USDA AND THE NATIONAL FFA ORGANIZATION RELEASE 2007 CENSUS OF AGRICULTURE LESSON PLANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4, 2008 – The U.S. Department of Agriculture’s National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) and the National FFA Organization today announced the release of classroom-ready lesson plans about the 2007 Census of Agriculture. These resources can be used by junior and senior high school teachers to educate students about the importance of collecting agricultural data, how the data is used, and how to interpret findings in a way that is relevant to their lives.

“Collaborating with FFA on this endeavor is helping to inform and empower students to play an active role in the Census process – a process that benefits them, their families and their entire agricultural communities,” said NASS Acting Administrator Joseph Reilly. “FFA members are respected leaders in their communities and the future of agriculture. As such, their support and partnership in the Census will help ensure a greater understanding and participation across the country.”

Conducted every five years by USDA, the Census is a complete count of the nation’s farms and ranches and the people who operate them. The Census provides valuable information used to help deliver programs and funding in support of agriculture – crucial resources that will benefit the next generation of farmers and the communities they call home.

“We are glad to be assisting with the 2007 Census of Agriculture. These online resources will be valuable products for our teachers as they help educate FFA members,” said Dr. Will Waidelich, senior division director for Research, Development and Sponsored Programs at the National FFA Organization.

“The 2007 Census of Agriculture provides farmers and ranchers with a voice in the futures of their operations and communities,” added Reilly. “As the beneficiaries of Census data, young farmers and ranchers have much to learn from the information that is collected in the Census.”

The Census coursework is aligned with national agricultural education and academic standards. The five lesson plans address such topics as what the Census of Agriculture is, how surveys are conducted, and the importance of civic responsibility and advocacy.

The materials can be accessed for free at the Team Ag Ed Learning Center (TAE LC), www.agedlearning.org. TAE LC was designed by the National Council for Agricultural Education and the National FFA Organization to create a one-stop shop for electronic instructional resources for agricultural education teachers and their students. For more information about the Census of Agriculture visit www.agcensus.usda.gov.

The National FFA Organization, formerly known as the Future Farmers of America, is a national youth organization of 500,823 student members – all preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture – as part of 7,358 local FFA chapters in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. The National FFA Organization changed to its present name in 1988, in recognition of the growth and diversity of agriculture and agricultural education. The FFA mission is to make a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education. Deadline for National Ag Day Essay Contest Is Feb. 15
Theme for 2008 Is "Agriculture – Bigger Than You Think"

Kansas City, Mo., Jan 16, 2008 – The Agriculture Council of America (ACA) is calling on seventh- to 12th-grade students to submit an original essay of 450 words about the importance of agriculture. This year's theme is "Agriculture – Bigger Than You Think," and the deadline is Feb. 15. Teachers are asked to encourage their students to participate.

This year's topic highlights a broader focus of agriculture, showcasing the diversity of today's American farms. Though row crops and livestock are still very much a part of the foundation of the industry, agriculture today has multiple touch points in our daily lives and many career opportunities.

"This year's essay contest provides a great opportunity for all of us to learn more about the vision our young people have for the role of agriculture in their lives and in our country's future," says Linda Tank, Vice President of Communications for CHS Inc. "Their understanding of the tremendous impact agriculture has on our daily lives is key to the future of this vital industry."

This year's national winner will receive a $1,000 prize and round-trip ticket to Washington, D.C., to be recognized during the March 11 Celebration of Ag Dinner held at the Whitten Patio. At the dinner, the winner will have the opportunity to join with industry representatives, members of Congress, federal agency representatives, media and other friends in a celebration of agriculture. Statewide winners of the contest also will be selected. Each will receive a $100 prize.

This is the 35th anniversary of National Ag Day. The goal of the ACA is to provide a spotlight on agriculture and the food and fiber industry the first of each spring (National Ag Day), to help consumers understand not only how food and fiber products are produced, but to celebrate accomplishments in providing safe, abundant and affordable products.

The Ag Day Essay Contest is sponsored by CHS Inc., The Council for Agricultural Science and Technology, High Plains Journal, National Association of Farm Broadcasting, National Agri-Marketing Association, Country Living Association and McCormick Company.

All entries should be sent to: Ag Day Contest, Agriculture Council of America, 11020 King Street, Suite 205, Overland Park, KS 66210, or submitted by e-mail to essay@agday.org. Entry applications and official rules for the contest can be found at www.hpj.com/agdayessay .

Perrydale FFA Chapter Wins 2007 Million Hour Challenge Award

INDIANAPOLIS – The Perrydale FFA Chapter from Perrydale School in Amity, Ore., has won the National FFA Organization's 2007 Million Hour Challenge Award. The award honors the FFA chapter that logged the most community service hours from October 2, 2006, to October 1, 2007. The program is a special FFA national initiative to unite youth across the country and strengthen communities through civic engagement and service learning. It is made possible by Toyota as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

"In addition to a $1,000 award, Perrydale FFA will appear on FFA Today! television show broadcast on RFD-TV network and on the National FFA website," said Damon Spight, National FFA program manager. "They not only had the largest number of service hours logged, but also organized more than 20 quality community service activities."

Small but mighty, Perrydale School is a rural school in Oregon with 325 students K-12, 115 of them high school students and 65 students in agriculture education classes. This national award is not their first. They also won second place for the National FFA Week contest in 2007. Agricultural science and technology teacher and FFA advisor Kirk Hutchinson says the biggest community impact is made from their Food for All project.

"This year the Perrydale FFA Chapter---assisted by the Amity FFA Chapter---amassed 130,000 pounds of potatoes, onions, apples, oranges, parsnips, carrots and other produce, making it the biggest food drive in any school in Oregon," said Hutchinson. "Students learn how to market the program to prospective donors, coordinate distribution and delivery of food and work as a team." More than 3,250 families were served by the program in 2007.

The homeless dinners program is another rewarding chapter activity. Chapter members take food to Salem, Ore. and give it to people in homeless shelters, offering them food and encouragement. The members meet people from all walks of life, learning what misfortunes others have experienced and what hardships they have faced.

In addition to these programs, Perrydale FFA Chapter organizes tree plantings, blood drives, activities for the elderly and education programs for children. Ag Olympigs and Jr. Ag Olympigs teach younger students about agriculture with a variety of games and fellowship activities. PALS-Boat Buddies is a program where freshmen are paired with kindergartners to build small wooden boats.

Members of Perrydale FFA Chapter attended the 80th National FFA Convention in Indianapolis, Ind. last October and participated in the National FFA Days of Service activities held throughout the city.

The Million Hour Challenge awards program will expand in 2008 awarding $12,500 to the top five chapters ($2,500 each) having the greatest number of community service hours in the following categories---Environment, Government, Social/Human Service, Healthy Lifestyles and Education. Eligible project hours are those earned during Oct. 2, 2007, to Oct. 1, 2008.

The National FFA Organization, formerly known as the Future Farmers of America, is a national youth organization of 500,823 student members – all preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture – as part of 7,358 local FFA chapters in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. ### FFA Today! season premiere January 31 on RFD-TV

INDIANAPOLIS – A brand new half-hour episode of FFA Today! broadcasts on the RFD-TV network on Jan. 31 at 4:00 p.m. EST. The first half-hour is hosted by the National FFA Officer team and boasts new graphics, music and features. The second half hour will be a Flashback with awesome stories from past episodes.

Each episode of FFA Today! is designed to share the amazing stories of FFA members, chapters, teachers and alumni. The stories not only highlight ag careers, programs and service projects that are useful for students and teachers in the classroom, but the stories also educate the viewing audience about the science, business and technology of today's agricultural education. FFA Today! travels across the country featuring great students, amazing agriculture industries and much more.

This month viewers will visit with students of the Bridgeport Aquaculture School in Connecticut. FFA members built a state-of-the-art boat and brought it to the National FFA Convention to put on display.

The On the Job segment showcases Purdue University's School of Agricultural Communications. The Purdue team wrote and produced the entire piece, and it introduces students to the world of agricultural communications careers.

In addition a brand new chapter video contest will be announced. Chapters can produce their own stories and submit them to be aired on the show. Details can be found online at ffatoday.ffa.org. This month's Chapter Video is Agriculture with the Disco Studs, a special video that the Wisconsin State FFA Officers produced for their state convention. So, be sure to watch!

He's Going to Hollywood!

Former FFA Member Advances on American Idol.

Drew Poppelreiter has two loves: farming and singing. Lately, he's put his first love on hold to take a shot at making it big with the other. Drew was selected recently from among the thousands of American Idol auditioners in Dallas, Texas to advance to the Hollywood round.

"Sometimes, to get somewhere you have to give up some stuff," he says.

One thing Drew won't have to give up, is his pride in being "farm-raised." In fact, it's the very thing that most impressed American Idol judge Randy Jackson:

"A true farmer, man, who works hard for his money! I like this guy!"

Drew, a former Saltillo, Mississippi FFA member, is described by his advisor Steve Parham, as a real "down to earth respectable guy, the way they teach them down in the south."

FFA members across the country are rooting for Drew, hoping that his southern charm will help him to win over the ever tough-to-please Simon Cowell. Cowell was the only judge who voted "no" on sending him to Hollywood.

Keep checking ffa.org for all the latest on Drew!

National FFA Organization Selects Indianapolis, Louisville as Finalist Cities to Host 2013-2019 National FFA Conventions

INDIANAPOLIS – The National FFA Organization announced today that the cities of Indianapolis, Ind., and Louisville, Ky., have been selected as the two finalists vying to host the 2013 through 2019 National FFA Conventions. Both cities are experienced hosts of the event – Louisville hosted FFA from 1998 through 2005, and Indianapolis is the current host city, with a contract through 2012.

The annual national FFA convention, the nation's largest annual student youth gathering, currently attracts nearly 55,000 visitors each October, and – as confirmed in a recent economic study – pours more than $40 million annually into the host city's economy. The convention attracts nationally known speakers and concert artists. National award winners are recognized for achievements in everything from agriscience to public speaking, and more than 3,000 members each year receive the American FFA Degree, the highest achievement degree the organization confers.

During the past several months, a delegation from the National FFA Organization visited each of four semi-finalist cities, touring proposed convention venues and clarifying information submitted in the detailed proposal bids from each city. Following those exhaustive site visits, Louisville and Indianapolis were selected as finalists.

In May and June, FFA board members and staff representatives will make return visits to Louisville and Indianapolis, and will begin initial negotiations with both cities. FFA will announce the next convention host city in early November, following the completion of the 2008 convention.

“I have been warmly welcomed by Louisville and Indianapolis, and I have enjoyed the fine hospitality put forth by both these cities during the past 10 years,” said Dr. Larry Case, national FFA advisor and chief executive officer. “I look forward to working with them as we create the best convention experience possible for our members in the years to come.”

The National FFA Organization, formerly known as Future Farmers of America, is a national youth organization of 500,823 student members – all preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture – as part of 7,358 local FFA chapters in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. ## DEKALB WingWear™ Supports Ag Youth

Apparel line reinforces DEKALB brand's commitment to youth in agriculture and its newly created DEKALB Ag Youth Scholarship

DEKALB® has launched DEKALB WingWear™, a clothing line featuring custom-designed graphic apparel and accessories for ag youth ages 14-24. In keeping with its long-standing commitment to youth in agriculture, DEKALB will donate a portion of all DEKALB WingWear proceeds to help fund the new DEKALB Ag Youth Scholarship.

“Since the first DEKALB Agricultural Accomplishment Award was presented in 1947, DEKALB has always been dedicated to the advancement of ag youth,” says Jason Hoag, Marketing Manager for DEKALB. “By launching our own apparel line, we take this commitment a step further, allowing tomorrow’s ag leaders to experience our brand while supporting their educational goals through scholarship.”

In the inaugural year, 10 students will be awarded a $2,500 DEKALB Ag Youth Scholarship. All DEKALB Ag Youth scholarship dollars will be administered via the National FFA Foundation. The DEKALB Ag Youth Scholarship is available to both high school and collegiate students who are pursuing agricultural-related and food science degrees and demonstrate strong leadership skills and community involvement. FFA membership is not required to be eligible for the scholarship program.

The DEKALB WingWear apparel line includes custom-designed young men’s and women’s graphic tees, henleys, crews, tunics and jackets, as well as hats, messenger bags and more.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

2008 National FFA Week is February 16-23

INDIANAPOLIS – The National FFA Organization will celebrate National FFA Week Feb. 16-23, 2008.

Blue Jackets, Bright Futures is the theme this year, and it embodies all the best about FFA members, from the most recognizable symbol of the organization, the blue corduroy jacket, to the bright future of agriculture and the traditions of leadership and hard work. More than half a million FFA members across the nation will participate in National FFA Week activities at the local and state levels.

“The focus of National FFA Week is to tell America about the great opportunities available for all youth,” said Dr. Larry Case, national FFA advisor. “From its beginnings in 1928 as the Future Farmers of America, the National FFA Organization today reaches out to all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. FFA is committed to developing character and leadership skills and preparing members for a lifetime of civic leadership and career success,” he said.

“FFA members are the leaders of tomorrow,” said Zach Kinne, national FFA president and leader of the six-member national officer team. “They are well-mannered, perceptive and willing to help others through community service. They are success-oriented students who are driven to achieve their goals. Just as the blue jacket is a true icon of FFA, the members are the future leaders for the agriculture, food and fiber, and natural resource industries throughout the nation.”

During the week, national FFA officers will travel to different regions in the United States to visit local FFA chapters, participate in special events and visit with their state legislators, and in some cases, their governors. Individual chapters plan a weeklong schedule of events to promote FFA and agriculture in their schools and communities. They use this time to plan community service and environmental awareness activities, outreach events for elementary-age children and appreciation programs for teachers and alumni.

FEATURE STORY

Show your FFA pride!

We know you've either got a video camera, a camera that records video, a phone that records video...or hopefully you know someone who has one of the three. With that said, you have no excuse not to enter the Chapter Video Contest!

Time to get creative and show off your FFA pride. Create a short video or even a picture slide show that highlights something awesome about your FFA activities. Maybe your chapter does an amazing community service or environmental project. Perhaps you want to show us why your chapter has the most FFA spirit in the country. If your fellow chapter members are camera shy...then YOU can make a video by yourself! Show us your unique SAE project or tell us how FFA has changed your life.

You don't have to be an expert videographer to create a fun story. These days, you can use a home video camera and a simple program on the computer. Don't have access to any of this?

Then ask around! You'd be surprised how many people will enjoy channeling Steven Spielberg. And if you want to go one step further, ask a local TV station for advice or even a nearby college with a communications department. Bet they'd chip in to help an FFA member make a great story.

One winning video will be featured on the FFA Today television show which airs on the RFD-TV network each month. The top three videos will be featured on FFA.org and the FFA MySpace page! More details are available at ffatoday.ffa.org or send an email if you have questions.

National 2008 Ag Day Essay Winner Named

Kansas City, Mo., March 11, 2008 – The Agriculture Council of America (ACA) has announced the national 2008 Ag Day Essay Contest winner, Katlin Wiest.

ACA called upon seventh- to 12th-grade students nationwide to submit original essays of 450 words about the importance of agriculture in the United States. Under the theme "Agriculture – Bigger Than You Think," students were encouraged to focus their essays on the broader scope of agriculture, showcasing the diversity of today's American farms. Though row crops and livestock are still very much a part of the foundation of the industry, agriculture today has multiple touch points in our daily lives and many career opportunities.

Wiest, an eighth-grader at Upper Dauphin Middle School, Lykens, Pa., was named the national winner of the 2008 contest during the Ag Day event held at the USDA Whitten Building Patio. Wiest read her essay to industry representatives, members of Congress, federal agency representatives, media and others at the Celebration of Agriculture dinner in Washington, D.C. The following is an excerpt from her essay:

"Agricultural products are used by each of us every day. When our alarm clocks ring in the morning, they are most likely made of a plastic derived from corn or soybeans. We then go to our closets and pick out our cotton clothing to wear. Next, it's breakfast. We grab the carton of milk and the box of eggs, which come from dairy and poultry farms. Soon, we hurry out the door to a vehicle powered by ethanol. At lunch, we open our lunch bags to pull out a bologna sandwich with cheese, lettuce and tomatoes. At home, we make dinner, honey-glazed ham with beans, and sugar cookies for dessert. Everything we eat is an agricultural product. As the day ends, we crawl under our wool blankets and go to sleep not thinking that the many things we did today involved agriculture."

"This year's topic showcased the diversity of American agriculture. It was great to see the depth of knowledge today's youth have about the agricultural industry," said Gerald Tumbleson, president, Agriculture Council of America. "Katlin's essay highlighted the many areas of agriculture that people encounter on a day-to-day basis."

Ag Day is a nationally coordinated program that envisions consumers, young and old, talking about agriculture. The contest is sponsored by CHS Inc., The Council for Agricultural Science & Technology, High Plains Journal, National Association of Farm Broadcasting, National Agri-Marketing Association, Country Living Association and McCormick Company.

This is the 35th anniversary of National Ag Day. The goal of the ACA is to provide a spotlight on the agriculture, food and fiber industries the first day of spring (National Ag Day), not only to help consumers understand how food and fiber products are produced, but to celebrate accomplishments in providing safe, abundant and affordable products.

National FFA Organization Announces Risk Management Essay Contest Winners

INDIANAPOLIS – Ten students from across the nation were named winners in the 2008 National FFA Organization Risk Management Essay Contest. Each student submitted an essay on the topic of “Risk Management Strategies Used in a Supervised Agricultural Experience.”

The winning students are:

- Amanda Duvall, Ord, Nebraska; member of Ord FFA
- Clayton Hawkins, Bethel, Missouri; member of North Shelby FFA
- Courtney Hodges, Sterling City, Texas; member of Sterling City FFA
- Eric Kamler, Shickley, Nebraska; member of Fillmore Central FFA
- Lacey Newlin, Cherokee, Oklahoma; member of Burlington FFA
- Eric Post, Syracuse, Nebraska; member of Syracuse-Dunbar-Avoca FFA
- Blaise Scheef, Syracuse, Nebraska; member of Syracuse-Dunbar-Avoca FFA
- James Sledd, Paducah, Kentucky; member of Reidland FFA
- Adam Venteicher, Pierce, Nebraska; member of Pierce FFA
- Jeremy Weichel, Cordell, Oklahoma; member of Cordell FFA

Each winner and his or her FFA advisor receive an all-expenses-paid trip to Washington, D.C., April 30-May 4, 2008 where they will meet with USDA officials and be presented with their awards. In addition, USDA officials will speak to them about overcoming risks in a more open economy. The winners will also have lunch with USDA staff in the Secretary’s Dining Room and visit the offices of their legislators.

With the phase-out and eventual elimination of federal farm price and income supports, it is critical that today’s students and farm operators become aware of the new risk environment in production agriculture and develop an understanding of how to manage risk. This essay contest is offered to stimulate today's agriculture students' interest in, knowledge of and successful selection and use of risk management tools. In addition, the contest provides a way to recognize students who have developed their communication skills and can effectively share key information regarding implementing risk management tools.

The contest is offered by the National FFA Organization in partnership with the Risk Management Agency, United States Department of Agriculture, as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

The National FFA Organization, formerly known as the Future Farmers of America, is a national youth organization of 500,823 student members – all preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture – as part of 7,358 local FFA chapters in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. The National FFA Organization changed to its present name in 1988, in recognition of the growth and diversity of agriculture and agricultural education. The FFA mission is to make a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education. ## FFA Week winners announced.

INDIANAPOLIS - FFA chapters across the country roll out the red carpet for National FFA Week each February. Knowing members always plan numerous events ranging from community service to outreach, chapters were invited to enter the official FFA Week contest to show off their hard work.

Taking first place was Chatham Middle School FFA from Chatham, Va. Throughout the week, members participated in an Adopt-A-Highway program, visited a nursing home, talked with elementary students about food and agriculture and created their own commercial spot that aired on television at their school. In their winning essay entry, Chatham FFA reported that 100% of their FFA members participated in FFA Week activities.

Second place was awarded to Winder-Barrow High School FFA in Winder, Ga. Members planted trees at a state park, met with their city mayor, submitted numerous press releases to their local paper and planned special events for students and teachers.

Third place went to Rushville High School FFA in Rushville, IN. Last year's FFA Week contest winners, Rushville members again made their mark by planning a Big Brothers, Big Sisters bowling event and a Hog Roast & Dance. They also sent care packages to soldiers overseas.

FFA makes a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education.

Honorable Mention for Best Public Relations went to Oconee County Middle School FFA Chapter in Watkinsville, Ga.

The FFA Week contest asked chapters to plan events that incorporated each of the following themes: Outreach, environment, service, gratitude and fellowship. Members had to submit pictures, an essay outlining their planning process, details of their events and the overall results. The winning chapter will receive a feature story on the FFA Today! television show, a gift certificate for FFA Unlimited.org and T-shirts from the official National FFA Week sponsor, CASE IH.

“CASE IH is so proud to support the creative planning and hard work that members put into their FFA Week events,” said Julie Rudnick, Manager of Marketing Communications for CASE IH. “They deservedly put themselves in the spotlight each February, both on a local and national level.”

National FFA Foundation Receives Second 4-star Rating

INDIANAPOLIS— For the second consecutive year, the National FFA Foundation has received a coveted 4-star rating from Charity Navigator, a web service that highlights the work of efficient charities and provides donors with the essential information needed to make wise charitable choices.

The foundation was rated based on its ability to efficiently manage and grow its finances. Only 16 percent of charities rated by Charity Navigator receive two consecutive 4-star evaluations, indicating that the National FFA Foundation outperforms most charities in America in its efforts to operate with efficiency and fiscal responsibility in mind. The “exceptional” designation differentiates the National FFA Foundation from its peers and demonstrates to the public that it is worthy of their trust.

The New York Times, NPR and The Chronicle of Philanthropy, among others, have profiled and celebrated Charity Navigator’s unique method of applying data-driven analysis to the charitable sector. It is considered by many to be the leading charity evaluator in the United States.

National FFA Award Winners Tour Costa Rica, Gain Perspective of Global Agriculture

INDIANAPOLIS—As the agricultural community becomes increasingly global, it is crucial that young people considering careers in the industry understand the opportunities and challenges of international trade. A group of 42 national FFA award winners will tour agricultural sites in Costa Rica this summer and compare the industry in Central America and the United States. Following an orientation session in Miami on June 16, the group will depart for a 10-day tour.

“The global marketplace can be a difficult concept for students to grasp. Visiting agribusinesses and talking to industry experts in Costa Rica will help students see the similarities to U.S. agriculture and better understand how what happens in Central America can have implications back home,” says Larry D. Case, national FFA advisor. “Costa Rica is an ideal agricultural tour site because it includes some of the most diverse agriculture and geography in the world, and is small enough that the group will be able to see most of the country during the trip.”

Seminar participants were selected from national agricultural proficiency award finalists and American Star Farmer and Star in Agribusiness finalists named last October at the 80th National FFA Convention in Indianapolis, Ind. The seminar, in addition to cash awards and plaques, is made possible by business and industry contributions to the National FFA Foundation.

During the seminar, students have an opportunity to truly experience global agriculture and culture of Costa Rica. The international seminar is an education study seminar designed to introduce the award participants to agriculture as it is practiced in

FFA Members Experience Agriculture in Egypt and Morocco

INDIANAPOLIS – This spring, 12 college students traveled to Morocco and Egypt to participate in the International Collegiate Agricultural Leadership Program (I-CAL).

National FFA Collegiate programs offer students a global travel program that allows them to experience agriculture around the world. The International Collegiate Agricultural Leadership (I-CAL) program was developed as a partnership with the U.S. Grains Council and U.S. Grains Foundation. These organizations seek to build global markets for American grains. Through their work, they also provide opportunities for others to learn about how the global marketplace affects American agriculture.

Students that participate in I-CAL discover careers in international agriculture and have a newfound awareness of international trade markets and cultural issues. By partnering with the U.S. Grains Council and its contacts in various countries, the students learn more about international grain marketing, developing agricultural economies and gain unique cultural perspectives.

Participants of the trip included: Colin Anderson, of University of Wisconsin-Madison; Cole Bishop of West Virginia University; Kristin Carr of Virginia Tech; Andrea Driskill of University of Wyoming; Jessica Johnson of Colorado State University; Katelyn Morgan of University of Illinois; Bill Munns of Utah State University; Ashley Nelson of Iowa State University; Lenny Polzin of University of Wisconsin-River Falls; Julia Porter of Cornell University; Julia Shuck of University of Missouri and Calli Wold of North Dakota State University.

During their visit to Morocco, students saw fisheries, wheat and forage farming operations, olive production, modern fruit production and mushroom production. The students also spent time at the historic Volubilis Roman Ruins. While in Morocco, they also visited irrigated farming operations, citrus conditioning stations and dairy facilities.

While in Egypt, students were able to spend time at Port Said and visit the grain inspection lab, as well as participate in boat tour of the Suez Canal. They also visited a fish farm, a dairy operation and a buffalo/beef feedlot. They also met with the Ministry of Agriculture as well as visited Cairo University. Their trip ended with a visit to the Egyptian Museum and the Great Pyramids.

FFA Members Attend Summer Leadership Conference

Builds leadership, team building and citizenship skills

WASHINGTON, D.C.—This summer, students from across the nation will arrive in Washington, D.C., ready to learn leadership and give back to their community. It is all part of the 2008 Washington Leadership Conference (WLC), an activity of the National FFA Organization in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Education.

The week-long program helps FFA members improve their leadership skills and prepare for leadership roles in their chapters, communities and their future careers. They attend workshop sessions on persuasive communication, character leadership and building relationships, and participate in discussions on citizenship.

“Tomorrow’s leaders must develop skills in these areas to effectively compete,” says Dr. Larry Case, National FFA Advisor and Coordinator, Agricultural and Rural Education with the U.S. Department of Education. “Every student leaves WLC with an advantage because it gives those young people cutting-edge leadership skills and valuable insight for productive citizenship.”

It’s not just leadership skills the students are learning. Students will also learn about giving back to the community, through volunteering. Students will also increase their understanding of the nation’s heritage with visits to Mount Vernon, Arlington National Cemetery, the Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt Memorials and other historic sights in Washington, D.C. A highlight of the week will be a visit to the office of their local congressman/Senator.

The National FFA Organization coordinates WLC, which attracts participants from across the country. This summer, more than 2,000 FFA members will attend one of the conference’s seven week-long sessions.

FFA Names 40 Individuals as the 2008 New Century Farmers Program Prepares Young Farmers for Success in the 21st Century

INDIANAPOLIS – The National FFA Organization has selected 40 outstanding young people to participate in the 2008 New Century Farmer Program. This exclusive, highly competitive program develops young men and women who are committed to pursuing a career in production agriculture. The New Century Farmer Program is sponsored by Pioneer Hi-Bred a DuPont business; Rabo Agrifinance; and Successful Farming as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

From Arizona to the Atlantic coastline in Virginia, participants representing 21 states will take part in an intensive five-day seminar in July 28 through August 1 in Johnston, Iowa at the Global headquarters of Pioneer Hi-Bred. They will learn from each other and industry experts during a series of workshops and sessions, on topics ranging from the global marketplace to farm financing, demographic trends to risk management. The New Century Farmers will hear from motivating and informative keynote speakers who will educate them on the risks and rewards involved with agriculture production. In addition to classroom learning, students will be exposed to the latest developments in agricultural technology, field tours, sessions on personal and professional development and team building.

The program is designed to provide participants with valuable learning that they will take home and apply to their own farming operations, as well as resources and a network of friends that they can draw upon throughout their careers.

FFA Members meet President George W. Bush at National FFA State Presidents' Conference

WASHINGTON, D.C. – A lucky group of FFA state officers had a rare and exciting experience Thurs., July 24, when they found themselves face-to-face with President George W. Bush at the FFA State Presidents' Conference held in Washington, D.C., July 22-26.

The students met with the President in the East Room of the White House, where he talked about the importance of being a leader and being open to new experiences. He then opened the floor to the students for 30 minutes of Q&A.

The officers who attended the conference included the six national officers and all state FFA presidents and an additional officer from their team, representing all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Though from different states and backgrounds, all were united by common goals: to strengthen skills in leadership and citizenship, to discuss national FFA business and to explore the heritage of the nation's capital. The group attended the conference to prepare for their responsibilities as delegates and committee chairs for the 2008 National FFA Convention, to be held in Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 22-25.

The State Presidents' Conference was planned and conducted by the six national FFA officers who chose this year's conference theme, "Empower." State officers attending the conference became empowered by the experience and, in turn, are better able to train chapter officers in more than 7,358 local schools.

In addition to meeting the president, the students also had the opportunity to talk to the Sec. of Education, Margaret Spellings, and the Sec. of Agriculture, Edward Schafer. Activities included visits to the Jefferson Memorial, Arlington National Cemetery, Lincoln Memorial, FDR Memorial and many other historical landmarks. Officers also attended leadership workshops to discuss the importance of FFA and agricultural education.

Archer Daniels Midland (ADM) and Dow AgroSciences sponsored the State Presidents' Conference as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

National FFA Celebrates 10 Years in Indianapolis

Hosts Habitat for Humanity Build in preparation for fall convention, National Day of Service

INDIANAPOLIS – The National FFA Organization is celebrated its tenth year in Indianapolis with a Habitat for Humanity house panel build and luncheon on Aug. 4, 2008. The festivities were held in conjunction with the organization's annual board meeting.

The build began in the morning, when several hundred volunteers from the National FFA Organization, Dow AgroSciences, CountryMark, Cargill and Kroger will join together at the parking lot of the National FFA Center to help build basic frameworks for two homes. Those panels will later be used in homes built with the help of FFA members during the Days of Service at the national FFA convention this fall.

The build will be followed by a presentation celebrating FFA's decade in the Circle City. In the summer of 1998, the organization's headquarters moved from Alexandria, Va., to Indianapolis. To make construction of the National FFA Center possible, the National FFA Foundation raised a total of $5.2 million from sponsors, including DuPont Agricultural Products, Novartis, Eli Lilly & Company Foundation on behalf of Elanco Animal Health, Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Lilly Endowment, John Deere, Dow AgroSciences and The Kresge Foundation .

"For 80 years FFA chapters have helped build local communities through a variety of service projects," said Dr. Larry Case, CEO of the National FFA Organization.

"We can think of no better way to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the National FFA Center's arrival in Indianapolis than for our staff to help Habitat for Humanity touch lives here in our adopted city. That same spirit of community service is mirrored by a half-million members of the FFA."

FFA Students and Alumni Work Alongside Toyota to Collect One Million Canned Goods

Toyota sponsorship fuels two-year nationwide can food drive milestone in just one year

INDIANAPOLIS – The National FFA Organization – the agriculture, science and technology organization of more than half a million high school students across the United States and Puerto Rico – rallied its members and alumni to collect one million canned goods in just 12 months. The Can Hunger—Million-Can Challenge is a two-year food drive sponsored by Toyota.

On the heels of success, FFA students and alumni kick off the 2008/2009 campaign with momentum. State FFA offices have applied to the National FFA to be one of 12 states to participate. Based on creativity of how the students and alumni will host their statewide food drive, the engagement of the local community beyond its membership and the impact on the local food supply, the national organization will award grants funded by Toyota to the state chapters to support their local campaigns.

“Toyota takes pride in funding such worthwhile outreach and empowering high school students from across the country to make a difference. Can Hunger allows us to connect at a very real level with an entire community in ways no other initiative could,” said Kim Kyaw, Engagement Marketing Manager, Toyota.

Toyota dealerships supported the national campaign by hosting drives and Can Hunger drop boxes to help the students involve their greater community. The 2007/2008 state FFA offices that collectively raised one million non-perishable food items were: California, Colorado, Delaware, Indiana, Minnesota, North Carolina, Oregon, South Carolina and Wisconsin.

Seven of the 12 state FFA offices that will participate in 2008/2009 have been selected. Five other states will be added to the list by September 2008. Selected states are: California, Illinois, Kentucky, Nebraska, New York, Louisiana, Maine, and Oregon.

Can Hunger—Million-Can Challenge is a national campaign that inspires FFA pride in members and alumni across the country while providing a community outreach that lets all have a positive impact in their home community. Items collected through the state food drives are donated to local food banks.

“From every vantage point, Can Hunger has been a huge success,” said Frank Saldana, Executive Director of the National FFA Alumni Association. “We provide food to those most in need, engage one of our strongest corporate partners in Toyota and connect active students members with alumni in an engaging meaningful way.”

Toyota’s support of Can Hunger is part of the auto manufacturer’s $1.4 million sponsorship of the National FFA Foundation. The commitment also enables two other campaigns: the Red, White and Forever Blue College Tour and the awarding of a Toyota Tundra to each of the country’s top 12 agricultural educators as honored by the National Association of Agricultural Educators (NAAE).

Toyota Motor Sales (TMS), USA, Inc. is the marketing, sales, distribution and customer service arm of Toyota, Lexus and Scion vehicle brands in the United States, celebrating its 50th anniversary in America this year. Established in 1957, TMS markets products and services through a network of more than 1,400 Toyota, Lexus and Scion dealers. Toyota directly employs more than 33,000 people in the United States and sold more than 2.5 million vehicles in 2006. ## Twenty-one Students Named National Collegiate Agricultural Ambassadors

INDIANAPOLIS – Twenty one college students are staying a little bit busier this fall, as they travel around the country letting people know about the importance of the agricultural industry.

As a National Collegiate Agricultural Ambassador, the students focus on promoting agricultural awareness in the local and regional community. The ambassadors present on all topics related to the agricultural industry including economic importance, agricultural careers, environmental stewardship, sustainable agriculture, and sound science. Students serve as ambassadors to the agricultural industry delivering presentations and sharing agricultural opportunities to area high school and college classes, community and youth organizations, and other groups.

Over the past three years, ambassadors have presented to more than 41,000 people in over 30 states and two countries. This year, the ambassadors will give 25 presentations to different groups and organizations in their communities. Those students who have been named as an ambassador are as follows: Ashley Amsden University of Tennessee-Martin; Ashley Mason of Western Illinois University; Beatriz Campuzano of California State University – Fresno; Beau Williamson of California State University – Fresno; Brittany Cole of University of Tennessee-Martin; Jamie Cecil of Colorado State University; Jarah Casten of Kansas State University; Jenn Himburg of Auburn University; Jessica Chamberlain of California State University – Fresno; Jimmy Pierce of California State University – Fresno; Kelvin Moreno of University of Florida; Meredith McCurdy of Mississippi State University; Mike Ockerhausen of University of Missouri; Natalie Ryan of California State University – Fresno; Nathan Dobbels of Iowa State University; Padon Holt of Texas A&M University; Ruth Corn of Utah State University; Ryan Borcharding of Iowa State University; Sherea Dillon of University of Arkansas; Steve Couch of Michigan State University; and Tim Martini of Colorado State University.

All ambassadors are sophomores, juniors, seniors or graduate students in college. They go through an application and phone interview process. During the application process, they must also submit video, answer essay questions and provide references. They are required to be pursuing an agricultural degree to be eligible to be apart of the program.

If you are interested in having an ambassador speak to a group or organization you are apart of, please contact Marty Tatman at mtatman@ffa.org or 317-802-4356.

National FFA Membership is 507,763 A 31-year high!

INDIANAPOLIS – The National FFA Organization announced today that this year there are 507,763 members in 7,439 FFA chapters across the United States, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

“This is an exciting time for FFA, as we are nearing the all-time-high membership total we originally reached in the 1970s,” said Dr. Larry Case, chief executive officer and national advisor for the National FFA Organization. “These membership numbers help prove what we already know – FFA is relevant in students’ lives and futures because it helps prepare them for more than 300 diverse and plentiful career opportunities in the agriculture, food, fuel and fiber industries.”

The all-time national FFA membership topped 509,000 in 1976-1977. Since that time, the percentage of members living on farms has decreased. Today, 27 percent of FFA members live in rural farm areas, whereas 40 percent live in rural nonfarm areas and the remaining 33 percent live in urban and suburban areas.

“FFA members are spreading the word at their schools, and new students are becoming members and learning about the great opportunities offered in FFA and agricultural education,” said Zack Kinne, the 2007-2008 national FFA president, from Eagleville, Mo.

There are FFA chapters in 16 of the 20 largest U.S. cities including New York, Los Angeles, Chicago and Philadelphia. Women make up 38 percent of FFA members, and hold more than 47 percent of state leadership positions.

In the midst of monumental global changes in the agricultural economy, FFA members and students of agriculture are being asked to assume leadership roles in the nation's largest economic sector – agriculture – that accounts for 17 percent of the American workforce. To help ensure that its students are best prepared to succeed in these demanding and evolving career opportunities, the National FFA Organization is supporting a strategic long-range goal to have 10,000 quality agricultural education programs with FFA chapters nationwide by the year 2015.

FFA membership is open to students aged 12-21 and enrolled in agricultural education programs in public high schools; 6 percent of current members participate in middle school programs and 5 percent are high school graduates or members in Collegiate FFA.

FFA was organized nationally in 1928 in Kansas City, Mo. In 1950, Congress granted FFA a federal charter, making it an integral, intracurricular part of the public agricultural instruction under the National Vocational Education Acts. FFA receives no federal funding. For more than 80 year, agricultural education and FFA have demonstrated a proven ability to help students grow personally, build their potential for leadership and pave the way for successful careers.

The National FFA Organization, formerly known as the Future Farmers of America, is a national youth organization of 507,763 student members – all preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture – as part of 7,439 local FFA chapters in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. CAMPBELL SOUP COMPANY TEAMS UP WITH
MULTI-PLATINUM SINGER/SONGWRITER JEWEL TO HELP SUPPORT THE FUTURE OF AMERICAN AGRICULTURE
Campbell Kicks Off Campaign to Champion the National FFA Organization

Camden, N.J., September 29, 2008 – Fall signals harvest season across the country. This year it also marks the kick-off of a national campaign to help support the future of American farming. Campbell Soup Company (NYSE:CPB) is partnering with the National FFA Organization and Grammy-nominee Jewel to help raise awareness of the importance of supporting the future of American agriculture – the nation’s largest employer. Through the “Help Grow Your Soup” campaign, Campbell will donate $250,000 to champion FFA efforts, which encourage America’s youth to participate in agriculture education programs where they learn about the production of food, fiber and natural resources.

Singer/songwriter Jewel, who grew up on a homestead in Alaska and now lives on a working ranch in Texas, says growing up on a farm helped her appreciate the important role farming plays in ensuring families have good, quality food on their tables.

“Most people don’t realize that the American farm is one of our most precious national resources,” said Jewel. “As a singer, I travel the world and experience new and exciting traditions. Yet to me, American farming continues to be one of the most valuable. As someone who has deep roots on the farm, I’m proud to support the future of agriculture across America.”

Beginning September 29, 2008, consumers can visit HelpGrowYourSoup.com and for each click on the red barn, Campbell will donate $1 (up to $250,000) to the National FFA Organization to support its educational and sustainability efforts, as well as preserve several barns across the country. The National FFA Alumni Association will spearhead the barn preservation effort, which also will provide a memorable educational opportunity for high school-age FFA members who will assist.

“FFA has been nurturing our country’s agricultural leaders for more than 80 years, making it possible for Americans to enjoy high-quality foods that are safe and affordable,” said National FFA President Zach Kinne. “It’s critical to prepare future generations for the competitive global marketplace, and it’s only with the support from friends like Campbell Soup Company that we will help ensure a strong future for American farming.”

Campbell's Commitment to a Sustainable Future

For more than 110 years, Campbell has been sourcing ingredients for its condensed soups from farms across the country. It uses these farm-grown ingredients to deliver the consistent quality and taste that generations of Americans have come to expect from their favorite Campbell's® soups.

Campbell also strives to contribute to a sustainable future for American agriculture. Whenever possible, the company sources ingredients from farmers located within 100 miles of its production facilities, enabling it to use fresh ingredients, reduce the environmental impacts of transportation, and support the economies of local farming communities. Campbell also has worked with farmers to develop and promote sustainable agricultural practices, which have helped growers implement industry-leading integrated pest management programs and reduce their reliance on synthetic pesticides.

"Campbell has always been committed to delivering the best, most nourishing foods possible. We cherish the relationships we have with American farming families, many of which have lasted for generations, and we fully recognize that our future success is dependent on the people and the places that help grow the quality ingredients that go into our soups," said Eric Christianson, business director for Campbell's condensed soups. "It's important that we, and all Americans, support the National FFA Organization's efforts to keep American farming thriving."

The National FFA Organization

The National FFA Organization was founded in 1928 as the Future Farmers of America in support of agricultural education in schools around the country. Today FFA encompasses in-school and community programs designed to open the door to acceptance and understanding of agricultural education, as well as to recruit and secure agriculture educators to ensure students receive outstanding instruction in the areas of food, fiber, fuel and natural resources.

FFA is powered by more than half a million members, 7,300 active chapters in schools and 1,000 alumni affiliates across the United States, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Dedicated to the future of American agriculture, FFA prepares its members for more than 300 careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture and has many educational programs in place to foster leaders who will make sure our natural resources are wisely used.

National Council for Agricultural Education Launches New Website for Teachers

INDIANAPOLIS – The National Council for Agricultural Education recently launched The Team Ag Ed Learning Center (TAE LC). The TAE LC is a web site dedicated to exploring unique and useful instructional resources for agriculture teachers and their students - in electronic form. It's an online, one-stop-shop featuring free and affordable e-learning, teacher resources, lesson plans, student assessments and much more.

“We have a wide range of materials available,” said Bill Hale, Executive Director of the TAE LC. “There’s a course focusing on agricultural issues that teachers can use to increase the issue identification and analysis skills of their students, seven courses covering a full spectrum of swine management, lessons on service learning and many more.”

Lessons plans include PDF versions of materials for easy printing, as well as searchable online materials with an electronic note-taking feature. In addition, LifeKnowledge Online is now offered through the TAE LC website.

“After identifying a need for a dedicated source for online agricultural education, The National Council for Agricultural Education, The National FFA Foundation and other partners created the TAE LC to provide online delivery of new and exciting electronic instructional materials, tools and resources,” said Hale. “We encourage teachers to check back often since we’re always adding new tools and features.”

Visit the Team Ag Ed Learning Center at www.agedlearning.org or call 317-802-4362 for more information. In addition, the TAELC will have a booth at the 81st National FFA Convention taking place in Indianapolis Oct. 22-25.

The National FFA Convention Will Rotate Between Louisville, Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS – The National FFA Organization announced today that its annual convention will rotate between Louisville, Ky., and Indianapolis, Ind., for the foreseeable future.

Starting in 2013, Louisville will share hosting duties with Indianapolis on a three-year rotational basis. Louisville will host the convention 2013 through 2015. The convention will return to Indianapolis for the years 2016 through 2018. Louisville will then be given the first right of option for the years 2019-2021; Indianapolis will have the option for 2022-2024.

FFA CEO and National FFA Advisor Dr. Larry Case was appreciative of both cities' efforts. "Both cities have welcomed FFA with outstanding hospitality," said Case. "Indianapolis and Louisville have both proven their ability to put on a world-class event for our members, advisors and guests."

National FFA President Paul Moya said, "I'm confident that our members will look forward to experiencing both unique cities during their high school years."

"We welcome FFA back to Louisville with open arms," said Louisville Mayor Jerry Abramson. "Our city has so much to offer these young men and women from top notch hotel accommodations to entertainment and, soon, a new downtown arena. FFA's homecoming is great news for Louisville at a time when a sour economy has been grabbing headlines."

"It's great news to learn that Indianapolis has once again been selected to host the national FFA convention," said Indianapolis Mayor Greg Ballard. "The positive impact of this event and these outstanding young people on our city is undeniable."

FFA makes a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education.

The annual national FFA convention, which was previously held in Louisville from 1999 through 2005 and is currently under contract with Indianapolis through 2012, hosts more than 54,000 high school-aged FFA members from across the country. The return of this prestigious event—the nation’s largest annual youth gathering—will bring both cities estimated annual revenue exceeding $40 million.

At this morning’s announcement, FFA representatives presented both cities with commemorative blue corduroy banners showcasing the FFA emblem and the years the cities will host the annual national FFA convention.
