

IU GERIATRICS e-news for MAY 2005

The IU Geriatrics Program and the IU Center for Aging Research congratulate Hugh C. Hendrie, MB, ChB, DSc, who was selected by the Alzheimer's Association as their Medical Honoree for the 2005 Chicago Rita Hayworth Gala. We also acknowledge our talented colleagues who represented us at the 2005 national meetings of the American Geriatrics Society and the Society of General Internal Medicine.

AWARDS

Dr. Hugh Hendrie joined a distinguished group of individuals who have been recognized for their dedication to Alzheimer's research when the Alzheimer's Association honored him on May 7, 2005 at the 18th Annual Chicago Rita Hayworth Gala held at the Civic Opera House in Chicago. The association noted "Dr. Hendrie's professional accomplishments span several decades as a practitioner, researcher, scholar, teacher and mentor. His extensive international research on epidemiology and risk factors for Alzheimer's disease and related disorders in cross-cultural populations earned Dr. Hendrie worldwide recognition as a pioneer in identifying modifiable risk factors for age-related brain diseases."

An IUCAR and Regenstrief Institute tribute in the gala program noted, "...we offer Dr. Hendrie our highest praise and congratulations, in deep admiration and respect of his dedication to and success in improving the health and welfare of this large and vulnerable population."

Congratulations to our colleagues who accepted awards at the American Geriatrics Society's 2005 Annual Scientific Meeting May 11-15 in Orlando, Florida:
