FFA ALUMNI/FFA FOUNDATION RELATIONSHIP

American Agriculture for centuries has been the backbone of America. In the early 1900's, agriculture saw the need for a youth organization. . .a youth organization dedicated to preserving rural life and rural living.

AMERICAN AGRICULTURE

From the agricultural base rose the FFA in 1928. The FFA can be compared to a table, because farmers provide the very essence of life, "the food for the table", of this country. The FFA is shown as a table since it symbolizes a family, a place of growing and giving thanks. As the FFA grew, it needed more support.

In 1944, business and industry set up the National FFA Foundation to strengthen the FFA by providing increasing financial support--support now totaling $900,000 each year.

FFA HONORS PROGRAM

In a quandry? Need to know the best way to honor a retiring agricultural instructor or others of importance to your local FFA? Why not try a National FFA Honors Program! Through the National FFA Foundation, you can conduct a local honors campaign with a minimum of time and effort. You can provide permanent national recognition, and you can receive funds to provide a local honor. In order to conduct a well organized honors program, allow 3 to 4 months preparation time. If you, or your Alumni group, would like information on this new innovative program, please contact the National FFA Foundation, P.O. Box 5117, Madison, WI 53705.

In 1971, the FFA Alumni was started because of the need for more support. The FFA Alumni with over 13,000 members is becoming another vital supporting leg of the FFA.

Further strengthening of the table is possible. In 1978, the FFA Alumni and the FFA Foundation will launch programs which will be cooperative and help cross-brace the FFA table.

State FFA Alumni councils received packets at the National FFA Alumni Convention explaining this program in full. If your affiliate has not received information, please contact your state president or the National Office.

EXECUTIVE SPONSOR PROGRAM

Executive Sponsors are a growing and elite group of individuals who in their own name annually invest $100 in the future of America. Besides making a positive impact on the FFA, the FFA Alumni, and future agriculturists, the Executive Sponsor is recognized when a personalized teaching unit is provided in his/her name to a vocational agriculture department of their choice. The FFA Alumni will share in the contributions received which will allow the development of more support programs for the FFA. See page 3 of this newsletter for more information on this new program.

YOUR ALUMNI PRESIDENT SPEAKS

What is your I.Q.? Have you had it checked recently? Don't be alarmed. I am not suggesting that each of us take a periodic intelligence test, but I am suggesting that we measure our "Involvement Quotient" - our I.Q. in relation to involvement in and promotion of the FFA Alumni Association's activities.

Our basic challenge in 1978 is to Build Alumni Support for Vocational Agriculture and the FFA. I identified this as my personal goal or objective at the conclusion of our Sixth Annual Convention in Kansas City. How do we build this support base for the FFA? It will come about only through continued personal commitment and involvement.

The opportunities for expanding our individual "Involvement Quotients" are many. First of all, we must expand our Alumni membership base. Membership in the FFA Alumni Association could be doubled or tripled easily in 1978 if each of us were to personally gain one, two, or three new members.

Secondly, FFA Alumni involvement at the local level - supporting your community's Vo-Ag program and the FFA Chapter presents numerous opportunities as demonstrated so dramatically by many active affiliate programs over the country. All it takes is your personal involvement and creative action.

Thirdly, the FFA Alumni Association has embarked upon an existing partnership relationship with the National FFA Foundation to support the FFA. My personal goal for the Alumni Association is to obtain at least 600 new executive sponsors this year. A bold objective, you say. Yes, it is, but that number is less than the number of affiliates nationally. Putting it in that light, the objective is, I believe, a realistic one. Vigorous promotion of the Executive Sponsor Program outlined elsewhere in this newsletter will not only help to assure the financial stability of the FFA Alumni Association but will do much to support the FFA in line with our basic objectives. To further enhance our partnership with the Foundation, we also have the opportunity of becoming actively involved by encouraging and supporting both through our local affiliates and state associations, the Foundation's Memorial, Honors Recognition, and Endowment programs.

Finally, what will be the measure of your "I.Q.", your "Involvement Quotient", when next we meet in convention in Kansas City? The challenge is great and the opportunities are many, but expansion of our support programs will only come to pass when each of us become actively "involved."

EXECUTIVE SPONSOR

A Program of the National FFA Foundation, Inc. in cooperation with the National FFA Alumni Association

The new approach in 1978 - new for the FFA Alumni and new for the FFA Foundation - is a joint effort to support the FFA in a special way during the 50th Anniversary.

The FFA Alumni, as a special project of the FFA Foundation, offers unlimited opportunities to expand the FFA Executive Sponsor Program in support of both the FFA and the FFA Alumni. The goal is to secure 200 new executive sponsors this year. The FFA Alumni will receive $42.00 of each Executive Sponsorship which will be used to expand FFA Alumni programs such as the FFA Leadership Workshops.

Help the FFA and the FFA Alumni secure new executive sponsors. You may want to help celebrate the FFA's 50th birthday by becoming an Executive Sponsor. Please mail to the FFA Foundation, P.O. Box 5117, Madison, Wisconsin 53705. (Additional brochures are available from the National FFA Alumni Office.)

DO YOU FEEL THE SAME AS JOHN?

A Letter from John Arneson, State FFA President, Wisconsin

Enclosed is my check that will qualify me as an Executive Sponsor of the National FFA Foundation. As I have often said before, I have received so much more from the FFA than I can ever repay.

We, as officers and members of the organization, should do more than talk about its programs, opportunities, and benefits. We should show our belief by our actions. This is also why I am a life member of the FFA Alumni.

I can never repay in full the FFA. The money is a token of my belief.

THE VO-AG TEACHER SHORTAGE—IS IT REAL?

By Dr. Ted D. Ward; Consultant
Agricultural Education, Nebraska

A subject common to Supervisors of Agricultural Education, Teacher Educators of Agriculture, and Vocational Agriculture Instructors is the shortage of Vo-Ag Instructors.

During recent years, we have observed a shortage of Vo-Ag Instructors in various areas of the United States; however, the last two years have been noted for the unfilled vacancies existing across the breadth of our great nation.

This past fall, AGRI EDUCATOR gathered information from forty-seven of the State Supervisors of Agricultural Education relative to the immediate status of vocational agriculture programs in the states. A summary of these findings revealed a total of 12,536 Vo-Ag teaching positions. A total of 1,794 teaching positions have become vacant during this past summer. At the time of the AGRI EDUCATOR telephone survey, there remained 302 unfilled positions.

After reviewing the information provided by the State Supervisors, one can conclude that the shortage IS REAL and will be REAL once again in 1978-79.

What can you, an FFA Alumni member and/or affiliate, do to help eliminate the shortage of Vo-Ag Instructors? I offer three suggestions:

You could visit with your local school administrators and members of the school district governing board and explain to these individuals the status of Vo-Ag turnover and encourage their support and cooperation in retaining their qualified instructor(s).

You could assist your Vo-Ag Instructor(s) in developing a sound Vo-Ag Instructor recruitment program.

You could provide a scholarship for students who are attending colleges and majoring in Agricultural Education.

CHARTER FFA MEMBERS

Charter FFA members were hosted during the 50th Anniversary Convention in Kansas City by the FFA Alumni. The thirty-four Charter FFA members attending the convention joined in a celebration reunion which included a special breakfast sponsored by the Kansas City Board of Trade. Dr. A. W. Each charter member was recognized before the FFA and FFA Alumni Conventions. An "FFA at 50" history book was presented to each Charter member by the French-Bray Printing Company and the Balfour Company presented this special group with gold FFA Anniversary medallions.

A NEW AFFILIATE: WEA ALUMNI

FFA members participating in Work Experience Abroad (WEA) - FFA's International Exchange Program took a giant step in 1977 and elected to become Alumni members as a group. To add interest to the "WEA Alumni Affiliate," the National FFA Alumni Council approved a WEA scholarship based on the number of WEA Alumni members. This scholarship will be given to the State FFA Association having the largest number of international participants. Wisconsin took top honors in 1977 with nine FFA members on overseas programs. A check was presented to the Wisconsin FFA at the FFA Alumni Convention in Kansas City.

One of the goals of the WEA Alumni Affiliate is to provide assistance to State FFA Staff in locating host families for incoming WEA participants. A few of the larger WEA Alumni states are now organizing "state committees" to do just that--thereby returning hospitality and giving learning opportunities to youth from other countries. Each year nearly 100 young men and women come to the USA to spend three, six, or twelve months obtaining practical work experience in all phases of production agriculture, agribusiness, and horticulture. As most of these WEA participants live in two different host states, nearly 200 host families are needed yearly. Like FFA members on the program, foreign students placed with families in the USA receive room and board plus a cash stipend - in return they work full time helping the family with farm work.

WEA Alumni encourages other FFA Alumni affiliates to participate. In recent years several local affiliates have been hosts to incoming WEA'ers and helped to finance a local FFA member's travel costs on the program. Opportunities are available in this worthwhile, educational project. Get the details by contacting the WEA Affiliate, c/o FFA Alumni Association, Box 15058, Alexandria, Virginia 22309. Several brochures explaining the program are available. Incoming WEA'ers arrive April 1st and July 1st each year. Don't delay--write today! Need speakers to liven up a meeting? Ask also for a list of WEA Alumni in your state. They'll come complete with slides and stories galore - perhaps some of which you won't believe!
