’s annual Career Fair will be held this year in University Place, Sept. 30 from noon-7 p.m. and Oct. 1 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Recruiters from hospitals and health care facilities from Indiana and surrounding states are participating. Alumni and all pre-nursing and nursing students are welcome. Registration is not required.

POLSA Picks Up—Faculty, staff and students interested in political science and related fields are welcome to any of six conferences planned by POLSA, the IUPUI Political Science Students Association. Upcoming are "Forum on Political Internship Possibilities," Sept. 12, and "Career and Placement Services," Sept. 18, both noon-1 p.m., CA 438. Watch the calendar or Green Sheet for the other conferences.

No Sweat—Salud to all who labor—to teach, to learn, to achieve, to accomplish. IUPUI students and some, but not all, staff get the day off Sept. 2 for Labor Day. Others will toil at their posts and get a day off some other time. Enjoy.
In celebration of 700 years of democracy in Switzerland, officials from the country and the U.S. will observe the anniversary with an exhibition of Swiss contemporary art. The exhibit, Art in Switzerland 1991, opens the Herron Gallery season with a reception Sept. 6, 5-8 p.m. in the Indianapolis Center for Contemporary Art at Herron. Guest artists and dignitaries from Switzerland will attend. The show runs through Sept. 27.

VICE PRESIDENT QUAYLE ACCEPTS HONOR During its annual meeting the IU School of Law-Indianapolis Alumni Association will bestow the 1991 Distinguished Alumni Service Award on Dan Quayle, 44th vice president of the USA. The ceremony and dinner begin at 6 p.m., Sept. 6, in the Westin Hotel. Dean Norman Lefstein also has arranged for Quayle to speak to faculty and law students at the school around 4 p.m. that day.

GERMAN CLASSES FOR CHILDREN Children ages 5-13 can enroll now for German classes to be taught on campus Sept. 14-Dec. 7, Saturdays, 9 a.m.-noon. The cost is $90 for one child, with a 10 percent discount for others in the same family. Registration deadline is Sept. 10. To enroll or for more, contact Claudia Grossman, German Dept., CA 502, 4-8290 or 4-2812.
