

Legislature to consider bills affecting university

George Carter/Sagamore

By Aubrey M. Woods
and Eileen F. Worcester

The 1984 legislature session will look at several issues that might have an effect on Indiana University-Purdue University at Indianapolis, including State Senator Lawrence Borst's annual attempt to change IUPUI's name to the University of Indianapolis.

S.B. 241, sponsored by Borst, would create a board to advise the Board of Trustees for both Indiana University and Purdue University on the management of IUPUI; and to change the name of IUPUI to the University of Indianapolis.

Borst is also sponsor of S.B. 242 that would create a State University of Indianapolis, but would reserve certain powers over its operation to IU and Purdue University. Sen. Borst has sponsored this type of legislation in previous sessions of the General Assembly, but the bills were never passed into law.

Another bill sponsored by Sen. Borst is S.B. 239 which would remove the authority to set state universities fee and tuitions from state universities' boards of trustees and to give that authority to the General Assembly. However, the bill would also set a date of April 30 of each year for the General Assembly to act or the tuition would remain the same.

Other legislation to be considered during this session includes a bill that would prohibit insitutions of higher education from selling at retail prices any goods that 1) are food or drink sold other than single serving; 2) do not have a symbol identifying the institution; or 3) are not related to education or research.

All of the above bills are still being considered by their respective committees before being passed on for further action by the Senate or House members.

According to an article in The Indianapolis Star, the six state universities and colleges, after conferring among themselves, have decided to approach the legislature for as much as a two percent increase in funding for employed compensation, salary and fringe benefits.

The two-percent salary and benefits appropriation would be on top of a 3.5 percent yearly increase provided by the General Assembly in the budget appropriations for the 1983-85 biennium.

Art history degree approved

By Rick Callahan

A Bachelor of Arts degree program in art history, authorized last November by the state legislature's Commission for Higher Education, will allow students in Herron's art history program to graduate this May.

A. Ian Fraser, associate professor of art and director of the art history program, said that additional funds may soon be allocated by the state legislature so Herron can hire two new professors to fill the expanding art history department.

Fraser said that he was optimistic about the future of his program because, "It's the one area of IUPUI that ties both art and the humanities together. It's going to be a real bridge between the history department, the English department, the religious studies department, and for all kinds of people who are interested in art history."

Less than 10 students are expected to graduate in May of this year with a B.A. in art history, next semester twice as many students are predicted to receive the degree. Fraser said that he hopes those students will have an even better chance to study art history.

"While I'm happy that we've got the degree program," Fraser said, "I would like it to be a really first class affair so we could offer students a fully rounded education in art history."

"We can give them a degree in art history, but they don't have the variety of experiences that a university of our size and quality should provide."

Grant aids nursing students

By Dave Stafford

Seeking to ease the load on IUPUI nursing students, Ruth Woodham, assistant professor of Nursing and Kurt Taube, student assistant, are directing a test-out and work-study program made possible in part by a federal grant.

"The grant is a three-year grant to allow the practical nurses to challenge (test out of) part of our Associate Degree program," Woodham said. She also said this program went into effect last fall.

The test-out procedures consist of tests from the American College Testing program (ACT), which includes sections for nursing challenge examinations.

"During the second term of the program, students will be participating in a work-study program with Community and Methodist Hospitals," she said.

The work-study system will go into effect next fall, Woodham said. These changes "will allow students to save time and money."

Student's admissions that too many hours were spent in study outside of class spawned yet another project. Students were asked to log hours spent in study during the month of October, and, according to Woodham, over 64 percent of the nursing students returned reports.

"Of that 64 percent," Woodham said, "over half reported over 200 hours per month in out-of-class study. One student reported 375 hours of study, which is 12 hours a day every day for a month."

Woodham is quick to point out the nature of the reports, however. "We realize that this isn't scientific data because it's self-reported. We are taking their word for it."

NEWS BRIEFS

Scholarships

The IUPUI Financial Aid Office has announced the following organizations are offering scholarships to qualified students:

- Carolyn Scott Harrison Chapter, D.A.R.
- American Business Women's Association
- Yale Divinity School
- LaPorte Hospital Scholarship/ Loan Program
- National Society of Professional Engineers

Information and applications are available at the IUPUI Financial Aid Office in the Berkey Building, 920 W. Michigan St.

El Salvador ambassador

The IUPUI Political Science Department and Indiana University Center for Global Studies will host Ernesto Rivas-Gallont, El Salvadorean Ambassador to the United States, on Jan. 24.

Rivas will speak on "The United States and El Salvador: Future Relations," at 8 p.m. in LE 101. The lecture is open to the public and admission is free.

A formal presentation will follow an afternoon press conference and University dinner.

Rivas will also receive a Key to the City of Indianapolis from Mayor William H. Hudnut III, at a luncheon to be held at the Indianapolis Athletic Club.

The Ambassador comes to IUPUI at the invitation of Richard A. Fredland, Chairman of the Political Science Department.

"I presume that his presentation will be a defense of status quo," said Fredland. "He probably will echo the recent Kissinger report on Latin America, echoing the need for more military aide. This is a very political visit."

Spring trip

The Student Assembly is sponsoring the Sixth Annual Florida Trip this semester during spring break. From March 9-18 participating students will enjoy seven nights at a beachfront hotel in Daytona Beach, several entertainment and discount packages, and poolside parties.

On February 9th, a free trip will be awarded to one of the students registered for the trip during a Student Assembly raffle.

Space can be reserved with a $50 deposit, and final payments are due 30 days prior to departure.

For further information, call George T. Graves, 264-3907 or stop by Student Government Office, CA 001C.

Writing help

The University Writing Center will hold a workshop entitled "Journals: What are They? How Do I Use Mine?" Jan. 23 from 3 to 4 p.m. Another workshop, entitled "From Topic to Thesis," will be held Feb. 1 from 1 to 2 p.m.

The writing center, CA 427, offers workshops and individual assistance to all students. Hours are Monday through Thursday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Friday 9:30 to 1:30 p.m., and Saturday 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Your vote can ease the squeeze

Students squeezed into debt

As state appropriations for IUPUI decline, students bear an increasing share of the total cost of education.

Between 1979 and 1983, tuition for resident undergraduates increased from $26 to $43.25 per credit-hour. According to Glenn W. Irwin Jr., M.D., IU Vice-President (Indianapolis), these figures represent a real increase of 23.3 percent after adjustments for inflation.

Scholarships and grants offset part of the cost of education. But figures from the IU Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid indicate that these forms of aid have not kept pace with the increase in tuition (or "student fees" in official language).

Between the 1979-80 and 1982-83 academic years, scholarships and grants awarded at IUPUI increased from $3.4 million to $4.2 million. That is an increase of 23.5 percent without adjustments for inflation.

As a consequence, students at IUPUI are going deeper into debt. Between the 1979-80 and 1982-83 academic years, loans to IUPUI students increased from $8.5 million to $14.5 million, an increase of 70.5 percent. Over the same period, enrollment at IUPUI increased from 21,453 to 23,314, an increase of only 9.3 percent.

Of all financial aid awarded during the 1979-80 academic year, scholarships and grants made up 22.9 percent, loans 57.7 percent, and employment through work-study and other programs 19.4 percent. In the 1982-83 year, scholarships and grants made up 18.3 percent, loans 63.2 percent and employment 18.3 percent.

The increase in student debt reflects a decrease in federal funding for financial aid and an insignificant increase in state funding. For the IU system as a whole, just IU (IUPUI), federal funding decreased from $18 million in 1979-80 to $15.5 million in 1982-83. Funds received from the State Student Assistance Commission of Indiana increased from $3.5 million in 1979-80 to $4.3 million in 1982-83. The total of funds appropriated for all universities in Indiana decreased from $18.3 million in 1979-80 to $17.2 million in 1982-83.

The meaning is clear: students are caught between the proverbial rock and a hard place — the rock of increasing educational costs and the hard place of decreasing state and federal allocations. And they're being squeezed into debt.

If you find yourself caught in the squeeze, then pay attention to the educational and fiscal policies of candidates in this election year. And vote for candidates who will ease the squeeze.

Raise voices against war

Nuclear war is not a good thing. War is not a good thing.

It is not always so easy to determine what is good and what is not, but in this instance, it would seem that the judgment is incontrovertible. Oh, I suppose if we were in a very defined position — as was, say, the biblical God, during Noah's day — we might be able to see some purpose, some good, in the destruction of the world.

"A nuclear bomb cannot go off if it is not built."

Nuclear war has not occurred yet, but the doomsday clock has moved an inch or a minute closer to midnight, according to those scientific futurists who analyze the data. That is, nuclear war is more likely to occur now than it was in late 1983. The best possible statement would be, however, to be able to say it cannot occur — not it may not, nor must not, but it cannot.

It is physically impossible for such an event to occur in human experience. The only way I know of to ensure that nuclear war cannot occur is to make certain that the machinery, the technical stuff, that makes it even possible, is not anywhere near a human finger. That there are no nuclear weapons of any kind in existence anywhere in the world — that is the only safeguard against nuclear war.

A baby cannot fall down the stairs if the stairs and the baby never meet. A charge plate cannot be used if it is never used. A nuclear bomb cannot go off if it is not built.

I guess what I am getting at is that someone, some many, of us must strive to reverse the insane effort among us to construct and stockpile such horrendous weapons of destruction. A very significant step could be a united statement from this campus that we are unequivocally opposed to nuclear war anywhere, anytime, by anybody. Given the incontrovertible evil of a nuclear holocaust, any other stance is at the very least unethical and at the worst self and other-destructive.

'Right' to abortion questioned

To the Editor:

As abortion has been a current topic for discussion among some of my friends, I developed some ideas that I wanted to share with other students. The first two are in rebuttal to Julie Joy's column in the Jan. 16 Sagamore.

First, it struck me as highly hypocritical of Ms. Joy to slam those individuals who picket abortion clinics for exercising their right to free speech, the same right flung by many people to further the feminist cause. This "paradoxism" is actually your personal guarantee that every American can speak freely regardless of his/her "rightness." Harassment is in the eye of the beholder.

Secondly, no cause, especially a cause for equal rights, can build strength or honor by refuting the rights of others. If an important part of being a free individual relies upon denying another the chance to live, I would rather be left alone. Anyone who gains equality through promoting an injustice to others only succeeds in dishonoring themselves and their cause.

Lastly, a more disturbing point began to settle in my mind. My brain began to make a definite connection with the way in which we Americans handle our unwanted people. We seem to have an ugly desire to either execute or bury those individuals who obstruct our happiness: the elderly, the handicapped, the unwanted children, the insane, the poor. To me it seems that America, though willing to share the glory of its proud son, is reluctant to take responsibility for its less fortunate children. While we may be able to run very fast, we will never completely hide from our injustices.

SA to expand services next year

An article in the Dec. 14 Sagamore reported incorrectly that the IUPUI Student Assembly plans to expand several of its services to students this semester. George T. Graves Jr., student body president, said that the expansions of services are in fact scheduled for the fall 1984 semester.

The Dec. 14 article said: "The assembly plans to increase the number of typewriters and computers available to students. In addition, ... the assembly may be able to establish a bus route [between the Park Lafayette apartment complex and the Michigan Street campus] and expand the space available for student organizations."

Graves said the assembly plans for these expansions in services to be implemented by the next administration. "We hope to have two

Metros defeat Butler; host playoff rivals this week

IUPUI's women's basketball team will face a major hurdle towards the district playoffs this week as the Metros host three district opponents.

Tonight at 5:15 p.m., Taylor University comes to the School of Physical Education Gymnasium followed by St. Francis University at 5 p.m. Jan. 26 and DePauw at 2 p.m. Jan. 28.

Junior Denise Gritton came off the bench to score 17 points Jan. 16 as the Metros defeated her former teammates from Butler University 63-58.

Six-foot freshman center Debbie Ferrell added 12 points, nine rebounds and five steals to the Metros' cause. Junior forward Chris Nichols and freshman Guard Amy Strohmeier also reached double figures with 11 points each. Nichols added five steals and four rebounds while Strohmeier pulled down five rebounds.

Butler controlled the first half and led 33-29 at the intermission. Gritton led the Metro comeback with 10 second-half points.

Chris Scala, a freshman guard, made four steals in the second half to help key the Metro comeback. The Metros iced the game in the second half by hitting 16 of 20 free throws.

Franklin defeated IUPUI 56-44 on Jan. 18, lowering the Metros' record to 6-9 and 5-4 in the district. Strohmeier led the Metros with 12 points while Nichols and freshman guard Kelly Fitzgerald scored nine points each. Fitzgerald passed out five assists and Nichols pulled down nine second-half rebounds, finishing the game with 14.

This was the third meeting this year between IUPUI and Franklin. The Metros won the previous two games.
