Students respond to proposed cuts

by Laura Burris

A press conference, attended by channels 4, 6, 8 and 13, was held Saturday, Jan. 30, in response to cuts in financial aid to students by state and federal governments during the past year. All Indiana University and Purdue campuses, Depauw, Indiana Central, Ball State, Manchester, University of Evansville and others were represented to discuss the financial future of Indiana universities in regard to our funding from the State.

Student body presidents and representatives from 18 campuses compiled the following for presentation to the Indiana State Legislature:

"We recognize the past contributions the State of Indiana has made toward higher education. Today, we want to stress the need for continued support to minimize the current difficulties facing all Indiana college students and thus, the entire State.

"In the past four months, we have met many times and now have two proposals to present:

"Proposal No. 1: The State Student Assistance Commission of Indiana should be allotted a higher proportion of monies during the next biennium. These funds should be carefully distributed among the colleges and universities in the State in the form of financial aid.

"Proposal No. 2: The coalition encourages the State of Indiana to raise the state income tax from 1.9 percent to the former level of 2.0 percent and that these additional monies be directed to higher education over all and to financial aid for both public and private college students.

"The residents of our State have shown their support in the past and are currently enjoying the many benefits of Indiana's college system. We encourage all Indiana residents to continue to make this investment in our State's future.

Paul Fort, student senator-at-large, represented IUPUI.

"This meeting is our statement to the legislature, to the governor, and to the citizens of Indiana. We have watched the session closely this year. We have purchased and studied proposed bills which pertain to higher education," said Fort.

"An example is Senate bill 406 which creates the Higher Education Student Financial Aid Study Commission. According to this bill, there will be 'no report until October 15, 1984,' and therefore, little or no change."

Fort also predicted, "Unless the legislature heeds our call, enrollment will continue to fall and only those who are affluent—as in past generations—will be able to afford a college education."

Natatorium and stadium deadlines approaching

by Sharon Hall

With a June 1 deadline rapidly approaching, Indiana University trustees have been active in working towards the completion of the IU School of Physical Education/Natatorium and the IU Track and Field Stadium.

The trustees met Feb. 6 at the Gary, IN campus to consider bids for both facilities. Two contracts were awarded for projects in the Natatorium and several were approved for the Track and Field Stadium.

In the Natatorium Kenneth Smock Excavating, Inc., of Indianapolis received a $38,394 contract for site improvements, including paving, curbing, sidewalks, exterior lighting, drives and ramps. E.P. Marburger & Son, Inc., of Indianapolis received a $51,789 contract for carpeting in the auxiliary gymnasium, which will house dance and gymnastic classes.

The Track and Field Stadium will feature an electronic scoreboard which, besides providing basic event scoring, will feature a one-line, 120-column electronic message center and four illuminated advertising panels. Federal Sign, a division of the Federal Sign Corporation of Indianapolis, received the award.

Three contracts totalling $524,000, were awarded to A.B. Cochran & Son, Inc., of Indianapolis. The firm will be responsible for the construction of a restroom area ($126,000), a press box ($249,000), and miscellaneous construction ($149,000).

Other contracts awarded at the meeting were: Selig Landscaping of Indianapolis for landscape work, $134,000; Associated Fence Company of Anderson for fencing, $64,850 and Walker Irrigation Systems, Inc., of Indianapolis for the irrigation system, $17,270.

The School of Physical Education/Natatorium Building, with an estimated cost of $21.5 million, has been heralded as one of the country's finest swimming facilities and will be the site of all swimming events during this summer's National Sports Festival.

The Track and Field Stadium will accommodate nearly 13,000 spectators. The first event scheduled in the stadium is the USA-USSR-Pan Africa international track and field meet July 2-3; the National Sports Festival, July 23-31, will have its main arena in the stadium.

IUPUI will become a focal point for many athletic events upon completion of the two facilities, providing the urban campus with many benefits previously unavailable. Sporting events attracted by the athletic complex will offer IUPUI students opportunities for competition and entertainment.

'We never close' motto tested at IUPUI

Monday morning, Feb. 1, the city of Indianapolis was ever so slowly digging its way out of the worst snow storm since the famed blizzard of '78. Public schools were closed, private schools were closed, state office buildings were closed and many shopping malls were closed.

Beneath the eight or so inches of flakes rested the IUPUI campus. The streets around the Michigan Street campus were impassable and most of the parking lots had not been touched by a snowplow's blade. According to many students, as well as some letters to the editor (see center spread), no parking lots in the immediate area of Cavanaugh Hall were cleared by as late as 11 a.m. Monday.

The difference between IUPUI and the institutions mentioned above is IUPUI remained open.

Now it doesn't take much to keep the school open. All you need is someone to unlock the doors and answer the phone to tell everyone calling in that school is indeed open.

It was even possible to get down to the campus. It was rough, especially for those not living close to a main road, but not impossible.

Impossible was trying to park your car once you got to the campus. As mentioned, the major parking lots on the south side of Michigan Street had not been touched. In addition, the few students who buried their cars in an attempt to park only hampered the efforts of the snow-removal crew that came along later in the day.

The big question is why the university administration decided to keep the classes in session? One can understand keeping the Medical School open to help staff the hospitals but it just didn't make much sense to maintain open classes in the other divisions. Why should all of IUPUI be required to stay open during a dangerous situation because of the Medical School and University Hospital.

After trying to contact several administrators, including a couple in the vice president's office, the Sagamore received a letter (see center spread) supposedly explaining why school had not been closed. The letter just explained how long the crews worked and how much money the university spent on the project.

When one administrator in particular was asked who was responsible for informing the vice president's office when snow accumulation was enough to warrant school closing, the answer was not known. We think the administration ought to know who is responsible for providing that information.

From now on, how about cleaning all the parking lot areas before deciding to keep classes in sessions.

'Good' copies not for students

To the editor:

After having been told recently by a member of the English department staff that should students need to make use of a "good copier," that one was available inside room 401, and that one sat outside that room, but to avoid that one if possible as it tended to produce marked, glossy copies, today I took advantage of this.

When I entered the room I was told that the "good copier" was intended for staff only, and that "students" were to use the "other" machine in the hallway. After telling the person in the room that I had been told I could use it, I was impatiently told that "I could use it this time but to not make a habit of it."

As the woman's words soaked in I began to wonder where the money came from to purchase the "good one" that "students" aren't allowed to use...

English C

by Pam Koons

After a period of inactivity, the IUPUI English Club and Sigma Tau Delta are under a reorganization for 1982. A new sponsor has been selected and new members and new programs will be underway soon for both clubs.

The first English Club meeting, dedicated to its reorganization, will be held Thursday, Feb. 11, in Cavanaugh Hall, room 208, at 2:30 p.m. This meeting will remain open until 5 p.m. for the convenience of those who would not be able to attend at the earlier time.

Professor Mary Blasingham of the English department is the new sponsor this year, encouraging participation in the club. "All who are interested in literature and writing are cordially invited," she stated, "for the English Club was not established for English majors and minors only."

Originally founded in 1970 by Professor Rebecca Pitts, the English Club has functioned as the sponsor of the literary magazine Genesis. No longer involved with its publication, the organization will focus more on promoting the enjoyment of literature. Those attending the meeting will not only elect new officers but also choose new programs and events to sponsor. Discussions and readings of both classic and current works will be considered in the club's format, as well as the scheduling of outside speakers.

Anyone who wishes to join the English Club activities but cannot attend Feb. 11, should send his/her name, address, and phone number to the English office, CA 510; leave a note on the door of 503G; or phone 264-2258 or 264-7749.

A group allied with the English Club is the Zeta Lambda Chapter of the National English Honorary Sigma Tau Delta. Chartered for IUPUI in May 1971, it grew from the English Club. Many of its members have been strong supporters of the club. Mrs. Blasingham is also the new sponsor for Sigma Tau Delta. Present members of this society will select and later initiate new members in the spring. The date set for this year is Thursday, April 22. Details of other future plans are still pending.

The purpose of the society is to recognize excellence in college English achievement. Candidates for Sigma Tau be members of club, but active is limited to seniors, minors, and majors who are teaching English. It also meet the requirements: 1) 56 hours of credit completed; 2) 12 hours of literature above the 100 level completed; and, 3) a cumulative grade point average of 3.5 in English courses.

Students who meet the criteria will be contacted by the sponsor of Sigma Tau Delta; however, students who have further questions should contact Professor Blasingham, CA 503G, 264-7749 or 264-2258.

With the reorganizations of both the English Club and Sigma Tau Delta, students will have exchange their experiences and interests. For are just interests but find nowhere English Club offer creative outlet.

Quality First: Better Trucks Through Creative Engineering

Today's Kenworth truck is the standard against which all other heavy duty trucks are measured. Quality is a Kenworth truck.

We make them better because of our approach to creative engineering and to Quality in our manufacturing process. Unlike other truck manufacturers, every Kenworth truck is custom designed.

If you are looking for a chance to prove your ability, at Kenworth you'll have the opportunity to bring a creative and practical touch to all engineering work. We need engineers who can create on-the-board designs, capable of being easily manufactured while satisfying the constraints of the specification.

What's more, that special attention to individual needs applies to all aspects of our operation, including compensation, advancement opportunities, employee benefits and work facilities.

If you're ready for the challenge of Quality through creative engineering, contact your campus Career Placement Office for location and information.

ID cards optional but wise investment

by Paula L. Reynolds

The Student Activities office is currently scheduling students for picture ID's to be made during the week of Feb. 22-26 from 9 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. and Monday and Wednesday evenings until 6:45 p.m.

So far we have 60 people and expect to schedule about 300 students altogether," said Mike Wagoner, director of student activities. According to Wagoner, during fall and spring registrations, more than 7,000 students purchased new ID's.

Are you wondering why 7,000 students per year purchase new ID's? Well, there are numerous uses for a student ID card.

At one time a student's birth date appeared on the picture

ID. Some students would alter or give false birthdates in order to prove they were 21.

"As you can imagine the birthdates proved to be a problem. At the request of the police department, the date of birth was removed from the card because of some misuse," Wagoner explained.

Although students cannot use their ID's to enter Indy's night spots, they can receive a discount at all IUPUI cafeterias and food service areas. All students who show their ID or simply place it on their trays will not be charged sales tax. This includes meals at the University Hospital cafeteria.

Four campus libraries also require ID to check out books or use the facilities. The Medical Library requires an embossed card like a credit card. The Student Activities office provides this service at no additional charge. ID cards are also needed in the Law Library, Educational Resource Center and the Instructional Media Systems Tape Library.

Have you ever been carded in class? Another use for the student ID card is for professors who double as doormen.

Some professors of very large lecture sections require students to present a current picture ID before exams can be taken. "This is particularly true in math or psychology courses from the School of Science," Wagoner explained.

In the past, some school activities have required showing picture ID to attend, however, there are no such planned events at this time which require ID.

"A couple of years ago there was a dance planned by the Student Assembly which required a picture ID to be able to attend. Also, the Student Assembly used to require ID to vote," stated Wagoner. "We prefer to promote all activities as open to the public if possible."

In addition, the picture ID, in conjunction with a Campus Co-Op Student Discount Card can be used for discounts through local merchants. This discount card, which represents 29 different merchants throughout the city, can be obtained from the Student Assembly office or the Student Activities office.

The picture ID is a convenience item for some students, however, Wagoner suggests that students can retain their Bursar fee receipts for identification. "Although the ID is not required for all students, it is required in certain situations. It is up to the students whether to buy a card," he added.

The cost is $2 and it is valid the entire time a student is at IUPUI. Labor and raw material cost is $1.35 per card and the remaining portion is applied toward maintaining the equipment.

Students wishing to make an appointment for a picture ID must call 264-3931. Some evening appointments are available.

Snow brings parking problems

Mad student wants questions answered

Last weekend, Indianapolis was hit with the worst snow storm in at least four years. As a result, IUPUI administration members took advantage of this opportunity to display their lack of insight.

Perhaps this is an unfair statement. If it is, then I would like answers to these questions:

1. IUPUI is the largest commuter campus in this area, yet it was the only one open. Why?

2. Since it was open, why were the parking lots not plowed? (virtually no red areas were plowed and many of the parking lot entrances were blocked by stalled cars.)

Considering the wide radius of area that IUPUI serves, it should have been readily apparent that attendance would be very poor, at least for the morning classes. Because of the heavy snow, access to the downtown area was very limited and many people were stuck in their driveways, parking lots or on the streets.

Many students called to confirm that IUPUI was open only to find their classes were cancelled and their tests postponed when they showed up for class. This is frustrating for the student. Furthermore, attendance was so low that instructors would have to repeat their lectures at the next class meeting. This is frustrating for the instructor.

I expect that the administration will argue that IUPUI is kept open because of the Medical School. However, in terms of student population the medical student is in the minority. Other divisions of IUPUI could have been closed. If it is seen as unfair for the medical students to close the other areas, then at best, the parking lots and their entrances should have been cleared.

In essence, the students that did struggle in, if like me, found it was a pretty useless effort.

Face it administration.....you blew it.

Whose money is it?

To the editor:

To whom it may concern: I am appalled by the snow removal procedures at IUPUI. When students pay hard-earned tuition and a $12.50 parking fee at a commuter college they expect the existence of readily accessible parking lots (under any situation). Instead, when I arrived at mid-morning (Monday) it appeared as if the parking lots were just starting to be cleared.

Where does our money go to, three-martini lunches? It's quite basic. If classes are scheduled at a commuter college, then relatively easy parking should be provided. If not, the student body's money is not being used appropriately!

Respectively,
David M. Sublak

Care — or close

To the Editor:

I don't know what this school is all about but they sure don't care about students. Cancel classes, snow packed parking lots, and total chaos at this great institution.

I called the Irwin office, who is supposed to call the shots, and got put on hold. I have also talked to various students and they have the same feeling. You get out on icy highways and streets and fight elements to get over here and then you cannot find a place to park. Then if you do find a place to park, there is no class.

The university needs to line up to their obligations with the students.

Either show care to the students or close the university during bad weather.

My last point is that I have no sympathy for teachers commuting here from other towns. They also should be made to live up to their obligations.

This is a person who is tired of cancelled classes and a "don't care" attitude school even though we are the ones that have to pay for it.

Snow removal set at $23,000

Editor's Note: This letter was provided to the Sagamore office by Ken Beckley, director of university relations.

To Students, Faculty and Staff

We want to thank you for your patience, courtesy, and cooperation during the recent extreme weather conditions.

There are a few statistics in relation to our snow removal effort which we thought might be of interest. University grounds crews and a private contractor began the snow removal process before 7 a.m. on Sunday, Jan 31, and were still working the morning of Tuesday, Feb. 2. They used 15 machines compiling over 600 machine hours and over 800 manhours to complete the job. A preliminary estimate of overtime and contract expenses for this effort is $23,000.

Workers were faced with the awesome task of cleaning nearly twelve thousand parking spaces at IUPUI's four locations. This amounted to approximately 77 acres of surface, in addition to about five miles of streets and more than 20 miles of sidewalks. It is estimated that more than 10,000 tons of snow were cleared in this effort.

The snow removal process this time was slowed considerably because there was a layer of ice under the snow. This made it unusually difficult for the equipment to get traction. The same problem, as many of you are aware, plagued students, faculty, and staff whose cars became disabled in the streets and parking areas. University police officers, members of the grounds crew, and private wreckers contracted by the University were used to assist more than 200 vehicles.

Weather conditions that have been experienced over the past few weeks place an unusual and difficult burden on everyone. We appreciate the understanding of the university community and pledge that our departments will continue to make every effort to accommodate the needs of students, faculty, and staff.

Open school wins award for effort

To the Editor

This week's "Nuke 'Em Till They Glow" award goes to whoever is responsible for closing IUPUI in bad weather. Long may he glow.

Monday, Feb. 1 — IUPUI is officially open. Those trusting souls who survived the trip here found a winter wonderland of unplowed parking lots. A good time was had by all as students pushed each other's cars back into the streets.

Wednesday, Feb. 3 — The casualties have not been fully counted. One is overheard to say, "This school is being run by a fool." Another snowstorm hits Indianapolis, and the alleged fool cancels evening classes.

Thursday, Feb. 4 — A collective gasp is heard across the nation as IUPUI is officially closed. Meanwhile, most major streets have been cleared and the parking lots plowed.

There is a rumor going around that spring break will be cut short to make up for the snow days. Actually, I started that rumor in hopes that a certain fool will get lynched. Go get him people!

Individually yours,
Ronald James
IUPUI Student

Parking lots looked "beautiful"

To the Editor

In view of all the letters and complaints concerning the conditions of our parking lots, I must say that as of last Friday, (Feb. 5), the lots looked "beautiful" compared to days past. That is, as far as the Michigan Street campus. But what about the 38th Street campus? Those of us fortunate enough to have classes over there risked our souls (and our cars) to get to school only to find a surprise awaited us. It seems that some person(s) had the audacity to clear the faculty lots—yes, "clear as a bell"—and leave the students with 4-5 inches of snow and snowdrifts to park in! As one fellow student so tactfully put it, "If we get stuck, the faculty can help push us out!"

What did all those snowplows do Thursday?!

A fellow student

Ron Hart, tired of waiting for sidewalk crews, shoveled his own way to class Feb. 3. Hart said the snow is an "inconvenience" for most people but that it's a "barrier" for handicapped students. (Photo by Jeff Burgess)

Why risk our necks?

To the Editor:

Attention: [vice] president of Indiana University at Indianapolis. What does it take to close the IUPUI campus? Perhaps an order from the mayor or the governor making the use of city streets illegal would do it.

We, the students, sincerely doubt it. Enough is enough!! Braving the winds of 60 below was bad enough, but when a winter storm brings nine inches of fresh snow to the city, we feel that you, the president of this university, are taking quite a responsibility putting the lives of 27,000 students in jeopardy.

For the few of us who attempted to be here for our 8 a.m. classes, we say that some policies need to be changed—and NOW! It's bad enough to fight slippery and snow covered roads to be here, but when, upon entering the campus drives and parking lots, we find that no plows have touched them.

We speak for many students who are irate to say the least. After leaving the cars and trudging across the campus to get to class, things get even worse when you learn that the teacher was smart enough to stay home! Yes, class is cancelled, and we are the big dummies for coming to school risking our lives being conscientious students.

Even if the professor was able to make it to class, 95 percent of the students couldn't, so once again, class was cancelled. We say something has got to be done!

Universities whose students live on campus were closed. But no, the one university whose students must commute from all corners of the city and surrounding counties is open. Granted, the IU Medical Center cannot close, but why should we business, sociology, psychology, SPEA, ET and computer majors risk our necks to be there? It is ridiculous, and we say there is no reason why Indiana University-Purdue University at Indianapolis should have been opened February 1, 1982.

IU researchers to study Indianapolis, Tokyo

IU News Bureau

A major study of Japanese and American management styles and worker attitudes will be conducted this year in Tokyo and Indianapolis by a team of researchers from the Indiana University Institute of Social Research and the IU School of Business.

Concerned with differences in productivity rates between the two countries, the researchers plan to interview chief executive officers, department and personnel managers, union leaders and groups of line workers to compare how employee work attitudes and behavior are affected by management practices in both countries.

According to Study Director Suzanne B. Lincoln, this study will provide "needed insights into problems facing American industry and into the nature of the Japanese competition."

The study will include 50 manufacturing firms of 50 or more employees in Indianapolis and counterparts in Tokyo in the metal products, food, printing, chemicals, machinery, electronics and transportation equipment industries.

Indianapolis and Tokyo were chosen because they have a similar industrial mix and well-diversified economies, Lincoln said. The Japanese half of the study has already begun at plants in the Atsugi industrial region of Tokyo, she said.

Lincoln said the timetable for the study calls for data collection and interviews to begin in May with preliminary findings available in late fall and final results next January.

"It is widely believed that Japanese companies have been more successful than American firms in maintaining high productivity good labor relations and high workers commitment and morale, but the evidence is incomplete," Lincoln said. "Even if work commitment is higher in Japan, the reason may lie with Japanese cultural values rather than management styles. "With the support of the Indianapolis business community, we will be able to make precise comparisons between worker behavior and management styles in the two countries. The study group will soon be contacting some Indianapolis firms to participate in the study, and would welcome inquiries from other companies who might be interested."

Working on the study are IU social researchers Arne L. Kalleberg and James R. Lincoln and Business Professor Janet P. Near. In Tokyo, data is being collected by IU sociology doctoral student Carrie McBride and Mitsuyo Hanada, professor at Japan's SANNO School of Business Administration.

Researchers will administer questionnaires to line workers to determine work commitment and job behavior. They also will have personal interviews with company officials and employees along with looking at production figures, organization charts and absenteeism and turnover rates.

"We hear so much about Japanese workers' lifelong employment, the Japanese management style and worker participation in decision-making, but the question is, 'can these things be translated for the use of American industry?' " said Near, who specializes in management and organizational behavior. "At the end of this study, we hope to have some answers for business people in this country."

Sports Medicine Clinic located on IUPUI campus

by L. S. Jeffs

With Indianapolis rapidly becoming a major artery in the production of amateur sports, the Indianapolis Sports Medicine Clinic is almost assured another successful year.

Located in Room 399 of Long Hospital on the IUPUI Campus, the clinic was developed by Dr. Michael Stack, a physician in rheumatology, Damien Howell, a physical therapist and Dr. Donald Kettlekamp, director of orthopedic surgery at the I.U. Medical Center. The men started the program after doing several studies and research on knee, foot and other related injuries.

The clinic, in operation since January, 1980, has a six-member staff of volunteers, each of whom, in the words of physical therapist Damien Howell, "is an expert in his own discipline." Other than the three already mentioned, the other active physicians in the sports clinic are: John Glancy, a specialist in orthotics;

Michael McGraw and Ed Gregori, physical therapists.

Open Friday afternoons from 3 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. the volunteer staff receives at least 10 clients for consultation every week. People who attend the sports clinic are advised of medical measures and precautions to take while participating in physical activity, whether professionally or leisurely.

The cost for the sports clinic is $28 for the first visit and $18 for every visit thereafter. This fee is charged to pay for the therapist and the overhead cost only; there is no physician's fee. "Hopefully, the sports clinic can cure or help to prevent further injury within two visits," commented Dr. Stack.

One of the major goals of the sports clinic, according to Stack, "is to set up a clinic for the IUPUI school and have funds from the government for the clinic, for further research." Damien Howell continued by stating, "The sports clinic also hopes to offer continuing studies in medical school, senior electives in sports medicine and undergraduate electives.

The sports clinic offers advice on how to buy a pair of running shoes, in an attempt to get novice runners off to a good start and remind more experienced runners of the importance of proper footwear. Items which should be taken into consideration when purchasing include:

1. Decide that you need a quality shoe.
2. Find the right store.
3. Find a knowledgeable salesperson.
4. Ask the salesperson for a training shoe, not a racing shoe.
5. When you try the shoes, wear socks of the thickness that you will wear when running.
6. If you have any special problems, use the expertise of the knowledgeable salesperson and ask for special help.
7. Look at more than one pair of shoes.
8. Choose shoes that fit both feet while you are standing.
9. Closely and carefully inspect the shoes for quality control.

For further information regarding the sports clinic, call 264-3847.

Would you like to get Involved? Student Government Elections

We need a few good people to lead the 1982-83 Student Assembly. Soon Elections will be held to choose a Student Body President, Vice-President, and sixteen At-Large Representatives to the Student Senate. In addition, sixteen schools and divisions are eligible to elect a representative to fill their divisional seat. Elections will begin on Friday, March 5 and end Thursday, March 12.

Candidates are required to meet certain standards, including a 2.5 cumulative G.P.A., minimum hours of credit, and may not be on disciplinary or academic probation.

In addition, candidates for all offices are required to complete a "Candidates' Statement," authorizing the Election Committee to verify the requirements. Candidates must also circulate petitions for the purpose of being placed on the ballot. Rules for campaigning, Candidates' Statements, and Petitions are now available from the Election Committee in the Student Assembly office (CA001C). Completed forms must be returned to the Elections Committee in the SA office by February 19, 1982 by 5:00 p.m.

February good month for gazing at planets

IU News Bureau

If you arise early enough some morning in the middle or latter part of February, all eight planets will be visible at once in the morning twilight, Indiana University astronomers say.

While a telescope will be needed to see Uranus, Neptune and Pluto, the other planets can be seen with the naked eye. From east to west they are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter, Saturn and Mars.

Mercury will pull out of the sun's glare and become visible by Feb. 10. From that date through Feb. 19, it will be slightly to the lower left of Venus.

February is the best month of 1982 for viewing Venus. Reaching its greatest brilliance on Feb. 24, the planet gleams in the southeastern sky for more than two hours before sunup. It can be followed past dawn into broad daylight with the naked eye because of its dazzling brightness. If you go out before morning twilight late in the month and stand in snow, you may be able to see your shadow as you block the planet's bright light.

Though Mars is often the dimmest of these five planets, its brightness increases dramatically for a long season every other year. This month we begin the early stage of that season. The planet brightens noticeably as Earth approaches it, and it will double in brilliance in this month alone.

Saturn is close to Mars in February, and the two are in the southwest at dawn.

Jupiter will rise soon after Saturn and Mars and will shine in the southwest brighter than Sirius, the brightest star in the sky.

The moon was at first quarter on Feb. 1, full on Feb. 8, will be third quarter on Feb. 15 and new on Feb. 23.

Official Announcement About Applications for Circle City Circuit Scholarships

Students with a cumulative grade-point average of 3.3 or better (on a 24. system) for all college courses attempted through the fall semester of 1981 are invited to apply for one of the Circle City Circuit Scholarships. Other criteria specify that the applicants be degree-seeking students enrolled at IUPUI who will be enrolled at IUPUI during the Fall Semester 1982. Part-time students as well as full-time students are eligible for the scholarships.

When the scholarships were created, the committee members wanted to emphasize two areas of campus life about which they were concerned. Therefore, the Scholarship Committee will give priority consideration to try to recognize (1) an athlete who competed in intercollegiate athletics and (2) a handicapped student. A third scholarship will be awarded without consideration of the two recognized areas.

The committee will receive all applications submitted by the deadline and will be the judges of eligibility of candidates.

Applications for the scholarships may be obtained at the Student Activities Office (CA 322) or the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid (Berkey Building) at IUPUI. Applications must be received by 6 p.m. Wednesday, March 10, 1982 in the Student Activities Office in Cavanaugh Hall Room 322, 925 W. Michigan St., Indianapolis, Indiana 46202 to be considered. Candidates must attach to their application a transcript of all college and university classwork. All applications received will be acknowledged by mail.

Recipients will be named at the IUPUI Honors Banquet, April 15, 1982 at 6 p.m. in the Champion's Room, Indianapolis Sports Center. The awards will be available at the time of students' completion of registration in August, 1982.

Indy good start for Dan Jenks

Dan Jenks

by Shirley A. Coutts

Dan Jenks looks more like a homespun Hoosier farmboy than a Michigan-born musician who once trained for a symphony orchestra chair. At 22 he is too young to have been a "hippy" of the sixties, or a revolutionary of an earlier era. But his shoulder-length hair and casual dress are reminiscent of bygone Woodstock days.

The Greek restaurant where Jenks appears each Monday night is a far cry from fame for the talented local troubadour. However, he is well on his way with the second pressing of his album, Say No More. It takes a certain kind of "magic" to succeed in his business and Jenks admits that he doesn't have that magic all the time; it isn't perfect yet. But faithful fans reinforce his idea that there is a folk renaissance about to occur, and that his music will be ready when it does.

Jenks began as a high school rocker, following an older brother into a rock and roll band. An insatiable appetite for music and music theory gripped him in those days. He took up one instrument after another until he mastered the flute, saxophone, euphonium, guitar, piano, and bass. The guitar remains as his first love.

A short career as a "jock" (having at one time been an undefeated wrestler) gave way to independent music study. Deciphering music pattern and theory led to arranging his own material. He received academic and musical scholarships to Evansville University.

A dissatisfaction with the creative confines of the classroom sent him out to seek gratification elsewhere. For some time he traveled the Midwest with a hotel band, Strings and Things. While the pay was good, his dreams didn't include a lifetime as an anonymous horn player in a dance band.

Jenks contacted national artist, Shawn Phillips, for advice. Phillips offered not only career advice, but friendships as well, saying, "Dan is a truly creative musician whose work contains an element of individuality. Dan's music is his own unique blend of progressive music styles, depicting a new music."

Jenks recalls the anti-war folk-rock movement of the past and identifies with it; writing songs like Roots of War and After Darkness Takes Its Toll.

Jenks has a good, solid start in the Indianapolis area. His first album is in its second printing, and a second album is scheduled for this year. If perseverance is worth anything in his business, he's on his way to the recognition he's striving for.

Franklin dumps Metros

by Ann Miller

Rick Moorhead's 34 points sparked the Franklin Grizzlies to a 79-65 win over the IUPUI Metros Tuesday, Jan. 19, at Indiana Central's Nicosin Hall. Knotted 32-all at the break, Franklin reeled off 10 unanswered points, the last two coming with 12:04 remaining, and the Metros never threatened after that.

The loss came despite a brilliant 27-point off-the-bench showing by Eric McKay. The Metro freshman forward converted 11 of 15 field goal attempts and 5-8 charities during the night. The only other Metro to hit in double digits was Tony Hawkins, who had 14.

On this Jan. 18, the team fell to 7-10 on the year, losing to NCAA Division II headliner Wright State, at Dayton, in a game postponed from Jan 16.

Prior to the Wright State match-up, four Metros were averaging in double figures. Tony Hawkins leads the team in scoring with a 17.5 ppg average, followed closely by Ron Angevine, who is hitting at a 17.1 clip. Kim King is averaging 15.4 ppg, and Eric McKay, 11.7 ppg. High rebounder on the squad is Hawkins, who has pulled down 139 caroms to date. McKay is a distant second with 91 rebounds. Metro boardwork is expected to improve with the recent addition of the now eligible Jim Clements, a 6'7" transfer student from Indiana State, and Larry Joplin, 6'7", who sat out a semester because of an insufficient number of credit hours.

Kim King's 66 assists and 85 percent marksmanship from the free throw line are tops for the Metros in both categories. In percentages, Hawkins and King have the sharpest eyes from the floor; both are hitting on over 52 percent on their field goals.

Larry Joplin (42) shoots for two against Thomas More

The addition of Joplin and Clements, both center-forwards, should help the squad considerably, filling the vacancy in the middle created when Reggie Butler was injured early in the campaign. Butler, who sustained cartilage and ligament damage to his right knee, has been officially redshirted.

Women defeat Marion

by Matt Shrum

IUPUI's women's basketball team defeated Marion Saturday, 66-59, after having their first two scheduled games snowed out last week. The Metros are now 8-7.

Judy Cummings led the Metros in scoring with 21 points, despite being hampered by foul trouble. Sue Baas also reached double figures with 17 points. Sheila Smith scored eight points, followed by Chris Nichols with seven, Kim Galyan with six, Chyrell Saunders three, and Barb Spears and Nancy Plummer with two to round out the Metros scoring.

Marion stayed close through the first half as the Metros led 33-29 at the half. Cummings scored eight points before being sidelined with three fouls. Nichols was vital in the early going, hitting two field goals, pulling down four offensive rebounds and passing out three assists in her second starting assignment of the season.

Cummings picked up her fourth foul about six minutes into the second half. While she was on the bench, Marion pulled ahead of the Metros, but IUPUI routed Marion when Cummings returned for the final seven minutes.

After being outrebounded 22-17 in the first half, the Metros dominated the boards 23-13 in the second half. Smith pulled down 13 rebounds in the second half alone, to give her 16 for the game.

Cummings managed just six rebounds, well below her team-leading average of 11 per game.

Last night the Metros were scheduled to play Franklin and tomorrow night IUPUI will travel to Terre Haute to play St. Mary's. Saturday the Metros will host Indiana Tech at Park Tudor.

Valentines

HAPPY VALENTINE'S to all of my friends at IUPUI Library Cafeteria: Joey, Belinda, Mae, Rose, Fran, Virginia, Pat, Cheryl, Mike, Don, Beverly, Kathy, Sonia and Carol. May your day be happy on this special day. Love Joe.

To Vicki, I know I'm never home enough for us to be together. So I took some time to send this note before the stormy weather. When the storm is gone and we're snowed in, we'll have some fun, okay? Love, Mike.

Love: Hey bop a ree bop. Happy Valentine's Day from Peachfish.

Roses are red, violets are blue. Happy V-day to my bunnies 'cause I love you.

To those Sagamores: You guys are the bestest bunch. You couldn't have done it without me. (Ha, ha) - from the editor.

My dear sweet Mark, You are so insurmountably nice I love you ten million times more than all of my mice! Happy Valentine's Day with all my love. Your baby.

When orlall was a sweet young thing, I loved her dear and true; I watched her grow, and grow away, and never felt so blue; but yesterday is always tomorrow and I know one thing for sure — when all my yesterdays are gone, my loves will merely blur.
