CREED OF A FUTURE FARMER.

I believe in the future of farming, with a faith born not of words but of deeds -- achievements won by the present and past generations of farmers; in the promise of better days through better ways, even as the better things we now enjoy have come up to us from the struggles of former years.

I believe that to live and work on a good farm is pleasant as well as challenging; for I know the joys and discomforts of farm life and hold an inborn fondness for those associations which, even in hours of discouragement, I can not deny.

I believe in leadership from ourselves and respect from others. I believe in my own ability to work efficiently and think clearly, with such knowledge and skill as I can secure, and in the ability of organized farmers to serve our own and the public interest in marketing the product of our toil. I believe we can safeguard those rights against practices and policies that are unfair.

I believe in less dependence on begging and more power in bargaining; in the life abundant and enough honest wealth to help make it so -- for others as well as myself; in less need for charity and more of it when needed; in being happy myself and playing square with those whose happiness depends upon me.

I believe that rural America can and will hold true to the best traditions in our national life and that I can exert an influence in my home and community which will stand solid for my part in that inspiring task.

Henry C. Groseclose
State Board of Education
Richmond, Virginia

Dear Mr. Groseclose:

I am mailing you an application for a State Charter in Future Farmers of America. We only have 23 chapters that have reorganized and asked for local charters at the present time. A number of others are going through the process of reorganizing but will not be ready to apply for a charter for some little time. In order to get things moving I am sending the application at this time. I am also enclosing a check for five dollars to pay for the state charter and a list of local chapters and their membership.

I would like your interpretation on one or two points in regard to the national constitution. Should all state and local requirements for degrees be the same as those provided for in the national constitution? In other words, could each state set their own requirements as far as grades are concerned or money saved? The national constitution provides that a boy to be eligible for the State Farmer degree should have an average of 85 in his school work. Am I correct in assuming that this means all subjects through his high school course to the time he makes application?

I am not including a state program of work with this application. If permissible we would like to wait until after our annual meeting on May 31 and June 1 before we work out our yearly program.

Very truly yours,

Ralph A. Howard
