INTRODUCTION

The Future Farmers of America is the national organization of boys studying vocational agriculture in public secondary schools under the provisions of the National Vocational Education Acts. Launched at Kansas City in November 1928, the organization has continued to develop rapidly. On June 30, 1960, the active membership totaled 378,081 in 8,759 chapters of 49 states, and Puerto Rico.

The primary aim of the Future Farmers of America organization is the development of agricultural leadership, cooperation, citizenship and patriotism. Other purposes include: strengthening the confidence of farm boys and young men in themselves and their work; more intelligent choice of farming occupations; creating and nurturing a love of country life; improving the rural home and its surroundings; encouraging cooperative effort; encouraging thrift; improving scholarship; providing organized recreational activities for rural people; and supplementing, by means of boy-initiated and boy-directed activities, the systematic instruction offered to prospective young farmers regularly enrolled in day-school vocational agricultural courses.

The Future Farmers of America organization of voluntary membership has taken its place with other agencies interested in the up-building of agriculture and the improvement of country life. National Headquarters of the Future Farmers of America is located in the Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington 25, D. C. National conventions are held annually at Kansas City, Missouri.

The Thirty-Third National Convention was held at the Municipal Auditorium in Kansas City, Missouri, October 12-14, 1960. The restricted attendance of members at the convention was well received. Final count showed approximately 8,500 FFA members registered from all state associations.

These proceedings constitute a yearbook on organization activities. The complete minutes of the convention sessions are included, along with certain other important material which is supplementary to or explanatory to the convention activities. Press releases, as well as certain newspaper accounts, were used in compiling parts of this publication. Thanks are due many persons whose leadership and work led to a successful convention and made the publication of this booklet worth while.

WM. PAUL GRAY,
National Executive Secretary

THE NATIONAL FFA BAND

Organized in 1947 under the direction of Dr. Henry S. Brunner; often called the "mail order" band because the members are selected through correspondence from the State Associations. These musicians contribute much to the success and enjoyment of the national convention.

The National Convention is a colorful climax to a year's work and achievements in FFA; the interesting programs, dynamic speakers and recognition that is part of this annual meeting provides great inspiration for FFA members in their work in vocational agriculture.

Committee Reports

Report of Auditing Committee

We, the members of the Auditing Committee, have inspected the books kept by the National Treasurer, Mr. R. E. Bass, and reviewed the audit prepared by Leach, Calkins and Scott, Certified Public Accountants, for the fiscal year July 1, 1959 through June 30, 1960, and find all records accurate and in proper order.

Respectfully submitted:

RICHARD THOMPSON, Ohio

Report of the Proceedings Committee

We, The Committee on Proceedings for 1960, recommend that this year's Proceedings follow the general outline of the Proceedings last year, with the following changes.

- I. Under Section I of 1959 Convention Proceedings
 - a. All items to be omitted.
 - b. Add a picture with appropriate caption of Russell DeYoung, President, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, and 1960-61 Chairman of the FFA Foundation Sponsoring Committee.
- II. Under Section II (of 1959 Convention Proceedings) include similar material and pictures (if available) of the following:
 - a. Each item mentioned in the 1959 Proceedings in this section except mixing of soil of States, p. 54.
 - b. Picture of passing of the gavel on last page of the Proceedings.
 - c. The Official FFA Creed on first page.
 - d. The picture of Honorary American Farmers placed next to the listed names of candidates.
- III. We further recommend that every picture in the proceedings be supplied with a caption.
- IV. We, the committee, recommend the following pictures be included (if available):
 - a. Picture of participants in the "Salute to American Youth" pageant.

- b. Picture of "Torchbearers" pageant.
 - c. Picture of donors and delegates at reception.
 - d. Picture of all foreign visitors to the convention.
 - e. Pictures of FFA Talent Show participants.
 - f. Pictures of FFA Day at the American Royal Live Stock and Horse Show.
 - g. Picture of 15-year donors to National FFA Foundation, Inc.
 - h. Pictures of the awarding of service plaques.
- V. We further recommend that the report of the committee on a Guide for Local Chapters to use in developing the annual Program of Work be deleted from the 1960 Proceedings, and that the 33rd Annual Convention Proceedings include only the suggested revisions made by the committee on the Program of Work. The suggested Program of Work would be transferred from the Proceedings to the official FFA Manual.

Respectfully submitted,

Report of the National Chapter Award Program

We, the Committee of the National Chapter Award Program, submit the following recommendations for improvement of the awards ceremony:

1. Seat gold, silver and bronze award winners in alphabetical order by States and chapters.
2. Include recognition of chapter representative and advisor.
3. Call only the name of the chapter.
4. Have each group file across the stage as chapter names are called. Begin with the bronze, then the silver and honor the gold chapters last.

To help keep attention during presentation, we recommend: Use large map of the United States and put in individual States with marks on each State to designate the chapter location and type of award—Bronze, Silver or Gold.

Report of the National Convention Committee

We, the members of the 1960 National Convention Committee, submit the following report of commendable achievements of the 1959 committee and suggest that they be continued:

1. That each delegate be responsible to see that his chair is occupied at all times.
2. That the ushers be responsible for keeping the amateur photographers from interfering with the convention.
3. That no amateur photographers be allowed beyond the delegate seating section except when otherwise announced.
4. That absolutely no pictures be taken during the public speaking contest.
5. That all hats be removed while inside the main arena.
6. That the Courtesy Corps continue to discourage all FFA members from smoking as well as engaging in disorderly conduct and horseplay while wearing the FFA jacket.
7. That the Keystone Steel and Wire Company be commended for the "4 Star Farmers of 1960" film, and that a similar movie be prepared and used at national conventions each year.
8. That the "Code of Ethics" be printed on the program with the "Creed".

We submit the following recommendations to the National Student Officers and Board of Directors for their consideration:

1. That the following points be considered in limiting attendance at the National Convention:
 - a. Review registration records to determine if restrictions were followed.
 - b. Review reports of Courtesy Corps concerning conduct of members in attendance.
 - c. Determine if the attendance at each session was sufficient to make a favorable impression.
 - d. Survey States to determine their reaction to present (1959) plan.
2. That parliamentary procedure demonstrations and other activities be included in a leadership education program.
3. That a balance be continued between adult and youth speakers to maintain good relationships and interest.
4. That the Talent Night program be continued and consideration be given to it being financed on the same basis as the judging teams.

5. That the question of pageants be studied on the basis of their success this year.
6. That the convention program change to enable the members to visit the American Royal was wise, and that this be included in next year's program.
7. That the Committee on National Leadership Training Conference consider the possibility of combining leadership training meetings with the national convention.
8. That State exhibits be continued and a new location be found for these exhibits so more people can see them.
9. That we commend the National Student Officers and the Board of Directors for the excellent delegate orientation program, improved donor reception procedures, and other program features which have been added to the program.
10. That the committee on National Convention should consist of members who have attended previous conventions.

Report of the National FFA Calendar Committee

Realizing that only 7% of the FFA chapters participated in sales of the official FFA calendar, we, the members of the National FFA Calendar Committee, hereby submit the following recommendations:

1. In order to increase chapter participation, we suggest:
 - a. That steps be taken to increase each chapter member's knowledge of this activity.
 - b. That the State officers and the chapter presidents of each State be included on the mailing list of material pertinent to this activity.
 - c. That national and State officers be encouraged to include brief comments about the calendar in their remarks to FFA assemblies.
 - d. That this activity be included in local, State and national programs of work under the generalization "public relations." We have further recommended this addition to the National Committee on local chapter programs of work.

2. In order to increase the number of calendars being ordered by each sponsor, we suggest:
 - a. That public relations methods be used to impress upon the sponsor the benefits of the calendar.
 - b. That chapters and sponsors be encouraged to include non-FFA homes in calendar distribution.
3. In order to avoid the tremendous fall rush in calendar orders, we suggest:
 - a. That chapters be encouraged to place all renewal orders in the spring, before summer vacation begins.

Report of the National FFA Foundation Committee

I. Report of the Committee on National FFA Foundation, Inc.

On behalf of the entire delegation and National FFA membership, we, the National FFA Foundation Committee of the 33rd Annual National Convention of Future Farmers of America, wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to the many generous donors to the Future Farmers of America Foundation.

These donors are vitally important to our organization in striving to accomplish its primary aims and purposes in the development of competent, aggressive, rural and agricultural leadership, citizenship and cooperation. We deeply appreciate the interest these donors have shown in the work of our organization.

We extend our deepest gratitude to Mr. Russell DeYoung, President of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, for his services as Chairman of the 1960 Foundation Sponsoring Committee.

We wish to encourage State Associations who are organizing or who have in operation a State foundation, to follow the rules, policies, and purposes of the National Foundation as a guide. At State conventions, where awards are made from both State and National funds, proper recognition should be given to each. It is suggested that the national officer attending the State convention be given an opportunity to explain the functions of the National Future Farmer Foundation awards program. Whenever possible, the national officer should present the National Foundation awards. The State should clearly explain the function of the National Foundation when the above practices are not followed.

II. Report of the Committee on American Farmer Applications.

We suggest that when the American Farmer Application Form is reprinted that it include a summary of the improvement projects completed by the applicant.

III. Report of the Committee on National FFA Public Speaking Contest.

We commend the 1960 National FFA Public Speaking contestants for the fine job which each did. The student officers are also to be complimented for the excellent manner in which they conducted the contest.

After reviewing the Announcement and Rules of the National Public Speaking Contest, we find that the rules are in excellent order. No changes are recommended.

Again, our thanks to our donors for providing the incentive which has made this organization the success it is.

Report of the National FFA Magazine Committee

We, the members of the National FFA Magazine Committee, hereby submit the following recommendations and commendations:

1. Change the frequency of issues of the National Future Farmer Magazine from six per year to ten issues each year, effective January 1, 1963.
2. Increase the subscription price from 25c per year to 75c and include the subscription price with National FFA dues. These increased dues to be collected beginning July 1, 1962.
3. Urge the delegates to present the above items (No. 1 and No. 2) to their respective State associations for discussion and action at their next State Convention, and that the State delegates to the 1961 National FFA Convention be instructed to vote according to the States' wishes on the above recommended changes.

4. That all subscription orders must be filled out accurately, either in ink or typed, and that all subscriptions be collected early in the fall.
5. Encourage members and advisors to write letters, giving personal views of magazine and any suggestions for improvement.
6. Encourage State associations to send information to the magazine regarding outstanding or unusual programs which the States are undertaking.
7. That continued use of articles by or about national officers be used to better acquaint local chapter members with the national organization and its officers.
8. Urge the continuation of the magazine as a means of exchange of ideas and programs between the members of State Associations.
9. Encourage members to send in articles and pictures of national interest, making sure they are correct and prompt.
10. Encourage articles by leaders of other youth organizations.
11. That the National FFA Magazine be made available in as many public places as possible.
12. Exchange publications with other youth organizations in other countries.
13. Encourage the National Organization, State Associations and local chapters to give a subscription of the magazine to those awarded honorary degrees.
14. That members continue their subscriptions after they are out of high school and no longer directly associated with the FFA.
15. Encourage State Associations to consider the National Magazine as a companion and supplement to their State publication.
16. Suggest that State officers make mention of the National FFA Magazine in their visits to Chapters.
17. That because to a high degree, the responsibility for carrying out this report rests on the State associations and on local chapters, that these important groups be informed of this report by publishing it in the National Future Farmer or in the newsletter prepared by the National Future Farmer staff.
18. That the Editor, Board of Student Officers and Board of Directors are to be given full authority to make any and all changes deemed necessary and advisable for the betterment of the magazine.
19. We highly commend members of the National FFA Magazine staff for attending the numerous State conventions and encourage them to continue this practice.

20. We wish to commend the staff for their improvements of the magazine in having more and better articles, and a larger circulation.
21. The committee wishes to commend the national officers for their backing of the magazine. Our thanks go to Mr. Wilson Carnes and his staff for their untiring efforts.

Report of the National Leadership Training Committee

We, the Committee on the National Leadership Training Conference, make the following recommendations for presentation to the Board of Student Officers:

1. That the National FFA Organization hold a National Leadership Training Conference in 1961.
2. That the National Leadership Training Conference be held in Washington, D. C. each year.
3. That the date of the National Leadership Training Conference (1961) be the third week in July, and to last for four days.
4. That the purposes of the conference shall be:
 - a. To help members develop a better understanding of our National organization.
 - b. To acquaint members with National and other State officers.
 - c. To provide inspiration and opportunity for boys to reach higher goals in the FFA.
 - d. To develop talents and responsibility in members through participation in organized leadership activities.
 - e. To give selected FFA members an opportunity to learn more about National Government.
5. That the plans for the conference shall include:
 - a. Arrangements for a luncheon or banquet that might be sponsored in cooperation with the Donors to the FFA Foundation.
 - b. Arrangements for the President of the United States to greet the members.

- c. Arrangements for high officials in government, agriculture and education to be guest speakers.
 - d. Provisions for State officers to meet with their U. S. Senators and Congressmen.
 - e. Educational tours to Mt. Vernon, National Capitol, Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial and other historic shrines and points of interest.
 - f. Plans for a tour to the National FFA Building.
6. That the number of representatives in attendance from each State not exceed four boys and one advisor.
 7. That State officers with high moral and character standards, along with excellent FFA qualifications, be selected by the States.
 8. That a program be developed to allow committees ample time to work, and that at least one adult advisor be assigned to each committee.
 9. That the final plans shall be made by the national officers.
 10. That a vesper service be included in the program.
 11. That a National Leadership Training Conference be financed jointly by the National organization and the State associations.
 12. That in the event of any alterations or changes, this committee suggests the Board of Student Officers and the Board of Directors have full authority to act.

Report of the Official Manual Committee

We, the members of the Official Manual Committee, do hereby recommend the following changes in the Official FFA Manual by the delegates at the 33rd annual national convention of the Future Farmers of America:

1. That all suggestions for changes since the last revision be incorporated into the 1961 revised edition of the Official Manual.
2. That consistency be established throughout the manual in regard to the correct and official title of the National Advisor, especially in reference to pp. 8, 25 and 26.
3. That the title of the list of publications at the end of the manual be changed from Bibliography to References.
4. That the caption under photograph on page 78 be changed to read “. . . 50 States and Puerto Rico.” . . . rather than “. . . 48 States, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.”
5. That page 125, item 5, be changed to read “Four Star Farmers of America” (1958, 1959, 1960).
6. That photographs be brought up to date and that they be varied to provide representation from as many States as possible. These changes should not include the deletion of the photographs on the bottom of page four and the one on page 78.
7. That item 13 be added to Proper Use of the Official FFA Jacket to read, “The Official FFA Jacket should not be worn with more than three pins; the highest office held, highest award won and the highest degree attained.”
8. That bold type be used on pages 8, 9, 13 and 14, to give additional emphasis to the subject material.
9. That the Eight Essentials of A Good Chapter be recognized so as to conform more closely with the material between pages 30 to 126.
10. That consideration be given to deleting the following:

Responsibility of Advisor.....	pp. 36-38
National Chapter Award Program	p. 42
List of Methods of Fund Raising.....	pp. 49-50
Conducting Chapter Thrift Banks.....	pp. 50-51
Educational Library.....	p. 52

Collegiate Chapters.....	pp. 103-105
Hobbies.....	pp. 105-106

11. That the section relating to FFA Publicity be re-written and condensed.
12. The committee further recommends that serious consideration be given to preparing a publication entitled, "A Guide for State and Local Officers", which would include specific instructions for officers and leadership training. This should reduce the bulk of the Official FFA Manual.

Report of the Public Relations Committee

We, the committee on Public Relations for 1960-61, recommend the following:

1. That we, as Future Farmers of America, encourage to our greatest ability, the cooperation and expansion of the Student Educational Exchange Program between the United States and other countries.
2. That local chapters be encouraged to select outstanding members and representatives to speak before farm, business, civic, youth groups and like organizations.
3. That the National Organization, State Associations, and local chapters make a special effort to observe National FFA Week by the use of newspaper coverage, display aids, advertisement folders, window displays, radio and television; and by speaking to farm, business, civic, and youth groups.
4. That the National Organization, State Associations, and local chapters, in order to make known our Future Farmer progress, send invitations to radio, TV, and the press to attend various functions throughout the year.
5. That local chapters and State Associations make a determined effort to place subscriptions to the National Future Farmer Magazine and any official State FFA publication in high schools, colleges, and public places such as, doctors' offices, waiting rooms and libraries. We also recommend

- that these magazines be sent to friends of the Future Farmers of America organization.
6. That our national officers continue the annual GoodWill-Tour and that State Associations and local chapters also adopt this activity.
 7. That delegates, award winners, guests of luncheons, breakfasts and dinners express their appreciation to all sponsors and Foundation donors by personal notes. (This applies to all Local, State and National functions).
 8. That State Associations encourage visits of officers of other State Associations to their conventions.
 9. That local chapters and State Associations invite school administrators, businessmen, teachers, agricultural leaders, and others interested in FFA, to chapter and State-wide activities.
 10. That we, as Future Farmers of America, encourage continued improved working relations with other youth organizations.
 11. That we encourage enforcement of rigid disciplinary actions of all our members to improve our relations with the public. We, realizing that the general appearance and conduct of a Future Farmer constitutes a large part of our relations with the public, discourage smoking and other conduct unbecoming of a Future Farmer while wearing the official FFA jacket.
 12. That State Associations and local chapters inform adults about our outstanding national Star Farmers by showing movies, such as "Four Star Farmers" at appropriate public gatherings, parent-son banquets, civic clubs, conventions, chapter meetings and school assemblies.
 13. That we continue to express our gratitude by presentation of Honorary degrees on the chapter, State and national levels to worthy individuals who have contributed to our organization.
 14. That the State associations investigate the possibility of selecting a theme to be placed on a calling card and made available to all local chapters.
 15. That wider usage of the National FFA Calendar be made on a local, State and national basis.

Be it resolved that we, the Committee on Resolutions for 1960, on behalf of the Future Farmers of America, extend our most sincere thanks and expression of appreciation to the following persons and organizations who participated in, or contributed to the wonderful success of the 33rd National Convention.

1. The 1959-60 national officers for their untiring efforts and unselfish work in planning and conducting the convention in a most commendable manner.
2. The members of the Board of Directors for their able supervision and continuing assistance in making this year's convention a tremendous success.
3. The Honorable H. Roe Bartle, Mayor of Kansas City, Missouri, and all residents of Kansas City for their most hearty and warm welcome.
4. All donors to the Future Farmers of American Foundation, Inc. for their generous contributions to the Foundation.
5. All firms, organizations and their representatives who are stimulating FFA by sponsoring valuable educational awards to the Future Farmers of America.
6. The management and staff of the Municipal Auditorium for their sincere cooperation which has always been exhibited toward the Future Farmers of America Organization.
7. The Kansas City Advisory Committee, businessmen, and the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce for their efforts and services rendered in making this a most worthwhile convention.
8. Mr. Russell DeYoung, Chairman of the Sponsoring Committee of the FFA Foundation, Inc. for his untiring efforts on behalf of the Foundation.
9. The management of all housing facilities who have so graciously accommodated our FFA representatives.
10. All State associations supplying members to the National FFA Band. Also to Dr. Henry S. Brunner, U. S. Office of Education, for his very able conducting, and to members of the band for their outstanding contribution to the enjoyment of the program.
11. John Haid, Past National President, for his thoughtful and meaningful invocation.
12. The Ushers and Courtesy Corps for their work in making this a convention Future Farmers can be proud of.
13. The judges and timekeepers who helped in the public speaking contest.
14. The Keystone Steel and Wire Company and Mr. and Mrs. Venard for the very fine movie about the 1960 Star Farmers of America.

15. Howard Pyle, Phillip Alampi, Brooks McCormick and Norman Brown who provided inspirational and educational messages during the convention.
16. The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company and Massey-Ferguson, Inc. for sponsoring the superb entertainment programs on two different evenings.
17. The FFA members and other individuals who provided entertainment throughout the 33rd National Convention.
18. The Wurlitzer Organ Company for providing an organ for the convention activities.
19. The Palatka, Florida FFA Chapter for providing the interesting, educational demonstration on parliamentary procedure.
20. All State associations that prepared and displayed exhibits.
21. All firms that were hosts to the Future Farmers of America for tours and other special functions during the convention.
22. All officials and participants in the various contests and award programs, and the special FFA activities at this convention.
23. The American Royal Association for sponsoring their splendid programs for the Future Farmers of America.
24. All organizations of the press, TV and radio that have so generously publicized the events transpiring at this convention.
25. All honored guests and visitors from foreign countries for appearing at the 33rd National Convention.
26. The Boy Scouts of America, the National President of the Future Homemakers of America, and the 4-H Club for their contributions to the convention program.
27. All others who have helped make the 33rd National Convention of the Future Farmers of America the truly wonderful success that it has been.

Respectfully submitted,

STEVE PORTER, Washington

(Chairman)

STANLEY R. AMUNDSON, N. Dakota

PETER THOMSON, New Hampshire

JOHN WARREN, North Carolina

Convention Addresses

(Excerpts)

MAYOR H. ROE BARTLE

"In America today we can build a great human symphony, and when I think of the chapters of Future Farmers of America dotted across this land as they are, you are not only getting educational opportunities supreme, but above everything else you are learning how to live with your neighbor next door or the chap who lives on a ranch even twenty-five miles away.

. . . I welcome you to Kansas City this morning, . . . if we can build a great human symphony out of the 180 million men, women, boys and girls in America so we will love one another and appreciate one another, have different points of view but do not become angry, Honorable H. Roe Bartle, Mayor of Kansas City speech of "Welcome to Kansas City" is one of the high lights of the convention program.

. . . respect each other because we are free men and can think as we please . . . That is the American way of life . . . We're Americans and we are going to stand united and show . . . communist nations around the globe that we do believe in almighty God; that we do love our fellowman regardless of race, color, creed, or nationalistic background; that we do want to have peace on earth; that we do want to build a great human symphony, and we want to have a spirit in the world such as is found in this great and commanding and colorful annual convention of the Future Farmers of America . . . I wish you God-speed. I want you to have a great convention!"

GOVERNOR HOWARD PYLE

“A major area of interest that I note particularly in the work you outline in your annual reports is this factor of community service. While you are identified with agriculture, and it is to be hoped that each and every one of you will specialize in agriculture and if humanly possible remain in agriculture for all of your adult and productive life, it is also to be hoped that you will find the time to become a thoroughly mature citizen in the sense that you assume responsibilities beyond the farm in the community service area and in all the other areas that are pertinent to good citizenship.

Howard Pyle, President of the National Safety Council, challenges FFA members to prepare themselves for future dynamic roles in rural leadership, agriculture and civic responsibilities.

“ . . . if you have learned character, if you have learned citizenship and patriotism in the total objectivity of the FFA program, you are beginning to be qualified as an adult . . . when you come of that age and make the kind of decisions that are solid, that are fundamentally American. Because it is in the act of positive decision that you move agriculture wherever it is going to go, that you move this Commonwealth of State wherever it is going to go, that you set the stage for United States participation in world affairs as the years come on.”

The State exhibits in the Little Theater this year will rank as some of the best ever.

The FFA is awarded support of rural schools.

An effective demonstration of Parliamentary Procedure was presented by the Palatka Florida, FFA chapter.

PHILLIP ALAMPI

"I want to congratulate you as candidates for the American Farmer degree which signifies your attainment not only of high scholastic standards but also your aptitude for leadership and your performance in practical agriculture. You have demonstrated a capacity to carry out an assignment and to cooperate with your fellow students. Each of you has exhibited an outstanding ability to assume the responsibilities involved in establishing and conducting a successful farm enterprise. That, perhaps, is the real test of your training and experience. That also reveals how well qualified you are to assume your future role as farmer-citizens and rural leaders in the years to come.

Phillip Alampi, American Farmer, vocational agriculture teacher, farmer business man and outstanding civic leader was well qualified to address the American Farmer Candidates.

I would like to add a word of commendation to your instructors who have dedicated their careers to training and guiding farm youth so efficiently. To them you will be indebted forever. Their greatest satisfaction will be derived from how well you succeed in your future endeavors. Please don't let them down!"

BROOKS McCORMICK

"The capital investment in farming, per farm, will surely continue to grow as more and more effort is made to take the labor out of farm operations and increase efficiency.

Brooks McCormick accepts Honorary American Farmer Degree from President Thomas

This is where you young men come in. The most important factor in the success or failure of any business as it gets larger is the quality of its management. If the management is alert, intelligent, and aggressive, if its judgment is good, the business will prosper

You members of the Future Farmers of America represent a large share of the coming management of the farms of this country. You are getting valuable experience. You will gain more as you go. I would like to make only two suggestions to you: first, continue your education just as far as you possibly can; second, give thought not only to producing your products but to the marketing of them as well. Study what the market wants, how and when it wants it, how you can satisfy those needs at the lowest possible cost commensurate with an adequate profit."

ANTONIO ONIA

President of Future Farmers of Philippines

"On behalf of the Future Farmers of the Philippines I extend our deepest and warmest appreciation and gratitude to the people in this land of liberty and democracy, and to the Future Farmers of America for your untiring efforts and the wholehearted cooperation you have extended to us so that we will achieve the goal of our trip in this country fruitfully and successfully. No matter how dark and hard conditions in our country may be, we can always be able to see ourselves and unite together in building a world of peace and order where fundamental freedoms lie and can live and flourish without any molesting."

President Thomas confers Honorary Membership upon Godofredo Felliol, Antonio Onia, Frederico Manera, Julius Buyante, Pablo Prosia and Francisco Abelarde, the six representatives from the Future Farmers of the Philippines.

NORMAN BROWN

FFA Representative on Far East Exchange Program

"It is difficult to convey to you the hospitality and friendship we experienced. As we drove along rural roads we were greeted by hundreds of friendly, rural people who remembered American Soldiers in World War II. I remember visiting many schools where the entire student body greeted us with singing American songs and band music. Fellows wanted my autograph and to have their picture taken with me, not because I was a celebrity, but because I was a member of the Future Farmers of America. Students asked many questions about our schools, home life, farm productivity, farm mechanization and our farm surplus problem. They were interested in learning about America.

I propose the FFA start a project "Bamboo Pouch" with Future Farmer organizations in Japan, the Philippines, Thailand and Guam whereby members can exchange such things as programs of work, FFA Manuals, subscriptions to the FFA Magazine, snapshots of FFA activities, books on agriculture and information of chapter activities."

JOE HUGHESFFA Representative to West Berlin on American Youth

“ . . . We were introduced to German customs, to the German way of life, and to the German people . . . to visit not only in West Berlin but also in East Berlin. And, fellows, may I say now that the difference between the two sections, West Berlin, a free city under free government, the amount of reconstruction that they have done since the war is remarkable; but in East Berlin, a city under Soviet rule, the amount of reconstruction is almost nil. Everywhere you look bombed out shell buildings still remain with signs up above, ‘Danger, Do Not Enter.’

In the agricultural booth, we had a continuous showing of slides that represented various Future Farmer Activities, and through an interpreter I was able to explain exactly what the FFA is and does, in addition to what our Motto means to each Future Farmer. In fact the main purpose of the entire exhibit, was to convey to the German people exactly how an American teen-ager lives, works and receives an education.”

President Thomas introduces our twenty six guests from eleven friendly nations. Many of these took an active part in convention activities and civic club programs.

National Student Officer Reports

Report of the National President

Upon my election to the national officer team at the conclusion of last year's National Convention it became my pleasure to preside over the awards breakfast for the judging teams and participate in the American Royal parade. We new national officers along with the outgoing officers participated in leadership training before we left Kansas City for home.

JIM THOMAS
President

On November 18, a program and barbecue was held in my honor at Patterson Lions Park. I am extremely grateful for the folks of my home town and county for their wonderful consideration as well as Governor Vandiver who made a great personal sacrifice in order to attend this day.

My first official assignment came on December 15 in Chicago representing the FFA at the National Farm Bureau Convention.

On January 20 we national officers arrived in Washington, D. C. to take part in the meetings of the National FFA Board of Directors and to participate in leadership training. While in Washington, I spoke at a luncheon sponsored by General Motors for Donor Representatives; later we were guests of the National Grange.

On February 1 the national officers accompanied by Mr. Gray and Mr. Farrar started the Annual Goodwill Tour. In Baltimore we visited the Black and Decker Mfg. Company and the French Bray Printing Company. Tuesday, February 2 found us in Wilmington, Delaware as guests of the E. I. duPont deNemours and Company and Hercules Powder Company. The Boy Scouts of America were our hosts at their National Headquarters on February 3; later we visited the research center of U. S. Rubber Company. On February 4 we met with executives of The Associated Seed Growers in New Haven, Connecticut, and later had an excellent luncheon program with 67 guests of business, industry and agriculture in Hartford, Connecticut.

At the University of Connecticut we presented a program before the New England Farm Electrification Institute and in Providence, Rhode Island we met with officials of the Narragansett Electric Company.

We toured the factories of the L. G. Balfour Company on the morning of February 5 and at noon spoke to members of the Massachusetts Associated Industries in Boston. We later visited the Wirthmore Feeds Company.

On February 6 we were guests of the Essex County Agricultural School where we spoke at a very well planned chapter parent-son banquet.

In New York City we visited the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association Inc., Corn Products Company, Allied Chemical Corporation, American Oil Company, the d-Con Company, Esso Standard Oil Company and the Grocery Mfg. Association.

In Pittsburgh we toured the United States Steel Corporation Mills and visited the Aluminum Company of America. At Akron, we toured the facilities of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, the General Tire and Rubber Company and the B. F. Goodrich Tire Company.

On Saturday, February 20 it was my pleasure to appear on the National Farm and Home Hour in Chicago. While in this city we officers enjoyed visits to the Borg-Warner Corporation, American Farm Bureau Federation, the Oliver Corporation, the International Harvester Company, Allied Mills Inc., the Portland Cement Association, Quaker Oats Company and the Sears Roebuck and Company. We flew by helicopter from downtown Chicago to Skokie, Illinois to visit the International Minerals and Chemical Corporation; later we were guests of Swift and Company, Armour and Company, Kraft Foods Company and Standard Oil Company. On February 24, I flew to St. Louis to speak on the program of the meeting of the National Rural Electric Membership Corporation, returning the same day to Chicago to rejoin my fellow officers.

On Friday, February 26, we toured the production plants of the Keystone Steel and Wire Company in Peoria. That evening we spoke at a large banquet sponsored by the Association of Commerce's Agricultural committee. On Saturday we toured the research farm of Moorman Mfg. Company and later visited with a large number of FFA officers and members from four surrounding states.

In St. Louis we were hosted by the Ralston Purina Company, the Monsanto Chemical Company, the Gardner Advertising Agency, the Pet Milk Company, and the Spaulding Sporting Goods Mfg. Company.

The annual national officer Good-Will Tour is of vital importance. It provides the board of student officers the opportunity of giving leaders of business and industry a greater understanding of what the FFA's aims and purposes are, what students of vocational agriculture are doing in their classroom, on their farming program, and in their FFA chapters throughout America. This tour also enables the officers to get a much greater understanding of the relationship between business and agriculture and foster better farm city relationship. Of course the tour enables the officer of the FFA to express appreciation, in behalf of all future farmers, for the support of the Future Farmers of America Foundation given by business and industry. We have been delighted to see many states carrying out similar good-will tours on the State level.

I left St. Louis on the morning of March 4 for Chicago to participate in the Central Regional Teachers Conference.

I attended several chapter banquets before leaving home to attend the Utah State FFA convention on March 25-26. The fine dress and participation of the official delegates in the convention business sessions were most impressive at this brief but very successful convention. I then journeyed to Washington to their State Convention. This was a well executed Future Farmer convention that places emphasis on the real objectives of the Future Farmers of America; one could not help but be impressed by the fine manner in which the state officers carried out every official ceremony.

The Iowa State Convention was held on the 7-9th of April. It was extremely well attended and had fine chapter exhibits and Parliamentary Procedure Contests. Following the State convention in Iowa, I spent three days visiting local chapters before flying to the Indiana State Convention. The fine recognition these Future Farmers gave their Foundation Award Winners at their annual awards banquet was certainly worthy of high compliment. The dress of their delegates was most outstanding.

I was at the Minnesota State Convention on May 1-3. The fine manner in which the nominating committee interviewed its candidates for State office, the extremely successful awards banquet and the fine work of the advisors were indeed the high lights of this State convention. The California Convention was impressive due to the fine manner in which the boys conducted an exceptionally well planned convention program. Of particular notice was the manner in which the election of State officers was executed. On Sunday, May 29, I flew to Texas where I joined James Prewitt, president of the Texas Association in activities in the Area IX FFA Convention.

On June 6, in a speech given to the Georgia Ag Teachers Association, I emphasized my observation of what successful advisors are doing in local ag departments all across our country.

On June 7, at the Alabama State Convention, I was impressed with the excellent public speaking contest which was held before the entire delegate body. Journeying to Louisiana June 9-11, it was my pleasure to observe an inspiring Honorary State Farmer Degree Ceremony. The State officers did a wonderful job.

I spoke on "What the Members of the FFA See in The Future of Farming" to a National meeting of the American Plant Food Institute at White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia on June 13.

The Florida State Convention was already under way when I arrived on June 15. This group enjoys wonderful support by many civic organizations and receives excellent publicity. The election of their State officers and a very fine parliamentary procedure contest were commendable.

The Georgia State Convention was held July 18-21. The manner in which the convention load was shared by all of the State officers and the discussion groups which sought ways to have better chapter meetings was significant in this convention. Here I worked with the FFP visitors who were guests of my home State.

At the summer meetings of the Board of Directors of the FFA the entire team of national officers compared notes and gave reports on State conventions. We also helped formulate decisions concerning the FFA as well as doing much work on plans for the national convention. We attended a luncheon sponsored by the American Institute of Cooperation. My next assignment was at the University of Connecticut where I spoke before the New England Farm Credit Association.

It was certainly a privilege for me to take part in a ceremony honoring Mr. William H. and Mr. Donald Danforth at the Ralston Purina Company in St. Louis on the first of September.

I next flew to Peoria, Illinois to narrate the Star Farmer film of 1960 at the Venard Studio then journeyed to Milwaukee to join the four regional farm mechanics winners for a meeting of over 500 engineers attending the American Society of Automotive Engineers annual conference where they honored the award winners. It was a thrill to speak on "Farm Mechanics in Vocational Agriculture" to this group.

Speaking at the National Farm Electric Power Conference in Louisville, Kentucky was my next assignment; this was followed by the Farm Equipment Institute in Dallas to whom I explained the FFA's Farm Safety Program.

On October 3, I spoke to the NFA members assembled for their National Convention in Atlanta.

This year of serving as your National President has been a fine opportunity to observe many functions and activities of the FFA. However, none in importance has surpassed that of the State conventions. They are of vital importance, not only on the local level but the State and national as well because they set the pace and create the image of the Future Farmer organization. My fellow officers and I have observed that these States with the most successful convention had their programs centered around the following major objectives. First, through the use of executive committees, the business sessions are pre-planned so that the delegates take part and have a voice in the business of the State Association. This is excellent leadership training, and creates enthusiasm among the delegates that flows out into all other phases of the convention and results in improvement of the FFA in the local chapters. Secondly, the State conventions supplied proper recognition to Future Farmers who had made outstanding accomplishments with their farming programs and in leadership activities. Thirdly, the outstanding conventions were a source of excellent ideas and information on the activities, ideas, and principles of the FFA for anyone in attendance.

We have also observed that where there have been strong chapter programs of work, outstanding state conventions, and interested Future Farmers, that there have been advisors and administrators who have a genuine understanding of the FFA and its place in Vocational Agriculture. These men possess a concern for the welfare and needs of farm boys.

On behalf of all the national officers we thank all of our State advisors and executive secretaries as well as our district supervisors for their great assistance and leadership on our behalf. Of course we certainly want to thank our own chapter advisor to whom much of the credit of our success is due.

The leadership training and assistance provided by Mr. Gray and the entire Washington staff has enabled us to serve in the capacity of national officers. We will always be grateful to these men for the opportunity of working with them.

To my Mother, Daddy and younger brother Lindsay, I want to personally say that your help and sacrifices at home and on the farm have made it possible for me to enjoy a most interesting, stimulating and extremely worthwhile year.

On behalf of the National Officer Team of 1959-60 may we say "thank you" FFA members for this year's experiences and for making us better young men.

JIM THOMAS
National President

Report of National Student Secretary

During the past year, I have been convinced that the FFA can do more in molding the lives of farm boys than any other movement of our day. My heart is filled with humility from having had the opportunity to be a part of such a great organization.

KENNEY GRAY
Student Secretary

At the close of our last National Convention I returned to Mississippi State University to complete the fall semester. College and the various FFA activities consumed most of my time until mid January.

I arrived in Washington, D. C. January 20, and participated in National Officer's training, then later in meetings of the Board of Student Officers and Directors and the annual Good Will Tour which ended March 3. While on the tour we were made to realize that businessmen and industrial leaders have a definite interest in the welfare of farm boys and it was our pleasure to meet many important and interesting people.

On April 1, I went to Texas to participate in a full week of FFA Chapter Banquets, high school assemblies and civic club meetings. The week was climaxed with the Trinity-Neches Livestock Show and FFA Rodeo. Later I visited the Angelina County Livestock Show.

On May 31, I flew to Kentucky and observed a well planned convention that offered excellent leadership training opportunities. It was a pleasure to hear the address of Governor Burt Combs and to talk with Past National Officers Jerry Ringo and Howard Downing.

The North Dakota Convention was held June 7-9 in Fargo. The publicity given to this convention was excellent and the Creed Contest was tops. Various FFA talent added much to the program.

June 13-15, found me in Wisconsin, where planned, organized recreation was blended into a fine convention. The workshops at this convention were effective in promoting the FFA and the groups are to be complimented on their good attendance and conduct.

In the latter part of June, I attended my home State convention in Mississippi, there to be honored by receiving the Honorary State Farmer Degree. It was a pleasure to visit with Past National Vice Presidents Charles Ritter and Merrill Cartwright. The awards program was most commendable.

On July 21-23, I was in West Virginia to serve as a judge in the Creed Contest and enjoy a well rounded convention that featured an excellent awards program and banquet. The conduct of members in attendance was commendable.

We national officers met in Washington, D. C. for the Board of Student Officers and Directors meetings and to make further preparation for our National Convention.

I participated in the State Officer Leadership Training sessions at our State camp on the Mississippi Gulf Coast on August 17-19. Excellent results in FFA work can be derived from this kind of leadership activity.

On August 26, I drove to Alabama to preside at the Southern Regional Public Speaking Contest. This type of activity provides opportunities through the FFA to help boys become good leaders as well as better farmers.

The FFA was featured in a most impressive manner at the Mid-South Fair in Memphis, Tennessee, during my visit there on September 27.

The past week has been filled with the board meetings and completing final arrangements for this convention.

My experiences in the FFA and especially during the past year have been possible because of untiring help and sacrifices made for me by my parents and the many people who have advised me.

My fellow officers as well as Future Farmers everywhere have my deepest admiration and respect.

During my year as Student Secretary, my outlook on life has been broadened and I have gained a new perspective on agriculture and our American way of life.

May we Future Farmers always be good stewards of the soil and work together so our every goal in the FFA and future life may become a reality.

KENNEY GRAY,
Student Secretary

Report of the Vice President—Southern Region

At the close of the National Convention last year, I had a feeling of both humbleness and eagerness. I was proud of the opportunity to serve as a National Officer, yet realized that many obligations and responsibilities lay before me. Before returning to finish the college Fall semester, I took part in leadership training and the American Royal Parade in Kansas City.

JOE HUGHES, JR.
Vice-President
Southern Region

On January 20, I traveled to Washington, D. C., for leadership training and to attend meetings of the National Boards of Student Officers and Directors. From February 1—March 3, I accompanied my fellow officers on the National Officer Good Will tour.

During the month of March and the early part of April, I attended parent-son banquets in North and South Carolina, the Blue Ridge Fat Stock Show and the South Carolina Soil Judging Meet.

April 20-23, I took part in the Oklahoma Convention. The delegates are to be commended for their excellent conduct, fine Public Speaking Contest and their fruitful, business like sessions. Presentation of Star Farmer degrees by Lt. Governor Nigh highlighted a very impressive State Farmer Degree Ceremony.

The Tennessee Convention was held April 28-30. Governor Ellington addressed the delegates. The Parliamentary Procedure contest was excellent. I was impressed by the Star Farmer Ceremony and appreciated the honor to present the FFA Foundation Awards.

I traveled to Arkansas on June 1. Their Public Speaking and Parliamentary Procedure Contests were excellent. The State Band added much to their convention.

On June 7, I addressed parents at the Annual Meeting of the South Carolina Soil Conservation Service. At the South Carolina FFA Convention I observed extensive planning and preparation by the State officers which resulted in a very successful convention that was highlighted by excellent Public Speaking and Parliamentary Procedure Contests.

After a few days of farm work, I traveled to Virginia. I was impressed with the State band and chorus. The opportunity to meet FFA Foundation Donor Representatives at the donor reception was indeed a pleasure.

The Maryland Convention had inspiring addresses by former members of the Maryland Association and a nice Awards Program to highlight the two-day convention. It was my pleasure to talk with Dale Hess, former National Officer. I enjoyed working with the newly elected State officers in leadership training and it is my hope that next year every national officer will be given an opportunity to participate in this important phase of leadership training.

On June 28, I flew to North Carolina to serve as a judge in the State Public Speaking and Parliamentary Procedure Contests and present National FFA Foundation Awards. A very effective nominating committee was in action at this convention.

During the week of July 17, I attended the Texas Convention. I certainly did enjoy meeting with the State Officers and the State Board of Directors prior to the opening session. This large convention was highlighted by many events, one being the recognition of donors to the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

On July 24, we national officers met in Washington, D. C. for the board meetings and to make plans for the 1960 convention. After several days of intensive work, Kenney, Richard, Dean and Jack accompanied me to my home where we were special guests at a banquet given by my local chapter.

Early in August, I was selected to participate in the Berlin Industries Fair in West Berlin, Germany. Following an orientation program in Washington, D. C., twenty-five other young people and I flew to West Berlin on August 31. As a representative of the Future Farmers of America, it was my duty to explain to the German people what the FFA is and does, and what is encompassed when one speaks of American Agriculture. This was indeed a rewarding experience to me personally; I feel such an activity does much to help develop understanding and friendship between people of different countries.

Fellow Future Farmers, serving you as a National Vice President has been an opportunity for which I am truly grateful. I shall always cherish my experiences, the acquaintances I have made, and the friendship of my fellow officers. To each member I say 'thanks' for the most wonderful year of my life.

I am deeply indebted to many friends for their assistance and guidance. To Mother and Dad, my sister Nancy, and my brother Bill goes my appreciation for their wonderful encouragement and many sacrifices.

As my term of office comes to an end, I can truthfully say that vocational agriculture and the Future Farmers of America organization offer unlimited opportunities for achievement and development. May God's guiding hand be upon each of you as you take advantage of these opportunities and as you travel life's highway.

JOE HUGHES, JR.,
Vice President—Southern Region

Report of the Vice President—Central Region

Serving as a National Vice President has been a most enjoyable, enlightening and rewarding experience and a year I will long cherish.

RICHARD POOR
Vice President
Central Region

Following the 1959 National Convention, I returned to college to finish the Fall Semester. On December 1st, I was honored at a dinner given by my home Chapter and FFA friends from Southwest Missouri, Northwest Arkansas and Northeast Oklahoma. Our former National President, John Haid, was the guest speaker for the evening.

On January the 13th, I participated in the Northwest Missouri sub-district banquet before going to Washington, D. C. for National Officer Leadership Training and meetings with the Board of Student Officers and Directors. The 1960 National Officers Good Will Tour enabled me to meet many wonderful friends of the FFA.

After attending several local Chapter Parent and Son Banquets, I participated in the Michigan State Convention on March 24th and 25th which was opened with a most impressive vespers program and was highlighted with their American Farmers and Delegates Banquet at which all were appropriately recognized. Inspiring speeches were given by Governor Williams and Past National Student Secretary, Norman Brown.

March 26th through April 6th found me getting caught up on farm work. April 7th through 9th I attended the Nebraska State Convention. An outstanding feature of this convention was the banquet to honor the Chapter Delegates and Award winners. The State Farmer Degree Ceremony was exceptionally well presented and an outstanding State FFA Band added to their convention program.

The South Dakota Convention held on the 24th to 26th of April can certainly be commended on the fine conduct and excellent attendance of the members during the convention. The work of the Nominating Committee and the State Farmer Ceremony were both good and impressive.

In Kansas I observed a well planned and executed convention which was held on May 1st, 2nd and 3rd. It was highlighted by a truly outstanding Vespers Program and a well presented Star State Farmer Ceremony. It was a pleasure for me to participate in both these activities.

May 5th and 6th I joined Past National Officer Tom Stine for our "home" State convention where I was given a heart-warming "welcome". Outstanding features were the State FFA Chorus, Parliamentary Procedure, Public Speaking Contests and the Star State Farmer Ceremony. To add to my enjoyment, my parents were also in attendance. I attended and spoke at several local Chapter

Banquets, Civic Clubs and other Farm Organization meetings during May.

I went to a large and well planned Ohio State Convention on June 2nd and 3rd. The Buckeye boys can be complimented for an impressive Awards banquet, a good State FFA Band and an exceptionally well presented Honorary State Farmer Ceremony. A highlight of the convention was the presentation of the State Farmer Degrees by Governor Michael DiSalle.

My last convention was in Illinois on June 8th. Although I only attended for one day I was impressed with the State FFA Band, Chorus and the fine Awards Program.

July 24th through August 2nd found me in Washington, D. C. for the summer meeting of the Board of Student Officers and Directors.

I assisted Mr. Duis in conducting the Central Regional Public Speaking Contest on August 8th and 9th in St. Paul, Minnesota. At the National Dairy Judging Contest in Waterloo, I met many new friends and was impressed by the record of achievements of many outstanding young dairy farmers.

During this past year I have taken part in many interesting and inspiring activities. Perhaps the one thing that has impressed me most, and which I derived great personal reward from is the manner in which our program of FFA activities is developing better rural leaders and more contributing citizens in boys between the ages of 14 and 21, who wear the National Blue and Corn Gold jacket of a Future Farmer of America!

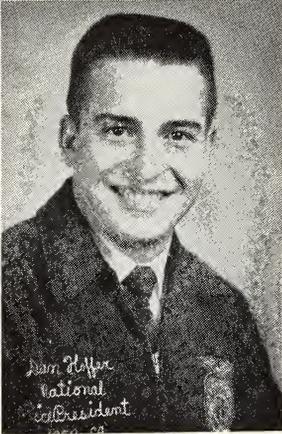

I owe a debt of gratitude to many fine friends who helped me through the years to become a national officer. I especially wish to thank Mr. Carl M. Humphrey, my State Advisor. To the greatest Mom and Dad in the world goes a son's thanks for the confidence you have had in me, the encouragement and guidance you have given, and the sacrifices you have made during my FFA years.

As I come to the end of my FFA road, it is my most sincere wish that the FFA will be as good to you in the future as it has been to me in the past. May God richly bless each of you.

Report of the Vice President—North Atlantic Region

I recall the October day in 1959 when in a combined state of pride, humbleness, and gentle shock I climbed the steps of this platform to assume the duties of the North Atlantic National Vice President. After returning home from the convention, the months of November and December were filled with many speaking engagements at farm and civic clubs and FFA chapters.

DEAN HOFFER
Vice President
North Atlantic Region

During January, February and March I received National Officers' Training, attended meetings of the Board of Student Officers and Directors in Washington, D. C. participated in the National Officer Good-Will Tour, and did considerable speaking at Local Chapter Banquets in Pennsylvania.

April 7-9, I participated in my first State Convention in Massachusetts. I was impressed by the enthusiasm and interest shown in the program by every FFA member in attendance.

I represented the National Organization at the National Watershed Congress in Washington, D. C. on April 17th then on the 18th and 19th I attended and spoke at the North Atlantic Regional Conference for Supervisors and Teacher Trainers in Agricultural Education.

I flew to Chicago on April 27-28 to do early planning for the National Farm Youth Safety Congress for 1960. The group elected me to serve as the national chairman for the coming year. I will go to Chicago next week to represent the FFA in several programs at the Safety Congress.

I attended the Delaware Convention on May 1st. The impressive Awards Banquet was the climax of their convention. Even though the membership is small, the association can be proud of their work and accomplishments.

On May 12th-14th I took part in the New York State Convention where over 1200 members were in attendance. The Public Speaking, Parliamentary Procedure and Farm Forum Contest were outstanding. The Foundation Awards program climaxed an interesting convention.

I was much impressed by the Rhode Island Convention. The program was effective even though the FFA membership is relatively small and the meeting lasted only one day.

During June 14th-16th I attended my home State Convention. The State Band and Chorus added much to the convention. Their mass meeting with the Future Homemakers of America added much color and interest to the program.

I participated in the Maine Convention on June 21st-23rd. The facilities for this convention were good. The Awards Banquet and program brought out many highlights of excellent FFA work.

The officers of the New Jersey Convention performed in a commendable manner. I was also impressed by the emphasis this group placed on the public speaking contest. The Association had many representatives of business and industry visit their meetings which were climaxed by an Awards Program in an open theatre on June 30th.

July 11th took me to Connecticut where the conduct of the FFA members and also the well-planned convention program were impressive. The Vermont Convention was July 12th-13th. I highly commend this association for their State Star Farmer Ceremony.

I attended the second joint meeting of the Board of Student Officers and Board of Directors July 24th to August 2nd. We National Officers discussed the State Conventions we had attended and also spent time reviewing the applications for American Farmer Degrees. We did considerable planning for the National Convention.

During September, Jim Thomas and I participated in the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Massachusetts. The FFA Chapters from the New England area had many outstanding chapter exhibits, an excellent pageant and a fine evening show given before thousands of spectators. The support of friends of the FFA was heart warming.

A long time ambition was fulfilled when I was selected to work with Dick at the National Cattle Judging Contests. The support given to this phase of our program is most gratifying. There are many outstanding FFA members in dairy farming. We can be justly proud of the achievements of many departments of vocational agriculture in their showing and participation at the Waterloo Show.

This has been a wonderful year! I owe much to Mr. J. C. Fink, State Advisor, his staff and my chapter advisors. I shall always cherish the friendship of my fellow officers. I wish them the best of everything in the future.

I want to express gratitude to my parents for their advice and for the many sacrifices they have made for me. The love and encouragement of my wife, Rosene, has helped make my duties as a national officer easier.

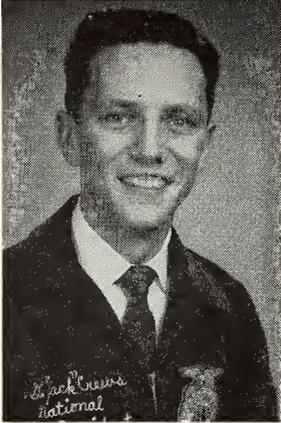

I thank my Father in Heaven for his guidance and protection while I have served as a national officer.

Fellow Future Farmers, I would like to say I have never been prouder than when I wore the blue and gold jacket of our FFA organization. Remember, only you can make the FFA worthy of your highest ambition. I am confident that you can and will continue to make it the finest farm boy organization in the world. May God's richest blessing guide our organization in the future.

DEAN HOFFER,
Vice President—
North Atlantic Region

Report of the Vice President—Pacific Region

Fellow Future Farmers, little did I realize that being on this stage twelve months ago would be the beginning of the most rewarding year of my life. Yes, hopes and dreams of many years had come true. With deep pride and humbleness I have worn this blue and gold jacket of the Future Farmers of America.

L. G. JACK CREWS
*Vice President
Pacific Region*

The first high light of the year was when I represented the Future Farmers of America at the National Grange Convention and the California State Grange Convention in California.

January 16th and 17th I participated in FFA activities at the National Western Stock Show in Denver and attended the Junior Exhibitors Banquet and the annual Awards Breakfast.

Three days later the national officers met in Washington, D. C. for a period of Leadership Training and the meetings of the National Board of Directors and the National Board of Student Officers. We left the Capitol city on February 1st on the annual Good Will Tour.

My first State convention was in Oregon on March 16th-18th. The officers and delegates did a commendable job in demonstrating correct parliamentary procedure and made the best possible use of committees. The Parliamentary Procedure and Public Speaking Contests were excellent.

I was certainly proud to attend my home State convention on March 25th and 26th. It was good to see the proper dress and sharp appearance of the delegates and the big percentage of the members in attendance. Good demonstrations and training sessions held the boys' interest.

I arrived in Idaho on March 30th. The use of a convention theme and a colorful Star State Farmer ceremony added a lot to their program.

Several Parent and Son Banquets and work at the ranch kept me busy during April.

On May 4th, Jim Thomas and I met on a plane enroute to the California Convention. I was impressed with the Vespers Program, and the good manners and conduct of the large delegation spoke well for FFA training. The recognition received by the Award winners at the outstanding Awards Banquet served as an inspiration to all of Future Farmers.

Jim returned to Cheyenne with me and after a few days on the ranch, we traveled to Colorado and participated in several leadership training functions.

The Montana Convention began June 1st. Here I was impressed with the way that the Star State Green hand Award was used to its full educational value. A written test, interview, and the scope of the individuals supervised farming program were used as criteria for the award. The well planned Awards Banquet was a fitting climax for a successful convention.

At the Colorado Convention, I was impressed by the excellent meeting facilities as well as the artistic job of decorating the auditorium for the convention. The smooth running program was highlighted by a color slide review of the 1959 National Leadership Training Conference held in Washington, D. C.

With the Colorado Convention ending June 8th and the New Mexico Convention beginning the same day I had close plane connections. In Albuquerque I found a most congenial group of Future Farmers. The State staff, officers, and delegates did a wonderful job of making me feel at home. The fellowship displayed by all was certainly commendable.

On June 12th, I flew to Nevada where I witnessed a well-run, business-like convention. The fellows found time for some fine organized recreational tournaments. I was impressed by the excellent Leadership Symposium.

Following the July National Board meetings we national officers were very fortunate to go yachting with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Foss Wilson, Assistant Secretary of HEW. Their ship-board hospitality really made we landlubbers feel right at home.

The Arizona Convention held August 16th-18th, made excellent use of pageantry, spot lights, and narration to give proper recognition to the various award winners and other phases of an interesting program.

Fellow Future Farmers, in a few days I will be hanging my jacket in the closet as a fond keepsake. However, I shall always wear it in my heart. As I conclude this National Vice President's report, a deep feeling of humility and gratitude comes over me for your allowing me to serve you as a national officer. I owe much to many for helping me perform my duties, especially an understanding Mom and Dad.

Keep in mind the high ideals and principles of our organization and may I remind you that the Future Farmers of America is yours, together with its opportunities and richly rewarding experiences. May God bless and watch over all of you.

L. G. JACK CREWS,
Vice President—Pacific Region

Report of the National Executive Secretary

Wm. Paul Gray

Each year, we pause at our National Convention to review briefly the fine work being done by our organization. We point with pride to the accomplishments we have made and the records that are being set by our members in farming, community service, leadership and other areas of training which our members are receiving through systematic instruction in vocational agriculture. Members of the FFA, teachers of vocational agriculture, State Staffs in agricultural education, and members of the staff of the U. S. Office of Education have all worked side by side in helping the FFA obtain our worthy objectives. We also recognize the many contributions to our program that have been made by friends of business and organizations.

Officer Travel

It has been said that the responsibilities assumed by your national officers become greater each year. They have devoted considerable time to performing their duties; it is hoped the service rendered to the organization has pleased you and will result in greater accomplishments in years ahead. Each national officer has traveled many, many thousands of miles and has spoken to thousands of FFA members, teachers and others interested in our organization. Each officer will report more specifically to you regarding the scope of his travels and what he has attempted to achieve for you fellows.

State Conventions

Each State held a convention during the past year. 47 of these State Conventions were attended by a national officer. Each officer visited from 6 to 12 States. The reports on these conventions indicate good attendance and high interest, as well as providing greater opportunity for member planning and participation. Significant contributions are being made at many of these meetings to recognize achievement by both individuals and chapters, and donors to the National FFA Foundation.

Leadership Training

It is encouraging to note that an increasing number of members are being provided greater participating experience in activities that promote and develop agricultural leadership. State Associations held special schools to provide leadership training to members of 5,344 chapters. Many States are using the outgoing officers to orientate and provide leadership training to new officers. During the past year 17 State Associations operated State camps where many members were offered excellent training in leadership, citizenship and the FFA.

The Future Farmer Building

Ground was broken for our FFA Building on July 24th, 1956; it was dedicated on July 24th, 1959 and the debt on this $350,000 building was paid in full in December, 1959. This beautiful brick building of Colonial architecture is located on 33 acres of land that was once part of George Washington's estate. The grounds have been beautifully landscaped and fenced. We can be justly proud of our new building which is already operating to capacity. It is apparent that an addition will be needed in the near future.

The National Future Farmer Magazine

We are pleased with the services being rendered by our Magazine. You have indicated your interest in the magazine by your continued increase in the number of subscriptions and the rise in the number of States with 100% of their members subscribing. We congratulate every local chapter and State Association that has 100% of its membership subscribing to the magazine.

The FFA Official Calendar

Progress is going forward very satisfactorily in the promotion of our FFA Calendars. We are proud of the untiring effort on the part of the entire staff to develop this activity, which is proving invaluable in the promotion of FFA, the improvement of public relations, and also a means of fund raising for local chapters. The attractive display at the convention tells a convincing story.

The Future Farmers Supply Service

The Future Farmers Supply Service has continued to grow in business and has provided good service to the members during the past year. However, it has not lost sight of the importance of quality and price to its members. The entire staff has done an excellent job. Please visit the Supply Service display booth in the Little Theater.

FFA Foundation, Inc. Awards Program

The FFA Foundation, Inc. has continued to make available many outstanding awards to FFA members. You will be pleased to learn all the application forms have been revised and simplified; also the scope of the Awards Program has been expanded to include Crop Farming, Livestock Farming, Poultry Farming and Farm Forestry. We have many visitors who are donors to the National FFA Foundation at our convention; these men will be platform guests at the Wednesday's night session. The FFA Foundation awards will be presented during the Thursday evening session at a colorful ceremony.

National Chapter Award Program

The State Associations are showing increasing interest and making excellent use of the National Chapter Award Program. When this program was adopted in 1954 we had only 99 applications. We are pleased that 129 chapters made application this year. A review of many of these fine reports from State Associations indicate excellent use is made of these awards to promote and strengthen the total educational program in vocational agriculture. The use of the new Superior Chapter Award Plaque for States, and the emphasis placed on recognizing the National Gold Emblem Chapters at this year's convention, indicates the importance of the chapter program of work to vocational agriculture.

International Educational Exchange Programs

Immediately following last year's convention, Norman Brown, National FFA Secretary—1958-59, represented the FFA and the U. S. Department of State on a goodwill tour of the Far East where he participated in the 10th Annual Convention of the Future Farmers of Japan. Norman displayed outstanding leadership ability, knowledge of farming and sincere friendliness as he met and spoke with thousands of rural youth on Taiwan, FFA members on the islands of the Philippines and vocational agriculture students in Thailand. His visit to this country was very bountiful, resulting in the organization of the Future Farmers of Thailand. Two FFA Chapters were visited on Guam. Here, Norman observed great interest, enthusiasm and effort by the Guamanians in their FFA activities.

Vice President Joe Hughes was the national officer representing the FFA at the U. S. Information Agency's Exhibition on American Youth in West Berlin during September. Joe participated with a 4-H representative in an informative and worthwhile exhibit on American Farm Youth. He had a thrilling experience telling thousands of Germans about the FFA and American agriculture. We can all be proud of both Norman and Joe as goodwill ambassadors and of their contribution to peace and the fight against communism.

We Look To The Future

It is stimulating to look back and review our past accomplishments. It is also interesting and beneficial to look to the future. May we continue to improve ourselves and our organization through setting high goals and accepting real challenges. One challenge is to increase our membership. All students who are enrolled in vocational agriculture should be encouraged to become members.

As an organization, we have much to gain through revising and reorganizing our programs of work on a local, State and National level. Committees are working on this at this convention and we hope it results in greater use of all for strengthening our organization.

Let us all meet the challenge of having 100% of our members subscribing to the National FUTURE FARMER. We can be justly proud of our magazine because it offers us an excellent opportunity to exchange ideas on FFA and learn what other members are doing. It is also read by hundreds of rural youth in friendly nations who are learning much about America and especially about FFA activities. This is resulting in the organization and strengthening of many Future Farmer groups in these countries and helping to broaden the bond of friendship and understanding among the rural youth of the Free World.

Another challenge should be the recognition and use of the Official FFA Calendar by ALL our chapters as one of our finest activities in promoting FFA and developing good public relations.

Finally, let us all work together so the FFA will move forward in all areas and activities so that new records will be broken in establishment in farming, development of competent, rural leadership and accomplishments in cooperation and community service.

Report of the National Treasurer

R. E. BASS

Mr. President and Members of the Future Farmers of America:

It is a pleasure to serve as your National Treasurer and report to you on the financial status of your organization. Proceedings of the Convention will carry a detailed audited financial statement for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1960.

At this time it would seem appropriate, therefore, rather than reciting a lot of figures, to give you a brief explanation of the financial set-up of your Organization—where the money comes from and where it goes—and to summarize the financial status of the national association.

There are four major areas of financial accounting:

- (a) The future Farmers of America
- (b) The Future Farmers of America Foundation, Inc.
- (c) The Future Farmers Supply Service
- (d) The National Future Farmer Magazine

I should like to explain that my job is Director of Vocational Education with the State Board of Education in Richmond, Virginia. The FFA Treasurer's office, however, is located in Woodstock, Virginia, where Mrs. Pauline Coiner, Secretary to the National Treasurer, keeps the books and records of the Future Farmers of America and the FFA Foundation. (The Future Farmers Supply Service and the National Future Farmer Magazine are wholly owned by the FFA Organization and operate under the general direction of the FFA Board of Directors. However, accounts and records for these two operations are kept separate from the general FFA funds and their books are separately audited.)

Funds of the FFA and the FFA Foundation are maintained in separate accounts in the Shenandoah Valley National Bank in Winchester, Virginia. A separate set of books is kept for each organization—the FFA and the Foundation, with separate bank accounts. The fiscal year of the FFA Foundation corresponds to the calendar year, whereas the fiscal year of the Future Farmers of America extends from July 1 to the following June 30. Both Mrs. Coiner and I are bonded in an amount sufficient to protect the funds in our care; the accounts of the FFA and the FFA Foundation are audited annually by Certified Public Accountants; a copy of the audit is reported to the Boards of FFA and the Foundation, and every safeguard is exercised in handling the funds of your organization.

The Future Farmers of America receives its income from dues of members, royalties on merchandise bearing the FFA emblem, rent on the FFA Building, and royalties and grants from the Future Farmers Supply Service. Expenses consist primarily of travel of the national officers and Board of Directors, national office expense, and national convention.

The FFA Foundation receives its income from the contributions of more than 300 donors to the Foundation. So far since January 1 of this year, more than $158,000.00 has been received in contributions. You may be interested to know that since the Foundation was set up in 1944, $2,206,294.11 has been contributed by business organizations and individuals. Expenses of the Foundation consist of achievement awards paid to Vo-Ag student members of the FFA Association, plus a small amount, approximately 6% for administration.

The Future Farmer Supply Service gets its income from merchandise sold to FFA members, and its expenses consist of the cost of merchandise, operation of the Supply Service and rent of the FFA Building.

Receipts for the Magazine come from subscriptions and advertising and expenses go for editing, printing, mailing and rent of office space in the FFA Building.

In total, the Organization, including the FFA, the FFA Foundation, the Future Farmers Supply Service, and the Future Farmer Magazine, have total assets of $1,491,891.69; Liabilities of $147,456.09, and a net worth of $1,344,435.60.

The foregoing figures represent the status of the Organization at the end of the last fiscal year. Since July 1, the following represents the financial status of the FFA account:

Balance on hand—July 1, 1960.....	$48,737.45
Receipts—July 1 through September 30, 1960.....	7,070.03
	<hr/>
	$55,807.48
Expenditures—July 1 through September 30, 1960....	23,092.91
Balance on hand—September 30, 1960.....	$32,714.57

In summary, your Organization is in sound financial condition which I believe is a tribute to the policy directed by the National Board of Student Officers and Directors, and the management by Dr. W. T. Spanton, National Advisor, and Mr. Wm. Paul Gray, your Executive Secretary.

Report of the National Treasurer

July 15, 1960

Officers and Directors,
 Future Farmers of America,
 Washington, D. C.

Gentlemen:

We have examined the balance sheet of Future Farmers of America as of June 30, 1960, and the related statements of revenue and expenditures and of cash receipts and disbursements of the general fund, which were prepared on the basis of cash receipts and disbursements from the books of account of R. E. Bass, Treasurer. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the assets and liabilities of Future Farmers of America at June 30, 1960, arising from cash transactions or contributions, and the revenues collected and expenses disbursed by it during the year then ended, on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,
 LEACH, CALKINS & SCOTT
Certified Public Accountants

OTHER FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Accountants' Report on Other Financial Information

The audited financial statements of Future Farmers of America, Washington, D. C., and our opinion thereon are presented in the preceding section of this report. We have previously examined and reported on the statements for the prior year.

The information presented in the following pages has been subjected to audit tests as a part of the auditing procedures followed in our examination of the basic financial statements. In our opinion, the information is fairly presented in all respects which are material in relation to the basic financial statements, taken as a whole; however, it is not considered necessary for a fair presentation of the financial position and results of operations.

Respectfully submitted,

Explanatory Comments

CASH IN BANK was verified by direct correspondence with the depository and reconciliation of the balance reported with the amount shown by the books. All recorded cash receipts were traced to the record of their deposit in bank, and all disbursements through the bank account were evidenced by properly executed, cancelled checks, with the exception of checks outstanding at June 30, 1960. The addition of the cash books was verified by us.

LOAN RECEIVABLE was confirmed by direct correspondence with the debtor. This account represents amounts advanced to "The National Future Farmer" as follows:

Cash advances.....	$36,786.20
Expenses paid.....	7,713.80

TOTAL.....	$44,500.00

The foregoing cash advances were made to the magazine in prior years.

PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENT were revalued on June 15, 1959, and are stated on the balance sheet at their estimated fair market values at that date plus subsequent additions at cost.

SURPLUS is analyzed in the balance sheet.

STAR AMERICAN FARMERS

Sam B. McDonald, Star Farmer, Southern Region, Tennessee Association. Arden Uhler, Star Farmer of America, Nebraska Association. Jerrald Duayne Truax, Star Farmer, Pacific Region, Colorado Association. Charles A. Sargent, Star Farmer, North Atlantic Region, Vermont Association.

Since 1929, Star Farmers have been selected annually from the American Farmer Candidates who receive the degree at the time of the National Convention. A check for $1,000 went to the Star Farmer of America, and checks for $500 were given to the other three Star Farmers.

The records of the candidates were reviewed by the following individuals:

Edward Foss Wilson, Assistant Secretary of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Washington, D. C.; Clark W. Davis,

General Manager of the duPont Company's Industrial and Biochemicals Department, Wilmington, Delaware; Russell DeYoung, President of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio; Frank W. Jenks, President of International Harvester Company, Chicago, Illinois; Wheeler McMillen, Vice President of Farm Journal, Inc., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Roderick Turnbull, Editor of The Weekly Star Farmer, Kansas City, Missouri; J. C. Denton, President of Spencer Chemical Company, Kansas City, Missouri; Irving Duffy, Group Vice President of Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Michigan; Bruce Lourie, Vice President of Deer & Company, Moline, Illinois, and Raymond C. Firestone, President of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio.

ARDEN UHLIR

Star Farmer of America

The Star Farmer of America operates a 640 acre livestock and grain farm in northeastern Nebraska, raising registered Hereford cattle, Landrace hogs, grain, hay, and pasture.

Arden rents the farm from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto W. Uhlir, who operate another farm in the community. Father and son swap use of machinery. Arden was married early this summer to his high school sweetheart. The young couple has done much repairing, painting, and furnishing the old house on the farm for their home.

Arden's beginning in vocational agriculture was small. His first year's supervised farming program consisted of three head of Herefords, three sows and litters, and 15 acres of corn. By the time he was a senior Arden had 16 Hereford cows, 6 heifers and 5 bulls, 8 registered Landrace sows with their litters, 4 dairy heifers, 125 acres in corn, oats, and sorghum, 40 acres of alfalfa, and 20 acres of hay. His total labor income for the first four years of farming was $12,745.

His farming program this year includes 20 sows, 78 head of registered Herefords, 6 fattening steers, 67 acres of alfalfa, 65 acres of oats, 65 acres of corn, 90 acres of hay, and 10 acres of sudan. He also keeps 5 dairy cattle for home milk supply and skim milk for pigs. The beef cattle are run on 320 acres of pasture he rents.

During six years, Arden's total labor income from farming has been $24,748, plus earnings of $1,874 from other sources. Most of this has been plowed back into expansion of his farming program. In his American Farmer degree application he listed the value of his livestock at $15,080, and machinery and equipment at $5,265. Other properties brought his total assets to $25,307. Subtracting liabilities of $328 left his net worth at $24,979.

Last year, he and his father built a new 10-sow farrowing house that has a concrete floor and is equipped with individual farrowing pens. Arden also has a 40-bushel self-feeder that he built in the Verdigre High School farm shop.

He has brought 160 acres under a soil conservation program, renovated and improved the pastures, improved the farm driveway, repaired and painted buildings, and repaired or built many fences.

Arden has an excellent record of leadership in the FFA and his home community. In 1957, he was named Star State Farmer in Nebraska, then was elected State FFA president for 1958-59. This past summer at National Guard camp he won an outstanding soldier award.

Arden continues his interest in the study of agriculture, having participated for the past two years in the young farmer and adult farmer classes conducted at Verdigre High School by the present vocational agriculture instructor, Ted D. Ward.

National Chapter Award Program

One hundred and twenty-nine Future Farmers of America local chapters were honored at the 33rd National Convention in Kansas City during the presentation of awards in the organization's National Chapter Award Program.

The National FFA Chapter Award Program, conducted annually by the organization, is designed to encourage and reward chapter effort, stimulate group action among members, and to encourage improvement in local chapter programs of work. Both the interest shown and the actual accomplishments over a period of years give ample evidence of the effectiveness of this event. The Award Program has been a valuable aid in stimulating both individual and cooperative effort and in crystalizing chapter programs of work into a series of worthwhile undertakings.

Chapters were grouped into Gold Emblem, Silver Emblem, and Bronze Emblem classifications, according to their records of accomplishment in supervised farming, cooperative activities, community service, leadership activities, earnings and savings by members, conduct of meetings, scholarship of members, recreation and participation in State and National Activities.

Each chapter in the contest was rated Superior, and had been selected by the State to be entered in the national competition. Winners receiving an emblem rating for the first time were given plaques.

NATIONAL CHAPTER AWARDS

One hundred and twenty-nine local chapters received awards. The top "Gold Emblem" rating was awarded to sixty-seven chapters. Silver Emblem awards went to forty-four chapters, and Bronze Emblem received by eighteen.

Others received spurs to place on plaques, previously awarded. The one hundred and twenty-nine chapters in the national contest represent the best from the Future Farmers of America's 8,759 local chapters. The winning chapters, listed by States, follow:

Public Speaking Contest

The Annual National FFA Public Speaking Contest was first made possible in 1930 through the interest and generosity of the late Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas who for two years sponsored the event and offered prizes. From 1932 until 1944 the national organization of Future Farmers of America was the sponsor. Since 1944, Future Farmers of America Foundation, Inc., has provided local, State, and national awards for the contest.

The Thirty-first National FFA Public Speaking Contest took place in the Main Arena of the Municipal Auditorium on Thursday, October 13, 1960. The five finalists placing in the order indicated were:

1. Dennis H. Wood, Molalla, Oregon—"Your Future in a Growing America"; $250 cash award.
2. Jack Terry Peeples, Jr., Coffeeville, Mississippi—"Credit—A Farm Tool"; $225 cash award.
3. Daniel McMillan, Wailuku, Hawaii—"Fight to preserve our Forests"; $200 cash award.
4. James G. Felt, Brooking, South Dakota—"Our Greatest National Resource"; $165 cash award.
5. Carl F. Joslin, Boonville, New York—"Bovine Mastitis—A Major American Problem"; $150 cash award.

Each contestant was the author of his own speech, having studied his subject, prepared the draft and practiced its delivery. Each speech represented original thought and original work on the part of the contestants, with coaching on composition and delivery limited, by the rules of the contest, to facilities of the school from which the contestant came. Each boy was at liberty to choose any current subject of an agricultural character.

The contest was judged by three competent persons. Prior to the contest the judges were furnished with typewritten copies of the contestants' productions which they read and graded on content and composition. At the contest the judges scored each contestant. A maximum of 300 points was allowed for the written production and 700 points for delivery. Questions were asked by the judges to test each contestant on his ability to think on his feet and on general knowledge of his subject.

Your Future In A Growing America

By—Dennis H. Wood, Molalla, Oregon

Emerson once said, "Most of the shadows of this life are caused by standing in our own sunshine". Today, you and I, as Future Farmers are standing in the sunlight of a new era in agriculture. Many of us, looking into a deepening shadow of our present farm situation, are seeking an answer to a question of great importance to each of us individually. The question? Shall we consider agriculture as a lifetime occupation?

We have been told many times by people who are not in sympathy with the plight of our farmer, that agriculture has no future. I say to these people, you are standing in sunshine and looking into your own shadow! Agriculture does have a future, a very bright future.

Looking forward into that future we see many rays of sunlight. Expanded markets because of expanding American and world populations is one such ray of light. Experts predict that the population in the United States will increase to 230 million or more people by 1975; by the year 2000, the population will be around 330 million and by the year 2050, it will be between 400 million and one billion people! The world population is now estimated at 2.7 billion people. It will be an estimated five billion in fifty years.

The question of markets for agricultural products soon will change from "How can we get rid of our surplus?" to "Where can we get enough food for our people?" The farmer, five years ago, produced enough food for himself and seventeen other people. Today a farmer produces enough food for himself and twenty-three others. However, unless the efficiency of our farmer continues to improve, the problem may soon be the scarcity of food instead of surplus.

It is estimated that in a short fifteen years a farmer must produce 58% more beef, 41% more pork, 40% more milk, 35% more eggs and 18% more poultry in addition to that which we are already consuming.

It is also estimated that America may be able to add only twenty-five million acres to her total cropland base. This means that of the 58% increase needed in beef production by 1975, 47% must come from greater yields and increased efficiency!

The second ray of light in your future is the confidence each of us possesses that America will meet the challenge of its agricultural problems. We will produce enough food for our growing population and we will surmount the surplus problem. Extensive studies by the United States Department of Agriculture suggests these methods of meeting increased production demands of the future:

(1) Advanced technology—resulting in better methods of producing new and better foods and fibers from our land. (This advanced technology would stem directly from experimental work of more than one quarter million agricultural scientists.) When we look into the future of crop and livestock industries, we find both crop varieties and breeds of livestock are constantly being improved. Hybrid and improved varieties of crops which provide greater yields, endure drought, short growing seasons and other poor climatic conditions are being developed and made more dependable. New and improved breeds of livestock, which are better able to withstand insect and disease attacks and heat or cold are being released by experiment stations. In fact, practically all domestic plant and animal life is being improved through extensive research. Because of these improvements, the growing millions of Americans in the future will be fed. Indeed we are entering a new era in the field of agriculture.

(2) Greater efficiency—resulting in higher yields, more meat, milk and eggs per pound of feed, and greater output per man.

Engineering advances are bringing many time and labor saving devices and opportunities to our farmers. Power has taken the place of hand labor giving the farmer more leisure time. Poor equipment, and a great deal of hand labor are as far out of place in today's agriculture as the Model T is on the highway. Keeping pace with modern agriculture is a matter of profit or loss. New ideas, good farm management, and the realization that farming is a business can remedy these things and tip the scales in favor of farming. We cannot get the most profitable combination by guessing—good records and book-keeping must be used. Those who do keep up with the technological progress will succeed.

A third ray of light in the picture of agriculture for young men today is the basic importance of farming and agriculture in our complex society. Students who are sincerely interested in agriculture will surely make the grade, whether it be as a farmer, or a professional agricultural scientist, or in a related agricultural occupation.

Look at these figures! Of sixty-two million employed Americans, twenty-five million work somewhere in agriculture. Directly or indirectly, America's four and one-half million farms provide jobs for 40% of America's total working forces—jobs with a future, jobs with financial and personal rewards. As long as we eat, wear clothes and live in houses there will be jobs in agriculture. For we, as farmers, are partners with all our people in America's progress. We as Americans are all partners in agriculture.

There are actually five hundred distinct occupations in the eight major agricultural fields. Recent surveys indicate that these eight fields would and could employ 15,000 college graduates each year, if 15,000 college graduates with agricultural training were available.

At present, our land grant colleges supply only 8,500 young men and women each year in agricultural sciences. This means that every agricultural college graduate has at least two job opportunities. Where else can you find more opportunity, more challenge, more possibility for success?

Another ray of light in our future concerns each of us personally. We, as Future Farmers, have something valuable, something that gives us a big headstart toward a fine future. Right now we are well ahead of those who lack what we have—our farm background, our specialized experience, skills, education and training in agriculture. Many young men will remain on the farm and satisfy a need which our nation will always have for efficient productive farmers. Others will not find it possible to remain on the farm for various reasons. But they still may find an excellent career in agriculture by making use of their farm background. We can look forward to a brighter future by building on our priceless farm heritage.

We, as Future Farmers, look forward to the rising sun as a token of a new era in agriculture. I believe that all of our people, together, must have this attitude if we are to maintain and improve our present standard of living. We must look forward and comprehend our problems. With the possibility of a population of one billion people in America, we cannot stand still!

The American farm of the future will be a new type of farm. It will be managed by a new type of farmer. Each day, advanced agricultural technology is entering our lives. We must make use of the improvements and the increased efficiency which they provide. Farming is important! It is as big and as important as any other industry today. It is the backbone and sinew of our great nation. We, as farmers, feed and clothe a growing America and our products provide employment for twenty-five million of our fellow Americans. Be thankful and glad that you are going to be a farmer and a trained agricultural specialist!

NATIONAL FFA JUDGING CONTEST

First place winners in the National FFA Judging and Identification Contests were recognized this year. All other teams and individuals were grouped in either Gold Emblem, Silver Emblem, Bronze Emblem, Honorable Mention or Participation classification. Trophies were awarded first place teams, and appropriate plaques given to teams placing in the Gold, Silver and Bronze Emblem group. Certificates were awarded to Honorable Mention and Participation teams. Medals were awarded Gold, Silver and Bronze Emblem individuals. In addition each participating team received a cash travel award provided by the Future Farmers of America Foundation, Inc.

Many persons made valuable contributions to the outstanding success of the 1960 National Convention of Future Farmers of America. Organizing and conducting such an event is a cooperative activity embodying the work of leaders from many segments of the FFA, and by many persons outside our organization.

First, special commendation is due the members from throughout the United States who attended the convention. Their conduct in Kansas City was exemplary and in the finest tradition that the Future Farmer is always a Gentleman. The impression that each individual FFA member imparts to others determines the respect that is accorded the organization. Although it seems there always must be a few members whose appearance and conduct leave something to be desired, they are in such minority, that the overall impression left with our friends in Kansas City is good, meriting continuing enthusiastic support for the annual return of the FFA convention.

Thanks are due, also, to the national officers who did such a splendid job of conducting the convention, much work was involved in their preparations; to the members and advisors of the Courtesy Corps who provided aid and timely advice to those who needed it; to the Ushers who assisted valuably in arranging seating for special guests and maintaining order; to the members and leaders of the National FFA band and FFA Talent whose untiring work contributed substantially to the interest in the convention program; to the guest speakers, foreign guests and other outstanding individuals who added interest and inspiration to the program; to those State Advisors, executive secretaries, and other leaders who helped with the various programs, committee work, the press room, contests and awards program, and the arrangements for FFA programs in Kansas City meetings of Civic Clubs and other groups.

More than fifty persons attended the convention to report the activities by radio, television, newspaper or farm magazine. The major news services, Associated Press and United Press International gave full word and picture coverage. Many State associations brought special exhibits. Breakfasts, luncheons, dinners and entertainment, were provided by several business and industrial concerns. The Kansas City Chamber of Commerce and the Kansas City Advisory Committee provided valuable assistance with the programs and making facilities available. The "tie-in" of the Convention with the American Royal Live Stock and Horse Show added to the educational value of this FFA National meeting. The largest representation of Donors to the FFA Foundation, Inc., at a National Convention denotes great interest of adult leaders in farm youth activities.

To all of these we are grateful.
