Kathy Williams is getting used to speaking to national audiences. The School of Education senior, who also is a research assistant in the Office of the Vice Chancellor for Undergraduate Education, delivered a keynote address to 150 policymakers and administrators at the National Conference of State Directors of Adult Education and GED Administrators in Bethesda, MD in July. During her speech, Williams detailed her frustrations — and her successes — as a returning adult student coping with poverty and single parenthood. She was invited to speak by a conference organizer who heard her in April when she accepted a 1992 Outstanding Adult Learner Award from the American Association for Adult and Continuing Education. The award was presented at the national meeting in Washington, D.C. — Alicia Dean Carlson

MIXING BASKETBALL AND ACADEMICS EARN HIGH PRAISE

Mixing basketball and academics is what the annual NIKE All-American Academic Camp is all about, and IUPUI's contributions toward achieving that goal have earned the university the highest honor the NIKE organizers could offer — they want more. Mary Sauer of the English department spent hours each day of the camp giving more than 130 young basketball campers a glimpse of the writing skills they will need once they begin their college careers. The NIKE people were so impressed with Sauer's work that they have asked the university for more faculty assistance in future NIKE camps. That is expected to mean that as the teachers NIKE has brought in from across the country retire or choose not to continue, they'll be replaced by IUPUI faculty representatives. So look for the university's role in the premiere summer high school basketball camp to increase to even higher levels in the next few years.

CITY'S RELIGIOUS HISTORY TO BE KEY PART OF 'ENCYCLOPEDIA'

The long and often overlooked religious history of Indianapolis promises to be one of the most vital and interesting sections of the "Encyclopedia of Indianapolis" when the POLIS Research Center project is completed. Among the contributing authors to the religion section is Jan Shipps of religious studies, history and American studies. More than four dozen topics have already been approved for the project, tracing the history of religion, churches, congregations and religious leaders throughout the city's history. The segment will examine religion's role in shaping the city's cultural and religious development. Individuals featured range from Henry Ward Beecher, the nationally prominent Presbyterian, to James Jones, who led his 900-member People's Temple cult to mass suicide. The section also will explore the roots of most denominations prevalent in Indianapolis.
Ten visual artists, including Pat Gaines and Ken Skelton of the university staff, will highlight "Voyages from Darkness to Light," a showcase of political and social art from contemporary African-American artists at the city's Central Library, Aug. 3-30. The event pays tribute to the late literary artist Etheridge Knight. Gaines is a member of the Hospital Human Resource Development team at the Cottages, while Skelton is a building service assistant at the dental school. In addition to the 10 visual artists, a dozen literary artists will take part.

CONFERENCE FOCUSES ON FITNESS FOR OLDER PEOPLE

The benefits of physical activity for older people is the focus of "Successful Aging Through Fitness," an Aug. 5-7 conference at University Place Conference Center. Walter M. Bortz II, author of We Live Too Short and Die Too Long, will be the keynote speaker. Continuing education credit is available for the event, which is sponsored by the Schools of Allied Health Sciences, Nursing, Medicine, Physical Education and Social Work, along with the National Institute of Fitness and Sport and the Indiana Geriatric Education Center. For more, call 4-7779.

RESEARCH PROJECTS LOOKING FOR PARTICIPANTS

People willing to take part in medical, dental and other types of research projects are always in demand on the campus, including the summer months. If you're interested in participating, here are some of the projects currently under way that could use your help:

HEARING—Normal-hearing adults who are native English speakers are needed for a listening study to assess the intelligibility of deaf children's speech. Participants will listen to samples of deaf speech one time for one hour and will be paid. Those interested should call 4-4914 and leave your name and phone numbers.

LUNG FUNCTION—Male infants from 0-24 months of age are needed for evaluation of lung function. Those interested should call Connie Angelicchio at 4-7208.

BLOOD PRESSURE—The Division of Clinical Pharmacology needs volunteers between the ages of 65 and 85 with normal or high blood pressure, and between 18 and 45 with high blood pressure. There will be compensation for participants. For more, call Jim Dickison at 630-8795 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

DRUG STUDY—Healthy men and women at least 18 years of age are needed for research studies into investigational drugs at the Lilly Clinic at Wishard Hospital. Participants cannot smoke or currently be on medication, or should be able to stop for the study's duration. For more, call 276-4759 between 7 a.m. and 3 p.m.

DIABETES—People taking insulin who were diagnosed with diabetes mellitus after the age of 40 may be eligible to take part in a study aimed at developing a simple insulin treatment. The study will last approximately six months. Free medical care and materials will be provided to those who qualify. For more, call 630-6987.

HYPERTENSION—The center needs people with high blood pressure for a six-month study. Subjects must be diabetic, controlled without insulin. Those who complete the study will be paid. If interested, call 4-0796 and ask for drug-study information, or leave a message.

Eugene E. Levitt of the School of Medicine, announced earlier this year as one of the 1992 recipients of the coveted Karl Heiser Award, will receive his honor at the American Psychology Association (APA) national convention in Washington, D.C. Aug. 14. A longtime APA member, Levitt is being honored as one who "made a significant national impact before 1970" in the field of psychology. Levitt is a member of the clinical psychology department and drafted Indiana's original psychology statute in 1967 while serving as the president of the Indiana Psychological Association. Levitt is among 57 recipients of this year's Heiser Awards, named for the author of the first licensure law in the U.S.

HERRON'S 90TH BIRTHDAY BASH READY TO KICK OFF

Celebrating a 90th birthday is worthy of special attention, and the Herron School of Art is getting it this summer and fall in ARTIMES 90. The school's own gallery and other Indianapolis cultural centers will celebrate nine decades of excellence by displaying Herron graduates' works.

Two exhibits are scheduled to start in late August to kick off the celebration, including one featuring the creations of Amanda Block at the Indianapolis Art League and the other focusing on recent alumni at the Herron Gallery. Block, an artist and educator, will be the featured artist Aug. 28-Oct. 4 at the Art League, 820 E. 67th St. The alumni exhibit will run Aug. 29-Oct. 2 and include paintings, sculpture, printmaking and installation at the school's gallery, 1701 N. Pennsylvania. Four years after the school was founded, Herron's museum building, which now houses the gallery and studios, was built in 1906. It was the second building ever constructed in the U.S. expressly for art instruction. Throughout its history, Herron has served the community by developing its students as professional artists, visual communicators, art educators and scholars, and through art exhibitions and programs.

NATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS TO BE LED BY LIBERAL ARTS FACULTY

Liberal arts professors Gang Yi of economics and Richard Steinberg of economics and the I.U. Center on Philanthropy, will spend the 1992-93 school year with a few extra duties. The two men will serve as presidents of separate national organizations, Yi leading the Chinese Economics Society (CES) and Steinberg the head of the Association for Research on Nonprofit Organizations and Voluntary Action (ARNOVA). Yi was elected to a one-year term as president of the CES, a 400-member organization founded in 1985. It serves as a bridge between Western and Chinese economists. Steinberg was elected as co-president of ARNOVA and will serve the first half of the two-year president's term. ARNOVA is a 21-year-old organization of approximately 350 researchers and practitioners in the nonprofit field. Both organizations are responsible for leading international journals in their respective fields.

CAMPUS EMPLOYMENT PROCEDURES UNDERGOING CHANGES

Changes are in store on the campus under the guidelines of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), which took effect in July. Employment practices and hiring guidelines are likely to incur the biggest changes, affecting the way the university recruits, interviews and selects its staff members. Questions about the ADA or IUPUI policies are being handled by the Affirmative Action Office (4-2306, or TDD at 278-2200), headed by Lillian Charleston. She also is leading a task force which is formulating campus-wide policies, practices and procedures to meet the ADA requirements. Other task force co-chairs are Kenneth Stroud of the law school and Emily Wren, director of Campus Facility Services. The new act was passed to require equal treatment of disabled persons in employment, public services and transportation, public accommodations and telecommunications services.

EPPEYRSON, ZORN TRAINING FOR BARCELONA PARALYMPICS

Barcelona, Spain is already a busy place with the 1992 Summer Olympics in full swing, but the fun and Games won't end when the closing ceremonies are finished. Later this summer, the 1992 Paralympics will be held in Barcelona and they'll have an IUPUI flavor to them in the persons of alumnus Trischa Zorn and physical education major Frank Epperson. Zorn, who earned a master's degree from the School of Education in 1992, will compete in the swimming competition after qualifying for the U.S. team in the nationals at Salt Lake City. Epperson, a bronze medalist in the 1988 Paralympics, will be shooting for gold medals in three wheelchair races, including the 100-, 200- and 400-meter events. In the Salt Lake trials, Epperson set a U.S. record in the 200 and is gunning for the world record in the 100 in Barcelona. The two athletes prepared for their Paralympic bids at IUPUI's facilities, Zorn at the Natatorium and Epperson at the I.U. Track and Field Stadium. The Paralympics are scheduled to begin Sept. 3.
