

Jan. 10, 2014

INScope

Weekly news for faculty, staff and students from the Indiana University School of Medicine

top headlines

Continuing support

The Vera Bradley Foundation for Breast Cancer has pledged $15 million to the IU Simon Cancer Center, raising total giving to $35 million.

Navari joins WHO

Rudolph M. Navari, director of the IU School of Medicine-South Bend, will depart IU in April to join the World Health Organization.

New director

Rohit Das is IUSM's new statewide competency director for Social and Community Contexts of Health Care.

editor's picks

News to Use

Revitalizing diversity

Stephen P. Bogdewic, executive associate dean for faculty affairs and professional development, discusses diversity efforts underway at IUSM.

Opportunities

Deadline extension

Faculty now have until Jan. 21 to apply for an AMA fellowship to support educator training program development.

Grants

Young investigator awards

features of the week

story

One block at a time

Hoosier contractor Michael Greven is continuing his longtime ties with Africa by leading a construction project to build a new chronic disease care facility in Kenya. Greven previously helped construct the Riley Mother Baby Hospital in Eldoret, a part of the Moi University School of Medicine, IUSM's partner the the Academic Model Providing Access to Healthcare, or AMPATH.

podcast

The Indiana CTSI is seeking applicants for postdoctoral training awards in translational research.

Kudos

Named titles
Anthony B. Firulli, Mark H. Kaplan and Gail Habegger Vance have received named titles at the IU School of Medicine.

faculty & staff spotlight

Serving others
Radiology faculty member Chang Yueh Ho says a commitment to volunteerism strengthens compassion and respect for others.

student spotlight

Best of both worlds
A special program allows student Vanessa Gehring to pursue future careers in both science and song.

'Sound Medicine'

This week, "Sound Medicine" explores the medical community's growing awareness of opioid abuse and addiction among patients prescribed these drugs to treat pain. Segments include an interview with IUSM psychiatrist Andy Chambers, who treats patients struggling with addiction, and an Indianapolis-based unit that treats babies born addicted to painkillers.

events & lectures

Wishard Memorial Hospital public sale

01-11-2014

Alzheimer's disease and glaucoma

01-15-2014

Stepping Stones of Women in Leadership

01-23-2014

RESPECT Center Conference poster abstracts due

01-31-2014

IU School of Medicine Calendar

IUSM campus links

Bloomington • Evansville • Fort Wayne • Indianapolis
Lafayette • Muncie • Gary • South Bend • Terre Haute

Submit your news

Subscribe or unsubscribe to this newsletter.

IU Communications | 251 N. Illinois St. | Indianapolis, IN 46204

